

Aldermen postpone decision on police working after hours

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado aldermen will take up the issue of the local police department’s officers working security for James Construction on its expansion project in the area at a later date.

Until the board arrives at a decision on the matter, alderman Fred Brown told police chief Jack Hensley during a May 21 meeting that he wanted to “make it very clear that we don’t want you doing that until we have made a decision on this.”

Hensley told aldermen that no officers were working off-duty hours for James Construction.

The proposal would allow police officers to work for James Construction on a contract basis, but no more than 14 hours per day could be spent between work for the Village of Salado and work for the construction company. In addition, Village police vehicles could be used in the security work with the Village being paid $10 per hour by James Construction.

Aldermen questioned the chief about what happens when an emergency situation occurs within the Village. “Do we have the manpower to address emergencies,” Amber Preston-Dankert asked.

In an emergency situation, according to Chief Hensley, the 14 hour rule could be waived to bring in officers. Preston questioned whether this could “compromise their safety or their ability to respond appropriately.”

Hensley replied that many times, police officers attend night school or take college courses or hold down other jobs while at the same time working full time for a police department.

“It’s not difficult to go beyond 14 hours,” Chief Hensley said. “If their passion was softball and they played softball in three different leagues. Others work full time and go to school full time and exceed the 14 hours. We have mechanisms in place to address officers’ being too tired.”

The chief was also questioned about use of equipment for the after-hours contract work. Chief Hensley told aldermen that officers buy their own personal equipment including guns.

The board also discussed liability for damage to the vehicles when being used for the private contract.

“Do we have enough vehicles if one were to go down to continue our mission here in the Village?” Preston question Hensley.

“We have in the past,” Chief Hensley replied. “Just as we have done when there has been maintenance on other cars” in the department.

Chief Hensley explained that local police departments, including Belton, Temple and Bell County Sheriff’s Department, have off-duty officers who provide security services to James Construction. “Some departments pay their officers time and a half and James Construction reimburses the city for that.”

Preston made a motion not to approve “Resolution R-2015-116 authorizing Salado Police Officers to provide traffic control services and utilize police vehicles for James Construction Group, LLC on the I-35 Reconstruction Project.” The motion failed to receive a second.

Dave Williams asked if the topic could be discussed in a later workshop “to get more information.”

Aldermen approve new contract for Stagecoach sewer services

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado aldermen on May 21 approved a two-year agreement with Lawson Water & Wastewater Solutions for wastewater treatment plant operations and services for $15,000 per year.

Part of those services will include the transition from pumping the treated effluent from the Stagecoach Inn treatment plant to property west of Salado to pumping the treated effluent into the Salado Creek.

The state permit for the Stagecoach Inn plant allows for the pumping of treated effluent directly into the Salado Creek.

Aldermen voted last month to end a contract with Morris Foster to lease the fields west of Salado for pumping the treated effluent. That contract, which was signed by Danney McCort in May 2014 when the Village accepted the gift of the Stagecoach Inn treatment plant, its permits and its property, included an escalating lease fee for the property west of Salado, owned by Morris Foster.

City manager Kim Foutz estimates that the Village will save more than $100,000 in lease fees before the centralized sewer system is constructed and the Stagecoach Inn plant is utilized as a grinder station in the system.

The board will discuss at a later date setting wastewater rates for the dozen businesses dependent upon the Stagecoach Inn wastewater treatment plant.

Kim Foutz said that on the short term, these rates would likely be on the average rates for the area markets, rather than the actual costs of treating the wastewater.

Currently, none of the downtown businesses, including the Stagecoach Inn, pay anything for the treatment of their wastewater.

During the two years that the Village contracts with Lawson, the Village will pursue and finalize plans for the design and construction of the central sewer system that was approved in November 2014 by local voters.

The Village is in the final stages for the award of a $1 million economic development grant for construction of a sewer system for the business district, requiring local matching funds of more than $5 million. Those funds will come from the $10.55 million bond that was approved by voters in November 2014.

