Future water demand topic of BRA meeting

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

"Water coming out of Stillhouse Hollow Lake is about as pure and clean as you can get," Engineer Clay Roming told a small group of mostly water suppliers gathered at the Bell County Courthouse Aug. 13. The group met for an update from Roming, Parker and Kasberg, a civil engineering firm that is midway through its Central Texas Water Supply Study for the Brazos River Authority, which issues the rights to water coming from Stillhouse Hollow Lake.

The study is examining the future needs of Central Texas Water Supply customers and non-customers who have rights to water in Stillhouse, including Salado Water Supply Corporation, which pays for the rights to 1,600-acre feet of water in the lake.

According to Roming, having an adequate water supply is not so great an issue as being able to deliver the water to those areas that need it most.

Central Texas Water Supply Corporation (CTWSC), a wholesale water supplier, delivers water to customers from Lampasas to Rosebud-Lott.

CTWSC is currently designing a 6 million gallon per day water treatment plant to be built on FM 1670 on the southeast side of Stillhouse Hollow Lake.

According to CTWSC Manager David Cole, the plant will be on the ground by Spring 2003.

Cole said that he has a letter of agreement with Salado Water Supply Corporation (SWSC) in which SWSC will purchase 750,000 gallons of treated water per day. The 750,000 gallons per day is just over half of the capacity for surface water from SWSC's 1,600-acre feet.

The purchase agreement between SWSC and CTWSC will coincide with SWSC's plans for capital improvements in the western portion of its service area.

The plant on FM 1670 will also supply current CTWSC customers, such as Dog Ridge WSC and Armstrong WSC to the east.

Cole said that his current customers will need 4 MGD and SWSC an additional 750,000, which leaves him an excess of 1.25 MGD to sell to other customers.

When the plant reaches capacity of 6 MGD, Cole said, it will be expanded to handle growth in demand.

In the coming months, the water study will examine cost efficiencies of delivering water to the areas it is needed, according to Roming.

Recommendations on addressing infrastructure needs for CTWSC to Ultimate Drive raises funds for breast cancer research

Garlyn Shelton BMW invites you and your friends to be their guests at The Ultimate Drive, an annual event that raises money for the Susan G. Komen Foundation.

This year's Ultimate Drive will be 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Sept. 5 at Scott and White Hospital.

According to Ron Coleman, the Ultimate Drive is your chance to do two things at once: drive your favorite BMW and help out a great cause.

For each mile driven during the Ultimate Drive, BMW donates $1 to the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation.

This is the fifth year for the event. BMW has raised over $4 million for breast cancer treatment, education, research and screening. BMW's goal for this year is $1 million.

After taking the Ultimate Drive, you may join your Local Hero in signing the Signature Vehicle, an all-wheel drive 325xi sport wagon. The Signature Vehicle will be featured in events, auto show and BMW museums in tribute to those who joined the cause.

Among the BMWs to test drive will be the sleek Z3 2.5i and 3.0i roadsters, the 3 series convertible, the all-wheel drive 325xi, the 5-series sedans and sport wagons and 7 series sedans.

To make reservations for the Ultimate Drive, 1-877-4ADRIIVE or visit www.bmwusa.com.

deliver adequate water to its list of 16 water suppliers, will be narrowed based on cost.

The recommendations may include an alternate water treatment plant on the Lampasas River, that will serve current CTWSC customers and non-customers in the eastern portion of the study area.

CTWSC plans to expand its treatment plant on the south shore of Stillhouse Hollow Lake by adding modules as they are needed.

Part of the agreement between CTWSC and SWSC will allow SWSC the opportunity to purchase beyond its original 750,000 gallons per day.

The total capacity for the plant will be 18 MGD per day, according to Cole.

The public meeting gives both participants and consumers the opportunity to give input to Roming's engineering firm.

After the meeting, Roming told Salado Village Voice that he sees the greatest amount of demand for water to be "along the I-35 corridor."

Beth Campbell named Artist of the Month

Beth Campbell, a talented newcomer to the area, has been named "Artist of the Month" by the Salado Village Artists*. She moved to Salado from Panama City Beach, Florida, where the beach and waters of the Gulf Coast became the inspiration for many of her paintings.

While seascapes are her favorites, a variety of subjects such as horses, cowboys, and flowers also appeal to her interest. She is versatile, painting with watercolors as well as oils and is adding the use of acrylics to her repertoire. She has entered many juried art shows and one of her paintings recently won a second place award at the Panama City Fair. Her works hang in a number of offices and homes.

Representative work is displayed in the lobbies of First State and Compass Banks where it may be viewed during the month of August.

*The Salado Village Artists is a non-profit organization meeting weekly to paint or stitch or quilt at the Salado Art Center and monthly for a business meeting and program. Membership is open to interested persons.

Burn Ban for Bell County continues

Temperatures are rising and winds are blowing, as wildfires become more common and more hazardous. Firefighters from the local VFDs and cooperating agencies such as TXDOT and the local sheriffs are working hand in hand with the Texas Forest Service (TFS) to suppress those wildfires.

Outdoor burning bans are currently in place in 91 counties, including Bell County. High temperatures, low humidities and gusting winds have also led to some firefighters experiencing heat exhaustion due to the long hours needed to suppress these wildfires.

People within counties that do not have a burning ban in place are asked to delay any outdoor burning until this fall after receiving significant rainfall, according to Mike Bozzo, fire prevention specialist with TFS.

Some safety tips rural residents should keep in mind are 1) to keep a cleared area of at least 30 feet around the house and other outbuildings 2) to keep lawns closely mowed 3) to prune trees from the ground up 4) to clean gutters and remove pine straw from rooftops 5) to avoid parking in tall grasses and 6) to discard barbecue coals only after completely dousing with water. In case of a wildfire, call 911 immediately...a small fire spreads quickly under extreme weather conditions. Your quick response could save lives and property.

Texas is beginning to feel the heat so abide by your county's burning ban and be careful when conducting any activity that could lead to a wildfire.

Broadway celebrate 50th anniversary

Dr. W.D. and Mrs. Hugh Delle Broadway of Salado will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on Aug. 24.

The couple were honored with a reception 2-5 p.m. Aug. 11 at First Baptist Church of Salado. Hosting the event were the Broadway's children: Jerene Broadway of San Francisco, Ca; Mike Broadway of Durham, NC; and their son and daughter-in-law, Jim Lowder and Evely Broadway.

Dr. Broadway, of Corpus Christi, and the former Hugh Delle Manahan, of Houston, were married August 24, 1951 at North Main Baptist Church in Houston with the Rev. Lee Roy Pearson officiating. Rev. Pearson along with several other members of the original wedding party, attended the reception on Saturday.

Dr. Broadway served as pastor of Baptist churches in Floresville, Carlton, Bangs, Rockport, Lancaster, Portland, The Woodlands, and Conroe. He served as Executive Director of a church planning and human service agency in The Woodlands for 13 years prior to his retirement. He now does consulting work with churches and nonprofit agencies. Mrs. Broadway, who taught high school English for 33 years, now supervises student teachers for the University of Mary Hardin-Baylor.

The Broadways retired to Salado two years ago.

The have four grandchildren: Elizabeth, David, Naomi, and Lydia.

Hoppin to wed Smith on Aug. 25

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Dudley Greenidge of Evergreen, Colorado and Dr. and Mrs. John Carter Hoppin of St. Louis, Missouri proudly announce the engagement of their daughter, Tia Elizabeth Hoppin, to Douglas Campbell Smith, son of Col. (Ret) and Mrs. Jack Coldwell Smith of Salado.

Tia is a graduate of the University of Colorado at Boulder. She was awarded a Bachelor of Science Degree in Journalism and Mass Communication.

Douglas received a Bachelor of Business Administration Degree from Texas A&M University in College Station.

Both were awarded

Master of International Management Degrees from Thunderbird, the American Graduate School of International Management in 1999.

The couple plans an August 25, 2001 wedding in Vail, Colorado.

CBS holds bible study starting Sept. 10

If you've ever wondered what the book of Daniel is all about and what it means to you, this may be the year to find out. In addition to the prophecies of Daniel, the Temple/Belton Community Bible Study evening class will study 1-2 Peter/Colossians this year.

