ackards return to Salado

The 36th Annual Texas Packard Meet will be held April 4-7, 2013 in Salado.

It is the oldest regional Packard meet in the country and one of the largest.

This meet is sponsored by the Texas Packard Association, comprised of the four Packard Clubs in Texas.

It again will be held at the Stagecoach Inn in historic Salado.

Typically there are 40 to 70 cars and well over 100 master registrations. Being the 36th edition of this great meet will likely increase the numbers!

Participants enjoy a tour, all Packard swap meet, people's choice competition, seminars, and awards dinner. Packard lovers from all over the country compete for the long distance award.

Fees for registration vary according to activities selected but fees are among the most reasonable for like events.

Viewing for the public is free on Saturday morning April 6 on the grounds of the Stagecoach Inn.

ATTENTION OF THE OWNER.

of the company, James Ward Packard, was an engineer by trade and began producing automobiles as early as 1899. The first Packards were designed as luxury automobiles and were priced much higher than the competition. In 1902, the Ohio Automobile Company was renamed The Packard Motor Car Company and moved to Detroit. The last Packard came off of the assembly-line in 1958.

Golf Club to meet with investor

After months of effort, the Salado Golf Club may have a chance at seeing its goal to fruition after it meets with an investor from Houston. The investor, reportedly, has $1 million that he would like to invest in the local golf club.

That money could be match to the money that the Salado Golf Club has raised. To date, Salado Golf Club has raised more than $600,000 in loans from members, but fell short of the amount needed to purchase the real estate and operations of Mill Creek golf club from owner Morris Foster.

According to Bruce Bolick, a certified public accountant for the Salado Golf Club, the group had another $150,000 in promised money should the organization get close enough to the goal of purchasing the property.

Rumors had been circulating around the village that a large investor was going to purchase the golf course and develop the property for housing. However, no contracts have been signed for the purchase of the golf course, as of press time.

The mission of the Salado Golf Club was to make the golf course a member-owned entity with all profits returned into the facility.

er Lecture.

"It is fitting that Jane should become an official part of this lectureship because, without her ongoing support of Harry, The Institute, and Salado, this organization and much more in our community would never have come to pass," Institute director Sara Mackie said.

This year's Wilmer Lecture will be both a joyous celebration of life, family and community through music and stories and a nod to the more sol-

Bishop consecrates St. Joseph's Episcopal Church Joseph and the Feast of St. Joseph's Episcopal Chapel was consecrated as the newest mission church of the Episcopal Diocese of Texas, which is the second largest Diocese in the nation.

Bishop Andy Doyle consecrated the worship space and gave the blessing of the new office and fellowship building on North Main Street during a special ceremony April 3.

St. Joseph's began as a Parish Mission of St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Belton.

In 1996 The Rev. Joseph Sheldon celebrated the Ash Wednesday liturgy in the little chapel.

This was the beginning of the weekly celebration of the Eucharist in quiet, contemplative services each Tuesday at 9:30 a.m.

Members of St. Joseph's met in private homes in 1998 while the building was being enlarged under the direction of Tim Brown of Salado. Additional pews, and a suspended sanctuary lamp made by Lonnie Edwards of Salado were acquired with funds gathered by the congregation. Father Joe and Mildred Sheldon presented a hand made ceramic paten to the chapel.

Visit our webpage saladovillagevoice.com for photos from the consecration ceremony and procession

On March 20, 1999, St. Joseph's Chapel was dedicated as a Parish Mission of St. Luke's, Belton in a ceremony conducted jointly by Father Joe Sheldon and Father Tom Wallace.

In June, 2009 Fr. Tom Wallace retired and was replaced by seminarian Bob Bliss who would be assigned to St. Luke's and St. Joseph's as their Rector upon his Ordination.

Regular Sunday services became a reality for the members St. Joseph on July 1, 2009. Soon a small choir was formed for the Sunday Eucharist. A formal youth group was formed when young Tyler Bellow stood before the congregation and asked for adults to sponsor the group. Adults responded with enthusiasm and Thursday Evening was chosen as the time to meet.

By 2010 the congregation had grown from about six on Sunday mornings to about 36.

Events such as the annual Pumpkin Patch continued to be honored and was well received by the community.

Kids from Belton, Jarrell, and Salado participated in the program developed by Sara Lewis, Cindy Cashion, Glynette Hagen and Tara Hagen.

Other annual events included the Feast of St. St. Mary. The celebrations included Holy Eucharist followed by a festival meal in the courtyard. About 85 people attended each Festival and was very well received. St. Joseph's also hosted a Salado Chamber of Commerce event in the contemplative garden. During the Christmas season, St. Joseph's has taken part in a Posada up Main Street through the town of Salado. The Posada ended at St. Joseph's where a tamale dinner followed the event.

