Local family fights childhood cancer: Elena returns to school with new semester

By TIM FLEISCHER EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

For the Juarez family, April 12 can't come soon enough. It will mark the 26th and final month of treatment for Elena, the six-year-old daughter of Ruben and Krystal Juarez.

The little girl has been undergoing an aggressive form of chemotherapy at McLane Children's Hospital in Temple that began on February 8 2013 after she was diagnosed with acute lymphoblastic leukemia.

Her treatment regimen includes a pill that she takes daily since October 2013, intravenous chemotherapy every 12 weeks and chemotherapy via a spinal tap every 12 weeks. Her next scheduled chemotherapy treatment is Feb. 20.

The treatment has taken its toll on the girl. "Elena's body has a rough time with the chemo," her mother Krystal explained. "The chemotherapy she receives is a high dose of two drugs, methotrexate and mercaptopurine, which have done their part in keeping her in remission as they kill off any lurking leukemia blasts."

However the drugs have also attacked her immune system. "She has had much difficulty in fighting even the most common and simple of illnesses," Krystal said. "She has been in and out of the hospital to rhinovirus, the common cold. Also, she cannot be in school when there are bugs going around."

This immune system weakness cause Elena to miss school at Bartlett Elementary since Thanksgiving due to a rounds of strep throat, flu and stomach bugs going through the students there.

"She returned yesterday (Jan. 5), and we are praying for a healthy student body," Krystal said.

Elena takes about half of the normal chemotherapy dose because "each time she gets sick." Oncologists at McLane's Children's Hospital will begin increasing dosages this week in hopes of finishing her regimen at full dose in April.

"She has only been at 100 percent four times because the chemotherapy drugs cause her blood counts to get too low," Krystal said.

Regardless of the sixyear-old's fight, she remains in good spirits. "She loves her clinic appointments," Krystal said, "She is glad to finally be back at school and is looking forward to her Make-A-Wish trip to Disney World this summer."

Elena will continue to see her oncologist after April for a monthly nebulizer treatment in order to keep her lungs safe from pneumonia and to check her blood count. She will her mom says, "she will be considered 'cured' of acute lymphoblastic leukemia." Many in Salado know the Juarez family and the struggles they have been going through for the past two years. Ruben is a lineman for Bartlett Electric Cooperative, which includes much of rural Salado in its service area. Krystal is employed at the First State Bank of Salado, where she says, "I've had so many customers come through my drive through lane just to tell me that Elena and our family are in their prayers!"

Local citizens are doing more than just praying for the family. They are helping the family to raise funds to pay for the many out-of-pocket expenses of a long-term battle with cancer. In less than a month, more than 85 of the 100 tickets for a Super Bowl fundraiser have been sold, following a story in the Salado Village Voice last month.

A fundraiser has been established for the Feb. 1 Super Bowl. Tickets are available for a 100-square football board that will be for the upcoming NFL Super Bowl to be played on Feb. 1. The squares are $100 each with prizes given away each quarter of the game. At the end of the first, second and third quarters, a winner will be given $1,000. Winners will be notified at the

Meet the staff of Salado Village Voice

The Salado Village Voice newspaper has seen more than three decades of service to the Village of Salado.

During that time, the newspaper has always been a family affair, since its founding by Dayton Kelly in 1979. After Dayton's death, his sons Dennis and Bill operated the newspaper until the Fleischer family purchased the newspaper in 1988.

As we begin 2015, Salado Village Voice staffers would like to reintroduce themselves to the community they serve.

Salado Village Voice has a staff of four, including publishers Tim and Marilyn Fleischer. Other staffers are Stephanie Hood, advertising composition and Royce Wiggin, office assistant.

In addition to individual awards by staff members, Salado Village Voice has been honored by the community and state. The newspaper was the firstever Business of the Year, awarded in January 2003 by the Salado Chamber of Commerce. The newspaper has also been named multiple times to the Texas Association of School Board's Media Honor Roll for news coverage of the Salado school district, including each of the last four years.

The newspaper qualified for the Periodicals rating from the US Post Office in 2009 and joined the Texas Press Association in 2010.

