Redistricting puts Salado in different House district

By Ken Clapp

The southern half of Bell County, including the Village of Salado, will be severed from Chet Edward's 11th congressional district, if the proposed State Court plan dividing Texas into 32 new congressional areas remains intact, according to informational maps and press notices released from State District Judge Paul Davis' office in Austin, on Oct. 3.

STATE'S FAILURE SENDS

REDISTRICTING TO COURT

Failure of the Texas Legislature earlier this year, turned the redistricting of the State's congressional delegation over to the courts, starting at the State judicial level. A plan, complete with brand new district boundaries, drawn by Judge Davis, has been reviewed and commented on during the past seven days by both political parties and minority rights groups. It now goes to a federal three judge panel in Tyler, as required by the Voting Rights Act, for final adjudication.

Unless that panel's decision is to set a trial date or remands the matter for further State Court review or should there be an appeal to the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, then the Davis' plan becomes final with implementation to begin with the next round of congressional elections on general election day, Nov. 5, 2002.

CUTTING BELL

IN TWO "BAD IDEA"

Judge Davis, by cutting Bell County in half, destroyed what is one of the guiding principals of redistricting, according to Congressman Edwards, which is "maintaining a community of interests" within districts.

In a telephone interview with Edwards' office in Washington, it was plain that the changes in District 11, while not a problem for the Congressman's reelection plans, did cause him to have concern for Bell County. Edwards thinks it unwise to divide any county where interests within the county are as tightly drawn as they are in Bell and to cut Fort Hood off from Killeen and Harker

Heights "a very bad idea."

The congressman announced Oct. 5, that he intends to do all in his power to have this error corrected - and Bell restored as a whole county within one district rather than divided between two districts.

The judicial plan would put the southern half of Bell County that includes Killeen, Harker Heights, some of Belton as well as Salado, in District 23, currently held by Henry Bonilla (R-San Antonio), who serves on the Agriculture Committee in the House.

BONILLA MAY MOVE

TO DISTRICT 31

Rumor in Washington has it that Bonilla may decide to cast his lot with newly formed District 31, which will include most of his current district. If this proves to be the case, District 23, would then have no incumbent, thus throwing the next race in that district wide-open. Immediate problem for constituents in District 23, would then be to wind up with a freshman lawmaker, with

Rep. Delisi announces intention to run again

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

With a slight catch in her throat Oct. 3, State Rep. Dianne Delisi announced her plans to seek her sixth term of office in a newly-drawn District 55 that includes Salado for the first time.

Standing in the front yard of her home in Temple, Delisi was surrounded by the American and Texas flags, and about 50 family and friends who turned out to hear her announcement.

Delisi canceled an earlier fund-raiser at the Bell County Expo Center after the terrorist attacks on America, but announced her plans for re-election after President Bush issued his "call to duty" in the days following the attacks.

"President Bush has called us all to duty for our nation," Rep. Delisi said. "We all answer that call in different ways. This is how I answer President Bush's call to duty."

Rep. Delisi said that she commits herself to five areas of concern for Texas: education, transportation, taxes, community and family and public safety.

"I will help secure the best classroom teachers in America for our students here in Texas," Rep. Delisi said. "We can do no less than that for the military personnel and reservists than to provide the best education in America for their children."

Rep. Delisi told Salado Village Voice that the first bill she will sponsor on her return to the Congress is one that requires that all teachers in Texas classrooms be American citizens.

Rep. Delisi called on those present and all Texans to support the Mobility Bonds on Nov. 6. "We must secure adequate money for I-35," Rep. Delisi said, adding that the Mobility Bonds will help build the state's transportation infrastructure. "We are about 30 years behind where we should be," Rep. Delisi told Salado Village Voice before her announcement.

Rep. Delisi said that, especially during times of economic uncertainty, she would continue to oppose any increase in taxes or new taxes. "There won't be a personal income tax in Texas during my watch," she stated. "It will be a cold day in you-know-where, Reverend Alwine, that I vote for a state

Youth booster reverse raffle set Oct. 13

Salado Youth Fair Boosters will hold their annual Reverse Raffle at the Bell County Expo Center 6 p.m. Oct. 13.

The Grand Prize for the reverse raffle is a $5,000 gift certificate, pro-rated to the total number of tickets purchased. Second place is $2,500. The more tickets sold, the higher the prize. Other prizes will be drawn during the evening, as well.

The object of the reverse raffle is not to be the first name drawn out of the hat. In fact, you want to be the last name in the hat to win the Grand Prize.