Kim Foutz completed the final round of information requests from the Commerce Department for the EDA grant.

The $10.55 million bond is for construction of a central sewer system that will serve the downtown business areas, as well as areas west of I-35.

The Village is continuing negotiations with The Sanctuary on designing and constructing a sewer plant to be built on The Sanctuary property.

The Village broke off negotiations with The Sanctuary in March, but re-entered into negotiations in late April when the cost of partnering with the City of Belton for wastewater treatment appeared to be prohibitive.

The Village contracted KPA Engineers to study the cost of tying into the City of Belton, which is extending its sewer pipeline to Amity Rd. in the next two years.

KPA presented the final study findings at a workshop May 21, but informed the Village earlier that the preliminary costs

Damage from waters cause closing of access road bridge

Rains and tornadoes pounded central and south Texas this week, but Salado has fortunately not suffered the damage the other areas of the state have.

More than three inches of rain fell in about an hour on May 25, causing alarm for creekside property owners, but no structures have been reported as flooded at this time.

The high waters did cause the closure of the southbound access road over Salado Creek this week.

According to TXDOT, the southbound access road in Salado at Salado Creek is closed until further notice.

“Major damage has been found now that the water covering it has receded,” Jodi Wheatley stated. “It is unknown at this time how long it will take to repair the pavement. Northbound access lanes are already on the new bridges and are elevated like the mainlanes, so flooding is not a problem on that side.

Because of this closure, access to FM 2268 and FM 2843 has changed for southbound drivers. Those traveling southbound on I-35 can reach FM 2268 or FM 2843 by taking the Thomas Arnold/Main Street exit. They should then crossover the interstate at the Thomas Arnold bridge and continue east until Main Street. They should turn south on Main Street until they reach Royal St. and turn east on Royal. They should then turn south on Baines St. until the reach FM 2268. For those who want to reach FM 2843 (old Florence Rd.), they can turn west on FM 2268 and cross over the interstate and then turn south on the southbound access road to reach FM 2843. Those who want to reach FM 2115 can continue south on the access road until the FM 2115 crossover.

Heavy trucks (18 wheelers) should travel south to the Hill Rd. exit near Prairie Dell and cross over the interstate and travel north on the northbound access road until they reach the FM 2268 bridge. This will keep the heavy trucks off of small, narrow local streets.

The southbound main-lane closures slated for earlier this week were postponed with a closure slated to occur overnight May 28-29.

Be sure to visit saladovillagevoice.com for updated information on traffic conditions and lane closures due. Maps and alternate routes will be posted to the website.

The Rail Fantasy

The Amtrak crash outside of Philadelphia was an invitation for practically every politician in the Northeast and every transit expert in America to complain about lack of funding for the county's infrastructure.

They didn't even wait to know what was the cause of the tragedy to take to the airwaves and recite the usual litany of laments for our "crumbling" infrastructure and our lack of high-speed rail.

What these advocates rarely do is take account of Amtrak as it actually exists. It is a test case of a highly subsidized (and politicized) rail system. Hideously inefficient and wasteful, Amtrak is rail brought to you by the federal government, with the results about what you would expect. Amtrak is the DMV in an Uber world. All told, the taxpayers pour about $1 billion into it a year.

Amtrak's unionized employees made on average more than $90,000 a year in wages and benefits as of a couple of years ago. Outside of the Northeast and a few other places, it serves uneconomical routes that account for the bulk of its losses (although Congress insists on those routes for political reasons). Amtrak can't even sell food and drink to a captive audience at a profit. It loses $80 million a year on its food service.

If Amtrak is the future of American transit, American transit has no future. Yet visions of high-speed rail dance in the heads of liberal rail enthusiasts, who believe that what we need is Amtrak, only more so. President Barack Obama is a devotee, urging on the country to match the high-speed rails of Europe and Asia and backing his vision with billions in federal dollars.