Tim Fleischer

Tim Fleischer has been a newspaperman since he was 16, working for both weeklies and daily newspapers. "I got the Devil's Ink at an early age and haven't been able to get rid of it," he said of his 32 years in the newspaper industry.

For more than 26 years of it, he has been the editor of the Salado Village Voice.

But his love for Salado has been for more than three decades. "I came to Salado with my parents for the Art Fair and Gathering of the Clans when I was growing up in Coryell County," he said. "I drove through it every day on my way to run a small newspaper in Florence."

Tim and Marilyn Fleischer have published the newspaper since 1988. During that time, the newspaper has grown from an eight-page tabloid to a full-size broadsheet newspaper with four sections.

"We have grown with the community and are a reflection of it," he said.

In those years, the newspaper has won several awards from the Texas Community Newspaper Association, where Salado Village Voice competed against newspapers from Antonio, Dallas, San Houston, Austin and around the state.

Tim has won several TCNA awards: advertising design (third in state for large ad format and third in state for advertising series); editorial work (first in state for editorial writing, third in state for editorial writing, third in state for column writing) and second in state for community service (for articles during the incorporation election).

Fleischer has been named to the Texas Association of School Boards Media Honor Roll several times during his tenure at the helm of the newspaper, including the 2014 Honor Roll. Media are recommended and nominated for the Honor Roll by local school boards for their coverage of schools.

He has also served the community in a variety of capacities, including three different terms board of directors of the Salado Chamber of Commerce and six years on the board of directors of the Institute for Humanities at Salado. He was president of the Salado Chamber of Commerce and treasurer for two years of the Institute for Humanities.

Fleischer was recently elected to a third term the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors. He began a one-year term as Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce board of directors during the transition period in which the Chamber and Village of Salado Tourism Department have partnered together.

He served a term on the inaugural board of the Salado Community Foundation. He was also on the first board that established the Mentoring program in Salado.

Tim is also a Mason and twice Past Master of the Salado Masonic Lodge #296. He served as District Deputy Grand Master for Masonic District #48 in 2011-12 and is the current Secretary for the Salado Lodge.

Tim is also active in the Salado Rotary Club.

He and wife Marilyn share responsibilities at the newspaper. "She runs the office and makes the business decisions and I make editorial decisions," he said.

Marilyn Fleischer

Marilyn got the Devil's Ink in her blood after meeting Tim 28 years ago. She worked in the corporate world prior to the purchase of the Salado Village Voice in 1988.

She also owned and operated a business in the Killeen/Copperas Cove area for several years while raising her three children.

During their years in Salado, Marilyn has served the community in many ways. "I think I have been most satisfied with my work with the Salado Family Relief Fund," she said. In addition to her work to establish the Family Relief Fund, Marilyn has also been Art Fair chairperson for two years, and served three years as a Chamber of Commerce Director. She served two three-year terms on the Salado Civic Center board of directors.

She is in the second year of a three-year term on the Salado Community Foundation.

She has also won awards from the TCNA. She has twice been honored. She won second place for Best

Year of the Fainting Couch

The fainting couch doesn't have the same cachet it did in the 19th century, which is a shame, because it should be more in demand than at any time since the age of corsets and delicate sensibilities.

To put it in Victorian terms, 2014 had a case of the vapors. It needed smelling salts and a fan, and a good rest on a fainting couch to restore its bearings. It was a year when the national pastime of taking offense and of fearing that someone might be offended reached such parodic levels that even North Korean supreme leader Kim Jong Un got in the act.

It was the year that a scientist apologized for wearing a shirt that offended feminists in a TV broadcast; that Amazon Prime put a label warning of racist content on "Tom and Jerry" cartoons; and that various news outlets refused to say the name of the NFL team from Washington on grounds that even uttering it made them complicit in rank offensiveness.

It was a year when the nation's colleges and law

Colleges canceled appearances by Ayaan Hirsi Ali, Condi Rice (who technically pulled out of her scheduled Rutgers commencement) and George F. Will for fear students might hear something they disagree with from a figure they object to. Occidental College brought in a religious counselor to comfort students who had volunteered for losing Democratic Senate campaigns.

