Sales tax check drops 20%

Texas Comptroller Carole Keeton Rylander sent $212.5 million in local sales tax revenue to 1,106 Texas cities and 119 counties. In addition, $7.2 million was paid to 54 special purpose districts. Another $75.7 million went to six metropolitan transit authorities and two city transit systems.

Salado Public Library District, a special purpose district, received a check for $11,889.95, a drop of almost 20 percent from last year's October check of $14,724.76.

To-date, the Library District has received checks totaling $140,828.88 in 2000, about 10 percent more than the same period last year: $127,576.70.

Bell County government received a check for $632,987.47 for October, about 15 percent higher than last October's check of $546,219.78.

This year, the county has received checks for $6.9 million, seven percent higher than the $6.6 million for the same period in 1999.

October sales tax rebates represent sales tax collected in August and reported to the Comptroller in September.

Food drive continues to Oct. 19

The 11th Annual Friends Feeding Friends food drive will end Oct. 19. All food collected will remain in the Salado area for the benefit of Salado families, according to Sue Ellen Slagel, Salado coordinator for the project.

A collection box is located at Brookshire Brothers #69 in Salado Plaza Shopping Center.

Salado schools are supporting the project in various ways.

Pre-K through sixth grade have collection boxes in each classroom.

Salado High Future Farmers of America (FFA) students will judge each class on the amount collected. The winning class in Pre-K through fourth grade and fifth and sixth grade will have a pizza lunch as their prize.

In addition, Eagles fans can get into the Homecoming Game Oct. 27, free of charge by bringing an item for the food pantry to the game. At halftime, there will be a drawing from the names of everyone who brings an item for the pantry. The winner will get free lunch for two at Cathy's Boardwalk Cafe.

Items needed for the pantry include: dry beans, peas, canned vegetables, canned fruit, canned meat, jelly, peanut butter, sugar, flour, rice soup, jelly or pudding, canned juice or any non-perishable item. Personal hygiene items are also needed such as bar soap, laundry soap, tooth-

Cole was attacked by suicide bombers at a port in Yemen last week. Including the missing sailors presumed to be dead, 17 sailors lost their lives in the terrorist attack. Bridge marker dedication set Oct. 21

Salado Historical Society will unveil a Texas Historical Marker for the Dodd's Creek Lenticular Bridge 9:30 Oct. 21.

The bridge spans Campbell Branch and is now used as a walkbridge on Main St.

The public is invited to the dedication and unveiling. Refreshments will follow.

Chamber nominees named

Salado Chamber of Commerce Nominating Committee has put forth six names to fill four three-year positions on the Chamber's Board of Directors. The nominees are Darwin Britt, Joe Holt, Sara Mackie, Larry Nathanson, Chine Ray and Gary Taylor.

Any Chamber member who would like to nominate someone else to the Board of Directors may do so by a petition of at least 12 signatures of current Chamber members. The Chamber membership is available at the Chamber office at the Salado Civic Center. The deadline to petition is Oct. 20. Petitions must be presented to Nominating Committee Chair Becky McAulay.

Ballots will be sent to the Chamber membership Oct. 27.

Filing for Salado election ends with 16

All three of the races for the Village of Salado will be contested, following last minute filings Oct. 10 in each race.

Dexter L. Blevins filed for the Mayor's position. He joins Carse Williams and Charlotte Douglass on the ticket.

Alan R. Rogers and Fred L. Hairston, Jr. will face each other in the race for Marshal.

George McAulay was the last to file for the alderman race.

Candidates are (in order of appearance on ballot): Forrest Holloway, Michael Cooper, Wayne Rutherford, Richard Ashe, Vic Means, Jackie Mills, John Hall, Raymond Carver, Jill Shipman, Robert Denman, and George McAulay.

George McAulay

McAulay filed for alderman Oct. 10 because, he says, he feels that he has knowledge, experience, time and ability to help the village he has called home for almost 15 years.

He and wife Becky were looking to move from the Dallas area when they discovered Salado for themselves. "We had been to look at property at Lakeway (on Lake Travis)," he says, when they saw a billboard sign "for the Robert Trent Jones II golf course. We pulled off the highway and found a community we really liked."

Salado's historic homes were part of the reason the McAulays moved to the village. "At that time, most of them were still being used for residences," he recalls.

McAulay says that protecting the historic nature of the village is an important job for the board of alderman. "One of our challenges will be to come up with a whole new set of ordinances. We can't just rubber stamp a set from somewhere else," he said. "We have to have a set of regulations that work here."

The board will also have to establish what services, such as street maintenance, street lights, and police protection, the village will provide. "We should do these things without a property tax, if at all possible," he says.

Getting the most out of a dollar is something with which McAulay has a great deal of experience. A graduate of Abilene Christian University, McAulay has been a Certified Public Accountant since 1961.

He worked eight years with Arthur Anderson Co. in Dallas, where he was an audit manager. He performed independent audits for municipalities across the state, including the City of Abilene, Taylor County and 33 school districts.

McAulay spent 16 years with First National Bank of Dallas. He left the corporate banking world as the C.E.O. of Interfirst Services Corporation, which ran the data processing operations for 125 banks. He oversaw a $100 million annual budget for the corporation which had 2,000 employees.

McAulay also brings experience as a small business and property owner in Salado. In 1991, George and Becky opened their shop in Salado. In 1993, they purchased the shopping center they renamed Old Town Salado. They added the buildings which now house The Store and Cathy's Cafe.

McAulay has been involved in many different groups in the village: he is a member of the Church of Christ, belongs to the Chamber of Commerce and Salado Business Association, of which he is the past president, Salado Historical Society, Salado Lions Club and the Mill Creek Community Association.

"An alderman should have a thorough knowledge of the village. He should have a varied set of life experiences to bring to the table. And he should be available to put in lots of hours," McAulay says, adding that he feels he meets all those criteria.

Facing the Future

In its recent newsletter to members, the Salado Chamber of Commerce sent out a survey concerning the future of the organization.

As the Chamber examines its role in the village, its relationship to the yet-to-be-formed village government and its relationship to its members, the leadership of the Chamber is about to change.

Four new directors will be elected, beginning their three year terms on the board officially in December. A new president will take the reigns of the organization as well as new officers.

Next year will be the most challenging year the Chamber of Commerce has faced since it was formed.

Historically, the Chamber has been more than just a cheerleader for local business (as are most other Chambers). It has been the catalyst for the renovation of the Salado Civic Center. Without the Chamber, it seems unlikely the Civic Center would be the center of the village as it is today. The Chamber also assumes responsibility for the maintenance and improvements of W.A. Pace Memorial Park.