The problem with high-speed rail in the U.S. is that few places outside the Northeast have the population density to support it, so the economics don't work. High-speed rail is one thing in densely populated Japan; it is another thing altogether in the sprawling continental United States.

Although it's not as glamorous, we already have an extensive transit system that can take people door to door pretty much anywhere they want to go -- i.e., roads. If people don't want to drive between cities, they have the option of buses, which are cheaper than trains even if they don't have the same romance.

And, of course, airplanes are faster than trains. Randal O'Toole of the libertarian Cato Institute points out that the travel patterns of Americans don't support the soaring ambitions of the passenger-rail enthusiasts. As of 2012, highways accounted for 87 percent of passenger travel and airlines 12 percent, but Amtrak only .14 percent.

It's not as though the country can't do rail. It's just that we are good at moving goods rather than people. Our freight-rail system is world-class. Deregulated by the 1980 Staggers Rail Act, the freight sector has benefited from abundant private investment. Cheap and efficient, freight rail is doing booming business. No one brags about freight rail, though, because it lacks the appeal of grandiose public infrastructure projects and doesn't entail envy of France.

Amtrak may be many things, but it is emphatically not an argument for more government investment in passenger rail.

Why are you holding these closed-door sessions?

There are times when it is necessary for the Board of Aldermen (BOA) to go into "Executive Session." People have asked, "What is that?" "Why do you have them?" "Are you doing something secret?"

State law provides Executive Sessions to address issues involving privileged information and matters of a private nature. Primary reasons include:

1. Economic Development relating to the 1) formation of contracts with potential investors/developers offering business incentives to locate/stay/expand here. Commercial, or 2) financial information received from business prospects. Notice the word "formation" as it relates to contracts. It does not mean "pass." Action is taken in open session, often with a public hearing, so citizens can voice their opinion before a vote is

Mayor Skip Blancett

2. Personnel Matters including hiring, firing, disciplinary matters, and performance reviews.

3. Consultation with an Attorney to receive legal advice about pending or contemplated litigation, settlement offers, or other legal matters.

4. Real Property to discuss the purchase, exchange, lease or value of real estate if discussion in an open meeting would have a detrimental effect on the ability of the governing body to negotiate with a third party.