A new addition was added on to the existing structure of the Chapel and an additional 20 seats were added.

The construction was finished just in time for the Christmas Eve services. There was room for a keyboard and an area for the choir to be seated. About 140 people attended the two Christmas Eve services.

Deacon Bob was ordained Father Bob on Jan. 8, 2011, once again giving St. Joseph's its own priest. Helping Fr. Bob before his ordination was Fr. Dave Scheider, Fr. George Holston, Fr. Joseph Webb, and Fr. Reese Hutchison. The clergy celebrated the Eucharist each Sunday and special days.

By October, 2011 the average Sunday attendance had grown to 40 with 50 families attending St. Joseph's throughout the year. Fr. Bob continued to challenge the congregation to invite more guests and place the burden of "space" on his shoulders. That would be a wonderful problem to have.

The youth group of St. Joseph averages around 12 or more and meets on Wednesday evenings. The youth of St. Joseph's participate fully in the Liturgy and Church Life. They help sponsor events throughout the year and and help decorate on special occasions.

Last year, St. Luke's Episcopal Church held its last service in Belton, consolidating with St. Joseph's in Salado.

Since September 17, allservices have been held at St. Joseph's Episcopal Church in Salado.

"We have a bright future as a growing Episcopal community in central Texas," Father Bliss stated. "The rich history and legacy of St. Luke's and the Episcopal Church in Bell County will continue through all who worship and serve on our campus in Salado known as St. Joseph's."

The church divested itself of the Belton property and purchased the property just south of the chapel for the addition of offices and education space. Since purchasing the property this year, the Episcopalians have been working to renovate it for the church use. Last week, the parking lot of St. Joseph's was expanded to accommodate the growth of the Episcopal community in Salado and Bell County.

The littlest perps

The nation's elementary schools are overrun by small-minded and unreasonable people, prone to hysterics, who can't distinguish between makebelieve and reality. They are called school administrators.

In the wake of the Newtown, Conn., massacre, they have been punishing little children for making gunlike gestures with their fingers and other harmless horseplay. The people who run our schools must have been too busy brushing up on their "zero tolerance" policies to notice that Newtown was perpetrated with an AR-15, not with a toy or with a finger. We expect 5-year-olds to be childish. What's the excuse for the people running our schools?

Five-year-old Joseph Cruz brandished a gun made out of Legos in his day-care program while, in the words of the Barnstable Public School District in Hyannis, Mass., "simulating the sound of gunfire." For a layman, that's called saying "pow."

that fires soapy bubbles. A mandatory psychological evaluation found, according to a news report, "that the girl did not represent any threat to others." Whew.

White Marsh Elementary in Maryland suspended two first-graders for playing cops and robbers on the playground. In true 21st-century fashion, the school board said it was forbidden from giving out more information "due to confidentially requirements under the Federal Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA)."

An 8-year-old in Prince William County, Va., was suspended for firing back with an imaginary gun after a friend shot him with an imaginary bow and arrow. Evidently, nothing happened to the other kid. This points to a disturbing "bow and arrow" loophole that could conceivably accommodate everything from imaginary poison darts to make-believe medieval siege weapons. The Al Capone of the zero-tolerance offenders is the daring second-grader in Anne Arundel County, Md., who chewed his strawberry breakfast pastry into the shape of a gun and then brazenly pointed it at a classmate. Park Elementary school suspended him for two days.

Who defends this foolish lack of proportion? The American Association of Administrators. School Its executive director, Dan Domenech, told USA Today: "Parents have to be aware that talking about guns or using your fingers to point like a gun is no longer tolerable or prudent." Why, pray tell? School shooters tend to be disturbed young men. In no case has a shooter ever been an adorable 5-yearold child.

In the grips of a strange mania, school administrators believe that any symbolic representation of a gun, no matter how innocent, is all but indistinguishable from a real gun. This is not a mistake that gun owners make. The fake-finger gun doesn't do much for the average sportsman. It can't bring down a deer, and doesn't exactly light up the gun range.

No matter. We don't Okay, Obamacare. Up on the table. It's time for your annual physical.

Three years old, eh? Well, with any luck, you'll leave here with a clean bill of ... uh-oh. I can see one problem already. Have you seen these tax hikes?

Let's see ... five, 10, 15 ... 18 tax hikes in all. Hardly seems wise, considering the fragile health of the economy, but there they are.

There's the tax on individuals who don't purchase health insurance. That'll cost $55 billion over the next decade. I also see a 40 percent excise tax on "Cadillac" health plans costing more than $10,200 for individuals and $27,500 for families. It'll be $111 billion for that between 2018 and 2022. And several smaller ones, such as limiting the amount people can set aside in their flexible spending accounts. $4.5 billion there from 2011 to 2022.