An open letter from law students at Harvard upset at the nonindictments in the Ferguson and Eric Garner cases captured the spirit of the year, and deserves an honored place in the history of the rhetoric of plaint. Its opening included the stirring declaration "We are in pain. And we are tired." It went on to speak of how "traumatized" the students are (multiple times), and of their "distress" (multiple times). It charged that the school's indifference "the mental health" of its students violates the Harvard Law School Handbook of Academic Policies.

The upshot was that the aggrieved students wanted the administration to offer them a collective pacifier. "We call," the letter thundered, "for faculty to hold special office hours and for the administration to make culturally competent grief and trauma counselors available." And it expected students to be permitted to delay their exams -- because what are the exertions of studying compared with satisfactions of wallowing in a precious self-pity?

The response to these students and their brethren at other elite law schools who made similar appeals should have been "Please, get a grip. If nothing else will buck you up, at least show a little self-respect." If this had been the mettle of the civil-rights movement, it would have collapsed in a puddle of helplessness not long after Rosa Parks was asked to give up her seat.

But that, for all its tragic failings, was a different era. It was before so much time and energy were invested in taking offense and coddling the offended. It was before the nation

Boost American business by raising minimum wage

By CHRIS SOMMERS

As a restaurant owner operating in four states and looking to expand, I'm happy to see the minimum wage going up in 21 states to kick off the new year. I'd like to see the federal minimum wage increase as well to benefit business and our economy nationwide.

Last spring, my business partner, Frank Uible, and I raised the minimum wage in our restaurants to $10.10. And we did it without raising prices.

Our teams work hard at our restaurants. But some of our employees couldn't afford to buy the pizza they put so much effort into for our guests. That's not right.

And it's not good for business.

Business owners don't create more jobs when they have more money in their own pockets thanks to low wages. We create more jobs when other people have more money in their pockets to spend at our businesses.

More working Americans walking around with money to spend is what fuels this economy and creates more consumer demand.

Some business owners who haven't run the numbers like us will say they can't afford a wage increase. I'm here to tell them they can.

A sense of right and wrong may have sparked our decision, but it was old-fashioned number crunching that showed we can and should do what Congress should have already done. Our increased payroll costs were more than balanced by reduced employee turnover rates, increased productivity and greater customer satisfaction.

We lost employees before because they couldn't afford to fill their tank with gas to get to work, or make a car repair. Employees who can make ends meet stay longer, are less stressed and are more productive.

Too many people forget that the lower the wage, the higher the employee turnover, which costs businesses time and money in recruiting and training new workers. We spend more than $500 training a new line cook. We threw away thousands of dollars in product a year due to inexperienced employees preparing it improperly. Eliminating just a portion of these expenses pays for increased minimum wages.

The morale boost and loyalty we have already gained from our employees also pays for our wage increase. It's a win-win when employees can concentrate on serving customers, without worrying about how they are going to make rent or put food on their own table.

Our more experienced teams take better care of our guests. We've gained many new customers who have written us notes telling us how grateful they are that we treat our employees fairly. Those guests are visiting our business more frequently, further contributing to our bottom line.

We've seen that after implementing a $10.10 minimum wage our teams are performing better, our labor cost is under budget, our sales are great and we're expanding.

To those who say jobs will be eliminated due to wage increases, we say you're wrong!

We didn't reduce employees at our St. Louis and Washington DC restaurants. We created more jobs. We opened a new Pi Pizza this year in Cincinnati, Ohio and are opening soon in Miami, Florida. We're planning a second Pi Pizza in Washington DC and are looking into expanding to new states.

And we're far from alone. Contrary to what opponents of a minimum wage raise claim, a 2014 nationwide poll showed that 61 percent of small business owners with em-

Flat-footed backflip for Wall Street Congress gave its bankster buddies an overly generous holiday gift

Congress, which had been so tied up in a partisan knot by right-wing extremists that it became unable to move, suddenly sprang loose at the end of the year. Before heading home for the holidays, it put on a phenomenal show of acrobatic lawmaking.

