Aldermen approve sale of $8.18 Mil in bonds

By TIM FLEISCHER EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado aldermen approved issuing $8.18 million in bonds for wastewater system improvements and related expenses at an early morning meeting July 27. The total for the project is $9.18 million with a federal Economic Development grant of $1 million from the Commerce Department.

The board voted on the motion by Fred Brown that received a second from Michael McDougal. Frank Coachman and Dave Williams joined in the affirmative vote. Dr. Amber Preston-Dankert was absent from the meeting that began at 7 a.m.

By approving the issuance of the 2015 series bonds, aldermen will be able to adopt the necessary debt service tax rate for the 2015-16 fiscal year. The bonds will be sold for 20 years at approximately 3 percent. The first year of the bonds, interest only will be paid.

The interest paid in the first year at 3 percent will be approximately $245,400 and will require a debt service tax of 14.80 cents per $100 evaluation, based upon the recent Bell County Tax Appraisal District certified freeze adjusted taxable value of $165.8 million.

After receiving feedback from property owners at recent workshops and meetings, aldermen increased a small 3-inch low pressure line that would serve properties along Thomas Arnold Road to an eight inch gravity line. Aldermen also added back an 8-inch gravity line for Royal Street that was taken out to lower the cost.

The Summary of Tasks for the wastewater system improvements is divided into almost 40 individual line items in seven different areas: preliminary engineering, final design, right-of-way, bidding and award, construction, onsite representation and miscellaneous.

Preliminary engineering costs will total $405,000 with these costs: EDA Grant Management, $10,000; issue bonds, $140,000; impact fee analysis and ordinance, $70,000; Establish boundaries of Certificate of Conveyance and Necessity (CCN), $40,000; rate study, $40,000; environmental clearance (Page Dawson), $15,000; THC clearance, $30,000; land for lift station on Main St., $15,000; plan review (Sanctuary portion), $25,000; Sanctuary wastewater treatment plant transfer, $10,000 and Main Street coordination with Texas Department of Transportation, $10,000.

The timeline for the preliminary engineering will continue through April 2016.

Final Design costs involving the Village Engineer Kasberg Patrick Associates (KPA) are $435,000. Those projects include these phases and costs: Phase IA (Main Street gravity sewer, $270,000: Phase IB (Main St. Lift Station 1 and Force Main), $65,000; Phase IE, (Salado School Road gravity sewer, $35,000; Phase 1E-1 (south West Village Road gravity sewer, $30,000; Phase IF, (West Village Road to Thomas Arnold gravity sewer), $35,000.

Construction James crews began work this week on connecting Salado Plaza to Williams Drive on the west side of I-35, requiring the closure of the N. Main St./FM 2268 cross-under of the I-35 mainlanes at Cowboy's Barbecue.

At the same time that James Construction crews began work on the Salado Plaza connection to Williams Rd., Wheeler Coatings began work on the chip and seal of Salado Plaza Dr. to Mill Creek

This major change in traffic patterns, as well as the new contract end date of March 2016 were the major disclosures stemming from the Texas Department of Transportation community meeting July 23 at Salado High School.

When work begins on the new Salado Plaza Drive/Williams Road connection, drivers traveling south on the access road will not be able to turn east at Cowboy's Barbecue in order to cross under the interstate.

Drivers traveling north on either the northbound access road or N. Main Street will not be able to proceed west underneath the interstate during the construction of the new overpass of I-35 over Salado Plaza Dr./Williams Rd.

Drivers traveling south from Belton can connect to North Main Street at the entrance to Salado Plaza by taking the FM 2484 exit, crossing over the highway and traveling south on the eastside access road.

Drivers traveling east on Salado Plaza Dr. or Mill Creek Dr. can turn either south or north on Main St. Those who turn north can then travel north on the access road until they can enter I-35 northbound north of the FM 2484 overpass. Those who turn south on Main Street can reach the southbound I-35 main lanes by crossing over the interstate at the FM 2268 bridge and then turning south.