CBS is an interdenominational study for men, women, and couples of all backgrounds who are interested in an in-depth weekly study of God's Word. There are more than 370 CBS classes around the country.

Beginning Sept. 10, the Temple/Belton class will meet from 7:30 -9 p.m. each Monday in the former sanctuary of First Baptist Church in Belton, 6th and Main Street, Belton.

Each week participants receive a commentary on the previous week's topic and a set of questions to work on each day covering the next week's reading.

On Monday nights, these questions are discussed in small groups of about fifteen. Couples can choose to participate together in a couple's small group or individually in a men's or women's small group. Following the small groups there is a short lecture over the same section of Scripture.

The class will break for several weeks at Christmas and finish at the end of April 2002.

Baby sitting will be provided for children up to six years of age. Pre-registration for baby sitting is requested.

Call Rick Erickson, 771-0237, or Kathie Kimes, 773-1842 for information or attend the first class 7:30 p.m. Sept. 10.

James LeFan, Minister

"Rejoice in the Lord always, again I say, Rejoice." If that sounds like it is easier said than done, then you'll want to discover the secret of real joy. When things are going your way, it sounds simple to be happy. When things go wrong, however, and disaster strikes, can you still find your way to joy? Come hear of the radiant life.

Dr. Volle's Reformation classes open to public at Methodist Church

Doctor Robert L. Volle will present a course at the Salado United Methodist Church on The European Reformation, covering the period 1492 to 1692 AD.

The course, which is open to anyone who wishes to attend, consists of a series of lecture-video sessions and is sponsored by the Education Committee of the church. The series will begin in September and will be held on the first, second and third Thursday, Sept.-Nov. The first session will be held 6:30 p.m. Sept. 6 in the fellowship hall.

The course outline includes: 1) Overview; 2) Christian humanism, emphasis on the life and writings of Erasmus, the most notable humanist of the period; 3) Social and political life in central Europe; 4) The teachings, structure and influence of the Catholic Church; 5) Martin Luther, the Augustinian monk, his attitudes toward the sacraments, penance and interpretation of the scriptures; 6) Other reformers and their teachings such as Ulrich Zwingli, John Calvin, Jacobus Arminius, Thomas Munster, John Knox and Menno Simons (the Menonites); 7) Henry VIII; 8) Wars of Religion; 9) Council of Trent; and 10) John Wesley, the Anglican priest, who founded Methodism.

Some of the discussion will focus on the fact that Protestants are products of the great schism of the 16th-17th centuries. That time was a period of turmoil and rapid change. It was the age of the printing press and the age of Copernicus. The ravages of the plague were over and the population after 150 years was back to normal. Europeans were exploring the globe and learning about the cosmos. Rigid religious and political institutions were no longer able to satisfy ordinary citizens and ordinary Christians. It was a singular time in the history of Christianity.

Doctor Volle, who will be assisted by Lyle Radebaugh, has previously presented very informative courses dealing with broad aspects of religion. He received a B.S. degree in chemistry from West Virginia Wesleyan College in 1953 and a Ph.D. in Pharmacology from the University of Kansas in 1959. Dr. Volle has held teaching and administrative positions in several universities over a period of years; he has served on numerous boards and committees and has authored and co-authored many publications in the fields of medicine and health. He holds the present position of President Emeritus, National Board of Medical Examiners, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Anyone who plans to attend the course is requested to register at the office of the Salado United Methodist Church. This may be done by telephone by calling 254-947-5482.

Lady Eagles start volleyball

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Even before the first day of school, the Salado Lady Eagles began their 2001 volleyball season Aug. 14, in an opening match with Troy.

Salado starts the season with two new coaches and eight varsity lettermen returning from last year's 15-7 squad.

Returning lettermen are seniors Lindsay Quirk, Robyn Womac, Kate Mentzel, Joyful Alderman and juniors Meagan Joiner, Stephanie Krueger, Lauren Mewhinney and Lindsey Pruitt.

New coaches are Karen Hale and assistant Brandi Bode.

This is Hale's first teaching and coaching assignment. She says that she has played competitive volleyball since the 1970s and continues to play once a week in an Austin league.

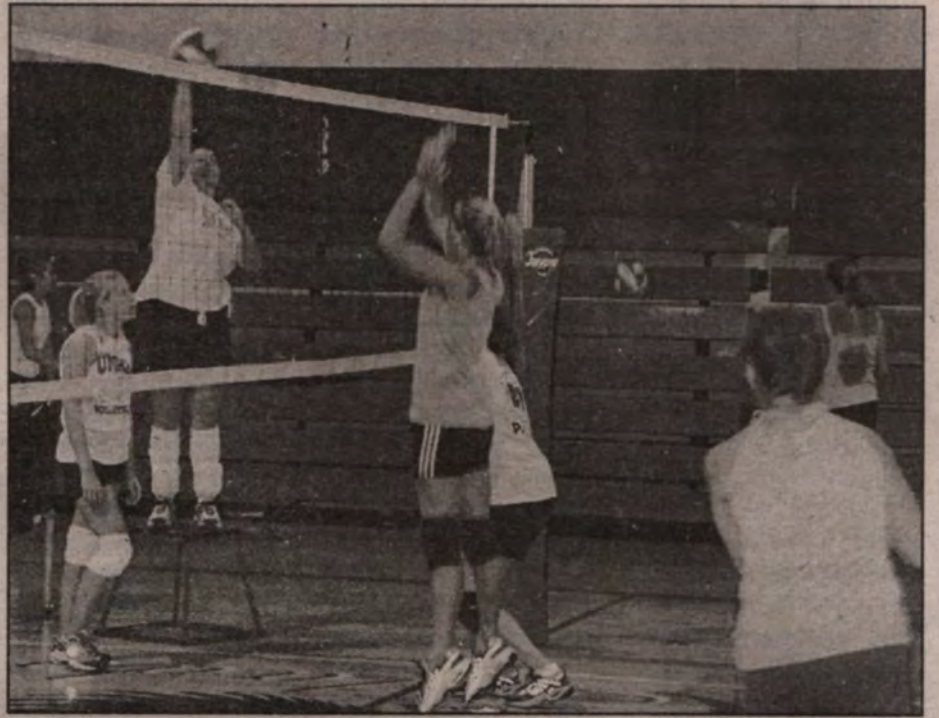

"We're starting from the ground up," she says.

Hale said that in a scrimmage against Florence last week, "they looked really strong."

With luck, Hale can build on the team's eight seniors, which includes the four returning lettermen and Sandi Trolinger, Amanda Rivers, Haley Scruggs and Meagan Fleck.

After making the playoffs in 1999 and missing the playoffs by one game last year, the Lady Eagles are hoping to get beyond district this fall.

Hale said that of the 47 girls showed up for summer practice, 23 were freshmen.

During practice this week, Robyn Womac jumps up to block a shot by new assistant volleyball coach Brandi Bode. (PHOTO BY TIM FLEISCHER)

Senior victims of trust scams

Living trust sales are a growing area of consumer fraud. It is estimated that thousands of consumers lose between $500 and $5,000 each year through unnecessary living trust purchases.

Living trusts are generally established by people attempting to avoid probate, the legal process that transfers a person's assets after death. When a living trust is established, assets are immediately transferred to the trust, and the trust is considered owner of assets.

For Texans with properly drafted wills who do not own property in another state, a living trust is usually unnecessary.

"While living trusts meet the needs of some consumers, they are not the best option for everyone," says Texas Young Lawyers Association President Amos Mazzant of Sherman. "The cost of creating, funding and administering a living trust outweighs the benefits for many people."

Con artists often mislead senior citizens to believe that living trusts help reduce death taxes and avoid creditors, contested wills and guardianship expenses. Some salespeople falsely claim that probate requires excessive time and money and that a living trust is the only way to avoid probate.

When estate planning, consumers should take sufficient time to make decisions, realizing that legitimate advisors will not encourage a hasty decision. Seniors should speak to a trusted and knowledgeable source before making a commitment and avoid responding to offers they do not understand.