It all adds up, Obamacare. And it's not healthy. Hate to tell you this, but it gets worse. See this? That's the number of people who are going to lose their current health insurance because of you. Not thousands, but millions. Seven million, according to the Congressional Budget Office (CBO). And this isn't guesswork; it's already happening. Take Universal Orlando, which recently announced that it won't continue to cover its part-time workers. Why? Not because they're mean-hearted. Because they can't afford it. Your prohibition of annual benefit limits beginning next year is making Universal's health plans too expensive. Word is, this will affect about 500 Universal employees.

Heritage Forum By Edwin Feulner

Or consider the American Veterinary Medical Association in Illinois. "[M]edical coverage will end for some 17,500 Association members and thousands of their dependents at year's end," the group says in a news release. And there are many more to come, from other employers. Ouch.

Wait. Obamacare, didn't you say that nobody who liked his current plan would lose it? Yes. You promised it, in fact. Repeatedly. I'd better note that in your chart here.

You may be getting uncomfortable, but we're not done yet. Over here, there's another serious problem: You're hurting hiring -- and right at a time when the economy could use all the help it can get to reduce unemployment. You don't believe it? Look at the "Beige Book," a report that the Federal Reserve publishes eight times a year detailing the economic activity in the Reserve's 12 different regions. According to its is right from the CBO and Medicare's own trustees. They've shown what you don't want to admit: You're raiding Medicare to pay for other new programs.

Payment rates for Medicare Advantage: down $156 billion over the next decade. Home health services: down $66 billion. Hospice services: down $17 billion. The biggest one is hospital services, which you cut by $260 billion. What's that? No, the cuts do not target medical institutions or organizations suspected of waste, fraud, or abuse. Nice try.

Finally, I see that insurance premiums are going to skyrocket under you. It's those coverage mandates you put in place -- they're the culprit. According to a congressional report by the House Energy and Commerce Committee, some premiums are set to rise in every state. Yes, every state. And not by small amounts. In many states, they're primed to go up by more than 50 percent; in others, by more than 100 percent. And it's all due to changes you've intromost recent report: "Emduced. ployers in several Districts This despite your claim that your law would "cut cited the unknown effects the cost of a typical famof the Affordable Care Act as reasons for planned layily's premium by up to offs and reluctance to hire $2,500 a year." # Obama's Unethical End Run

Back in 2010, President Obama declared: "I don't think American elections should be bankrolled by America's most powerful interests."

That was so 2010.

By 2013, the mist of corporate money has fogged over Team Obama's commitment to such ethical niceties. For example, take a glance at all the special interests that paid $50 million for his January inaugural festivities. Except... you can't.

While the White House pledged that it would put the names of every donor online so people could see that there's no conflict of interest, that's all they disclosed. Just names of individuals. There's no info on where they live, what corporation they represent, or how much they gave.

Even the highly-skilled watchdogs of the Sunlight Foundation haven't managed to identify 40 percent of the individuals. They've traced some donors back to such "powerful interests" as AT&T, Coca Cola, FedEx, and Microsoft. But they have no clue how much these special interests paid - i.e. how many presidential favors they purchased.

Hightower

And now, another layer of fog has descended over the White House. The Obamacans have set up a dark-money haven called Organizing For Action (OFA), again making a show of transparency by pledging to issue quarterly lists of donors.

But the listings again won't include the donors' corporate identities. And why only quarterly? Why not reveal the names online the moment the checks arrive? Plus, some checks from corporate executives will be bundled, but OFA won't disclose the corporations delivering the bundles.

OFA donors will have access to special White House briefings. But, as the Sunlight group asks, will someone who gives 50 be invited – or just those giving $50,000 and up? I think you can guess the answer.

Recent thefts of CenturvLink cable stolen either late at night or through the early morning hours include these: March 20 on Firefly Road in Killeen; March 21 on Maxdale Road in Killeen and March 23 on S FM 116 in Copperas Cove

Aside from the potenemergencies. It also can tial for arrest, there have been dozens of reports nationwide of copper thieves being electrocuted while attempting to steal copper cable from power companies.

CenturyLink reminds the community that legitimate technicians will drive vehicles that display a company logo and wear CenturyLink clothing. If they are official contractors, they will also be wearing the appropriate company clothing and have the necessary safety equipment with them. If CenturyLink employees are doing roadside work, community members will see the typical safety equipment such as orange vests and hard hats. In addition, there will be flaggers if the road is blocked, plus orange cones and traffic signage.

"If you see individuals working on telephone wires without this equipment, especially at odd hours and in remote areas, call 911 immediately," Martin said. "By keeping a watchful eye, more of these criminals can be put behind bars and the safety and security of essential communications equipment can be assured."