The Chamber pays for the streetlights on Main Street, gives scholarships to local students, maintains the walk bridge along Main Street and sponsors village clean-ups. Let's not forget the Citizens on Patrol (COPs) program that is run through the Chamber.

The Chamber funneled over $25,000 in three years to the Salado Youth Association (managers of the complex where Salado kids play soccer, baseball and softball) as sponsor of the Salado Family Festival and Duck Race.

It continues to support these projects at greater expense each year, even though it faces declining income from fund-raisers like the Salado Art Fair, Quilt and Craft Show and Texas 100 Fine Art Show.

Our Voice

Editorial Opinion

Perhaps the Village of Salado will take over some of the costly projects for which the Chamber is now responsible, such as maintenance of Pace Park (at least $15,000-18,000 annually), streetlights ($2,000+), support of Salado Civic Center ($7,000+ in annual grants). If the future Board of Aldermen were to wave a magic wand and take over these projects, the Chamber would not realize any economic relief for at least another year.

In the meantime, some in our village are reconsidering whether they should continue to support the Chamber.

Some have even mentioned the village government taking over the Art Fair and other fund-raisers started by the Chamber. Yet, they expect the bulk of the village government to be funded by sales tax. Sales tax generated by businesses. Businesses that are supported and promoted by the Chamber of Commerce.

If we want to avoid costly property taxes and enjoy adequate services from the village government, we should support the business community that is going to foot the lion's share of the bill.

The most logical way of doing that is to continue to support the Chamber as business and individual members. The Chamber will continue to need our ideas, our time and, frankly, our money.

As we look down the road, we should not cast aside the Chamber of Commerce, an organization that helped build the foundation of our village.

An Open Exchange of Ideas

Selection of next president may be determined by events half world away

Now that we have thoroughly picked clean the bones of the three presidential debates plus one Veep encounter, it is apparent - from daily opinion tracking polls - that Republicans are holding firm in support of Governor George Bush and Democrats are doing the same for Vice President Al Gore.

Hence, with only 20 days to the November 7, general election, the undecideds - almost stagnant at 10 percent - are still undecided.

What has suddenly and radically changed the current political picture began a few tortuous days ago as a new and totally unexpected and uninvited specter began hovering over both candidates and their campaigns - and that is the knowledge that the election could very well be decided, not by what these two men say or don't say - but by events taking place half a world away!

The Israeli-Palestinian face-off could blow sky-high throwing that area of the world into a major conflict especially if you add the bombing of the U.S.S. Cole, which has many believing - and perhaps rightly so - that all this is part of a stratagem worked out by those who feel a Jihad or holy war is far better than life among western infidels in general and Jews in particular. Underlying the problem is oil and if that tap is turned off, as many think will be the next toss of the dice, Saddam Hussein could very well make a sudden move against Kuwait, and America - through treaty and national interest - would be pulled back into the big middle of another Mid-Eastern mess with troops already spread unevenly throughout the rest of the world.

ELECTION DAY FEARS

If war breaks out which way will the wavering undecideds, and the not-so-strong moderates in both parties turn, in order to select the strongest leader to get us through such a conflagration should all hell break loose between Jews and Palestinians?

That is the big question right now and all the hoopla, spin doctoring and pundit-pondering will have little impact on what will take place in the minds of Americans should they go to the polls with the worrisome fear of a future that might include drawing us into a war to protect not only Israel but the oil we must have to survive.

Anyone willing to predict anything political at this juncture needs immediate cuckoo counseling since they could easily end up like the great Chicago Tribune did in 1948 that headlined a late election night extra - "Dewey defeats Truman", only to discover just a few hours later that Truman had actually won.

Political fortune-telling right now is like growing old - "It's no game for sissies"!

SIDE BAR

While on the subject of Arab oil and our current dependence on the whims of folks who really don't like us, we really need to reverse the massive importation of oil and immediately begin doing something other than talk, about re-developing our domestic oil supply even if we have to suspend a few environmental laws.

LOCAL POLITICS

Wise observers of the political scene in America have intoned that "all politics are local" and to this shibboleth we wholeheartedly agree as we turn our attention for a moment from the national and world scenes to Salado.

Incorporation having passed with flying colors, the next step becomes the selection of village officers to steer us through the difficult start-up challenges that will determine how well we proceed in the years ahead.

Some 16 men and women have volunteered to offer themselves as public servants. On November 7, Saladoans will decide, from a field of three - who will be mayor. Five will be chosen, from eleven candidates, as aldermen or alderwomen or alderpersons or whatever they will be called, plus a Marshall from the two men who have put forth their names.

Signing up to run for public office may not appear daring from a distance, as we read a paper or talk about politics in the safe harbor of a coffee shop, but it takes a certain amount of courage to step forward and put your name on a ballot.

We salute the men and women of Salado who have done just that - come forward to offer their services to get the new Village of Salado up and running.

Win or lose these folks are our current heroes.

We are proud of them and urge everyone eligible to do their part and vote on November 7. And once elected - we need to work with the new officials and help in any and every way possible.

It will be a difficult task to set the course for the years ahead and newly elected officials cannot do it alone. It would be a tragedy to put good people in office and then sit back and carp from the sidelines.

Again - "Well Done candidates" and thank you for offering your services. We appreciate you and hopefully will tell you so from time to time.

That's -30-

Letter to the Editor:

Candidates need to equal the job to be done

To the Editor:

Clear thinking and knowing his or her principles and intent are important in the support of any candidate in our upcoming election to form our new city government. Negative thinking or factions geared only toward keeping Salado status quo will not be enough. True, everyone wants to retain our history and historic village just the way it is. "The way it is" took the dedication and work and love of many who have passed on before us. It will take that same kind of volunteer spirit and love and hard work and positive thinking to keep that spirit in a changing world, for which we must accept and prepare.

In reviewing advertisements, I see some indications that there are candidates who do not feel they should align with or promote the Salado business activities. I feel we should do everything we can to praise and promote our business activities. They, after all, will be our greatest means to support this new village (via sales taxes, tourist taxes, franchise taxes). These people live, work and play in the same boundaries as the non-working resident in Salado. They will strongly contribute toward keeping our property taxes to a minimum.

The development, promotion and growth of our businesses will provide the resources we need to prevent or at least delay the necessity for future property taxes. It would be short-sighted to elect officials who do not recognize their value to Salado.

The Texas incorporation laws favor the larger cities. They all are marching toward us. We cannot stick our heads in the sand and ignore this fact. It is possible that within our children's generation there will be very limited open space between cities in the State of Texas. Large and small cities all over Texas are running at breakneck speed to gather space and taxes.

Salado needs to be progressive thinking in establishing our new village government, zoning, security, roads and all the other many things necessary to successfully meet the challenges and opportunities of tomorrow.