Construction on the Salado Plaza Dr./Williams Rd. section of the 3.4 mile project is expected to finish by December 2015, according to Mark Jones, area engineer for TXDOT out of the Georgetown area office, which is overseeing the Salado expansion project on behalf of the Waco

District of TXDOT. Jones told the audience that the design for this section moves the overpass south to line up with a direct connection of Salado Plaza to Williams Rd. The intersection will have turn-around lanes as well as four traffic lanes at the Main Street connection so Jones said that the anticithat drivers can turn south or north on Main St.

Jones reported to the audience that TXDOT has refocused its efforts on the Salado expansion project and expects that it will be "substantially complete" by December 2015 with total completion of the project by March 2016.

This expedited timeline has resulted in traffic flow changes that have made it more difficult for locals and travelers to maneuver through and to Salado. It should bring the construction project to an end almost six months earlier than projected at the last community meeting in February. At that meeting, pated end date was August 2016.

"I think that shocked everyone," Jones said.

Following that February meeting, a petition with more than 150 signatures and endorsement from the Village of Salado Board of Aldermen and Salado Chamber of Commerce was sent to Gov. Greg Abbott, Senator John Cornyn, Congressman John Carter and other elected state officials.

The executive director of TXDOT met last month with village, business and Chamber representatives as well as James Construc-

The Railroad Commission of Texas:

Environmentally Responsible Regulation Benefits All Texans

By Christi Craddick TX RAILROAD COMMISSIONER

What's in a name? When it comes to the Railroad Commission of Texas, the name says little about what this important state agency does on a day-to-day basis. With 125 years of history, the Commission was established to oversee the regulation of railroads. Today, it is recognized as a worldwide leader in the regulation of oil and gas.

The transition was sparked when oil and gas production grew to include the transporting of oil to market by rail. The Commission was delegated oversight of not only the transportation of oil and gas products, but eventually its safe production. In this age of renewed Texas oil and gas development, it is important that all Texans are familiar with the job the Commission is doing in their community.

As your Railroad Commissioner, I have the privilege of overseeing some of Texas' most exciting and dynamic industries. Since 1891, the Commission has been charged with ensuring a fair and responsible regulatory structure for oil and gas production and promoting policies that guarantee the robust development of our state's huge energy potential. With extended jurisdiction over related industries including intrastate pipelines, natural gas utilities, and surface mining operations, the Commission ensures that Texans continue to enjoy the economic benefits of our state's many, plentiful mineral resources and that our communities and environment remain safe. Now a global leader in energy regulation, foreign governments from across the world regularly visit the agency to learn more about how to successfully manage energy exploration and production in their own countries.

The agency's Oil and Gas Division inspectors work every day to ensure that companies comply with our rules established to protect the public and our state's natural resources. Operations found in non-compliance are met with fines, and if necessary, the shutting down of production and the revocation of a company's license to drill in Texas. This division also manages any necessary cleanup involving oil and gas spills or discharges. Last year, the agency plugged over 560 abandoned wells and oversaw the cleanup of more than 200 oilfield sites. This type of work, which provides community and environmental protection, is funded by fees collected from industry, not by Texas taxpayers.

The Oversight and Safety Division supervises pipeline safety, and natural gas utilities. This division holds jurisdiction over pipelines that begin and end within Texas. The Commission has some of the nation's most stringent pipeline safety rules, requiring all natural gas distribution companies to assess their pipeline systems for the greatest potential threats and each year replace a minimum five percent of those pipelines.

Overseeing natural gas rates, this division ensures fair and reasonable rates for consumers. Last year, audits discovered rate overcharges resulting in more than $1.3 million in refunds to natural gas utility customers across the state, keeping more hard earned dollars in the pockets of Texans.

Coal used in power plants generating electricity helps to keep the lights on for our citizens, not only in Texas, but across the nation. The Texas economy enjoys the benefits of being the sixth largest producer of coal in the U.S., and our Surface Mining and Reclamation Division oversees mining operations and reclamation once mining ceases. Commission policies require that Texas land is returned to a condition that is as good as, or better than, it was before mining activities occurred.

proud that our state has long been recognized as a regulatory leader. New technology, which allows companies to reach energy resources previously inaccessible, has ignited an energy revolution in the U.S. led by Texas. Fortunately, because of our more than 100-year old history overseeing energy development, the Commission is deeply experienced in developing rules and taking actions grounded in science even as this dynamic industry quickly evolves.