Consumers should be cautious of businesses that promote living trusts through free seminars and estate analyses, telemarketing, direct mail, door-to-door sales and advertisements without describing the pros and cons of selecting a living trust.

If a living trust appears to be a consumer's best option, it should be drafted by a licensed Texas attorney with expertise in estate planning to ensure that the document is tailored to meet state law requirements.

Anyone who believes they have been a victim of a living trust scam should call the State Bar of Texas at 800/204-2222. While non-attorneys are not subject to State Bar rules, they may be practicing law without a license.

The Texas Young Lawyers Association, in conjunction with the State Bar of Texas, has created a pamphlet, Living Trust Scams and the Senior Consumer, which exposes living trust myths and provides suggestions for well-informed decision making. To receive a free copy of the pamphlet in English or Spanish, call the State Bar Communications Department at 800/204-2222, ext. 2610 or view online at www.texasbar.com/pubinfo/legalinfo/scams.htm. A 25-minute video on living trust scams is also available for loan by calling the State Bar.

The State Bar of Texas is an administrative agency of the Supreme Court of Texas that provides education programs for the legal profession and the public, administers the minimum continuing legal education program for attorneys, and manages the attorney discipline system.

When home renovations pay off

Home renovation projects are one way you can increase the value of your house, but understand that the return on your investment is never more than 75 percent. Major renovation projects are never a good idea if you're getting ready to sell your house, but anything that needs fixing is sure to be noticed by potential buyers, and the cost of making them will be factored into whatever offer they make. Furthermore, some projects have greater value in the big picture than others.

Many Texas women don't remember to take a multivitamin, according to a survey by the Texas Department of Health (TDH), despite strong evidence that the B vitamin folic acid helps prevent certain birth defects.

Only one third of those surveyed say they take folic acid supplements daily. Though the study shows that low income women are less likely than higher-income women to take folic acid, few of the women surveyed said cost was a prohibitive factor.

TDH, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and the U.S. Public Health Service recommend that all women of childbearing age consume 400 micrograms of folic acid daily to prevent birth defects of the brain and spine.

"Our findings show that many women simply aren't aware that taking folic acid before pregnancy can prevent neural tube defects," said Mark Canfield, director of TDH's Texas Birth Defects Monitoring Division. "By getting this message to more women, we hope the number of babies born with disabling and sometimes deadly birth defects will drop."

Communicating this message is a function of the Texas Folic Acid Council. TFAC, a statewide coalition of public health agencies and nonprofit organizations concerned with the prevention of birth defects, encourages women to take folic acid. TFAC began its work in 1999 when former Texas First Lady Laura Bush hosted a kick-off breakfast at the State Capitol.

TFAC began in July to distribute approximately 20,000 cosmetic bags containing multivitamins, nail files with a folic acid message and educational leaflets to Texans enrolled in TDH's Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program. These kits initially will be available in Austin, Corpus Christi, Dallas, Odessa and in Hidalgo, El Paso, Smith and Tarrant counties. TFAC will select additional distribution sites for 2002.

Researchers have known for years that up to 70 percent of neural tube defects (NTDs) can be prevented if women of childbearing age take folic

In 1998, the federal government began requiring that enriched grain products, including flour, corn, rice and oats, be fortified with folic acid.

According to the CDC, NTDs have decreased 19 percent nationwide during the last decade. Health authorities attribute the decline to TDH, the federal government and voluntary health organizations such as the March of Dimes spreading the word about the link between the folic acid and the prevention of birth defects and mandatory folic acid fortification of enriched grain products.

TDH strongly supported the fortification of the U.S. grain supply at an even higher level. But women should not rely only on cereals, bread, tortillas and other fortified grain products for their daily folic acid. Health experts agree that taking a daily multivitamin or consuming highly fortified cereals (those with 400 micrograms of folic acid in a serving) are the best ways to ensure that women who could become pregnant get an adequate amount of folic acid.

Neural tube defects occur when the brain and spinal cord fail to develop during the earliest weeks of pregnancy. NTDs include anencephaly, the partial absence of the brain and skull, and spina bifida, an exposure of the spinal cord. Neural tube defects in newborns can be emotionally and financially devastating for families. Most children with spina bifida are confined to wheelchairs; anencephaly is always fatal.

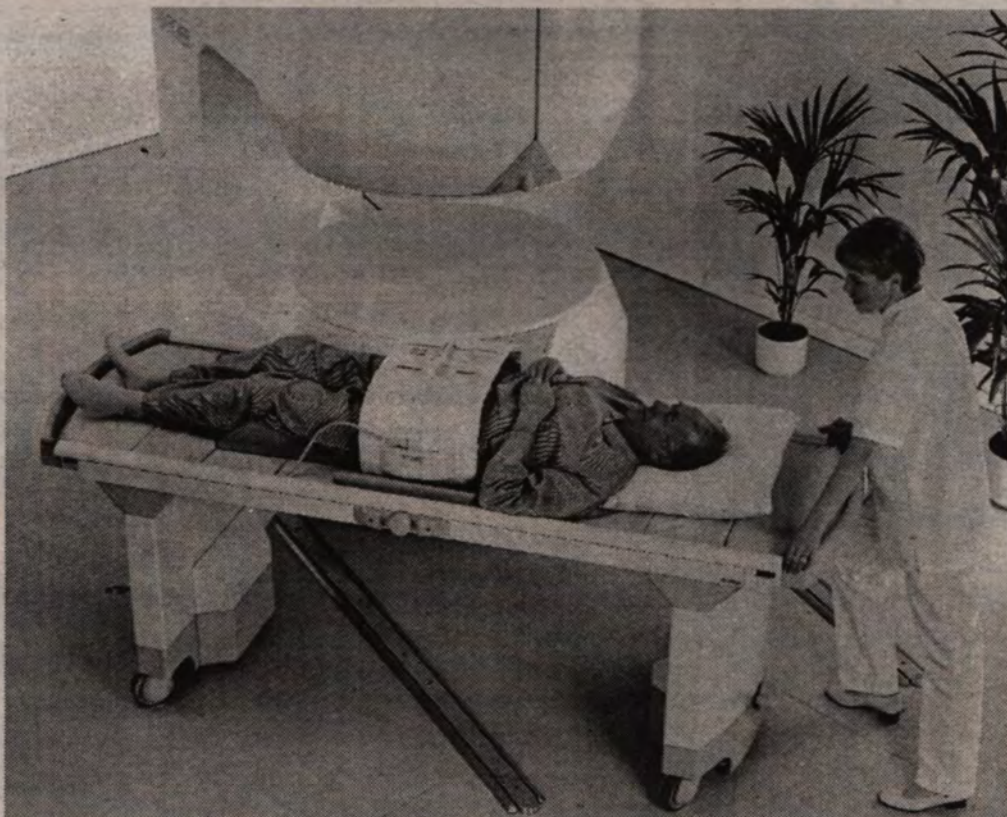

Since the neural tube forms early, women must begin taking folic acid before they learn they are pregnant. "The neural tube closes early in pregnancy, within three to four weeks after conception," said Canfield. "This means that to prevent neural tube defects, folic acid must be taken before a women conceives. This situation is complicated by the fact that about half of all pregnancies are unplanned, so many women with are capable of bearing children get at least 400 micrograms of folic acid each day. The easiest way to do this is by taking a multivitamin daily."

Great ways to great looking arms

It doesn't matter whether you're a male or female, we all would like to have good-looking arms. Guys like to show off their so-called "guns," while ladies try to keep their upper arm from doing an extra wave when they wave goodbye.

Whether you want big arm muscles or ones that are toned and firm, there are specific exercises you can do. The only difference is how much weight you use. If muscle mass is your goal, stick to heavy weight that can be lifted only 6-10 times. If you're seeking to firm and tone, keep the weight light enough to complete 15 repetitions.