Elizabeth Dachs named Salado Miss Flame

A fire in Chicago killed 250 people, left 100,000 homeless, and destroyed more than 17,000 structures. The year was 1871.

Since that terrible night now known as the "Great Chicago Fire", the first week in October has been "National Fire Prevention Week". This week the men and women of the Salado Fire Department have joined their brother and sister firefighters across the nation in promoting the message of fire safety.

On Oct. 13, the Salado Volunteer Fire Department crowned sophomore Elizabeth Dachs, "Miss Flame 2000".

Miss Flame contestants are a Junior or Sophomore with a B or higher average, that are active in school activities. A panel of judges then make the final selection.

Second runner up is Sophomore Nicole Foster. Nicole is a cheerleader and mascot for Salado Eagles. She is active in the Fellowship of Christian Students and Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

As Elizabeth begins her reign as Miss Flame, she will represent the Salado Fire Department at the Bell County Miss Flame Contest and the Central Texas District Miss Flame Contest. Elizabeth is the daughter of Greg and Carolyn Dachs.

A Brief Visit With Pastor J. Floyd Franks

The Bible says "...God is love" (1 John 4:8).

A wealthy English gentlemen had a weather vane on top of his barn on which were inscribed the words, "God is love." Someone asked the man's servant what this meant. "My master means that whichever way the wind blows--- God is love! He says that God loves me in times of prosperity but He also loves me when difficult times come."

Sometimes later, the gentlemen was faced with affliction and death.

Although he was overwhelmed in his sorrow, he pointed to his weather vane and said, "I put that text on it in my prosperity, when the desires of my heart were all being realized, and now, even though the icy winds of death and sorrow are blowing, I am confident His love for me is still the same!"

Are you facing difficulties (we all do at times)?

If God numbers our hairs, will He not also number our tears? God loves you and so do we at

A Tribute in Loving Memory of Chester M. Casey

ORIGIN AND MEANING OF THE NAME CASEY

The family name in Gaelic was O'Cathasigh, which has been anglicized to Casey and O'Casey. In ancient times the name was Cathasach which means "Vigilant" or Dart-armed Chief in Battle", sometimes call the "Little Warrior".

According to tradition the Cathasigh or Casey family is descended from Milesius, one time King of Spain, through the line of his son Heber. The founder of the Casey family in Ireland was Kiann, son of Ollioll-Olliern, King of Munster, A.D. 177, and Sabia, daughter of Con of Hundreds Battles, King of Ireland, A.D. 148. Members of the Casey family were to be found in the counties of Cork, Kerry Clare, Tipperary and Limerick in Ireland. Many of the land holdings of the Casey family were seized following the Anglo-Norman invasion of Ireland during the twelfth century, King Edward VI of England granted "English Liberty" to one Thomas Casey of the County of Limerick, and at about the same time William Casey of Dublin received a land grant from the King of England.

As members of the Irish Casey family gained favor with the English Kings they were permitted to migrate to the English Colonies in North America. A considerable number of Casey family settled along the frontier in Western Virginia during the late seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries. As the frontier developed many of these families followed the frontier into North and South Carolina. Many of these Irish colonist bearing the name Casey fought in the American War for Independence, including such names as General Levi Casey of South Carolina, Captain Benjamin Casey of Virginia, who was killed in battle in September of 1777, and Private James Casey who fought with Morgan's Riflemen in the southern campaigns.

After the close of the War of the American Revolution, many of the Casey families helped to push the American frontier westward and the name Casey was to be found in the forefront of the westward movement in South Carolina, Kentucky, Georgia, Tennessee, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Alabama, Mississippi, the Indian territory, and Texas.

The Casey's descended from one of the early colonial families of western Virginia. Early in the eighteenth century the forebears of the Casey's of Tuscola migrated southward from western Virginia into the Spartanburg district of South Carolina and from there into Georgia and then to Texas by way of the Indian Territory.

FORBEARS OF THE CASEYS

Family tradition which has been passed down by word-of-mouth tells us that at some time during the latter part of the seventeenth century or the early eighteenth century some seven or nine Casey brothers migrated from Ireland to the English Colony of Virginia, North and South Carolina, Kentucky, Georgia, Tennessee, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri Alabama, Mississippi, and Texas. To the present time there has been no careful effort to follow up the movement of the various lines of the Casey family as they have scattered throughout the United States.

...during the quarter of half century prior to the War of the American Revolution and settled in the piedmont area of South Carolina in what is now known as Spartanburg County South Carolina, where they lived a semi-secluded life in the last settled portion of the colony until after the Revolutionary War. By 1800 there were some twelve Casey families residing in the one Spartanburg County of South Carolina. It appears that they were all closely related and from one common stock.

On Christmas Day, December 25, 1791, one Uriah Casey was born in the county of Spartanburg, South Carolina. To date the parents, grandparents, and other direct forebears of Uriah Casey are unknown. At the time of the birth of Uriah Casey there were some six Casey heads-of household: Moses, John,

Chester M. Casey • October 20, 1920 - September 19, 2000

Jacob, Joseph, William and Aaron who were of the age that may easily have been the father. At the same time there were some five or more of the age that may easily have been the grandfather of Uriah Casey. They were by given name, Aaron, Abner, William, John, and Moses. Many of these given names have continued to be used by various descendants of Uriah Casey.

Uriah Casey grew up in the frontier settlement of Spartanburg, South Carolina and some time prior to 1820 was married to a girl named Leatha, last name unknown. Leatha was some eleven years younger than Uriah as she was born September 25, 1802. To this union were born seven children, two girls and five boys, with names and dates of birth as follows: A girl Leaney, born May 5, 1818; Thomas Jefferson, born May 6, 1820; William Riley, born October 28, 1822; James, born February 8, 1825; a girl Nancy, born June 13, 1828; Francis (Frank) Marion, the grandfather of the Caseys of Tuscola, born September 6, 1835, and Benjamin Franklin, born February 24, 1839.

During or about the year 1827 Uriah Casey and his family moved westward into the State of Georgia and settled in the area just to the east of Atlanta, Georgia and resided for brief period in each of Walton and De Kalb counties. In or about the year 1834 Uriah Casey moved with his family to Floyd County, Georgia, where he died in 1840.

Thomas Jefferson, the oldest of the boys, migrated to far-off Texas where he took up farm land and became a cotton and corn farmer in the rich black lands of Leroy, McLennan County. William Riley went to Hopkins County.

Uriah Casey along with most of the other Casey families of the period appear to have been fairly prosperous for their time. This is indicated by the United States census report of 1820 which shows that Uriah Casey household as consisting of father, mother, two small children, one girl and one boy, and one slave. There is no evidence, however, that any of the Casey's were ever large landholders with any considerable number of slaves.