In one big, bipartisan spending bill, our legislative gymnasts pulled off a breathtaking, flat-footed backflip for Wall Street. They then set a dizzying new height record for the amount of deep-pocketed money donors can give to the two major political parties.

It was the best scratchmy-back performance you never saw. You and I didn't see it, because it happened in secret — with no public hearings, debate, or even a vote.

Tucked into the yearend spending bill known as a "cromnibus" was a provision allowing Wall

Jim

Hightower

Street's most reckless speculators to have their losses on risky derivative deals insured by us taxpayers. Such losses were a central cause of the 2008 financial crash and subsequent unholy bank bailout.

That crash led to the passage of the Dodd-Frank financial reform law to spare taxpayers from future Wall Street bailouts.

But with one, compact, 85-line section inserted deep inside the 1,600page, trillion-dollar spending bill, Congress did a dazzling flip-flop, putting taxpayers back on the hook for the banksters' high-risk speculation.

In this same spending bill, Congress also freed rich donors - such as the Wall Street bankers it just did a huge favor for - from the $100,000 limit on the donations that individuals can give to national party committees. In a gravity-defying stunt, lawmakers flung the limit on these donations to a record-setting 15 times higher.

So now, bankers who are grateful to either party for letting them make a killing on taxpayer-backed deals can give a combined total of over $1.5 million to each.

It's always an amazing sight when Wall Street and Congress get together especially when they do it behind closed doors.

Congress serva con C

By TRACI BRUCKNER CENTER FOR RURAL AFFAIRS

When thinking about the $1.1 trillion spending bill passed by Congress last month, one might ask, what does Congress have against conservation?

They made huge cuts to conservation programs, such as the Conservation Program Stewardship (CSP) that supports conservation practices on cropland, pastureland and rangeland, totaling $402 million over ten years. This cut means 2.3 million fewer acres enrolled in the program.

This anti-conservation spending bill also cut the ployees support increasing the federal minimum wage to $10.10 and adjusting it in future years to keep up

Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) by $136 million for this fiscal year.

While the CSP is designed to reward farmers and ranchers who have a history of integrating conservation, EQIP will help them develop a conservation practice for the first time. Both programs support practices such as cover crops, diverse cropping systems, as well as rotational grazing practices on pasture, rangeland, and cropland restored to a grass-based system.

These are the conservation-based farming practices we need more support for, not less. This is especially true in the face of climate change impacts on agriculture, and the increased need to protect and restore water quality.

So while they cut the conservation programs that help farmers and ranchers integrate risk management through conservation-based farming practices, they left intact the unlimited federal crop insurance premium subsidies and farm program payments that encourage risk taking and agriculture consolidation by the nation's largest and wealthiest farms.

This is an anti-farmer, anti-conservation bill that is representative of crisis-driven legislation stemming from a dysfunctional Congress. Join us and fight for annual spending bills that are forward-looking, and create opportunity.

Established in 1973, the Center for Rural Affairs is a private, non-profit organization working to strengthen small businesses, family farms and ranches, and rural communities through action oriented programs addressing social, economic, and environmental issues.

It's time for lawmakers to listen to the majority of business owners who believe a minimum wage increase makes good business sense. Individual business owners can't do it alone. Individual states can't do it alone. We need Congress to raise the federal minimum wage for the good of our whole economy.

Salado Masonic Lodge #296 has taken over the Salado Flag Program from the Salado Rotary Club, which originated the program in 1997.

The Masonic Lodge took over the delivery duties in July on behalf and at the request of the Salado Rotary Club.

"The Rotary Club asked us to take over the program because its members were no longer able to meet the demands of delivering the flags during the year," said Art Wadford, Master of the Salado Lodge.

As did the Rotary Club, Salado Masonic Lodge Belton Senior Activity Center plans movie and dance events

The Belton Senior Activity Center will be having "Movie Day" 12:30 p.m. Jan. 13. The featured movie will be "17 Miracles" released in 2011.

Based on the stories of the Mormon pioneers, this film follows the adventures of Levi Savage, a young man who triumphs over tragedy. The 17 miracles Levi witnesses are based on the real historical figure's diaries. This activity is open to all area seniors and their guests. Popcorn and drinks will be provided free of charge.