The standing hammer curl works the muscles in the front of the arm (the biceps). Start by grasping a pair of dumbbells using a neutral grip (facing your palms toward the outer thighs). Stand erect with your feet shoulder width apart. Raise one dumbbell in an arc by flexing the arm at the elbow, keeping your upper arm and elbow stationary. Raise the dumbbell to within 4-5 inches of the front of the shoulder, pause a second, and then lower the dumbbell slowly and under control until your elbow is fully extended. Repeat the upward and downward movement with the other arm. Try to inhale during the downward movement phase and exhale through the sticking point of the upward phase.

To work the triceps (muscles in the back of the arm), try the lying tricep extension. Lying on a bench or on the floor, bend your knees and place your feet flat on the ground. Grasp a weighted bar with a closed (overhand) grip with your hands 6-10 inches apart. Position your arms parallel to each other and perpendicular to the floor. Lower the bar slowly to your forehead while your upper arms remain perpendicular to the floor and parallel to each other. Push the bar back up until your elbows are fully extended. You should feel the triceps working. Try to inhale during the downward movement phase and exhale through the sticking point of the upward phase.

Whether you're a guy who wants to be proud wearing a sleeveless shirt or a gal who wants toned, sexy arms, these exercises will work to get you there. Try three sets, two times a week and start to see the changes

Bicycle could be cause of back pain

Dear Dr. Donohue:

My back has begun to act up on me. I don't recall a particular incident that started it, but it did come on shortly after I took up bike riding. Could there be a connection between bike riding and back pain?

Answer:

Often there is a connection between bike riding and back pain. And often an adjustment of the seat eases the pain. That's the bike's seat, not yours. If it's your lower back that gives you grief, tilt the front of the bike seat downward by 10 to 15 degrees. Riding on a wider seat also helps.

If the back pain is higher up, raise the handlebars. Hunching over low-set handlebars burdens the upper back and neck muscles.

I'm sending you a copy of the report on backaches. I'm sure you'll find some information in it that can be useful for you. Other readers can obtain a copy by writing: Dr. Donohue — No. 3W, Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (57 cents), Number 10 envelope and a check or money order for $3. Please allow four weeks for delivery.

Dear Dr. Donohue:

I have the cutest young doctor whom I like very much. He urges me to take a tetanus-diphtheria shot. What for? I'm no kid. I am 65, and I had all those shots as a child.

I don't want to have a tiff with this doctor because I like him so very much. However, I don't want to take any unnecessary shots. Will you give me your advice?

Answer:

I have to side with the cute, young doctor. Immunity against tetanus and diphtheria wanes with age. Both shots should be given every 10 years. It's only one shot, for the single shot contains the two vaccines.

Tetanus is lockjaw. It infects a good number of people every year. Older people are the ones most likely to be infected because they have let their booster-shot schedule lapse. Tetanus is not a pleasant illness, and it is most difficult to treat.

Diphtheria, which is primarily a childhood illness, can and does strike adults. Diphtheria germs produce a thick membrane that covers the throat and has the potential to suffocate a patient. The diphtheria germs also release a toxin that attacks the heart.

You won't be wasting time and money in bringing your immunizations up to date.

Children's Health Alert

Obesity or just baby fat?

What every parent should know about diet and exercise

Dr. John Hellerstedt, MD, FAAP

About 25 to 30 percent of school age children in the U.S. are overweight or obese, putting them at risk for disease and low self-esteem. Although rapid growth and weight gain are part of adolescence, many children and teens become overweight because they consume too many calories and don't exercise enough.

Your child's doctor can determine if your child is above the ideal weight for her height and age. If the problem is only moderate, better eating habits, lower fat intake, and increased exercise are likely the key. If a child is more than 40 percent overweight, a doctor guided weight loss program may be suggested.

Children are developing both physically and mentally, and they need adequate nutrition to grow. Just as too many calories can cause obesity and the health problems that accompany it, a diet with too few calories can have unhealthy consequences as well. Work with your doctor to establish a nutrition and fitness regimen to help your child achieve a healthy level of body fat.

The Children's Health Alert is presented as a public service by this newspaper and the TexCare Partnership: connecting Texas families with children's health insurance for $18 a month or less.

An Open Exchange of Ideas

Assessing Pres. Bush

George W. Bush has now completed one-eighth of his four-year term, and it is not too soon to make a preliminary assessment. It is important to consider his policy agenda, but one also begins with an overall impression.

He is doing a lot better than seemed likely after the election of 2000. The American people accept the fact that he is president. Indeed, his approval rating, at around 57 percent is about 10 points higher than Bill Clinton's at the six months mark of his first term.

The attempt to Quayle-ize Bush has failed. He can find Paris on the map. He and his team handled the Chinese kidnapping of our reconnaissance plane to general satisfaction. He seems to have reached a breakthrough agreement with Vladimir Putin linking missile defense to a scaling back in the U.S. and Russian nuclear arsenals.

Bush has genuine respect for the office of the presidency. There are no T-shirts in the Oval Office these days. Interns are not performing odd jobs. Meetings begin on time. There is a sense of seriousness.

A larger matter concerning Bush after six months is that he has not really connected with the American people.

In part this is a matter of communication. He does not have a venue in which

Commentary

by Jeffrey Hart

A tax cut is always popular, except among liberals, and Bush scored well with that and can hope that the economy improves.

he is comfortable and effective. Franklin Roosevelt communicated memorably on the radio, and he and Jack Kennedy were masters of the press conference. Ronald Reagan made great speeches. Bush is not especially effective in those formats.

But there is a problem with Bush's identity that goes beyond communication. A president's agenda, after all, is a principal way of communicating, and the Bush agenda seems oddly out of sync with the agenda of concerns on the minds of most people.

A tax cut is always popular, except among liberals, and Bush scored well with that and can hope that the economy improves.

The public sees that Bush and his administration share its concern about education, which is a plus for Bush, though "choice" — or vouchers — ran into a stone wall.

The Bush administration seems blissfully unaware that the environment and conservation are a concern to a very large majority of Americans. Perhaps it is the "Wild West" attitude that prevails in the White House on this. But Americans like clean beaches and streams, clean air, the national parks, the Everglades, wildlife preserves and wildlife in general.

The Bush administration came to town talking about snowmobiles in Yellowstone National Park, drilling in the Arctic and drilling everywhere else. One had the impression that one might wake up in the morning, look outside, and find an oil rig in his back yard.

Dick Cheney gave a remarkable press conference a couple of months ago in which he seemed to ridicule conservation, perhaps not noticing the resemblance between the words "conservative" and "conserve." This is one area where the Bush administration is communicating effectively, but it is communicating the wrong message.

August "Dog Days" housecleaning produces political flotsam-jetsam

These are the "Dog Days" of August which means it's time to clean up my messy work area (orders from the boss) and file away the paperwork that has accumulated from readers, news clips, interview notes, research material, magazine articles and those impossible to decipher - stick-em's, that are hanging all over the place (wonder what "pk..ban..nut..p-b..yuck" - could possibly mean?).

From this year's collection of flotsam and jetsam we managed to uncover several items that hopefully will interest readers this week.

THE BOMB!

For 56 years, August 6 and 9, have evoked memories of how World War II ended. Those are the dates that atomic bombs were dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki as ordered by President Harry Truman.

Each year a number of latter day "know-it-alls" feel compelled to castigate Truman in particular and the rest of us in general, for the first, and to date, only use of "The Bomb."

And each year - this column has berated those fault-finders who were not even a twinkle in their parent's eyes in 1945, and who cannot come close to imagining what was going through the minds of the two million men being readied to invade Japan. That very strange island-nation willing to commit national suicide in defense of their criminal leaders and "divine" emperor.

It was estimated that close to a million American lives were saved as a result of dropping the two bombs that ended, within days, the most destructive world wide war and concomitant loss of life, in history.

So unless a person was truly in harm's way back in 1945, he or she has no right to second guess America for developing the atomic bomb or Truman for using it.

As we remember that historic August morning when Lt. Colonel Paul Tibbets turned his atomic bomb-laden B-29, the Enola Gay, away from Tinian Island and headed for Hiroshima, we would also remind our currently safe and secure second guessing smuggers that by ending the war as we did, this nation kept open a safe harbor for folks to speak freely on matters they know nothing about, including the atomic bombing of Japan.