In the years immediately prior to the outbreak of the Civil War a number of boys of the Uriah Casey family moved westward into Alabama and Mississippi and Texas.

A letter from T.J. Casey to F.M. Casey (our grandfather) dates May 23, 1888, from somewhere in Texas, indicating that he was also in the cattle business, has the following:

I have delayed writing to you thinking that I would have something that would be cheering about the crops but we have had so much rain that I have not done much it looks like it will never quit raining. Times here are dull on account of so much rain the farmers cannot get to work...What I have started looks well if I could get to work it out. I will have to let some of my land lay out it will be impossible for me to get tended. I do not think that I will stay here longer than this year if I can get a good price for my place. I am behind and want to get where I can have more range for my stock. I have as good land as there is in Texas but I am in a condition that I think I can better myself by selling.

From there the Casey Clan tied up with the Walker tribe of Axtell, Texas. Grandpaw Strickland Granny Walker Casey's daddy was a Cherokee out of North Carolina around the Qualla Boundary it said when they were moving his Dad's family including him as a young man on the Trail of Tears that he escaped and went into the Big Thicket of Texas. He hunted and fished for some time and one day a man on a wagon train offered him a rifle for Clarksville, Texas which he had acquired through government grants.

Leaving Clarksville he went to Palestine and then wandered up to Axtell, Texas. There he met Grandmom and they were married. Soon they moved back to Palestine where my mother Linda Link Walker was born. From Palestine they moved to Walburg. The story goes they were hunting grass and water for their stock. They then moved back to Axtell where Mother and Dad met and were married. Dad then moved to Temple and worked in the Post Office. It was the depression and his two brothers lived with him, James Francis Casey and we kids on Midway Dr.

I grew up on 57th St. Road and would run home from the old Temple High to Bonner Jr. High Road every afternoon to keep in shape.

I graduated from High School and went to Daniel Baker College in Brownwood. Decided to come home after 2 years and got married. WWII started but I didn't get to go because of my broken thumb.

We moved to Salado in 1956. Joined the First Baptist Church and started a goat ranch at Russell Bottom southwest of town.

My Dad's brother Uncle Dars owned the Central Telephone Company housed in the Central Texas Museum building.

He tried to sell it to me for $1500 but I told him I didn't know anything about telephones. I was then approached to buy Shady Villa and the Grace Jones building for $500 but decided against it.

Later we bought the old Hodge place that became the Village Dress Boutique and Sir Wigglesworth. Then Salado kept moving up the hill. We moved to the old Fulton Place where Country Boys, Cowboys and The Tonkawa now stand. Then I bought the ranch on Lake Stillhouse from Coach Smith and C.B. and what you do with that is up to you and the kids I ain't able to work any more.

So went the life and history of Chester Casey of Salado a unique man that did it his way right to the end.

I hope this answers the many questions of who was Chester Casey and how did he come to be in Salado. This is his memorial.

Thanks to everyone who prayed, cooked and sent all the cards and flowers. My Dad loved flowers and, I always gave him flowers for holidays.

"May God bless you and keep you and make his face to shine on you and give you peace and may your moccasins make happy tracks."

A Tribute in Loving Memory of Chester M. Casey

Old Sol sinks beyond the horizon:

The lengthening shadows darken the almost hidden trail

The lone hunter is turning his thoughts homeward
Carrying Indian relics found, and a story to tell.

Now, where is that hunter of the hills and valleys?

Where is that trail hidden from the eyes of the world?

No longer the lone hunter returns from his hunting of treasures

No longer the display of relics to be unfurled.

Old Sol leaps into the morning brightness...

A myriad of diamonds on blades of grass

The builder, a master in his talents of construction
Works with precision as the hours pass

Nor, the last board has been carefully measured...

The last nail has found its place of rest.

The last sound of the hammer's ringing...

The last completed construction meets its test.

In earlier days he led many a young'un

In the path of our Saviour and Lord.

In Sunday school teaching and nature outings

Giving all endeavors the best he could afford

The Master of all creation

Knows the human frailties of life.

With a gentle voice He called Chester home.

Where there is no more sorrow nor strife

Across the River Jordan

To the land where angles trod

He has reached those heavenly portals,

Sitting in the presence of God.

Out in the hills the mockingbird lifts its varied teasings

The cricket chirps to its heart's content

The whippoorwill voices its melancholy sighings
As the bullfrog croaks its lament

The cool breezes whisper their secrets

The fallen leaves dance in gleeful play

The moon and the stars shine in all their glory

No spoken word, naught is there to say...

For the hunter has gone to his final Happy Hunting Ground.

Subvarsity teams lose to Rogers

Rogers swept its football games with the Salado Eagles last week, beating both junior high teams, as well as the junior varsity and varsity squads.

7TH GRADE

Rogers scored touchdowns in the first and second quarters, while holding the Salado Eagles seventh graders scoreless Oct. 12 to win 16-0.

Coaches say that Wes Ruth and Chris Marak did well on defense for the seventh grade squad.

The 1-3-1 seventh graders will face Lexington this week.

8TH GRADE

Salado's eight graders were the only team to score on Rogers, but still lost to the opposing Eagles, 28-12. This drops their record to 3-2 on the year, the best of all Salado teams.

Things were bleak in the first quarter as Rogers jumped out to a 21-0 lead, which they took to the lockers at halftime.

Garrison Hennig returned the second half kick off 85-yards for Salado's first touchdown of the game. The PAT failed. Salado trailed 21-6.

Rogers added another seven points in the third quarter to lead 28-6 going into the fourth.

Devon Dunn threw a 55-yard touchdown pass to Hennig in the fourth quarter. The PAT failed.

Coaches say that Hennig had a great game for the offense, while Joseph Shumate and Nick Everett led the defense.

"Shumate had 10 tackles," Coach Travis Ling said. "Everett contributed several tackles and had an interception that he returned 40 yards to the Rogers two-yard line."

JUNIOR VARSITY

Salado's JV Eagles lost to Rogers 20-0 last week, falling to 1-4-1 on the year.

Rogers scored touchdowns in each of the first three quarters. They scored a two-point conversion on the third TD.

"Rogers controlled the ball on the ground and scored all three TDs rushing," coach Ling said.

"Brian Johnston, Bill Tubbs, David Matthews, Cale Cox all played hard and had several tackles for the night," he added.

"The kids played hard," Ling said. "We couldn't ever sustain a drive to mount a serious threat."

Salado's Lady Eagles varsity volleyball team is 6-2 in district play. They beat Moody in two straight sets Oct. 14. See story on page 11A for individual statistics. The Junior Varsity squad also beat Moody, taking three sets to win.