As you can see, the Railroad Commission has a strong record of balancing environmental protection with economic growth and energy development. We are proving it every day across the state. But please, just don't ask me about railroads.

After graduation, Mr. Watson became a history teacher at Nolan Junior High School. He then transferred to Killeen High School as a history/government teacher and was always willing to negotiate a grade if a student was willing to sing.

His next calling was to become a school administrator, becoming the Assistant Principal of Nolan Junior High/Middle School. His love for children drew him to his next chapter as Principal of East Ward Elementary, followed by his final home at Bellaire Elementary.

He dedicated a total of 34 years of devoted love for all of his students, teachers and co-workers with Killeen Independent School District. He was still frequently approached by his students giving hugs and thanking him for always being a father figure they could look up

He was a loving husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather. He was devoted to his Lord, his Catholic Church and was always available to assist those in need. He was a Eucharistic Minister, Saturday night lector, singer and active member of the St. Stephen Catholic Church for over 15 years. He strongly believed in sharing his love of God and how to be the best person you could possibly be by following the simple rules of good life.

An Open Exchange of Ideas

Obama Kneecaps Congress (Again)

If only President Barack Obama were as hard-nosed and clever in undermining our adversaries as he is in kneecapping the U.S. Congress, the country's strategic position might be transformed.

The Iran deal just went to the United Nations Security Council, months before Congress will vote on it, and got unanimous approval. The U.N. vote doesn't bind Congress, but it boxes it in and minimizes it -- with malice aforethought.

After the U.N. vote, President Obama urged Congress to get with the program: "There is broad international consensus around this issue," he said, adding that his "assumption is that Congress will pay attention to that broadbased consensus." In other words, follow the lead of the United Nations on a matter of utmost importance to the national interest of the United States.

Secretary of State John Kerry issued his own warning about the dangers of going our own way: "If Congress says 'no' to this deal, then there will be no restraints on Iran. There will be no sanctions left. Our friends in this effort will desert us."

And who's responsible for that? The Obama administration cut a deal eviscerating the international sanctions regime and got it blessed by the U.N., then turns around and tells Congress it has no alternative but to assent because there will be no meaningful sanctions regime left regardless.

The agreement is written to favor business with Iran. It grandfathers in all commercial deals cut after the initial lifting of the sanctions, even in the unlikely event they are reimposed. Plus, Iran isn't going to give back its windfall of tens of billions of dollars handed to it under the agreement.

Kerry seemed offended by the notion that Congress should get to vote before everyone else locks the Iran agreement into place: "It is presumptuous of some people to say that France, Russia, China, Germany, Britain ought to do what the Congress tells them to do." This is admirably internationalist, but Kerry is supposed to be the secretary of state of the United States, not a representative of the interests and prerogatives of its allies and adversaries.

negotiations, Kerry actually pushed to delay a U.N. vote until Congress reviewed the deal. Predictably, the Iranians balked (they're not fools), and so did the Russians and the Europeans. Equally predictably, Kerry resorted to his solution to most every knotty negotiating problem -- he caved.

Amazingly enough, the agreement with Iran doesn't mention the U.S. Congress or its review of the deal, but specifically cites the Iranian Parliament and its role in approving the pact.

It is President Obama's curse that he doesn't have a legislature as compliant as that of Iran's supreme leader. The president clearly disdains Congress as a body that harbors several hundred Republicans and that can only complicate his grand legacy-defining initiatives. He didn't want Congress to have a say at all over the Iran deal, but accepted the Corker bill that requires a near-impossible two-thirds vote to block it.

The administration's message to opponents is that even that supermajority would be too little, too late. Submission is the only option.

I would hope our Alderpeople are smart enough to vote this type of such restrictive ordinances down.

Special Salado BOA meeting July 27 at 7 a.m.