FUNNY STUFF

We don't usually use Molly Ivins as a source of material for this column since it causes so many of our conservative pals in Salado to scream with intense anguish (like Limbaugh does to the rest of us), but one of Molly-the-Lib's columns is worth noting, at least in part.

It deals with an education poll taken some months ago that tried to check out how much book learning grown-ups retained from their school days by asking simple questions such as who is buried in Grant's Tomb. You know the drill.

Anyway - one unusually humorous result, from a real question, indicated that 12.7 percent of adult Americans questioned, firmly believe that Joan of Arc was Noah's wife!

So, for those of you with very little giggle time logged thus far this year - go ahead and laugh. Be good for you!

CISNEROS ON PROWL

Remember San Antonio's former mayor, Henry Cisneros? The man once marked for great things here in Texas - some predicted he would be the first Hispanic Governor. Others saw him in Washington, perhaps as a future Veep.

Only problem was that this bright, articulate young man told a lie. Not unusual for a politician - but he fibbed

Off the Record

by Ken Clapp

This week's offering includes anniversary remarks about the atomic bombing of Japan; some funny stuff from Molly; Cisneros vs. Gramm and the DNGers on Hillary and Bill's memoirs!

to the FBI about a former girl friend he was supporting. All this during the vetting process when he was appointed HUD Secretary by Clinton.

Resignation came after years of obfuscating and Henry moved to California for rehabilitation and recovery. He's back now and heading up a state-wide non-partisan group "Every Texan Foundation" that will criss-cross the State trying to register all voters before the 2002 elections. Great exposure but the nagging question by some is what is behind this altruistic maneuvering on the part of Cisneros?

Answer is easily unearthed without much research. He is seeking to discover just how he might do if he took on Phil Gramm in the 2002 campaign for U. S. Senate! "Testing the waters" as the pundits say.

Dan Morales, former Democratic Attorney General, is also looking hard at the Gramm slot and his polling numbers are about the same as Cisneros. Only thing - Morales told reporters not long ago that "If Henry (Cisneros) runs, I won't!" That sounds serious, right?

Either way - should be an exciting race since Gramm's only claim to fame is being for things that most of us dislike (insurance, tobacco, banking and HMO interests) and against every social program either on the books or ever debated in Congress - thus making him vulnerable against a popular Hispanic.

Might also mention that the guys running for Governor are hard at it including: Incumbent Rick Perry; wealthy South Texan Tony Sanchez Jr.; former T-Sip football QB Marty Akins and our own personal choice - Houston attorney John WorldPeace.

After all - who in their right mind would vote against World Peace?

DNGERS AND "THE BOOKS"

The local branch of the International Society of Do-No-Gooders (you recall, this is the group that meets with alarming regularity at the Stagecoach Coffee Shop) went on record last week - at least the conservative wing of the DNGers did - as not being one bit curious about the books to be written by Hillary and Bill Clinton.

Seems the group is not interested in reading about the Clintons - only talking about them!

A few of the more cynical members of the DNG opined that these naysayers will somehow find a way to get the gist of what is written by the duo, if for no other reason than to have juicy subjects for coffee chatter. Thus keeping the Clinton mystique rolling along unimpeded, ad-infinitum!

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Tablerock Festival of Salado, Inc. sends a grateful thank you to the cast, crew, sponsors, organizations, individuals and attendees for their support in helping to make Salado Legends a success in it's 9th annual performance.

Our cast and crew consisted of 205 members, helpers and sponsors this season. The family-oriented production had 23 families ranging from 6 weeks-old to 89 years-old, and from one to four generations. Cast and crew members lived as far away as Waco, Kempner, Austin and Lampasas.

In keeping with our Salado Legends family tradition we encourage our young people to pursue a higher education. The Mike Doggett Scholarship and the Tablerock Scholarship each for $250 are yearly gifts to a "Legends" college student. And again this year, Shirley and Mike Cornett donated $1,000 for scholarships to two Salado Legends college students. Kate and Jim Garrett, Judy Harvey, Steven and Sandra Lastovica, Indian Trail Press and Denver Mills also donated scholarships. All together Tablerock gave a total of $3,000 in scholarships. One line in Salado Legends is "We're gonna learn them kids how to read and write and talk." It was just as true in 1860 as it is today, only we use a little better English today and since Salado College closed its doors we have to send "them kids" to other Texas institutions of higher learning.

Despite the over 100 degree temperature for 21 straight days, people drove in from big towns like Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth, Oklahoma City and San Antonio. Not to be outdone, the little towns like Bangs, Dublin, McAllen and Lott were represented too. A drawing for a one night stay at the Inn at Salado gave us names and addresses of people from Iowa, Georgia and Hawaii, and also from overseas in Ireland and Germany. The lucky winner of the drawing was Janet Corter from Red Oak, Texas (20 miles south of Dallas).

The economic impact of the 1,205 people who attended the three performances of Salado Legends is remarkable. The ticket sales combined with tourists sales at area motels, hotels, bed and breakfasts, shops, filling stations and restaurants is estimated to be $238,552. What a boon for Salado's tourist trade! This year it helps the Salado Village one percent sales tax and the Hotel Motel Tax.

Thank you one and all for your continued help and confidence in Salado Legends.

Sincerely,

Jackie Mills, President
Tablerock Festival of Salado, Inc.

Dear Friends of Salado:

There are many lovely things about living in Salado, and one of them is that we care for each other and help in the times of trial. Bill and I can never say enough thank you to all those who helped us during the past few days.

We need to thank Mary Lackey for her efforts when she, without being asked, put out our trash cans and brought them back in. Also, I have the feeling that she is the caring person who hung a bag of fresh tomatoes on our mail box. And then there is Wayne Tucker and his little son Braxton, who mowed our yard and edged and watered for us. Also my thanks go to Melba Kattner who did phoning for me when I could not find a phone book in the hospital. Oh, and many thanks to Joe Holt and Otto Bicus for taking over the Lions Club Booth at the Art Fair. Then I need to thank Sandy Brannon for the beautiful fruit basket and Wanda Fuhs for the tasty soup that she brought over to us. All the men who called-we do so appreciate your thinking of us-Bob McGhee, Bill Piper, Raymond Carver-and he was not just wondering if we had to drop out of rehearsals for Razzle Dazzle-and many others from the Lions Club and the Masonic Lodge—we love you and thank you. Also, I surely need to say thanks to Jo Jacobson who checks on us every morning, and Billy Zieger who came by to see how Bill was progressing.

A special thank you is extended to the Volunteer Fire Dept. EMS for their quick response and help at the scene.

And then, there is the kindness shown to us when Dr. Pena and his staff took us in during their lunch hour and took such good care of Bill. How fortunate we are to have you in Salado, and we love you all.

Sincerely,
Elizabeth W. Haldy

Gov. regs strangle biz

By Bill Hammond

In its attempt to extend fairness to the less fortunate, convenience for the disabled and safety for those who can't follow instructions, the federal government continues to parent the people of this country with excessive, costly regulations to the tune of $18.7 billion. Their reason -- because it's good for you.

From low-flow toilet legislation designed to conserve water to ordinances for businesses to install a bicycle racks that no one uses, government seems to relish the practice of imposing the ridiculous and costly. Is all of this in the name of balance, equity and conservation or just more unnecessary parenting?

Congress often gives great leeway to federal entities to make rules that are binding on the companies that fall within their jurisdiction. This chaotic approach allows government agencies, comprised of faceless and unaccountable bureaucrats, to impose strict regulations that do little but take money out of our paychecks.

Congress, a great source of leaks, went into the plumbing business by requiring that toilets installed after 1994 to function with much less water (1.6 gallons). The bad news is that it now takes two or three flushes and more water to get the job done.

Clinton loved the toilet mandates so much, he extended regulations to cover washing machines as a part of his midnight regulation madness. The 37,504-word regulation set "standards" on the amount of electricity and water that can be used by home washing machines -- standards that only front-loading washing machines meet. This mandate will go into effect in the near future unless President Bush rescinds it. Conservatively, a front-load washer can cost $200 to double the amount of a top loading washer. It is also estimated that you would have to do eight loads of laundry a week to realize any savings in electricity and water.