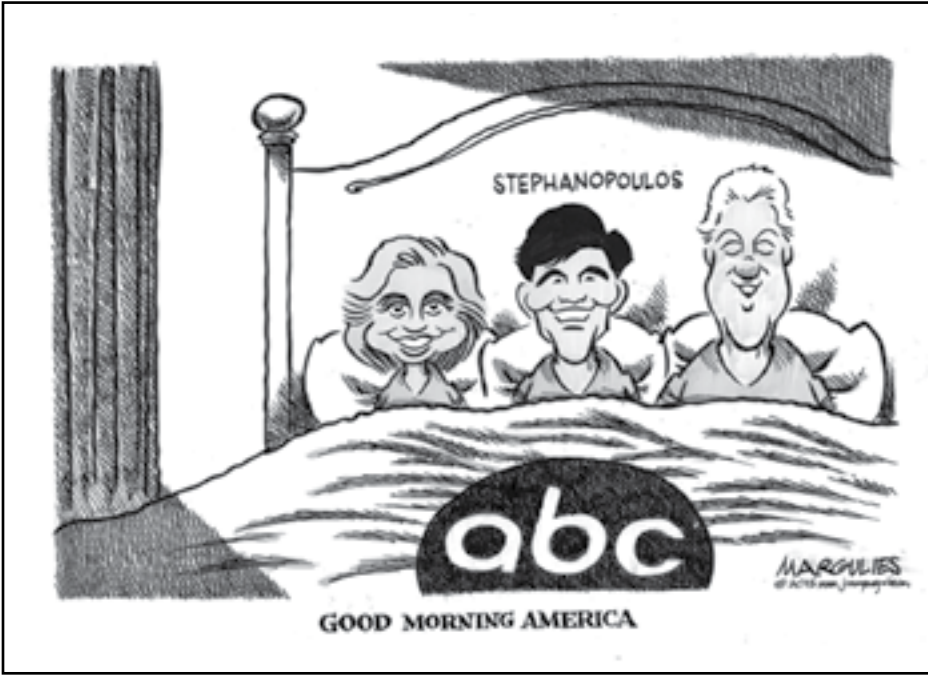

There are other reasons like donations, utility competitive matters, but your BOA has not used them to date. You know that because the reason must be posted 72 hours in advance of the meeting.

Citizens and economic development prospects don't attend executive sessions. The Administrator, recording Secretary, and Attorney may attend.

Executive Sessions are not easy. Issues are examined and discussed thoroughly, often for hours. Extensive exchange of questions and answers are required for contract negotiations, and that takes time.

When hearing or reading of an Executive Session, please discuss your concerns or opinions with your elected Aldermen. We are here to represent you. Good communication is essential to making good decisions.

GOP Climate Denial Syndrome Sweeps Wisconsin

The Badger State won't let some public workers say the C word.

It's well-known that harsh climate conditions can mess with your mind — from cabin fever to heat delirium. But America is now experiencing an even more dangerous disease: Climaticus Non-Vocalism Extremism.

This syndrome almost exclusively afflicts a narrow segment of our population: Republican political officials and candidates. It might stem from a genetic defect, but scientists say more study is needed.

Symptoms include an obsessive impulse to deny that human-caused climate change is happening, often accompanied by a feverish insistence that government employees be banned from discussing it.

Wisconsin Governor

Jim Hightower

Scott Walker is suffering from this affliction.

The Koch-funded governor and Republican presidential wannabe is an ardent climate-change denier. And his state's public lands board has taken climate denial to Orwellian levels.

The two GOP commissioners on the three-member board, which oversees the ecological health of thousands of acres of Wisconsin forest lands, have banned agency employees from even considering damage caused by climate change. Worse, they've imposed a gag order prohibiting public lands workers from talking about climate change while on the job.

One heartbreaking thing about this ailment is that its victims deny that they're in denial about climate change. Both of the GOP commissioners claim that their gag rule isn't censorship, because employees are still free to talk about climate change at home — or even chit-chat about it by the water cooler, just as they might talk about sports.

Do you know what else is heartbreaking? Walker wants to be your president.

Texas Central Railway raises concerns on use of Eminent Domain

By PETE BONDS, PRESIDENT, TEXAS AND SOUTHWESTERN CATTLE RAISERS ASSOCIATION

In 1933, my father bought land in Saginaw, Texas, and I have been ranching on it since the age of 18. This property is also where I raised my family, who work alongside with me today running our cattle operation.

As a lifetime cattle rancher and someone who has worked hard to build our business, I understand the importance of private property rights. I also realize how frustrating it can be when an entity wants to condemn property through the eminent domain process for self-gain, because I have dealt with this issue first-hand.

At the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association (TSCRA), we've received many phone calls, letters and email messages and have listened to concerns at meetings about the Texas Central Railway (TCR), one of the latest projects that will require the use of eminent domain to be built.

TCR is a Japanese-funded, private railroad company that is proposing to build a high-speed passenger rail line from Dallas to Houston. It is expected to require over 3,000 acres of right-of-way for the railway and related infrastructure that will harmfully impact the private property of landowners in 11 counties. These counties include: Dallas, Ellis, Freestone, Grimes, Harris, Leon, Limestone, Madison, Montgomery, Navarro and Waller Counties.

TCR only has stations slated on both ends of the line that will send at least 60 trains each day at over 200 mph through some of the best cattle country and farmland in the state.