CenturyLink works closely with law enforcement and has added security to patrol key facility areas.

SRT Chapter 22 Remembers Goliad

On 26 March 1836

Goliad Massacre Palm Sunday March 27, 1836

.....'Boys, they are going to kill us---die with your faces to them, like men!".....two other young men, flourishing their caps over their heads, shouted at the top of their voices: "Hurra for Texas!" Can Texas cease to cherish the memory of those, whose dying words gave a pledge of their devotion to her cause?--Capt. Jack Shackelford, Alabama Red Rover Physician, Survivor of the Goliad Massacre.

Colonel James Fannin, being wounded at the Battle of Coleto, surrenders his army to the Mexican Troops March 20th, 1836. Fannin's men delivered up their arms, and some 230 or 240 uninjured or slightly wounded men were marched back to Goliad and imprisoned in the chapel of Nuestra Señora de Loreto Presidio at La Bahía in Goliad, the fort they had previously occupied.

Gen. José de Urrea wrote to General Santa Anna and informed him that the Texans were prisoners of war and recommended clemency for them. On 23 March 1836, Santa Anna ignored Urrea's requests and ordered all the prisoners executed. Concerned over Urrea's ability to carry out the execution order, Santa Anna also sent a dispatch directly to Colonel Jose Nicolas de la Portilla, who Urrea had left in command at Goliad to execute the prisoners. Colonel Fannin was brought to Goliad March 25th ,1836.

Colonel Portilla received Santa Anna' message, but two hours later he received another message from Urrea asking him to treat the prisoners with consideration and employ them in rebuilding the town. Portilla fretted over the conflicting orders but decided that he was duty bound to obey Santa Anna over Urrea and he ordered the prisoners to be executed at dawn. At sunrise on Palm Sunday on 27 March 1836, the unwounded Texans were formed into three groups under a heavy guard commanded by adjutant Agustin Acerrica, Captain Pedro Balderas, and Captain Antonio Ramirez.

The largest group of prisoners was comprised of the remnants of Ward's Georgia Battalion and Captain Burr H. Duval's Company was marched along the San Antonio Road towards the upper ford of the San Antonio River. The San Antonio Greys, Mobile Greys and others were marched along the Victoria Road towards the lower ford. Ira J. Westover's regulars and Captain John Shackelford's Red Rovers were marched towards the southwest on the San Patricio Road. Their guards were also to serve as executioners. The Texans were unaware of their fate as they had been told a variety of reasons for their movements. Dobell's group had been told that they were to be liberated and that arrangements had been made to transport them to New Orleans on board ships located at Copano. Fannin had remained cheerful and had informed his men that the Mexicans were making arrangements for their release. Optimistic to the end, the previous evening the Texans had engaged in an impromptu rendition of "Home Sweet Home."

From the groups along the roads, those not killed in the initial volleys fled toward the woods and 24 including Jack Dobell, managed to escape. The group on the San Patricio Road was further from the trees and only 4 managed to escape. Jack Dobell, one of the few to survive the massacre describes the event:

"When about a mile above town, a halt was made and the guard on the side next the river filed around to the opposite side. Hardly had this maneuver been executed, when I heard a heavy firing of musketry in the directions taken by the other two divisions. Some one near me exclaimed "Boys! they are going to kill us!"

Colonel Fannin, was confined to his quarters by a wound he had received at the fight on the Coletto. Shortly after the massacre of his men, he was notified to prepare for immediate execution. He calmly replied that he was ready, as he had no desire to live after the cowardly murder of his men. He was taken out to the square by a guard, where he was seated on a bench, and his eyes blindfolded. Fannin presented Captain Huerta his gold watch and requested that he be shot in the chest rather than the head and given a decent burial. A moment later the order to "fire" was given and Colonel Fannin was shot in the head and fell dead and his body burned with the rest of the Texians executed. 342 of Fannin's men were slaughtered while only 28 managed to escape. Captain Miller and his 80 men were spared because they had been captured soon after they landed from their vessel, and were unarmed. Twenty six men from Ward's battalion, who were all carpenters, were left at Victoria on Holzinger's direction, who indicated that he needed them in getting the artillery over the river. Due to the intervention of Colonel Francisco Garay, the surgeons, Doctor Joseph H. Barnard, Captain Jack Shackleford (a physician), Doctor James Field, and their assistant, George Voss, were spared to attend the Mexicans wounded at the Battle of Coleto. Joseph Spohn, an interpreter was also spared. Before Santa Anna and the Mexican Army was attacked at San Jacinto..... There was a general cry which pervaded the ranks: 'Remember the Alamo! Remember La Bahia!' These words electrified us all .-- Thomas J. Rusk, Secretary of War referring to the defeat of the Mexican Centralista Forces at San Jacinto April 21st, 1836. Sterling C. Robertson SRT Chapter 22 members Larnce Barker, Tommie Barker, Dillon Barker, Jacob Barker, Jimmie Barker and Beau Hill were a few of the members recognizing the Goliad Massacre in Salado.