Closer to home, and not to be outdone by the feds, Austin's city government mandates that businesses erect bicycle racks to the tune of 500 plus dollars each. The monument to cyclists built at TABCC's offices only serves as an occasional bookshelf as we pack our cars to go home.

If the implementation of regulations doesn't break you, the enforcement of regulations could. By conservative estimates, it takes over 100 days of the average American's salary to pay for the cost of govern-

Individually, these examples don't seem so drastically costly, but consider this: the federal government alone has 134,723 pages of regulations, which takes over 130,000 employees to implement and enforce.

Is this really necessary?

Ronald Reagan didn't think so when he established the Grace Commission in 1981 to come up with cost-cutting ideas for government. Because of his efforts the number of regulations actually reduced drastically. But, by the time Carter left office, he added an additional 20,000 pages to the books paid for by you and me.

Excessive regulations will stunt the growth of this country if not stopped.

But past experience has taught us that government, just like the five year-old whose hand gets caught in the cookie jar, can't help itself. It's time for the taxpayers to take over the parenting.

Call your legislator and let them know that excessive regulations deter economic growth in your community.

Bill Hammond is President and CEO of the Texas Association of Business and Chambers of Commerce.

Hightower's hog report

Jim Hightower

Today's bunch of porkers include some giant corporate hog farms, the head hog of the National Pork Producers Council, and George W. Bush's agriculture secretary, Ann Veneman. They're all squealing because America's real hog farmers -- the independent family operators -- are mad as hell about their autocratic ways.

At issue is something called the pork check-off, also known as the pork tax. It's a fee on each hog that a farmer sells, and the $50 million it takes from farmers each year supposedly goes to the promotional programs of the Pork Council. But mostly it's used to fatten the Council's bureaucrats, who are champions of the agribusiness giants trying to crush the independents.

Understandably, the family farmers are not hog wild about paying fees to an outfit controlled by the corporate empires that have squeezed 130,000 of them out of business in the past decade alone. They did something very American: They petitioned for a referendum to abolish this corporate tax, then they went farm-to-farm in a true grassroots campaign, and in January... they won! Dan Glickman, the Clinton ag secretary who had overseen this national vote of hog producers said: "Strictly on the basis of democracy, those small farmers defeated the check-off."

But then came Bush and Veneman. Pressed by the Pork Council and the hog-factory operators who had backed Little George for president, Ann Veneman simply threw out the results of the referendum. By administrative fiat she canceled the farmers' vote, regally declaring it to be "procedurally flawed." In doing so, she didn't bother consulting with the winning coalition, but she had met privately with the head of the Pork Council, which will profit from her autocratic action.

Radio talk-show host and author, Jim Hightower is a former Agricultural Commissioner of Texas. His latest book is "If The Gods Had Meant Us To Vote, They Would Have Given Us Candidates" (Harper-Collins), has just been released in a fully revised and updated paperback edition.

Mayor, chief discuss police dept.

Dear Citizens of Salado:

As you know, Salado now has its very own Police Department. Effective August 6, 2001, Alan Rogers began his duties as Chief of Police. We would like to share some important information that will hopefully make the transition from receiving police service from Bell County Sheriffs Department to Salado Police Department more smoothly.

Bell County Sheriffs Department will continue to respond to Salado until October 1, while the administrative necessities are being done to get Salado's Police Department up and running. During this time, if you need an emergency response, please call 911 and the Bell County Sheriff's Department will respond.

Beginning October 2001, it citizens of Salado who reside within the incorporated limits of Salado need an emergency response they are to call 911 and Salado Police will respond. If citizens of Salado who reside outside the incorporated limits of Salado need an emergency response they are to call 911 and the Bell County Sheriffs Department will respond. The two departments will assist each other as needed.

Beginning October 1, 2001, all non-emergency calls within the incorporated limits may be directed by calling the Salado Police Department. (The phone number will be assigned in the near future. All non-emergency calls outside the Incorporated limits may be directed to the Bell County Sheriffs Department.

If you have any questions, please call 947-5060.

Deadline nears for Centex State Fair

By ILENE MILLER
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT-FCS

August 17 is the deadline for Central Texas Creative Arts. If you are a crafter, quilter, cook, artist or photographer, there are opportunities to enter this year's fair. The annual event is open to both youth and adults in the Central Texas area. There are 202 different categories to enter including 20 Foods classes ranging from cakes to breads, candy and cookies. Food Preservation includes jelly, pickles, canned fruits and vegetables plus home made wines.

Needlework, crochet, knit, woven items, pillows, soft toys, and holiday creations completed in the past year can be entered in the Textiles Division. The Clothing classes include machine sewn accessories, children's and adult garments. Quilters will find 19 separate classes to enter and the Art Division is divided into eight separate categories — Oil/Acrylic, drawing, charcoal, watercolor, mixed media, ceramics and pottery.

Painted Porcelain and the Other Arts offer additional areas of competition. Folk Art, wreaths, baskets, leathercrafts, jewelry, woodcrafts and home accessories will all be eligible to enter by the Aug. 17 deadline. Woodcarving and photography and the Grandparents Brag complete the contest options for this year's Fair.

There is a cost of one dollar per entry. Prize money and ribbons will be awarded to the top five winners in each class. Exhibitors also receive a free one day pass to the fair. Entries will be checked in Aug. 27 for judging and displayed for public viewing throughout the Fair Aug. 29-Sept. 2. Check out for entries is Sept. 3, 1-4 p.m.

For more details on the creative arts contest, check www.centraltexasstatefair.com.

Salado celebs perform Aug. 17-18

Featuring the Chamber of Commerce President, the Salado Village Mayor and Police Chief, Salado ISD Superintendent, Salado's Chamber will present "Razzle Dazzle," a spectacular stage show, 8 p.m. Aug. 17-18 in the Salado Middle School Auditorium, at 8 p.m. each evening, over 150 Saladoans will participate singing, dancing, and acting.

The purpose is threefold: To emphasize the Chamber's volunteer "Friends and Neighbors" program, to raise funds for installing a watering system at the Green Bridge Park on Main Street and for the school's drama and music programs. And not incidentally, to have great fun indoors - leaving the hot weather outside.

Musical performers will be accompanied by an orchestra, actors will act in scenes, and dancers (even male dancers wearing specially designed costumes) will perform for Saladoans and their families, gently satirizing residents and retailers, golfers, tourists, elected village officials and well-known locals.

Superlatives like the "most" or "best" have been overused in describing past raffle events in Salado; however, it is not an exaggeration to claim that "The Razzle Dazzle Raffle," held in conjunction with the show, beginning at 7 p.m. Aug. 17-18, is the biggest, most dazzling raffle event ever offered here.

The Range continues to "Ignite Hope"

The second annual "Igniting Hope at The Range," a one-day culinary event benefiting the Scott & White Breast Cancer Treatment Clinic, is slated for Aug. 19 at The Range at the Barton House in Salado.

All proceeds from the day's service will be donated to the clinic by Dave and Katie Hermann, owners of The Range and honor graduates of New York's prestigious Culinary Institute of America.

For $75 each, guests will dine on a four-course meal and wine. Starting with white truffle custard with crispy potato, the meal will then feature a salad course of baby greens in apple bacon vinaigrette over crispy polenta and barbecue duck. The featured entree, Chipolte-rubbed and smoked filet of beef over roasted corn pudding with red pepper cream sauce, will be followed by dessert of tiramisu nouveau with chocolate sauce and gendouilla.

A vegetarian menu will also be available.

The gourmet meal will be served during the hours of 12-3 p.m. and 5-9 p.m. Reservations are strongly recommended.

Hermann, who also serves as head chef, said it will be an extra special day when preparing dinner. "Everything going into the meal will be the freshest, best product available. It will be the best of the best."

The goal of the Breast Cancer Treatment Clinic is to improve the survival of women with breast cancer, giving special attention to their quality of life. "The Clinic is tailored for each individual woman and allows her to meet one-on-one with each health care professional who will be involved in her care," said Robyn Young, M.D., director. Breast Cancer Treatment Clinic. "What is so unique about Scott & White's Breast Cancer Treatment Clinic is the personal support and attention each patient and family member receives."