I was one of the 30 or so early birds who tried to figure out what the mayor and the BOA have contracted the village to do with the Sanctuary for $3 million of our hard earned dollars.

When the meeting did not begin with either a prayer or a pledge to Texas and the USA, I knew something was not right.

Whatever was voted on was not blessed by God, the country, or the state. After a lull when the mayor called for a motion, Fred Brown finally made the motion to place the village in debt for a long time to come.

Future holds great promise

"A lion used to prowl about a field in which 4 Oxen used to dwell. Many a time he tried to attack them; but whenever he came near they turned their tails to one another, so that whichever way he approached them he was met by horns of one of them. At last however, they fell a quarreling among themselves, and each went off to pasture alone in a separate corner of the field. Then the Lion attacked them one by one and soon made an end of all four." Aesop, 6th century, B.C.

The Village is doing a tremendous job standing together against the lions. You are remaining positive, alert, and focused. As a result, here is last week's good news:

An all-out effort by James Construction/TX-

Mayor Skip Blancett

DoT will result in construction ending December 2015. A number of artful "Welcome to Salado" highway signs are being constructed and erected courtesy of TX-DoT. Additionally, a large Salado rock/concrete sign, similar to Killeen/Harker Heights, will be built by TXDoT.

The $1000 gift for down town refurbishing increased with donations to over $5000. Brown Committee considering projects.

Stagecoach's new ownership is going forth with refurbishing.

Hidden Glen dirt work, Senior Citizen housing, started.

Children mark your calendar, FREE SNOW CONES, 10 a.m.-noon Aug. 22 made by the Mayor's family.

Over $5,000 contributed to Salado's Texas for artist awards and cash prizes. October 10-23, Civic Center, artist from all over Texas will display their art and compete for prizes.

The year's remainder holds great promise with August Art Fair 8 - 9, Christmas in October, and Stroll. Salado Plaza Bridge will cause major disruption and frustration, but it is necessary to end the construction. By remaining focused and positive, the Lions do not stand a chance.

Christie Tells It Like It Isn't

According to one informed source, the New Jersey governor and presidential hopeful is a creep.

How exciting: Chris Christie put his name on the Republican presidential dance card. He's No.

The big man from New Jersey entered the race with all the chutzpah and hullaballoo that's marked his five-and-a-half years as governor of the Garden State. In his carefully staged announcement speech, he said he'd be a truth-telling president.

"There is one thing you will know for sure," he roared. "I say what I mean and I mean what I say."

That's swell, Chris. But when your campaign slogan is "Telling It Like It Is," it would help if you weren't infamous in your home state as an audacious, inveterate liar.

Tom Moran — who holds down the editorial page at New Jersey's largest newspaper, The Star Ledger — felt a journalistic duty to warn America about Christie.

"Don't believe a word he says," Moran wrote, pointing not to a few fibs and fabrications, but a lengthy "catalog" of an "over-the-top, hair-raising type of lies," including these gems:

Having assured public employees that their pensions were "sacred" to him, Christie then made cutting pensions a big pri-

olina gun rights meeting, Christie crowed that "no new [gun laws] have been made since I've been governor," when in fact he's enacted three gun-control measures.

After he and his family racked up a $30,000 hotel bill during a luxurious weekend getaway at a Jordanian resort — one paid for by the king of Jordan - Christie claimed the junket wasn't a violation of the state gift ban. How's that? The governor and the king were personal friends, Christie said although they'd only met once, in a brief encounter at a political dinner.

If politicians have to tell you that they're truth-tellers, they're probably not. So beware of Christie the compulsive liar. As Moran bluntly put it: "He's a creep."

Phase ID, $270,000 and Phase IH, ($535,000).

Construction administration costs are $120,000 for KPA projects and $30,000 for Pape Dawson

In addition, the Village will pay KPA $175,000 for on-site representation.

Miscellaneous costs include $250,000 for equipment and maintenance building, $25,000 for procuring a WWTP operator and $162,800 for decommissioning the Stagecoach WWTP plant.