Liberty Hill Methodist hosts 5th Wild Game Dinner

The Liberty Hill United Methodist Church is proud to announce its 5th Annual Wild Game Dinner will be held on April 27, at the Liberty Hill United Methodist Church in Liberty Hill, Texas. The annual Wild Game Dinner celebrates Texas outdoor traditions and brings together hundreds of sportsmen from throughout Central Texas as well as the local community.

Organized by the Liberty Hill United Methodist Men's group, the Wild Game Dinner delivers fun entertainment, prizes and a one-of-a-kind menu featuring more than a dozen assorted wild game dishes. The event includes live and silent fund-raising auctions with hunting gear, art, jewelry, ranch equipment, furniture and much more. In addition, the dinner will highlight prizes from such notable brand names as Remington, Winchester, Browning,

Yeti and many more. (Attendance is not required to win grand prizes)

"We're very excited to celebrate our fifth year hosting the Wild Game Dinner. This event showcases the selfless men and women in our community who care about preserving our outdoor traditions and supporting the ministries of the church," says Randall Hilburn, pastor of the Liberty Hill United Methodist Church. "We welcome everyone to come out. It's always a good time and a great dinner."

The Wild Game Dinner begins at 5 p.m. Tickets are $25 in advance and $30 at the door. Ticket includes entrance to the event and auctions and one entry for the grand prize drawing. Children (12 & under) tickets will be available at the door for $5 and do not include the prize drawing. Donations of cash and auction items for the Wild Game Dinner are weldinner help fund many of the ministries and outreach programs of the Liberty Hill United Methodist Church. The Liberty Hill United Methodist Men's group also sponsors numerous mission trips, local and abroad, and supports the Methodist Children's Home as well as a number of local charities.

3rd Cav Reg Brave Rifles adopt SHS

The 3rd Cavalry Regiment "Brave Rifles" will soon celebrate a new school partnership.

Key leaders from the 4th Squadron, 3rd Cavalry Regiment, officially adopted Salado High School during a ribbon cutting ceremony slated for 1 p.m. April 3.

Burt Smith, Salado High School principal, and Lt. Col. David C. Foley, 4/3 CR commander, cut the ribbon to signify the start of the new partnership.

The Adopt-A-School Program started in the mid-1990s. The program aligns local schools to different Fort Hood units.

Soldiers from each unit support students in their adopted school through mentorship, tutoring and leadership skills.

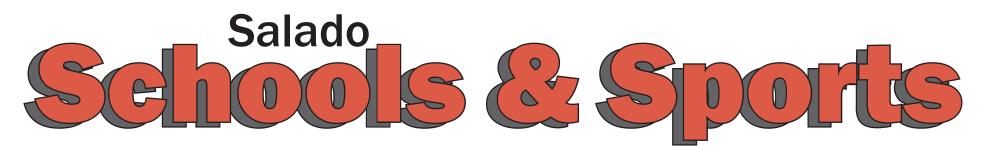

This is the first of four schools scheduled to be adopted in Salado by the 3rd Cavalry Regiment.

birthday, which will have occurred three days before this lecture.

David Holt is a fourtime Grammy Award winner, musician, storyteller, television host and entertainer who is dedicated to performing and preserving traditional American music and stories. David has been a popular performer in central Texas having performed twice before at the CAC, once at the Institute and multiple time in local area schools. He plays ten acoustic instruments and has released numerous award winning recordings of traditional mountain music and stories. He is well known for his TV and radio series' including hosting public television's Folkways, the Great Scenic Railway Journeys series, The Nashville Network's Fire on the Mountain, and Public Radio's Riverwalk: Classic Jazz from the The Landing. David is also known for his storytelling and musical performances. He regularly performed with famed guitarist, Doc Watson, and won two Grammy Awards for producing a CD collection of his and Watson's songs and stories. In all, he has had eight Grammy nominations and two more wins as artist and producer of storytelling CD, Stellaluna. Ginny Callaway is also a Grammy award winning musical producer and award-winning author. She is the founder of High Windy Audio, an independent record label featuring children's music, storytelling, and traditional folk music. She produced with David the Grammy award winning audio production, Stellaluna. Ginny was inspired to write her book, A Friend in Grief: Simple Ways to Help, after her daughter's death to help those with grieving friends navigate these difficult times with more understanding and ease. Her book won First Place in the 2012 Next Generation Indie Book Award in the Self-Help category. The annual Wilmer Lecture is a free lecture given by renowned speakers. It is a gift to the community by the Wilmer family and others to help perpetuate their memory and the organization they loved. Jonas credits her two seniors with providing the leadership needed for success.