Ranchers and landowners along the proposed route in these counties are extremely concerned about the project, and they have a right to be. They worry that the railway will negatively affect their ability to graze and move cattle, transport equipment and continue to efficiently and effectively use their property.

TCR has claimed they can meet the needs of each and every landowner along the route, however with their plan requiring them to build the railway on a flat surface and straight route, it will be impossible for them to meet all of these specific needs.

The leaders and members of TSCRA understand that various transportation options are needed to address the mobility issues of our state, but TCR is not the answer. This project will transport passengers only from Dallas to Houston with no stops and still require additional transportation to and from the rail stations. Landowners and rural communities will have no convenient access to the line and will not benefit. In fact, property values in proximity to the railway will be adversely impacted.

With TCR being largely funded by a Japanese bank, the long-term financial security and stability of the project remains uncertain and could eventually impact Texas taxpayers.

While it is still unclear whether or not TCR has the power of eminent domain, they do plan to use this power to gain the land necessary to construct the massive high-speed railway. This is personally my biggest concern with the project.

The eminent domain issue goes far beyond the TCR project. It is a topic that has been debated often over the years. This railway project is only one of the latest examples of an entity threatening to use eminent domain to take land for what they consider "public use."

Under the current eminent domain process, a private company can seize private property for public use. In my opinion, the current structure for determining what is truly public use is highly questionable, and I do not believe a private company should have the authority to use eminent domain just because they believe they meet the qualifications for public use. There must be a thorough and transparent process for making these critical decisions to take someone's property.

My family and I have worked extremely hard over the years to build a cattle operation that relies heavily on the land to be successful. Raising cattle is our way of life and having any entity come in and take away any amount of land through eminent domain makes it difficult for us to accomplish our job. I know there are many who

HOT Goodwill calls for donations

The inconsistent weather Central Texas has experienced this season has done more than dampen spring activities that many of us participate in. Heart of Texas Goodwill has seen a decline in donations and is reaching out to the community for help.

"Normally, this time of year, we receive plenty of donations. People are eager to clean out their homes for Spring cleaning, but the weather has hampered a lot of people from doing so," states Dan Nisley, CEO of Heart of Texas Goodwill Industries.

Funding from donations sold at Goodwill retail stores is used for programs to improve our local community. "When people come to us in need of a job or job skills training, our programs help them improve their employability skills which helps improve our local economy," says Nisley.

Donations support programs and services that help individuals overcome barriers to employment and become self-sufficient. Every item donated and purchased at a Goodwill store helps improve the quality of life and employment opportunities for people in our local community.

If you would like to donate to Goodwill and help fund employment and training programs for many in our community, please bring your items to any of the following locations:

4th ID, Division West honor fallen for Memorial Day

By STAFF SGT. TONY FOSTER,
DIVISION WEST PUBLIC AFFAIRS

First Army Division West, alongside the 4th Infantry Division, held a Memorial Day wreath-laying ceremony at the 4th ID Memorial on May 20.

The ceremony was not only to honor the Ivy Division's fallen, but to all those who gave their full measure for the country.

"It's a great honor to pay tribute to those men and women who willingly gave their dreams to preserve the hope and ideals of not only our nation, but that of their comrades and those they never knew," said Maj. Gen. Jeffrey N. Colt, Division West commanding general.

This was the third year for DIVWEST to hold the ceremony, since its transition in 2009 from Fort Carson, Colorado, to take up ownership of the 4th ID's former headquarters and stand watch over its pivotal memorial site.

"Let this day remind us that there is a terribly exacting price for freedom," said Colt.

Many of Colt's sentiments were shared by his counterpart, Maj. Gen. Ryan F. Gonsalves, 4th ID commanding general, and the first 4th ID commanding general to attend the remembrance ceremony since Division West began hosting it.