The Village will pay Sanctuary $3 million for the construction of the 300,000 gallon WWTP plant, including engineering, electric engineering, bidding and construction administration and a service agreement guarantee. City manager Kim Foutz explained that the $3 million for the construction of the 300,000 gallon WWTP was all-inclusive. However, earlier on, it wasn't the case. A July 14 summary of tasks and costs listed the construction cost for the WWTP at $3.6 million with an additional $326,000 final design cost for a total cost of $3.93 million for the WWTP.

The Village will pay a total of $4.5 million for the design and construction of projects under the direction of Pape Dawson engineers, the contract engineer for the Sanctuary. This will include the delivery system from the current Stagecoach Inn plant to the wastewater treatment plant off of east Royal Street.

tion representatives to address the delays and to expedite the completion of the project.

Since that meeting, TXDOT officials have been meeting weekly with James Construction and Village of Salado representatives to open communication between the entities in an effort "to get the job done," Jone said.

The initial contract for the Salado expansion was $70.4 million with an end date of June 2015. As of the end of June, James Construction had completed just over 50 percent of the total project, according to the TXDOT website.

The FM 2484 bridge is halfway complete. The Thomas Arnold bridge is completed but sidewalks are not accessible yet due to handrail issues. The FM

Jones said that crews are working diligently south of the Thomas Arnold overpass to build the southbound access road bridge over Salado Creek as well as the southbound mainlanes bridge over the Creek.

TXDOT closed the southbound access road south of Thomas Arnold after the pavement of those lanes were damaged by the May flood. By closing those lanes, James Construction crews can concentrate on the construction of the structures there to complete them in a timely fashion. How long the southbound access road south of Thomas Arnold will remain closed was not answered during 2268 bridge is completed the July 23 meeting.

During a question and answer session that followed Jones' remarks, a resident asked whether Salado Creek Road will become a cul-de-sac or will have connectivity to the southbound access road. Jones could not answer the question due to unfamiliarity with the specific area. However, the schematic from the TX-DOT website shows that Salado Creek Road will connect to the southbound access.

The schematic also shows that when the project is completed, the southbound access road south of Thomas Arnold bridge will not have an entrance ramp to I-35 south until south of FM 2843 (Florence Road).

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker

This deal occurred in the 2002 Cavendish Invitational Pairs in Las Vegas. The three-day tournament, which takes its name from New York's now-defunct Cavendish Club, where the contest originated, attracted 60 of the world's top pairs.

North-South were Zia Mahmood and Bob Hamman, both of whom would be on anyone's list of the world's top 10 players. The two stars -- who were not a regular partnership -- displayed excellent judgment in the bidding to gain 215 IMPs when compared with the results at the other 29 tables.

After Hamman's oneclub opening, West, Brian Glubok, doubled for takeout, planning to bid his hearts next to show extra strength. When his partner bid one heart, however, Glubok immediately leaped to four, a two-way action designed to get his side to game if game could be made, while at the same time making it more difficult for the opponents to locate their potential spade

Many players holding the South cards might have elected to defend against four hearts, but Hamman had seen this type of hand many times before. Having already shown his long club suit, he now bid four spades, asking his partner to choose between spades and clubs. The bid was intended primarily as a sacrifice against the opponents' vulnerable game, but also might produce a game for his side if his partner held the right hand.

And that's exactly the way it turned out. After Glubok bid five hearts, Zia, who now had a very good idea of what his partner's hand looked like, took a stab at five spades, doubled by Glubok.

With no way to get his partner on lead for a diamond return through the king, Glubok could score only his two minor-suit aces, and the doubled game -- worth 650 points -- came rolling home.

Summer Heat Safety Tips to Ensure Fun in the Sun

BY: RON RABENA

The summer season and warm weather triggers an urge to be outdoors, but fun in the sun can be dangerous when the heat and humidity rise. In addition to sun burn, heat-related illnesses including heat stroke or sunstroke can send unsuspecting victims to the hospital. The human body keeps itself cool by allowing heat to escape through the skin and by evaporating the resulting perspiration. If the body cannot cool itself enough, the person could suffer from heat-related illness.