"Tommy Armstrong and Dakota Creasy took on this challenge with gusto. Tommy has led this team from the beginning and spent extra hours coaching novice actors while Dakota and our technical theatre class devised innovative solutions for technical aspects."

Jonas also notes the dedication of younger members of the company and the involvement of community in the production.

"I've been delighted by pieces and props. This is a reflection of how the learning process is supported in Salado by educators, parents, and the community."

With an all-boy cast, the testosterone is high on the stage, but Jonas says there's plenty of estrogen behind the scenes.

"I've got a group of young ladies who have worked diligently to ensure that details are accurate and consistent. From historical perspectives in costumes and set to evaluating rehearsals, they have kept us on our toes."

Girls golden at Fredericksburg

Salado girls golf team won the Fredericksburg Invitational Golf Tournament at the Lady Bird Johnson golf course last week, beating Marble Falls by two strokes and Fredericksburg by 12 strokes.

Meredith Ward led the girls with a 90, followed closely by Sarah Colley with a 91. Also shooting for Salado were Kate Goldsmith, 94, Rachel Ray, 98 and Molly Rodeffer, 108.

The boys, meanwhile, placed eighth in the boys division with an overall score of 348. Dane Hankamer led the squad with a score of 80, followed by Kase Spears, 83, Kyle Heiner, 90, Javier Cruz-Cortez, 95 and Brandon Womac, 103.

Hankamer takes first at Stonetree

Dalton Hankamer, a freshman at Central Texas Christian School, took first place at the Stonetree TAPPS Preview golf tournament held in Killeen on March 19.

Hankamer won the tournament by five strokes by shooting even par, 72, for the day. There were over 50 players in the field. He enters district tournament play this week.

He is the son of Ty and Christina Hankamer, of Salado.

Johnny's Outback is a family affair

With the launch of their Lone Star Music series of concerts this weekend, partners Johnny and Josh Bratton are expanding their business after 11 years in Salado.

The father-son duo came to Salado in March 2002, buying what was then known as "Lucye's Place." Johnny had been in the barbecue business in Bell County for more than a decade with the Killeenbased Johnny's Texas Style Bar-Be-Que, which he opened in 1992.

After a year in Salado, he sold the Killeen business in order to concentrate his attention to the the Texas character that growing Salado barbecue restaurant.

That attention has paid off in the past decade.

Today, Johnny's Steaks and Bar-Be-Que is a wellknown full service restaurant and catering business open seven days a week.

And with the addition of Johnny's Outback, an outdoor catering, meeting and music venue, the Brattons are hoping to grow their family business even are graduates of Texas more.

The Lone Star Music series will continue through spring and sum-

Johnny and Josh Bratton at the Johnny's Outback counter. mer with acts that capture epitomizes their business.

Photos of the Brattons dot the walls, interspersed with bumper stickers, Texas A&M memorabilia (including a Texas A&M clock in which maroon and white dominoes mark the time) and a framed collection of pictures and Super Bowl tickets from the hey day of the Dallas Cowboys.

Both Josh and Johnny A&M. Johnny graduated in 1970 and Josh in 2001. You can tell their affinity for their alma mater from the Saw Em Off logos found throughout the place.

The restaurant and dining hall are family-friendly and comfortable places to gather. The Brattons have made Johnny's Outback in the same avenue.

A music stage faces in to the fenced venue where picnic tables are placed around a dance floor. Nearby, a covered gathering area will serve in almost all types of Texas weather.

"We want folks to bring the kids and have fun," Josh said. A kids area will provide the little ones a safe place to play and a washer pit will give kids of all ages the chance to see who is the best at the old Texas game.

Charlie Robison opens the Lone Star Music Series on April 6. Tickets are $10 each and are available online through johnnysoutback.com, at the restaurant or at the gate.

The Outback venue is also available for weddings, reunions, family or corporate gatherings, hail and farewells.

Call Josh or Johnny at 947-4663 to find out more about the facility.

Lone Star Music Series is ready to rock with Charlie Robison

Throughout his career, Charlie Robison has forged his own path within the country music world as well as the Lone Star music scene and popular music at large.

He will take the stage at Johnny's Outback to kick off the Lone Star Music Series at 7 p.m. April 6. Tickets are $10 and can be purchased online at johnnysoutback.com, at Johnny's Steaks and Bar-Be-Que or at the gate.

Natalie Stovall will open the show for Robison.

Robison was born in Houston and raised on his family's ranch in the town of Bandera; absorbing the music he heard on the local honky tonk scene, he and brother Bruce -- later an acclaimed performer in his own right -- were also brought up on artists ranging from Black Sabbath to Gram Parsons to Bruce Springsteen.