Rogers clips Salado Eagles' wings 48-0

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

No tired clichés about bad luck on Friday the 13th, the full moon or any of that.

A mountain of salt tossed over their shoulders couldn't have helped the Salado Eagles when they faced the Rogers Eagles here Oct. 13.

Salado's 0-6 Eagles were buried by the 6-0 Rogers Eagles 48-0.

Yet, the first quarter looked as if the David-like Salado Eagles might actually slay the Goliath-like Rogers Eagles. (At least bruise them).

After Rogers scored the obligatory first touchdown with 8:44 left in the first quarter, Salado threatened for truly the only time in the game.

Rogers scored on a 28-yard pass from Bart Harris to Mike Schneider after Harris and Schneider connected for 16 yards early in the game.

Salado, after the ensuing on-side kick, pushed the ball deep into Rogers' territory.

With the ball at mid-field, Stephen Fewell hit Seth Dady for a quick seven yards to bring the ball to Rogers' 43-yard line.

Fewell followed that up with a great 34-yard run, scampering past the Rogers secondary and breaking tackles along the way.

Almost midway through the first quarter, Salado held the ball on first down and goal from the Rogers 9 yard line. Things went south from there.

With third and goal at the 7-yard line, Salado was called for holding in the backfield on an attempted pass play. Marching off 10 yards from the point of the foul put Salado in dire straits: third and goal from the 27 yard line.

Salado tried a 44-yard field goal at the midway point of the first period, but the low kick was blocked and Salado's hopes were dashed.

Salado's defense stepped up later in the first when Seth Dady intercepted a Harris pass at Salado's 12-yard line.

But the hosting Eagles could not take advantage of the turnover, and punted to their own 42-yard line.

Three consecutive runs brought the ball to the Eagle 11-yard line, from where Harris found Schneider in the end zone again to give Rogers a 14-0 lead as time ran out on the first quarter.

Rogers added two more touchdowns in the second quarter on sustained drives capped by runs of 6 yards and 38 yards, respectively by Harris and Young.

Salado could not take advantage of Dady's second interception of the night

late in the first half.

Salado punted the ball to the Rogers 2-yard line. Four plays later, Garlen Hennig sacked Harris for a seven yard loss before Dady intercepted the ball, giving Salado great field position at the Rogers' 38-yard line with 2:24.

But the Eagles gave the ball back on a fumble with 2:11 left in the half. Enough time for Rogers to drive from their own 33 yard line to Salado's 38-yard line. Young blitzed through the Salado defense for a touchdown with 49 seconds left in the half, giving Rogers a 28-0 lead.

Rogers scored within the first half-minute of the second half on a 75-yard run by Young, bringing the score to 35-0.

They scored on their next possession, taking less than a minute and a half to go 80 yards. Young, who carried for 284 yards for the night, ran for a 46-yard touchdown with 8:05 left in the third. Salado blocked the PAT, leaving Rogers with a 41-0 lead.

Forcing Salado out in three plays and a punt, Rogers drove 51 yards for their third touchdown of the quarter. Young ran for his third touchdown of the night, an 18-yard run with 1:19 left in the third.

Salado threatened in the fourth, pushing the ball to Rogers' 25 yard line. Runs by Fewell and Konzen drove the ball from Salado's 33 yard line to the Rogers 35-yard line. Fewell hit Alex Torres for two straight receptions, to bring the ball to Rogers 28 yard line.

Facing a fourth and 1 to go, Fewell missed his receiver, turning the ball over on downs with 9:00 left in the game.

Because of vaccine shortage.. High risk patients get flu shots first

Flu season is almost here, but the free flu immunizations many Texans have grown to expect may not be available this year. Due to a possible flu vaccine delay, flu shots initially will be available only to those considered "high-risk."

"We are very worried that the flu season may arrive at about the same time as the available flu shots," states Robert Crider, Director of the Immunization Division at the Texas Department of Health. "It's critical that we postpone public campaigns until we're sure we will have enough vaccine to cover 'high-risk' people, those for whom the flu could be debilitating or deadly."

The American Lung Association (ALA) of Texas, an organization committed to fighting lung disease such as influenza, is urging 'high-risk' persons to get their flu shots as soon as they become available. "The flu can often lead to pneumonia and death in individuals with respiratory diseases," said Robin Anderson, RN, Director of Medical Affairs at the Lung Association. "If you have chronic lung disease such as asthma, emphysema, chronic bronchitis, tuberculosis or cystic fibrosis, you are considered 'high-risk' and need to get a flu shot."

Steven Idell, MD, PhD, Texas Thoracic Society President and Chief of the Pulmonary Division at the University of Texas Health Center-Tyler agrees. "People over 65 years of age with emphysema, COPD (Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease) and asthma must report any symptoms of the flu immediately to their physician. Young children getting their flu shot for the first time that have either cystic fibrosis, asthma, HIV/AIDS, or are on long-term aspirin therapy must also be included in the first wave of vaccinations."

If you are in the high-risk category, the ALA suggests reconsidering travel plans this year to avoid putting yourself and your family at unnecessary risk.

Currently, there are four antiviral drugs approved by the FDA to treat a patient once they show early symptoms of the flu: Amantadine (since 1976), Rimantadine (since 1993) and Zanamivir and Oseltamivir (both new in 1999). Despite the shortage of flu vaccines, the U.S. Center for Disease Control and Prevention does not promote the use of these expensive prescription antiviral drugs for treatment.

"If a patient is seen at my practice without having an annual flu vaccine, I will decide on an individual basis whether to being initial treatment with a neuraminase inhibitor or other antiviral medication based on the patient's symptoms," states Dr. Antonio Anzueto, Pulmonary Chief at the South Texas Veterans Administration Health System in San Antonio. "This expensive treatment is only to be offered in specific situations under strict medical supervision."

A comprehensive study of all possible side effects from these antiviral drugs is currently underway.

For more information about influenza, flu shots or lung disease, contact the American Lung Association of Texas at 800-252-5864.

Oops! Sprung a leak

Ricky Preston, Johnnie Rocha, and Luis Castillo, Sr. help to repair a broken water main pipe that cut off water to many Mill Creek residents Friday evening. The water pipe fractured underneath the Dennis Lumpkin family's driveway, spewing water through the crevices and into the streets. Chisholm Trail soon became immersed in mud and water, and the Salado Water Supply crew worked into the night, digging up the Lumpkin family's driveway. 6-foot manholes were dug in three different areas in the family's driveway, trying to locate the break in the line. The line was finally fixed, and the driveway repaired by 9pm.