"Having been a battalion commander during Operation Iraqi Freedom I, a couple of my Soldiers are represented here. It meant a lot to me to come here Sgt. Nicholas Sencey, Division West honor sergeant, stands behind a wreath at the 4th ID memorial during a Memorial Day remembrance ceremony May 20 on Fort Hood, Texas. and pay me respects," said Gonsalves.

Command Sgt. Maj. Michael A. Crosby, 4th ID senior enlisted leader, said, "Ceremonies like these do two things. It reminds us of those that sacrificed and paid the ultimate price for this country. Also, we bring in the Gold Star families to establish those relationships with them and we remember your loved one provided the ultimate sacrifice."

As taps played, Colt and Gonsalves, along with Sgt. Nicholas Sencey, with DIVWEST's honor sergeant, placed a wreath at the base of the memorial statue – a Soldier kneeling in front of a rifle, boots and a helmet

(the Battlefield Cross), with a young girl standing near, consoling him.

"I always look forward to honoring my late-husband for his selfless sacrifice," said Carolyn Bright, widow and Gold Star spouse of 3rd Armored Cavalry Staff Sgt. Scottie Bright. "I really love that man. We must always recognize our fallen Soldiers."

After the wreath-laying, participants rendered a salute to the fallen 4th ID and U.S. Army heroes.

"During this Memorial Day weekend, I hope every takes the time to remember those that sacrificed their lives," said Gonsalves.

share the same concerns, because TSCRA has heard directly from these individuals on the proposed high-speed railway project.

Because of the statewide implication of this sizable and unique project, TSCRA is opposed to the use of eminent domain by the TCR. Moving forward, we will continue listening to members who are worried about the negative impacts of this project. We will also support legislative and regulatory efforts that limit the authority of private high-speed passenger rail companies to use the power of eminent domain for their profit while forever harming land values and stripping landowner rights.

for tying into Belton were going to be higher than the anticipated cost of partnering with The Sanctuary for construction of a sewer treatment plant.

Aldermen met in a called meeting April 29 to further negotiations with Sanctuary Development in relation to wastewater, land use and design guidelines. Aldermen voted April 23 following an executive session to re-enter negotiations with Sanctuary.

In an electronic letter from Robert Sulaski, CEO of Sanctuary Development Corp. to Mayor Skip Blancett referencing the grant application to the EDA, Sulaski states: "We very much want to offer our assistance to Salado by joining you in planning for a sanitary sewer system serving Salado, its businesses and homes and Sanctuary."

According to the Sulaski letter, "Sanctuary proposed agreement with the Village of Salado is for Sanctuary to transfer its existing permit from Texas Commission for Environmental Quality (TCEQ) for a 300,000 gallon per day wastewater treatment plant."

"Sanctuary also proposes that it design the WWTP, associated lift stations, force mains and primary gravity lines (collectively the "Sewer System", publicly bid the Sewer System, then construct the Sewer System," Sulaski further states in the letter.

Once completed, "the Sewer System (along with the WWTP) would be transferred to the Village of Salado," Sulaski stated in the letter.

The grant application includes a copy of the May 2013 renewal of the TCEQ discharge permit for Salado Utility, Inc. authorizing the discharge of "wastes from the treatment plant "located north of the intersection of Shepherd Drive and Farm-to-Market 2268, approximately 2,000 feet north from the end of Shepherd Drive in Bell County to Smith Branch, then to Salado Creek in Segment No 1243 of the Brazos River Basin."

The renewal of the TCEQ permit expires in December 2016.

In addition to the splash parks which opened earlier this month, Temple has opened its three outdoor swimming pools as well as Lions Junction Family Water Park for the 2015 summer season.

"Temple offers many low cost ways to beat the heat this summer and we hope your summer plans will include a trip to one of the pools," said Keith Dawson, Aquatics Coordinator for Temple Parks & Recreation.

Walker Pool (2603 N. 3rd St.) and Clark Pool (1808 Curtis B. Elliott Dr.) opened for weekends beginning Memorial Day weekend and will be open weekends only until June 6, when daily operation will resume.