After discovering the thriving music scene in nearby Austin at age 15, Robison began writing his own material, drawing equal influence from rock and country; stints in the bands Chaparral and Two Hoots & a Holler followed, and he also joined the Millionaire Playboys, an allstar Austin ensemble.

In what now may seem rather ironic, Robison's 2004 Dualtone label debut, Good Times, found him celebrating wedded and domestic contentment as a husband and father (of son Gus and twins Juliana and Henry). It enjoyed the best record sales of his career, and the video for "El Cerrito Place" was a Top 10 hit at CMT.

His latest release, Beautiful Day promises to build upon and expand Robison's public impact even further. But even if his divorce was amicable, the experience still wasn't Country music artist Charlie Robison and his band play for a packed house during a concert at the South by Southwest concert series in Austin. Robison will take the stage at Johnny's Outback on April 6. (U.S. AIR FORCE PHOTO/STAFF SGT. BRIAN FERGUSON)

an easy one for him, as the end of any profound love is bound to be. "When I was writing this record, I was going through the quintessential divorce thing of living in a one-bedroom apartment in downtown San Antonio across from the bus station," Robison recalls. "When it's over, it's over."

Beautiful Day captures the panoply of feelings one experiences with the break-up of a marriage. "It goes through the range from, man, this sucks worse than anything in the whole world to, man, I'm really pulling out of this and really feel good. I'd be up and write a redemptive song like 'Beautiful Day' or 'Feelin' Good.' And then I'd write something like 'If the Rain Don't Come Today,' where the guy in the song wants to go out and have fun tonight, and then it fades into the reality of where you're at on 'In the Middle of the Night.' You're by yourself and you don't feel as good as you did earlier. But I still tried to give it that Sinatra twist where even if it feels lonely and bleak, a girl walks in at the end, and you think, well, maybe my life isn't quite over yet."

"I've wanted for a long time to make a record that sounds like a great American rock band," explains Robison. And just as Beautiful Day closes one emotional chapter in his life and opens another, it's also an album on which his always strong rock'n'roll leanings come to the fore to transcend his country roots, while also bringing them along, to create a sound that is simply great American music.

Natalie Stovall

Stovall's high-energy, take-no-prisoners live performances and relentless, barnstorming global tours have earned her the attention she deserves from those who matter the most to her -- the fans.

After only a few short years in the college campus market, Natalie was named 2012 Entertainer of the Year by the voters of Campus Activities Magazine® in the Reader's Choice Awards.

Blending her country/ roots background with a strong rock sensibility, Stovall's fiddle-shredding shows are bred for wide audiences, and this year that mainstream popularity is paying off in a big way. In fact, it's the first time in over twenty years that a woman has been named Campus Entertainer of the Year in a category usually dominated by male artists.

"My friends and family think I am crazy to tour like I do," says Natalie. "In April 2012, we literally played 32 dates in 30 days! But performing is what I love most. As soon as I graduated college, I put my band together and hit the road."

Natalie has been playing professionally since she was ten, and by the time she graduated high school she had already performed everywhere from the Grand Ole Opry to the Oprah Winfrey Show. And since she put her first band together (in 2007), things have really begun to take off.

"I still can't believe it sometimes when I think of everything we've gotten to do these last few years," says Natalie. "I've been working at this dream my whole life, and every day I get to see it coming true inch by inch, all around me."

Slow Garage Door Is Unbearable

THIS IS A HAMMER By Samantha Mazzotta

Q: My garage door has been opening very slowly for the past few days. I've already had problems opening and closing it -- I have to mash the remote button several times to get it to move. Are these problems related? Are they easy or difficult to fix? -- Jim K., Gulfport, Miss.

A: They're related in the sense that your garage door probably needs some overall maintenance, but the two issues are otherwise likely not from the same cause.

Having to mash the remote operating button several times could indicate that the garage door's sensor eye is dirty or misaligned. Or, the battery on the remote might need changing.

The door's slow opening speed indicates a more serious problem. One of the door's torsion springs -- a pair of large coils straddling the horizontal

Pickling Crock

COLLECTING By Larry Cox

Q: While cleaning out my family barn in Kansas, I found an old crock that I am certain was used in my family for pickling. It has a large "10" on the side and is identified as being made by the Western Pottery company. Can you provide me with any other information I might find interesting? --Steve, Kansas City, Kan.

A: You are correct in that your crock was probably used for pickling, since the "10" indicates it is a 10-gallon vessel. The Western Pottery Manufacturing Company was located in Denver and produced stoneware crocks in various sizes. One bar at the top of the door that helps control opening and closing -- may be broken or on their way out. A broken spring can't be repaired; it must be replaced.