Creative writer Luis Alberto Urrea holds seminar and lecture Institute

The Institute for the Humanities at Salado is proud to announce Luis Alberto Urrea, a Professor of Creative Writing at the University of Chicago, will be leading a seminar and presenting a lecture Oct. 21-22 in Salado.

The seminar, "Nobody's Son: Life on the Border of my Heart," will be 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Oct. 21 at the Allen Hall in Salado. The seminar includes lunch.

The lecture, "The Hummingbird of God: Teresita Urrea, the Saint of Cabora," will be 4-7 p.m. Oct. 22 at Creekside Banquet Hall in Mill Creek. After the lecture and discussion, there will be a buffet dinner.

Urrea will look at his own family history and personal memories, exploring those issues under this year's theme: "History and Memory."

Teresita Urrea, sometimes called "the saint of Cabora," is Urrea's great Aunt. He has been writing a historical novel about her life.

Urrea is the author of a border trilogy that includes Across the Wire: Life and Hard Times on the Mexican Border. "This is a riveting, compassionate and beautiful narrative. I will never be able to forget this powerful book," says John Nichols, author of The Milagro Beanfield War.

The second book in the trilogy, By the Lake of Sleeping Children, led the Denver Post to call Urrea "one of the best creative writers in the American West."

The final book, Nobody's Son: notes from an american life won the American Book Award and was praised by Rudolfo Anaya as a "book that shines with genius."

"What I love about Luis' work," says Gary Holthaus, Director of the Institute for the Humanities at Salado, "is that he is a real switch hitter. His collection of poems, Fever of Being, won the Western States Book Award, and the same year Harper-Collins published his novel, In Search of Snow. He can do anything when it comes to writing and he does it very well indeed."

Urrea was the first in his family to graduate from college, receiving a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of California in 1977. Luis dabbled in acting as an extra in several Karate movies and considered becoming a painter. "He is still an excellent draftsman," Holthaus says.

But then, Urrea worked as an interpreter for a missionary group doing relief work on the border. In the midst of that, Harvard University offered him a position teaching expository writing and a summer writing workshop. Urrea calls that experience "a miracle." He left Cambridge in 1983 to teach and write, a luxury he had not dreamed of before. Urrea's first book, Across the Wire, was turned down by five publishers and he despaired of its ever being printed. Giving up hope of that, Urrea entered the University of Colorado Boulder's Creative Writing program.

Before he even began classes, he received news that Doubleday Publishing had decided to publish his book. It has now gone through six printings, and Urrea has published two collections of poems, three additional works of non-fiction and a novel.

Christmas Homes Tour Dec. 1-3

Salado's Christmas Homes Tour Dec. 1-2 will feature an historic church and a chapel featuring antique architectural items.

St. Joseph's Episcopal Chapel

For years, Tyler Fletcher, Youth Director of St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Belton, had dreamed of having a chapel in Salado for the use of the EYC.

In the summer of 1995, he converted a storage shed behind Fletcher's Books and Antiques on Main St. into a tiny chapel. Four antique pews from the original St. Luke's and a simple altar made up the furnishings of the chapel.

In 1996, Father Joseph Sheldon (associate minister at St. Luke's) celebrated the Ash Wednesday liturgy in the little chapel. This was the beginning of weekly services. Since then, a small group has met in quiet, contemplative services 9:30 a.m. every Tuesday for discussion and Holy Communion. The composition of the group varies from week to week. Some who attend regularly are not Episcopalians, and frequently there are visitors who are just in Salado for a brief time. The service is followed by a lively hour of fellowship in Tyler's dining room or on his patio.

The group grew and it became evident that more space was needed. During the spring and summer of 1998 St. Joseph's "chapelites" met in private homes while the building was enlarged under the direction of Tim Brown.

Additional pews and a sanctuary lamp were acquired with funds gathered by the congregation, who also individually donated other furnishings.

The building was dedicated and consecrated March 20, 1999 by Father Joe Sheldon and Father Tom Wallace. Following See Homes Tour page 4 B the departure of Father Sheldon to San Angelo, Father Wallace continued the Tuesday morning services.

A new sanctuary was added in the fall of 1999. Three leaded glass windows removed from the old First Lutheran Church of Temple (circa 1895) were donated by J.B. Reeves in memory of his parents.

Early in 2000, at the suggestion of Bishop Payne, a survey was made of Salado area residents to determine interest in having weekend services at the chapel. An expansion of the building was begun to accommodate a congregation of 75. Under the leadership of Mike Falls, associate minister at St. Luke's, St. Joseph's began its new adventure in mission with weekend services.

Tim Brown and Gilbert Rendon built the belfry in August 2000. The bell, an antique, was donated by Jack Walters of Belton.

Salado United Methodist Church
Salado United Methodist Church was built in 1890 in the Carpenter Gothic style. The frame building has served the congregation continuously to this time.

It has been honored with a Texas Historical Commission marker and listing in the National Register of Historic Places.

The congregation was organized in 1854 at a camp meeting on Salado Creek, about four miles downstream from Main Street.

Rev. Thomas Gilmore, a circuit-riding evangelist, preached at this meeting near Ferguson's Mill.

During the years of Salado College (1860-1884) and until the Church was constructed, the Methodists shared the college auditorium with the other local congregations in a union Sunday School with alternating preachers.

In April 1890, a building committee of J.L. Bailey, W.H. Cawthon and J.M. Porter were appointed by the Quarterly Conference to oversee the construction of the Church. The lumber was hauled by wagon from Austin. The simple plans were drawn by members of the congregation.

In remodeling in 1946, the facade of the building was changed somewhat.

The initial Gothic doors were replaced with centered double doors to allow the corners to become rooms for Sunday school classes. A balcony was added at that time also, and the ceiling was lowered to the tops of the side Gothic windows.

All of those features were returned to the original in the restoration of 1996.

The red pine floor is original as is the beautiful Myrta Bailey stained glass window behind the altar. The Communion rail and the pulpit are also from the 1890 construction.

The other windows were installed in 1952 in honor of many of the early families of the Church. The needlepoint cushions at the Altar were fashioned by Church members in 1983 from designs to blend with the windows. These designs and the cross-stitch pulpit scarf were done by Betty Bunker.

The Fellowship Hall of the Church is the former Prairie Dell Methodist Church. This church merged with the Salado Church in 1951. The building was moved here at that time.

Sheep and goat farmers get assistance for market losses on mohair and wool

Bell County Farm Service Agency has announced a new, one-time only wool and mohair program created to assist sheep and goat producers endure the low prices they are receiving for the sale of their shorn commodities.

The Wool and Mohair Market Loss Assistance Program (WAMLAP) provides 20¢ per pound for mohair to farmers who have shorn their livestock during the 1999 market year and are still currently in the business of producing and marketing agricultural products.