Currently, three splash pads are open daily from 8 a.m.-8 p.m. Splash pads are located at Ferguson Park (1203 E. Adams), Miller Park (1919 N. 1st Street), and West Temple Park (121 S. Montpark Road).

Texas parents should take advantage of 529 College Savings plans for their kids

Texas Comptroller Glenn Hegar will join the College Savings Plans Network (CSPN) in celebrating “529 College Savings Day” on May 29 to increase awareness among Texas families about the importance of saving for their children’s higher education expenses.

Texas offers three 529 Plans: the Texas College Savings 529 Plan® (TCSP), the LoneStar 529 Plan®, and the Texas Tuition Promise Fund® (TTPF), which is a prepaid tuition plan.

The TTPF is designed to help families and individuals prepay and lock-in today’s rates for all or some future tuition and school-wide required fees at any two- or four-year Texas public college or university. The TCSP and Lone Star 529 plans allow families to work toward building college savings by investing in one or more professionally managed portfolios in a tax-advantaged account either directly or through an investment advisor.

“Higher education is one of the best investments one can make,” Hegar said. “I encourage Texas families to take time on 529 College Savings Day to discuss their college savings goals and learn how a 529 college savings plan can help make those goals a reality. It’s also a good day to contribute to an existing 529 plan.”

The Comptroller’s office administers all three 529 plans. TTPF enrollment for newborns is available through July 31 to lock in undergraduate tuition and school-wide required fees at 2014-2015 prices; open enrollment begins Sept. 1 for 2015-16 prices. The LoneStar 529 and TCSP plans are open for enrollment year round.

Learn more about our Texas 529 plans by visiting www.savenowforcollege.org.

“American families of all income levels have found 529 plans to be one of the most compelling ways to plan for the future and reduce their reliance on student loan debt,” said Betty Lochner, Chair of CSPN. “Nationally, assets in 529 plans total more than $247 billion with an average account balance of $20,474. Thousands of Americans have made a commitment to saving for college by starting a 529 plan, and on 529 Day, I encourage state residents to consider joining them.”

Trey Sheppard, recently participated in a WABDL National Push-Pull Powerlifting Championships in Phoenix, Arizona. As a 15 year old in the 165 pound weight class, Trey set a World Record in Dead Lift of 507 pounds and a Push-Pull World Record of 782 pounds. Trey is currently a freshman at Salado High School

Casey Donahew Band at Johnny's Outback May 30

If you build it, they will come. This might be the mantra of one of the greatest baseball movies of all time, "Field Of Dreams," but it's also a pretty accurate description of the career of Texas music sensation Casey Donahew.

The Casey Donahew Band will perform at Johnny's Outback May 30. Tickets for the concert are available at Johnny's Steaks and BBQ or online at Johnnysoutback.com. Advanced general admission is $15.

Concerts begin at 7 p.m., the gates open at 6 p.m.. Johnny's is located on Thomas Arnold Road at I-35, follow the signs for the parking for Johnny's Outback.

The Burleson native, (with the help of his wife Melinda,) has painstakingly carved out an impressive niche for himself on the country music scene over the past decade, attracting a solid base of loyal fans who flock to his legendary live shows. Building his career from the ground up one show at a time, he's managed to perform on countless stages night after night in front of thousands, topped the Texas music charts several times, released four albums independently to critical acclaim, and forged a path all his own through the music scene without the aid or muscle of a major record label or power-suit management company. And the release of his latest CD, "Double Wide Dream," may just push him to heights he never could have imagined when he first plugged in on stage at the Thirsty Armadillo bar back in Fort Worth's Stockyards in the Fall of 2002, and began constructing his own field of musical dreams.