You'll probably read plenty of warnings on the Internet about attempting to replace them yourself. Since the coils are under tension, especially when the garage door is closed. removing them can be dangerous. I don't have enough space to tell you how to do it safely, but if you're interested in what it takes to change these out, a detailed description can be found at DDMGarage-Doors.com. DIY'er Richard Kinch provides even more good info in "How I Replaced Deadly Garage Door Torsion Springs and Lived to Tell the Tale," found here: www.truetex. com/garage.htm.

If you decide against repairing the door yourself, contact a licensed garage-door repair professional to inspect the door and its hardware and estimate the cost of repairs. As with any repair that you need to hire someone for, follow the "rule of three" -- contact three different professionals and get a written estimate from each before allowing any work to be done.

While you're waiting for the repair, do not open or close the door. Park your car in the driveway for now. Operating the door with a broken torsion spring can cause further damage, including misalignment or derailment.

HOME TIP: To reduce squeaking of the garage door, lubricate the rollers, bearings and hinges with 3-in-1 oil. CLASSIFIED ADS CONTINUED FROM PAGE 2D

Page 6D, April 4, 2013 SALADO Village Voice Sweet Cherry Tomatos one of the easiest to grow

COLLEGE STATION - The BHN-968 cherry tomato's name may be bland, but a San Antonio tasting panel found it sweeter than any comparable cherry tomato, according to a Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service horticulturist.

Not only is it one of the sweetest, but is one of the easiest to grow and higher vielding cherry tomatoes, said David Rodriguez, AgriLife Extension horticulture agent in Bexar County and member of the Texas Superstar board.

For these reason and others, the BHN-968 cherry tomato has been named a Texas Superstar for 2013, Rodriguez said.

Texas Superstar plants undergo extensive tests throughout the state by Texas A&M AgriLife Research and AgriLife Extension horticulturists, said Dr. Brent Pemberton, AgriLife Research horticulturist and chair of the Texas Superstar executive board.

To be designated a Superstar, a plant must not just be beautiful but also perform well for consumers and growers throughout Texas. Superstars must also be easy to propagate, which should ensure the plants are not only widely available throughout Texas but also reasonably priced.

"The BHN-968 tomato is the most naturally disease-resistant cherry tomato we have seen in our evaluation trials," Rodriguez said. "It is genetically resistant to the diseases of verticillium wilt and fusarium wilt, as well as tobacco mosaic virus and tomato spotted wilt virus."

It is also the first cherry tomato variety found to be nematode resistant since Small Fry, a tomato developed by AgriLife Research horticulturists, according to Pemberton.

The BHN-968 is also one of the most flavorful varieties available to home gardeners, according to Rodriguez. In taste tests he and San Antonio Master Gardeners performed, the BHN-968 was rated "four times sweeter than any comparable cherry tomato."

"The taste panels consisted of 10 to 12 individuals ranging in age from 50 to 83," Rodriguez said. "This is the first tomato of any type to be taste-tested by AgriLife Extension to receive a unanimous favorable rating at every testing."

The BHN-968 has also been tested by agents and, in a way, even given the 'kid test,' and got high marks, he said.

"We've used it quite a bit locally in our children's vegetable garden program, as well as our youth gardening program," Rodriguez said. "As productive as it is, and as hardy as it is, every child gets to taste a few,, even when the teacher is only growing a few plants."

The BHN-968 was developed in Florida and initially used as a greenhouse tomato, then as a commercial field tomato. But allegedly it wasn't productive enough for commercial growers, he said.

Also, commercial growers need toughskinned plants that will survive handling and shipping. The BHN-968 had a somewhat softer fruit that didn't meet these criteria, which gives it another plus score for home gardeners, Pemberton said.

"But what's that old saying? 'One man's trash is another's treasure?" Rodriguez said. "In our trials here (in Texas) it was very reliable as a container plant as well as for the home gardener.

"Though BHN-968 might perform well in specialty growers - if they stake them - it's probably not something that's going to be grown by large-scale producers," he said. "I really think it's only for the small gardener, or the patio grower, or the specialty grower - I think it's really an excellent choice for them."

Another advantage for the home gardener is that BHN-968, unlike other cherry tomatoes, is semideterminate, also called a "naturally determinate" variety.

The BHN-968 is semi-determinate, it's not likely to spread out and outgrow a medium-size tomato cage, which for the average home gardener with space limitations makes it easier to manage, he said.

Because BHN-968 is a highly productive variety, it will need good fertility, particularly nitrogen, as do all modern tomato varieties, he said. Without good fertility, the bush will be smaller and produce less fruit.

Gardeners may also locate a retailer by visiting the Texas Superstar program website at http://texassuperstar.com/ and clicking on "Retailers," Pemberton noted.