The Belton Senior Activity Center will be having a Country & Western Dance 6:30- 9:30 p.m. January 15, with music by "Shorty Grisham & Friends" Band.

The dance is open to all area seniors. A $5 donation per person is requested. The Salado Flag Program began in 1997 as a fund raising event of the Rotary Club to support community service projects. "It will continue to do just that under the Salado Masonic Lodge," Wadford said. "Salado Masonic Lodge has been a part of the Village of Salado for 148 years. We have funded and supported countless community projects during this time. Over the last few years Masons have raised funds for the Salado Band, Salado One Act Play, Salado Choir, Salado Soccer Team, Books for the Elementary Library, Dental Hygiene packets for first graders, Take Time to Read program for the Elementary and Middle Schools, upgrading the Civic Center, building paths and cleaning up on College Hill, among many other ventures."

Extreme Cheer presents Father Daughter Dance: tickets now on sale

Celebrate that special father-daughter bond with an enchanted evening dancing the night away at the 16th Annual Father Daughter Dance presented by Extreme Cheer & Tumble. Guests may choose to attend the dance on Feb. 20 or 21, from 6 - 9 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom of the Frank W. Mayborn Convention Center in Temple (3303 North 3rd Street).

"This event is a tradition for many area families as it allows dads and daughters a special time to get dressed up, dance, have fun, and share a memorable evening together," said Program Coordinator Belinda Garcia. "This event is an opportunity for dads to demonstrate to their daughters exactly how a gentleman should treat a lady."

By popular demand, there will be two nights to choose from to attend the dance. In addition, a special time will be held for fathers of differently-abled daughters to enjoy the festivities from 3 – 5 p.m. on Saturday, should they choose to do so, courtesy of the Children's Special Needs Network.

Tickets must be purchased in advance and will not be sold at the door. Tickets are $10 per person and can only be purchased online at www. templeparks.com. Tickets are extremely limited, so it is highly encouraged to purchase tickets early.

Each young lady will receive a special gift upon arrival and everyone will enjoy a light dessert snack provided by Schlotzsky's. Additional food and drink items will be available for purchase. Master's Image Photography will be onsite taking photos that will also be available for purchase and music will be provided by DJ Joe Olivares with Wedding Pros DJ & Photography.

Johnny Martone, of Double JJ Tree Service, feeds a Christmas tree into the chipper on Jan. 3. Double JJ offered the tree chipping service at no charge to the Salado Chamber of Commerce and local residents to dispose of their live Christmas trees following the holiday season. The chipped mulch will be used by Keep Salado Beautiful for local pocket gardens. The Chamber sold 80 trees to local businesses and offered delivery and disposal of the 8 foot tall Fraser firs after the holidays. Salado Rotarians delivered the trees to the door steps of about 50 businesses and then picked them up after the holiday taking them to be chipped on a cold January morning. For that effort, Debbie Charbonneau presented the local Rotary Club with a check for $1,300, which will go directly to scholarships for local students. Rotary President Merle Stalcup is shown with other members accepting the check. The Chamber and Rotary plan on ursuing the successful program next year and may expand it to offer delivery to Salado homeowners. The trees were shipped to Salado from North Carolina.

The Fleischers helped to establish what became known as the Public Arts League of Salado.

The Fleischers' children -- Royce Wiggin and Jenny Potter, both graduates of Salado High School -- have grown up in the eye of the community. Royce graduated in 2007, beginning in second grade in Salado schools. Jenny began her school career as a kindergärtner at Thomas Arnold Elementary School and graduated in 2009.

The newest addition is Nate Timothy Potter, who was born to Jenny and Joey Potter on Dec. 13, 2011.

Royce Wiggin

Royce Wiggin is one of those rare species: a native of Salado, born here in 1989. His first home was the historic Levi Tenney House in Salado's Pace Park.

He has attended school in Salado since second grade graduating in 2007.

He began work at the newspaper over the summer of his junior year in high school.

His responsibilities include placing and rotating ads on pages, directing phone calls in the office, proof reading, typesetting and a myriad of other duties. He is also in charge of the Classified Section of the newspaper, including layout of those pages.