Heat stroke can progress from milder heatrelated illnesses such as heat exhaustion, heat cramps and fainting. Illnesses caused by overheating can become serious, and even deadly, if not treated. Exposure to heat kills approximately 400 Americans annually.

Everyone is susceptible to heat-related illnesses, with even young healthy athletes succumbing to it. However, those most at risk include senior citizens, especially those living along non-air-conditioned environments; infants and children and people with medical conditions, especially those with heart disease and high blood pressure. The classic warning symptom of a heat stroke is a body temperature that is above 104 degrees Fahrenheit, but other symptoms include fainting, dizziness and light-headedness, rapid pulse, painful muscle cramps and spasms, headache, lack of sweating despite the heat, nausea and vomiting, rapid breathing, dry, hot and red skin and behavioral changes including disorientation. If you or anyone around you has any of these symptoms, 911 should be called immediately. As you wait for emergency services, put damp and cool cloths or towels on the affected person and have them lie down until medical assistance arrives. Being alert to the symptoms of heat stroke is vital to ensuring your own health and safety as well as your friends and family. However, as Benjamin Franklin said, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" and heatstroke is preventable. Take these preventative steps to prevent heatstroke this summer:

· Avoid strenuous outdoor activities. Whenever possible, reserve outdoor activities for the cooler morning and evening hours.

· Wear lightweight, loose-fitting, light-colored clothing. Wearing too much clothing or tight clothing won't allow your body to cool down efficiently.

Stay well-hydrated and avoid alcoholic and beverages. caffeinated Staying hydrated helps you maintain a normal body temperature and drinking excessive caffeinated or alcoholic drinks can dehydrate, rather than hydrate, · Eat smaller meals more frequently. Eating small, protein rich meals throughout the day keeps your energy level stabi-

· Never leave children, adults or pets in a closed, parked vehicle. In the sun, closed car temperatures can rise from 78 degrees to 100 degrees in just three minutes.

Dial Up the Fun Factor at Your Pool This Summer by Adding an Outdoor Kitchen

While the pool and spa fire pit, and quiet garden are the star attractions at any backyard gathering, outdoor rooms of every dining type--kitchens, areas, living rooms with the pool anymore, but structures--are winning applause from pool owners and party guests alike.

"It's not just about backyard," said John C. Migliaccio, CPO, CBP, president of the Northeast Spa & Pool Association (NESPA). "When you add an outdoor room to the pool setting--especially an outdoor kitchen with bar--you create a focal point--a natural gathering place for food, fun and refreshment. The outdoor kitchen is the place to entertain appreciative guests, and it is also perfect for a quiet evening with the family or a romantic alfresco dinner rather about the entire for two." In addition to serving as a natural gathering place for people, the outdoor kitchen enhances the value of the entire home for a relatively modest investment, according to Scott Cohen, a garden designer and author of Patio Covers, Pergolas, and Pavilions; The Out-Kitchen Design Workbook; and other books. "In some areas of the country, the outdoor kitchen has become an expected amenity for a comfortable home. In still others, an outdoor kitchen is a standout feature, offering a valuable edge in any housing market."

Practicality aside, the outdoor kitchen is just plain fun, Cohen continued. "They are here to stay and the creative possibilities are endless. To keep everyone in the right zone, it's important to choose a layout that not only works well for cooking, but also makes space for a fun, comfortable party. The grill itself is often the central attraction. Make sure there's plenty of space nearby for several people to sit and watch the action. 'Nearby' doesn't mean 'next to.' Your guests shouldn't feel like they're risking singed eyebrows when they're supervising the cook."

DESIGN THE SPACE FOR SMALL GROUPS In addition to spaces at a bar or dining counter, many backyard kitchens include areas for dining and relaxing. Once again, suggested Cohen, don't think you need a space big enough to accommodate all your guests in one large expanse. "Instead, the zone approach works best here too. Think about human party behavior and observe it at the next get-together you attend. Instead of gathering in one big 'herd,' people at a larger party will naturally group together in small conversational clusters. Design your dining and mingling areas around this tendency by providing several outdoor rooms to accommodate small groups. A series of interconnected spaces is a better fit for many yards and also creates a more inviting atmosphere."