After a barbecue dinner, Youth Boosters will begin drawing the names out of the hat, one at a time. Each ticket purchased will admit the holder and a date for the barbecue dinner. There will be a cash bar for adult drinks available.

Even if your name is drawn first, you will want to stick around for the rest of the evening, as 10 tickets will be auctioned off to the highest bidder to be placed back into the reverse raffle. When the final 10 names are left, one ticket will be auctioned off by Bill Hall. All proceeds from the 10 auctioned tickets will go to the Youth Fair Boosters.

All in all, the reverse raffle makes for a fun night to raise money for a great cause.

To purchase your ticket, contact Tammy Haire, at 947-8182 or any Youth Fair Booster Club member.

income tax."

While many businesses in the state are reporting shortfalls in revenue, the state will also have shortfalls in revenues. But, Rep. Delisi said, she will not vote for new or increased taxes to overcome these shortfalls. "I commit to you that I will see that we get the very best for our dollar and that we will not raise taxes," Rep. Delisi said.

She said that she will continue to support any legislation that helps to "restore traditional family values in our communities." She supports expanding character and civics education programs "to develop our children into productive citizens" and protecting the traditional marriage and family.

Rep. Delisi introduced a bill to combat bioterrorism during the last legislative session. The bill never made it out of committee, she said, adding that it will be the second bill that she introduces into legislation in the next session.

HB 1893 (or 1693) created an infrastructure to react to possible bioterror

PLAN MAY CREATE

A NEW GOP MAJORITY

The plan drawn by Judge Davis is almost exactly like the one created by Lt. Gov. Bill Ratliff, a Republican, who noted early on that his proposal could give the GOP a majority of the State's congressional seats.

The Ratliff plan failed to pass muster during the 77th Legislative Session thus throwing the matter into the State's judicial system.

Texas currently has 30 seats in the House of Representatives, divided 17-13 favoring the Democrats. Texas will receive two more seats in the next election thanks to the 2000 census results that increased the size of the Congressional delegation.

If the Davis Plan is approved, Salado will find itself, along with the rest of south Bell County, at the northern end of congressional district 23. An area that winds itself south and west through Williamson, Blanco, Brown, Burnet, Coke, Coleman, Concho, Gillespie, Glasscock, Irion, Kendall, Kerry, Kimble, Llano, McCulloch, Mason, Menard, Mills, Runnels, San Saba, Schleicher, Sterling, Tom Green counties plus a small slice of northern Bexar County.

These areas are mostly rural with population centers located in southern Bell and Williamson counties - thus giving them an edge in selecting the district's congressional representative.

Chet Edwards began his first congressional campaign in Salado in 1990, with an announcement from the second floor of the old Stagecoach Inn, located on North Main Street, the exact same spot where Sam Houston, according to local tradition, spoke in favor of keeping Texas in the Union as the Civil War broke out in 1861. At that time Salado favored secession as compared to Belton, that opposing such action.

Edwards' Press Secretary Dave Helfert noted that the congressman believed there was at least a 50-50 chance that the federal judicial panel will keep Bell County together due to the impact on Fort Hood with its strong ties to the local communities within the county.

Helfert further reported that Edwards felt strongly about keeping Fort Hood, Killeen, Harker Heights and Copperas Cove in one congressional district since it is "extremely important that the close ties between civilian and military be maintained rather than risk the danger of destroying the necessary 'community of interests' that would harm both the military establishment and the communities that work so closely with Fort Hood".

County Judge optimistic Bell County Judge Jon Burrows told the Salado Village Voice last Friday, that he was optimistic that State District Judge Paul Davis would change his preliminary redistricting order, keep Bell County in one piece and put Fort Hood back with Killeen, Harker Heights, Copperas Cove and Lampasas in the same congressional district.

Reason for this note of optimism from Burrows is the fact that after talking with Judge Davis, it became apparent to the County Judge that population numbers were key to the boundary settings for congressional seats and "perhaps" the negative impact of such a division within the military-civilian cooperative relationship in Bell was inadvertently overlooked.

The review and comment period that ended Oct. 9 at 5 p.m. had strong recommendations from Bell County officials that Fort Hood and its surrounding communities be reunited.

Judge Burrows feels that this critically important change will, in all probability, be made before the plan goes to Tyler for review by the three judge federal panel.

Eagles lose homecoming game to Jarrell

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado's Homecoming was a homecoming of sorts for Jarrell quarterback Stephen Fewell, who returned to Eagle Field Oct. 5 to play the role of spoiler by scoring the final touchdown with 1:04 left in the game to give the Cougars a 19-10 win over the hosting Eagles.