Sign up for WAMLAP continues through Dec. 29. Applications must be submitted by farmers living within Bell County by the deadline to the Bell County FSA office at 1605 N. Main St., Room 101 in Belton.

"Just like the rest of the agricultural economy, wool and mohair prices have been on a continuous slide during the past three years," said Bell County FSA Executive Director Raymond Marr. "This program will help sheep and mohair producers recover some of their expenses."

Producers are required to certify the amount of shorn wool or shorn mohair from live sheep or Angora goats. Greased wool or greased mohair from pelts or hides is not eligible for payment. The office will also need to know the number of animals shorn.

"Farmers are encouraged to provide the office documentation supporting the pounds of wool or mohair they are certifying," Marr said. "If a spot-check indicates a discrepancy, the producer must refund the difference."

Since prices have been so low, some producers may still have 1999 wool or mohair stored on the farm. Those pounds of fiber are eligible for WAMLAP. A farm visit by an FSA representative will be required to determine the pounds in storage if the farm is selected for a spot-check.

To be eligible, the live-stock must have been owned by the producer for 30 days and shorn in the United States during the 1999 calendar year.

The application is available at the Bell County FSA office or downloaded from www.fsa.usda.gov/dafp/psd/.

The Tower Drive-In theater in Rule

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

Rule, Texas has a drive-in theater in the middle of a peanut field right across the highway from a cotton patch. It shows the latest movies and has an internet site (towerdriveintheatre.com).

When people from Rule go out of town and say where they're from, the reply is usually, "O, yeah, that's where the drive-in is."

The show starts at dark on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights just like it has since the drive-in was built in 1955. The theater is clean, neat and well maintained. Patrons now listen to the movie sound in digital stereo on their car radios. Kids with headsets hear it on their pocket size stereo receivers.

The price of admission is $4 for adults, $2 for kids 12 and over. On Friday nights it's $6 a carload.

The Tower Drive-In

Theatre was established by E. B. Whorton who also owned theaters in Rochester, Spur, San Saba and Llano. His wife Allene, now 82 years old, still works at the concession stand dishing out popcorn, soft drinks, hot dogs, pizza and candy. "I really enjoy it," she says. "It's become a habit. And I don't have anything else to do, so why not."

She has lived in Rule all her life. When she married E. B., he was operating a theater in downtown Rule that was built by his family in the 20's.

E. B.'s son John now operates the Tower Drive-in. "It's the oldest one in continuous operation in the state of Texas," says John. "It's been in our family since it was built. It's never closed except during the winter. Lately our winters have been so warm we sometimes keep it open year-round, closing only on the coldest days. When I was growing up, my daddy kept it open even if the speakers had icicles hanging on them. He really worked at it. And so do we."

Tornadoes damaged all their theaters except the one in Llano. "Matter of fact, this one was torn up by a tornado a couple of years ago. We thought we were through because we couldn't get insurance on the old wooden tower." But the farmers and ranchers and people in Rule and neighboring towns came with their tools and material and rebuilt the theater. Allene says, "They did it because they needed the theater." "They're really proud of it," says John. It's a real tradition around here."

During the summer months, the drive-in attracts an average of 150 people nightly. They come from all over the area. At the box office, theater-goers can pick up fliers showing upcoming movies. The fliers are posted all over town.

"We've got generations of people coming to this theater," says John. "I mean we've got great-grandkids of some of our early customers. Some people coming to the theater now were probably conceived on the back of our lot."

Nearby Abilene got a drive-in theater this past summer and John was asked if he thinks that will hurt his business. "I don't think so," he says. "Abilene used to have eight drive-in theaters and they've all shut down. We're still going strong and will continue to do so."

Advertising signs of all ages are selling for high prices. The early handmade signs are popular with folk art collectors.

Late 19th and 20th century tin lithographed signs can sell for thousands of dollars if the graphics are appealing and the brand is known. Kings of the collectibles are cola and soda pop advertising pieces, especially signs.

Patent medicines became popular in the late 1860s. The public wanted to find a drink that would make them feel healthy. Druggists often made their own drinks, which usually had alcohol mixed with herbs, drugs like cocaine and some flavoring. A Georgia druggist mixed a kola nut extract, fruit syrup, coca leaf extract and water and sold it in an Atlanta drugstore as Coca-Cola. In 1887 the formula was mixed with carbonated water. Dozens of other soft drinks or medicines were sold at drugstores. Food and drug laws have changed the contents of soft drinks sold today, but they still contain carbonated water, flavoring, and possibly caffeine and herbs. The ads in the past stressed the medicinal value - "aids digestion", "renews vigor", "freedom from fatigue" - and even suggested that the drinks cured headaches and disease of the vocal cords.

Look for old ads of any sort, paper signs, trays, glasses, figures, lights or clocks. Save new items, like drink cups from ball games, Olympic pins, printed shirts or ties, bottles and cans. They will all have value in the future.

Tip: If you have a battery operated 1940s toy like "Smoking Grandpa," you might want to replenish the smoke maker when it wears out. Just put a few drops of sewing machine oil into the smoking tube. As electric spark in the toy causes the oil to smoke, and allows the toy to puff on a cigarette, pipe or cigar.

Fright Night Walking Trail at Tablerock Oct. 28-31

Tablerock's Walking Trail will be transformed into a Fright Trail on the nights of Oct. 28-31. The Fright Trail will be open from dusk (7 p.m.) to the witching hour (midnight).

Goblins will extract a $3 fee from children and a $5 fee from grown-up children for a walk of the spectral side of Tablerock.

Guides will enlighten you with facts about respective authors as you are led to scenes from Macbeth, The Invisible Man, Dracula, Frankenstein, The Mummy's Curse, The Wizard of Oz, The Tell-Tale Heart and more of America's most treasured classics.

Members of the Salado High School Drama class will enact scenes from chosen tales of terror to entertain and educate everyone.

In the Enchanted Forest portion of the trail, you will encounter fairies who will guide you past knights guarding a castle, elves mining for gold, a troll jealously guarding his bridge and other untold events crafted for the adventurous soul.

Snacks, drinks and smelling salts (for the weak at heart) will be available at the concession stand.

Tablerock Trail is located in Salado on Royal Street, three blocks east of downtown.

For more information, call Tablerock at 254/947-9205.

Sadie Lou to lead parade

October 18, 2000 Village Voice Page 9B

By KAY PATTERSON

Sadie Lou Holland has been selected as the Grand Marshall of the First Annual Christmas Stroll Parade which will take place down Main Street 5:30 p.m. Nov. 30.

Sadie Lou has not traveled too many miles in her 86 years, but she has left beautiful footprints in many people's lives.