Cohen recommended providing destinations in the garden, which is called "wayfinding," by connecting these gathering spots with welcoming pathways. Use focal points, seat walls, fountains, ponds, arbors, pergolas, gazebos and fragrant plantings to create interest at different locations and draw guests out into the yard space.

10 Ways to Become Financially Independent

By Nathaniel Sillin

After the 2008 economic crisis, many people assumed they would never be able to reach true financial independence - the ability to live comfortably off one's savings and investments with no debt whatsoever.

However, individuals willing to use their time horizon to plan and adjust their spending, savings and investment behaviors might just find financial independence is possible. Here are 10 ideas to get started.

Visualize first, then plan. Start by considering what your vision of financial independence actually looks like - and then get a reality check. Qualified financial experts can examine your current financial circumstances, listen to what financial independence means to you and help you craft a plan. The path to financial independence may be considerably different at age 20 than it is at age 50; the more time you have to save and invest generally produces a better outcome. But at any age, start with a realistic picture of your options.

2. Budget. Budgeting (http://www.practicalmoneyskills.com/ budgeting/) - the process of tracking income, subtracting expenses and deciding how to divert the difference to your goals each month - is the essential first task of personal finance. If you haven't learned to budget, you need to do so. Spend less than you earn. It might be obvious, but it's one of the most difficult financial behaviors to execute. Adhering to a lower standard of living and expenses will help you put more money into savings and investments sooner. Build smarter safety nets. Emergency funds and insurance are rarely discussed in combination. The traditional definition of an emergency fund is a separate account for cash that can be used instead of credit to repair a broken appliance or other expense that may run a few hundred dollars. However, many people keep insurance deductibles high to keep premiums low. Would you have enough cash on hand to cover an insurance deductible if you had a sudden claim? If not, build your deductible amounts into your emergency fund.

Eliminate debt. Though consumer debt levels have generally fallen since the 2008 financial crisis, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported in February that home, student loan, auto and credit card debt began creeping up again in 2014. Getting rid of revolving, non-housing (http://www.practicalmoneyskills.com/ costofcredit) is one of the most effective ways to free up money for savings and investment. 6. Consider your career. Financial independence doesn't require you to quit a career you love, but you really can't get to financial independence without steady income to fuel savings and investments that will build over time. Speak with qualified advisors about your income, benefits and retirement picture first, and see if you might be able to expand your sources of work-related income, such as consulting part time. Also keep in mind that over the age of 50, the Internal Revenue Service allows you to make catch-up contributions (http://www.irs.gov/ Retirement-Plans/Plan-Participant,-Employee/ Retirement-Topics-IRA-Contribution-Limits) to both 401(k) and IRA accounts.

7. Downsize. You'll generally reach wealth financial goals faster if you can cut your overall living expenses. For some, that means selling your home and moving to a smaller one or to an area with lower living costs and taxes. You can also sell or donate property you don't need and use those proceeds to extinguish debt or add to savings or investments.

8. Invest frugally. Become a student (http://www. dol.gov/ebsa/publications/ undrstndgrtrmnt.html) of investment fees and commissions because they can cut significantly into your principal. Make a full evaluation of fees you are paying on every investment account you have and if you're working with a licensed professional who sells you financial products, know what fees they're charging for their investment and advisory services.

Buy assets that generate income. Stocks, real estate, collectibles or cash investments all have up and down markets. But do your homework and focus on investments bought at attractive prices that are likely to appreciate over time. Also, don't forget to study the tax ramifications of any investment transaction you make.

10. Always know where you are financially. Financial planning isn't about making one set of financial decisions and assuming you're set. Lives and situations change and your financial planning must be flexible enough to withstand both positive and negative changes without derailing your hopes for financial independence. If your forte is not investment, financial planning or tax matters, by all means bring in qualified experts to help. But financially independent people generally have their money issues at their fingertips not only for their own use, but for estate purposes as well.

Bottom line: Financial independence involves diligence and a bit of sacrifice, but even the smallest moves can yield big outcomes.