He is the son of Tim and Marilyn Fleischer, owners of the newspaper, and is glad to finally get paid for all the hours he spends at the newspaper office.

He is attending college at Temple College, while Another native of Salado is Stephanie Hood, a 1987 graduate of Salado High School, Stephanie is a hometown girl at heart and a third generation graduate who is raising a fourth generation of eagles.

"I am a country kid, I was 'raised here' as they say. The history of Salado and Bell county is intertwined with the history of my family. With that comes a certain respect for the old buildings, farms and the old timers who made Salado great."

"The creek was the favorite swimming hole when I was a kid and not just for Salado," she said. "The tree lined banks were the perfect place to find a cool retreat from the sun. You had to be a good kid though, if you acted up your parents would get a phone call before you even thought about going home."

Stephanie joined the newspaper in 2006 as the composition person.

She has spent her career creating images that express ideas. As a Broadcasting major in college, she worked for both KNCT and KCTF television stations before becoming a videographer for Scott & White Hospital. "Being a little under 5 foot, I spent a lot of time on a ladder in operating rooms."

Working at the Salado Village Voice was a natural fit. Creating concise visual images is where she excells. Photography was always a hobby as Stephanie grew up in a and great grandmothers. Many of those places have been erased from our landscape."

Stephanie is an active community volunteer. She serves as an advisor to several scouting units. The former Cubmaster and Day Camp director has moved on to Troop, Venturing and Sea Scouting units as her children have progressed through the Boy Scouting program.

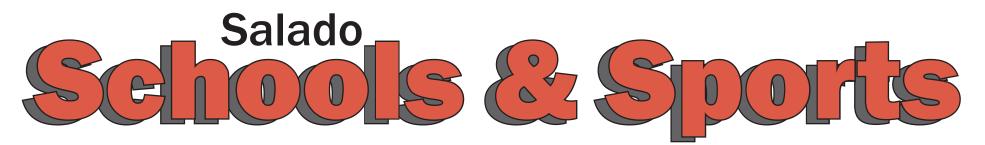

Thursday and Friday nights this fall were reserved for Eagle football as Stephanie cheered on her son Allen. "It's really neat to think he is wearing the same number my dad wore when he played at Salado High."

She is also a founding member of the Salado School Alumni Association. "It is important to preserve the history of our schools. Our village was founded because the people of this county wanted an education for their children. My ancestor, E. T. Estes hung the bell in the tower of the newly constructed Salado College. It is nice to know I can help preserve that legacy."

Her family, including her son Allen and father Monroe Moore, are active in the restoration of Salado College Hill as a park.

She was also recently appointed to the Salado Historical Society board of directors. She is the current treasurer for the Historical Society.

Hood served this year on the Salado Vision Committee as a representative of the Salado Historical Society.

Maternal alcohol use impacts Texas babies

salado Village Voice, January 8, 2015, Page 3B

By John Michaelson Texas News Service

AUSTIN - It is completely preventable, but there will be some 40,000 babies born in the United States this year, including around 4,000 in Texas, diagnosed with a Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder.

The severity of the health issues related to maternal alcohol use depends on the timing and frequency of consumption, which professor of pediatrics Dr. Frederick Palmer from the University of Tennessee Health Science Center says should be not a single drop.

"If you don't drink while pregnant, you cannot have a child with Fetal Alcohol Syndrome or Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder or any effects of alcohol, and that's a fairly open-and-shut case," he says.

It is estimated about one-percent of children nationwide have Fetal Alcohol Syndrome or other alcohol-related birth defects.

Palmer says some cases are from women drinking before they realize they've become pregnant, while others believe it won't harm their babies or some women struggle with addiction. The effects on the babies can include abnormal facial features, growth deficiencies and permanent brain damage.

"These range from what is to a physician a readily identifiable Fetal Alcohol Syndrome to much milder problems, including maybe just cognitive problems or maybe just problems in school learning," he says.