Scott & White has had a long tradition of commitment to cancer prevention and care. In 1933 Scott & White was the first hospital in Texas to receive accreditation by the American College of Surgeons for Cancer Surgery and in the same year, instituted the first tumor registry in the state. That commitment is one of the reasons the Hermanns got involved.

"This disease affects families, and our family is the most important thing to us," said Mrs. Hermann. "Cancer changes your life and your perspective. I hope the treatment clinic will always be available to anyone who has to go through breast cancer diagnosis."

"We were thrilled with the wonderful response to last year's event and hope the community will help make this year's event more successful," said Mrs. Hermann.

Last year's event raised over $10,000 for the Clinic.

For more information, call the Scott & White Center for Cancer Prevention and Care at (254) 724-5560 or for reservations call The Range at (254) 947-3828.

No water rationing!
for now anyway ...

Salado Water Supply Customers cut back on their usage last week enough to avoid mandatory rationing.

For now, anyway.

Water usage dropped almost 700,000 gallons last week, compared with the week before, which SWSC Manager Ricky Preston said was a record breaking week.

But Preston said SWSC users are not out of the woods just yet. They still need to conserve water to reach the 10 percent reduction outlined in SWSC's drought management plan.

SWSC will continue in Stage III, which calls for voluntary water rationing to reduce usage by 15 percent. Stage III is implemented when maximum daily water demand exceeds 80 percent of pumping capacity.

The lowest water usage day last week was Monday, following a brief rainstorm that lasted less than half an hour.

But Preston says he would much rather have the daily usage at 1.4 million gallons per day than at capacity of 1.7 million gallons per day.

"If people don't continue to cut back on outdoor watering," Preston said, "we could still see rationing this month."

Value of your collectibles

Question:
I am dressing an antique china headed doll as a bride, and I wondered what kind of dress she should wear?

Answer:
Brides were very practical in past centuries. The bridal dress was usually just a "Sunday best." Most were in subdued colors. White was an impractical color, difficult to keep clean. The Victorian bride often wore satin or velvet. A daring bride wore red, but most preferred blue or brown.

Queen Victoria's wedding dress in 1840 was cream-colored with hand-made lace. It created a new look and helped the ailing lace industry. Soon, all brides chose white as a symbol of virginity. The veil became popular in the 1870s.

Question:
My daughters were born in the 1970s, and I'm embarrassed to tell you that I am only now cleaning out their toy chests. It's fun, and it brings back happy memories. Among the Barbie dolls are some small Strawberry Shortcake dolls. Should I save these dolls? Does anyone collect them?

Answer:
Kenner introduced Strawberry Shortcake dolls and related accessories in 1979. The dolls were based on an American Greetings character. They were a big hit with little girls.

Each doll smelled like a fruit. Strawberry Shortcake smelled like strawberries, Blueberry Muffin like blueberries, Huckleberry Pie like huckleberries and Apple Dumpling like apples. The earliest dolls had flat hands. Later ones had hands that curled so they could hold flowers or an umbrella. All of the dolls and other toys are collectible today. An early doll alone is worth $25 to $40.

Collection of everything

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

Bill DeBrooke was in the movie rental business in Harlingen for years, then sold out to Blockbuster. Now he collects things. He has one of the world's most extensive collections of electric razors, hundreds of toy trains, movie posters, advertising signs and transistor radios. He even has a couple of wire recorders.

He lives among his collections in a three story building in downtown Harlingen. He bought the building for just a few thousand dollars. The previous owner wanted to keep an office in the building, so Bill charged him a fair rent. Every month, Bill took the man a check for $400 and in return, the man gave Bill a check for $250. A sweet deal for everybody.

"We used to buy Navajo rugs," says Bill. "But they got expensive. So after the first seventy or eighty, we gave up." His collection is housed on the third floor of his building. That floor has 7,000 square feet. A hallway is filled with old scales, the type that used to cost a penny to give your correct weight.

"Everybody wants one of those old lollipop scales," says Bill. "Don't you love that white enamel finish? Then we have several smaller scales, too. We have a bunch of pin ball machines. How do you have just one? Then there's the candy machine. Everybody remembers pulling the little lever to get you a candy bar. Just the other day I got one of the old cigarette machines. It goes right with the candy machine, which goes with the juke boxes, which go with the coke machines." I told Bill he could never move. He says he has no plans to get rid of anything. He's leaving that up to his kids. I asked him how he got all this stuff. He said, "You start early and work hard at it."

He has hundreds of photographs of people he doesn't even know. "Well, there was this auction last Saturday and there were three or four generations of photos. Pretty neat." He has floor to ceiling shelves filled with scale model cars, doll houses, tools, typewriters and movie projectors. "And how about a 1929 Johnson outboard motor?" He likes old vacuum cleaners. "They're really fun."

He has counter-top displays of smoking pipes, batteries and ball point pens. "The only thing wrong with that is collecting all the old pipes, batteries and ball point pens that go in the displays. This is real work here. Collecting is hard." I asked him how many cameras he had. "At a thousand I gave up and quit counting. We're gonna have to take them down to the second floor. I've got another 7,000 square feet down there. We've got another building, too. We also collect buildings. We have about twenty-five or so."

He collects paint-by-numbers. "We started buying paint-by-numbers as a joke. All of a sudden they have become totally collectible and expensive." I asked him to name something he does not collect, but he couldn't think of anything.

BUDGET & TAX MEETINGS

The budget and tax meetings are scheduled for 6 p.m. August 15 and 30 at the Civic Center.

Dear Students, Parents, and Citizens of Salado,

The 2001-2002 school year will begin in 1 week! I am looking forward to an excellent school year and can't wait to work with you!

School begins on August 21. Teachers will return on August 15, with new teachers returning on August 14. Meet the Teacher Night is set for August 20. Open Houses are set for Tuesday, September 18, 6 p.m. at Thomas Arnold, and Tuesday, September 25, 6 p.m. at Salado Intermediate and High School.

You will notice many wonderful changes! Most notably, through your support of the school bond election this spring, we have a new track and a new high school roof. These are nearing completion. You will also notice new fencing surrounding the playgrounds at Thomas Arnold Elementary. We have been repainting some of the interiors of the buildings, and our custodial staff has made the buildings shine. We have very fortunate in hiring quality, caring people to work with our children.

Registration, transportation, and health forms are available in English and in Spanish on the campuses. If you have an E-mail address, be sure this is indicated on your student's registration form. Much of our correspondence is sent through our network.

Schedules for football and volleyball are available at the Central Office or at campuses. The coaches and new band director have been working all summer in preparing for our children.

If you are interested in the following programs, please feel free to contact these individuals: Sara Pyle, Gifted and Talented Programs, 947-5191; Gail Avots, Special Education, 947-1700; Nancy Bergman, Dyslexia Specialist, 947-5191; or English as a Second Language, Scott Rodwell, 947-1700. Your school counselors are also available to help you, Katy Whitis, Salado High School; Melissa Kemp, Salado Intermediate School; and Donna Driggers, Thomas Arnold Elementary.

As you are aware, our students did very well on their TAAS test this year. This is just the beginning! We have begun individualizing instruction for all children. This is paying great dividends. We will continue to have horizontal (grade level) team meetings and vertical (across grade level) team meetings to work on curriculum. Many of our special programs' teachers have attended training this summer and are fired up.

The School Board and Administration have been working on budgets all summer. The Board will have its next budget meeting on Wednesday, August 15, 6 p.m. at the Civic Center and will meet on Thursday, August 30, 6 p.m. to approve the 2001-2002 operating budget and supporting tax rate. The proposed operating budget is $6.3 million dollars.

It is an honor to serve you and your children and one that I never take for granted. If you have any questions or concerns, we are here to help you. Call Rod Stockstill, Thomas Arnold Elementary, 947-5191; Joe Palmer, Salado Intermediate School, 947-1700; Kay Matthews or Sandie Hanks, 947-5429; Tommy Barkley, Transportation, 947-5023; Darlene Kirk, Administrative Assistant, 947-5479; Wilma Floyd, Food Services, 947-1706; Jeff Cheatham, Athletics, 947-0803; Charles Christian, Band, 947-4273; Vonda Marley, Health Services, 947-1700; or myself at 947-5479. SALADO VILLAGE VOICE BACKS THE EAGLES!