Born Jan. 27, 1914 in Belton, she has lived her whole life in Bell County. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton L. Jones, were long-time Bell County residents. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R.E.L. Jones were long-time residents in the Three Forks community southeast of Belton.

Sadie Lou attended grammar school in Belton, but later moved with her family to Temple, where she graduated from Temple High School in May 1932.

She married Ellis White Holland in Dec. 1935 in Ft. Worth. She and Ellis White operated Holland Meat Market in Belton for many years. In 1945, they built a house east of Salado on their Holland ranch land and ranched together for close to 40 years.

Sadie helped Ellis with every facet of the ranch: raising and tending cattle, helping with combining grain, raising goats, building fences, repairing water gaps, working on the artesian water well and cooking for many activities.

Sadie and Ellis have a daughter, Weeta Sue Holland Evans. She has two grand-daughters, Angie Schuster, who lives in Copperas Cove, and Erika Shampo, who lives in Ocean Side, California. She has five great grandchildren: Michael, Robert, Loren, Keith and Dylan.

Ellis and Sadie celebrated their 50th anniversary in 1985. Ellis passed away in 1989.

Sadie was a room mother in the Salado schools all 12 years that her daughter Weeta attended. She seldom missed a football or basketball game (or any other school-sponsored activity for that matter). She was an active member of the Parent Teacher Association and worked in the school cafeteria for several years.

Sadie Lou became a member of the Salado United Methodist Church in 1949, where she continues to be an active member today. She has held numerous church positions, but concentrates mostly on promoting God's love through her faith and good works.

She is a charter member of the Salado Monday Club, and has worked with the Salado Art Fair, Salado Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary, Salado Village Artists, Salado Reunion Committee, Spinner Group and Fun-Raisers.

Sadie is the best cook and seamstress for miles around. If all her community-caring cooking could be put in one place, it would feed the greater part of Bell County. She is probably best known for her chili, barbecue sauce and apple pie recipes.

No one has given more to their community than Sadie Lou has given to hers. Her life's motto has been God First, Others Second, Me Last.

She is truly a remarkable mother, grandmother, friend, neighbor and Grand Marshall.

For more information about the parade, call the Salado Chamber of Commerce at 947-5040 or Kaye Patterson, Parade Chairperson, at 947-4816.

TAPPS director talks to Lions

October 18, 2000 Village Voice Page 17B

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Edd Burleson recalled why he remains such good friends with Bill Farney, executive director of the University Interscholastic League (UIL).

"It's blackmail," said Burleson with a laugh. The executive director of the Texas Association of Private and Parochial Schools (TAPPS) spoke to the Salado Lions Club Oct. 11. Burleson teases that he and Farney are good buddies because Burleson has a copy of a game film from Farney's days as head coach at Lorena High School.

Evidently, Farney tried to pull the wool over the eyes of the opposing Mart defense -- literally. Star running back Bobby Mercer ran to the sidelines, where Farney tossed him a warm-up jacket and put his arm around the player. When the snap was called, Mercer took off downfield along the sideline. "He never was out of bounds," Burleson said, adding that the play didn't work because the pass was incomplete. The play was "caught on film" and landed in the hands of Burleson.

"What he (Farney) doesn't know is that the tape got burned up several years later," Burleson, adding, "Let's not tell him."

Burleson discussed the similar roles that TAPPS and UIL play in extra-curricular activities.

TAPPS, which was formed in 1978 from the Texas Christian Interscholastic League (originally called the Texas Catholic Interscholastic League), oversees extra-curricular activities and sports for 318 schools ranging in size from six to over 1,000 students. TAPPS members, mostly Protestant Church schools, are divided into five divisions, based on size, similar to UIL.

Burleson joked about the valedictorian at one of the small member schools in Mason. "I guess he was the valedictorian," he said, "He was the only one to graduate that year." The school had six students.

The smaller sizes of private schools are one attraction they offer over public schools.

In addition to athletic events like football, basketball, cross country, golf, tennis, swimming, softball, tennis, track, wrestling, and soccer, TAPPS also oversees 19 academic contests, 23 art categories and music contests for solo, ensemble and band.

Most of the state championships in sports are held in Waco at various locations, including Baylor University.

"We hold our basketball championships all on one weekend," Burleson said. "Our games start so early and end so late that weekend, that TAPPS is the only place you can win a state championship in basketball on Saturday morning and then go eat breakfast."

Prior to working for TAPPS and private schools, Burleson spent a career in public schools, including being superintendent in Red Oak ISD.

"I survived five school board elections," he said, "which is very good. I also learned the old adage that when you get run out of town, you should try to make it look like you're leading a parade."

Exuberance and Elegance: Young Beethoven meets mature Mozart held Oct. 28 at First English Lutheran

A. Mozart Fest presents "Exuberance and Elegance: Young Beethoven meets Mature Mozart" 7:30 p.m. Oct. 28 at First English Lutheran Church at 3001 Whitis Avenue in Austin.

Tickets for "Exuberance and Elegance" can be purchased by calling 512/454-TIXS. Preferred seating is $28 and general admission is $18 for adults and $8 for students and children.

"Exuberance and Elegance" is a chamber music concert of works composed just eight years apart by the two classical giants.

Beethoven's large and rousing early works, the E-Flat Quartet for Piano and Strings and F Major Sonata for cello and piano from 1796 will be performed in the mature musical shadow of Mozart's late and elegant E Major Piano Trio from 1788.

The virtuosity of all three works is of a most demanding level and exemplifies the culminating achievement of the Classical style.

Recognized for their identification with this exacting repertoire, A. Mozart Fest has been ranked by the Austin Arts Commission Music Panel as the leading chamber music group for the past five years.

A. Mozart Fest performances have also been critically praised as "impeccable... world class... a rare musical asset for Austin," by the Austin American-Statesman.

Order your luminarias early from the Salado Business Association

Businesses and homeowners in Salado are encouraged to participate in the lighting of luminarias the first two weekends in December. Those weekends, Dec. 2-3 and Dec. 9-10, are the weekends to make the village glow for the annual Christmas Stroll.

Order enough luminaria sets to decorate the front of your home or business, placing them about three feet apart. Typically, one candle per night is required.

If your business is situated next to an unoccupied place or a place where there may not be luminarias, talk with neighboring businesses about adopting the area.

The goal of the Salado Business Association is to have a continuous line of lights along North and South Main Street, as well as Royal Street.

Ordering luminarias is easy. Just fill out the adjacent order form and send it with payment to the Salado Business Association, PO Box 1161, Salado, TX 76571. Orders must be prepaid and received by Nov. 6.

For more information about luminarias and the Christmas Stroll, contact the Salado Chamber of Commerce at 254/947-5040.