CTAS Public Star Party January 10

to be an exciting one for astronomy. After 40 years of neglect by space probes and demotion to a dwarf planet, Pluto finally gets some respect and we get to see it up close. The NASA New Horizon's spacecraft will reach Pluto in July, but the show really begins in May, when the pictures of Pluto become BTH (better than Hubble). For us earth-bound observers, Mercury and Venus will be less than 1 degree apart, low in the west, right after sunset. Mars will appear about 20 degrees to the upper left of Venus and MerThe Central Texas Astronomical Society will host a free public star party 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Jan. 10 at Overlook Park near Belton. CTAS members will provide telescopes to view the visible planets and a selection of star clusters, galaxies, and nebulas.

Comet C/2014 Q2 Lovejoy, skimming through the constellation Taurus, is now visible with binoculars. Comets are traditionally named for their discoverer, in this case, by amateur astronomer Terry Lovejoy on Aug. 17, 2014, using an 8 inch telescope. Taurus is also the home of the Pleiades and Hyades star clusters as well as M1, the Crab Nebula.

Attendees will look at these and many other celestial objects this month. Check the web site, centexastronomy.org, for more information and directions. A flashlight and a lawn chair can be useful items at a star party. Please dress warmly, as clear winter nights can cool off quickly. If this event is canceled due to weather, a cancellation notice will be posted on the CTAS website homepage by 4:30 p.m.

Free Market Warrior to address Republican Women

Loren Spivack, known as "The Free Market Warrior" will speak at the Jan. 22 Republican Women's meeting at the Salado Library. The luncheon meeting commences at 11:30 a.m.

Spivack was born and raised in Massachusetts and spent most of his adult life in New York City. Before becoming active in politics Spivack worked for several nonprofits and as a management consultant for both profit and non-profit companies. Spivack founded "Free Market Warrior" in 2009 in an effort to make a positive difference in American politics and economics. His "Free Market Warrior" store was expelled from Concord Mills Mall in North Carolina in July of 2009 for selling material critical of the Obama Administration. (Mall owners, Simon Property Group, are major Democratic donors.) Since then Loren has devoted his time to teaching conservative groups about free market economics. He conducts "Economic Literacy" seminars across the United States. So far, Spivack has delivered his famous seminar on "Economic Literacy" to over 200 groups in 20 states.

Loren Spivack

Spivack is also the author of "The New Democrat" a parody history of the Obama administration, based on a famous children's book. With pitchperfect rhyme and clever illustrations, "The New Democrat" transforms the political personalities of our times into cartoon characters in a conservative morality play.

The public is invited but reservations for food and seating are requested. Reservations are made by sending $12 to SARW, PAC; P.O. Box 373, Salado, Texas 76571 to be received by Jan. 19. For additional information contact Deborah Roberson at dkroberson115@gmail.com or 281-787-1073.

Wood smoke may be necessary for great Texas barbecue, but not so much for home fireplaces and wood stoves. Burning a less smoky, more efficient fire is better for human health and reduces air pollution. Photo CREDIT: TIMOTHYJ/FLICKR.

Dry, seasoned wood means best blazes for heating your home during winter cold

By John Michaelson Texas News Service

AUSTIN, Texas - Burning a cleaner fire in that woodstove or fireplace during the winter months is helpful to the health of residents across the state - and also to the state's climate, according to the Environmental Protection Agency.

A good way to burn the hottest and most efficient fire is to use only dry, seasoned wood, said Alison Davis, senior adviser in the EPA's Office of Air Quality Planning and Standards.

"The reason that this is important is that dry wood burns more completely," she said, "and that benefits you in two ways: One, you get more energy out of the firewood because it burns more of the actual wood itself, and the other is the fire then produces less smoke." It's also suggested that to maintain proper airflow and efficiency, people should regularly remove the ashes from wood-burning stoves or fireplaces.

Wood smoke produces fine particle pollution, Davis said, which can be harmful to human health.

"When you breathe in air that has fine particles in it, it can penetrate deep into the lungs where it can harm the heart, the blood vessels and the lungs," she said. "Fine particles are linked to heart attacks, strokes."

In addition, there's also the danger of smoke filled with toxins or harmful chemicals if certain materials end up in the fire. The EPA advises never burning such items as plastics, foam and other garbage, or wood that's been coated, painted or pressuretreated.