Watch for children in school zones

More than 23 million students across the country make their journey to school via school buses every year, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

The Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) is reminding motorists to do their part in helping to increase safety around school zones by using extreme caution when approaching a loading or unloading school bus.

According to Texas law, a motorist can be cited for failure to yield to a school bus with flashing red lights, which indicates children are boarding or exiting the bus. This fine could cost the motorist between $200 - $1000.

To increase safety,

TxDOT offers motorists the following tips:

 Slow down. Always obey the speed limit when traveling through neighborhoods and school zones.

 Be attentive. Watch for children gathering near bus stops and walking in the street, especially where there are no sidewalks.

 Remain alert. Hurried children may dart into the street without looking for traffic.

 Flashing yellow lights indicate a school bus is preparing to stop to load or unload children. Motorists should be prepared to slow down and stop.

 Flashing red lights or an extended "STOP" arm indicate children are loading or unloading a school bus. Motorists must stop.

* Vehicles can begin moving again when the flashing red lights are turned off or the extended "STOP" arm is withdrawn.

* Motorists traveling on roads separated by a median are not required to stop for school buses traveling on the opposite side of the road.

"By keeping these tips in mind, motorists will help make children's ride to school safer by reducing the number of school bus-related injuries and fatalities each year," said Carlos Lopez, TxDOT's director of traffic operations. "Keeping our school children safe is important and requires vigilance around school buses and school zones."

Teach your children to be safe pedestrians

By ILENE MILLER
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT-FCS

Whether your child walks to school or not, it is imperative that all children understand how to be a safe pedestrian. According to the National Center for Health Statistics, pedestrian injuries have become a common cause of serious injury and death among school age children five to nine years old. The Center reports that each year approximately 1,300 children ages 14 and under die in pedestrian incidents. Here are some suggestions for families of children who walk to school.

1. Choose the safest route and Walk it with your children. Look for the most direct route with the fewest street crossings. Walk the route with your children until they demonstrate traffic safety awareness. Children under age 8 should walk with an adult or older child every day. They should take the same route and avoid shortcuts.

2. Teach children to obey Traffic Signals and markings. Children should be taught the meaning of traffic markers. A flashing walk sign is not an automatic go signal. It means a pedestrian has permission to cross, but must first stop and check for cars.

3. Teach children NOT to enter the street from between Parked Cars or from Behind Bushes or shrubs. Darting into the street accounts for 50 to 70 percent of pedestrian injuries among children age 9 and under.

4. Teach children to Cross the Street at a corner or crosswalk. Make sure children allow plenty of time to cross. Teach them to walk, not run, across intersections. Tell your children to listen to adults crossing guards or safety patrols at monitored intersections.

5. Warn children to be extra alert in bad weather. Visibility may be poor and motorists may not be able to stop quickly. Children should be reminded to be extra careful during inclement weather since it is harder for drivers to see them.

6. Demonstrate proper pedestrian safety by being a good role model. Children imitate their parents and model their behavior. Your children need you to not only tell but also show them how to be safe pedestrians.

Extension programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or disability.

Obtain your Read to Succeed license plates from tax office

As many Texans, young and old, prepare to return to school what better time to feature the Read to Succeed specialty license plates. The Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) and the local county tax assessor-collector's office can provide Texans with these plates, whose sales benefit public school libraries statewide.

The plates cost $30 annually in addition to the regular registration fee. Of that amount, $25 goes to a special fund set up to provide educational materials for the state's public school libraries. Owners of fleets of 50 or more vehicles can obtain the plates for $20 per vehicle ($15 goes into the special fund). As of September 2000, more than $60,000 had been raised for the fund through the sale of these plates.

Motorists may obtain the Read to Succeed plates through applications made with county tax offices, accessing TxDOT's Web site (www.dot.state.tx.us), calling TxDOT's Fax-On-Demand forms line at 1-888-232-7033, or calling the TxDOT Help Desk at (512) 465-7611.

Collection of everything

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

Bill DeBrooke was in the movie rental business in Harlingen for years, then sold out to Blockbuster. Now he collects things. He has one of the world's most extensive collections of electric razors, hundreds of toy trains, movie posters, advertising signs and transistor radios. He even has a couple of wire recorders.

He lives among his collections in a three story building in downtown Harlingen. He bought the building for just a few thousand dollars. The previous owner wanted to keep an office in the building, so Bill charged him a fair rent. Every month, Bill took the man a check for $400 and in return, the man gave Bill a check for $250. A sweet deal for everybody.

"We used to buy Navajo rugs," says Bill. "But they got expensive. So after the first seventy or eighty, we gave up." His collection is housed on the third floor of his building. That floor has 7,000 square feet. A hallway is filled with old scales, the type that used to cost a penny to give your correct weight.

"Everybody wants one of those old lollipop scales," says Bill. "Don't you love that white enamel finish? Then we have several smaller scales, too. We have a bunch of pin ball machines. How do you have just one? Then there's the candy machine. Everybody remembers pulling the little lever to get you a candy bar. Just the other day I got one of the old cigarette machines. It goes right with the candy machine, which goes with the juke boxes, which go with the coke machines." I told Bill he could never move. He says he has no plans to get rid of anything. He's leaving that up to his kids. I asked him how he got all this stuff. He said, "You start early and work hard at it."

He has hundreds of photographs of people he doesn't even know. "Well, there was this auction last Saturday and there were three or four generations of photos. Pretty neat." He has floor to ceiling shelves filled with scale model cars, doll houses, tools, typewriters and movie projectors. "And how about a 1929 Johnson outboard

He has counter-top displays of smoking pipes, batteries and ball point pens. "The only thing wrong with that is collecting all the old pipes, batteries and ball point pens that go in the displays. This is real work here. Collecting is hard." I asked him how many cameras he had. "At a thousand I gave up and quit counting. We're gonna have to take them down to the second floor. I've got another 7,000 square feet down there. We've got another building, too. We also collect buildings. We have about twenty-five or so."

He collects paint-by-numbers. "We started buying paint-by-numbers as a joke. All of a sudden they have become totally collectible and expensive." I asked him to name something he does not collect, but he couldn't think of anything.

Don't crack up

Question: The interior walls of my 11-year-old home have a few small cracks in them. Can I repair them myself? Should I be worried about the foundation shifting?

Answer: Unless the cracks are very large, or all of them appeared within a short time, I wouldn't worry about foundation problems. All homes settle with age. Unfortunately, today's builders use materials that are less resistant to this settling—in this case, dry-wall (rather than plaster walls). Not that drywall is a bad thing; in fact, it costs less and is easier to build with, repair and replace than other materials.

For small cracks, use a caulking gun and spread a thin line of paintable silicone caulk into the crack. Place a little rubbing alcohol on a soft cloth and wipe away excess caulk as you smooth the line out. Once the caulking is flush with the existing drywall, let it dry and then coat the area with primer. (Make sure you use primer first, or the paint will never match.) Then, repaint.

Larger cracks require a different patching method. You'll need drywall compound and drywall tape, 6-inch and 10-inch taping knives, and fine-grit sand-SEE CRACKS, PAGE 14B paper attached to a sanding block.

Clean any loose material from around the edges of the crack. Measure the amount of tape needed to cover the crack (if it's very jagged, you might need to cut the tape into smaller pieces).

Apply a thin coat of drywall compound to the crack and immediately embed the tape in the compound. Scrape away excess compound.

Smooth another thin coat of compound over the tape and feather the edges so that the tape will blend in smoothly. Let the patch dry overnight. Apply a second and third coat of drywall compound, feathering the edges along the existing drywall. Let each coat dry completely. Sand the patch until the compound is smooth. Then, brush away the dust and coat the patch with a primer. Finally, paint the area to match the rest of the wall.

I usually patch the drywall just before painting a room - that way, I don't have to worry about finding matching paint, especially with specific blends. Good luck!