With the release of what will likely be his biggest album to date, Casey is gearing up for his biggest year ever, playing to packed houses throughout Texas and the Midwest. He's come a long, long way since those early days on that Armadillo stage, and he still loves to thrill crowds both big and small. But given the choice -- he'll take the flamethrower approach every time.

"I'm a Bon Jovi fan, and he's got a documentary called "When We Were Beautiful" that kind of captures Bon Jovi on a completely different level than anyone I even know. But a lot of the things he thinks about the music business translate, and it's crazy to see somebody who has the success he does have the same kind of anxieties and worries about his music that I think the common musician does. And he had a great quote in that. He's played lots of little intimate shows, but the shows he loves, are the huge ones. You know he says he'd like to play the desert and sell it out. That's always stuck with me...I don't want to play a small place, I want to play the desert and sell it out!"

And though his dream may soon grow much, much larger than a double wide, and reach heights even he couldn't have imagined, Casey is quite content with all he's accomplished thus far in this little career that could. "I don't see anyone coming to make a deal where we're gonna change what we do. I'm not sure how far we have left to go, hopefully forever, but you know nothing lasts forever, so I'm always mindful of that and prepared that one day this ride could be over. And I'm pretty proud of everything we've accomplished. I hope there's more, but if it were over tomorrow, I could look at my wife and say I was really proud of everything we've accomplished. I'm really excited about this record. I think the songs on here are great, and are a big step forward, and the fans, whatever their expectations are, I hope we blow em away!"

Dealing with water damage during the rainy season

BBB offers tips for finding a trustworthy water damage restoration contractor

In Texas, springtime promises many things: cars covered in pollen, seasonal allergies, blue-bonnet fields, warmer weather and light rain showers. Unfortunately, not all spring showers are "light."

In fact, several areas in Texas have seen so much rain that the drought is all but forgotten. Just this week, severe thunderstorms have caused power outages, flooded roads and tornado warnings.

A gloomy weather forecast is predicted to continue, which means more rain and potential damage for homeowners. The aftermath could lead to a leaky roof, flooded basement or even mold. So, don't let the rainy day blues ruin your mood—or your home.

BBB advises people dealing with water or flood damage to:

Contact your insurance company immediately. Inquire about policy coverage and specific filing requirements. This gets the ball rolling on the claim process.

Know the difference between flood insurance and homeowners insurance: Flood damage is typically caused by water that has been on the ground before damaging your home. Water damage occurs when water damages your home before the water comes in contact with the ground (broken pipes, a leaky roof, etc). These claims would be covered by homeowners insurance.

Do what you can to start mitigating further damage. If you're worried about wet carpets or rugs, get fans and dehumidifiers going. Talk to an expert to see if the carpet/rugs or furnishings can be salvaged.

Document the damage to your property. Take pictures or video if possible. Before hiring a contractor: Check work history and references. Ask for a list of references to determine if the contractor is familiar with your type of project. A contractor should be able to give you names and phone numbers of at least three clients with projects like yours. Ask each client how long ago the project was and whether it was completed on time.

Find out if the contractor is insured. Ask for copies of insurance certificates and make sure they're current, or you could be held liable for any injuries and damages that occur during the project. The Federal Trade Commission recommends contractors have personal liability, worker's compensation and property damage coverage. Prepare a written contract agreement with anyone you hire. It should specify the work to be done, techniques to be used, and the price breakdown for both labor and materials. An agreed-upon timeline is also a good idea. Never pay in full for all repairs in advance, and do not pay cash.

Don't be pressured into making an immediate decision with a long-term impact. Although you may be anxious to get things back to normal, avoid letting your emotions get the better of you. Make temporary repairs if needed. Storm/flood damage victims should never feel pressured to make a hasty decision or choose an unknown company. Always do your research!

You can find a BBB accredited contractor at checkbbb.org. These businesses have committed to meeting BBB's Standards for Trust. For any business, go to bbb.org to check the company's BBB Business Review for a history of complaints, advertising issues and customer reviews.