Fewell, who transferred from Salado to Jarrell as a junior this year, led Cougar's 77-yard march down the field over two-and-a-half minutes.

The Cougars stopped Hunter Konzen's fourth and one run to the right side to take over at their own 23 yard line with 3:38 remaining in the game and holding on to a slim 13-10 lead.

After handing off to Justin Bryson twice, Fewell took a third and two snap and ran it for seven yards. A facemask penalty against Salado brought the ball to the Eagles' 47 yard line with just over two minutes left. Fewell then scrambled for 44 yards to bring the ball to Salado's three yard line. On third down, Fewell snuck in behind his center from the one yard line 1:04 left in the game. Salado stopped the two-point conversion attempt by Bryson, but the Cougars held a 19-10 lead with about a minute left in the game.

Jarrell took the opening lead of the game when Bryson ran through a gaping hole on fourth down and two from the Salado 25 yard line with 5:42 left in the first quarter. Fewell's 30-yard return of a Salado punt gave the Cougars the ball deep in Salado territory at the Eagles 33 yard line. The Eagles defense threw Fewell for a loss on third down and inches to go, but relented on the fourth down run by Bryson.

Salado evened the scored at 7 when Jeremy Grimm hit favorite target Jarrod Whitfield in the flat on fourth down and three to go at the Cougar 18 yard line. Grimm hit Whitfield for eight yards just prior to the touchdown pass.

Grimm missed two field goal attempts of 48 and 37 yards in the first half. He converted a 45 yard field goal with 7:53 left in the game to bring Salado to within three of Jarrell, 13-10. That drive was highlighted by an eight yard pass to Garrett Quarles and an 18-yard scramble by Grimm.

Jarrell controlled the third quarter, using seven minutes on a 56 yard scoring drive. Facing a fourth and 20 at the Salado 21 yard, Fewell missed Zach Benton at the end zone, but a pass interference call gave the Cougars 15 yards and a fresh set of down at the Eagles' six yard line. Jarrell SEE EAGLES, PAGE 9A

2 SHS runners break school records Oct. 6

Lauren Mewhinney and Nick Everett set school records at the Round Rock McNeil Cross Country Meet Oct. 6.

Mewhinney, a junior runner who placed second in state cross country last year, ran the two-mile course in 11:59, her personal best time. She placed seventh in the meet that included 271 runners from all levels of high schools from 5A to A.

Everett's time of 17 minutes over the three mile course also put his name in the Salado High record books for cross country. He placed 25th in the meet. Jack Lucas ran a time of 20:45.9 to place 222nd in the field of 261 runners.

The girls placed 19th overall with seven runners completing the course: Britanni Goodnight, 13:17.4, 19th; Abby Buchanan, 13:51.2, 52nd; Laramie Wilson, 14:00.5, 70th; Rebekah Quick, 14:27.3, 204th; Jenny Ewton, 14:35.4, 214th; and Tiffany Dixon, 14:59.1, 238th.

Eagles

converted the opportunity into points when Bryson ran it in from the six yard line with 3:23 left in the third. The PAT was blocked, giving Jarrell a 13-7 lead.

Salado drove from their own 20 yard line to the Cougars 28 yard line, setting up Grimm's 45-yard field goal that brought the game within three points in the fourth quarter.

The game was a defensive struggle as neither offense put up more than 200 yards total offense. Salado had 93 yards total rushing and 70 yards passing. Jarrell had 126 yards rushing and just 13 yards passing. Bryson led all rushers with 67 yards.

Whitfield caught four passes for 45 yards. Garret Quarles caught three passes for 28 yards.

Grimm threw nine of 15 for 70 yards. Devon Dunn filled in for the final seconds of the game, when Grimm was hit on a play, to complete one of two for 18 yards. His other pass was intercepted to end the game.

Hunter Konzen carried the ball 17 times for 37 yards for the Eagles, while Grimm had 22 yards on 10 carries.

Salado, 1-4 and 0-2 in district, will face district-leading Rogers on the road at 7:30 p.m. The Rogers Eagles are undefeated and ranked in the top five in state for 2A after defeating Academy 38-0 last week.

Lady Eagles now 4-2 in district volleyball

Salado Lady Eagles varsity volleyball split their district games last week, losing in three to district leader Rosebud-Lott and thumping Bruceville-Eddy in two.

The Lady Eagles fought hard against district-leader Rosebud-Lott at home Oct. 2: 12-15, 15-7 and 13-15. "Our team pulled together well and fought it out," said coach Karen Hale. "I was very proud of the effort the players made during this match and think we could have won it. Too many service errors are what led to the loss. We will get them next time."

Robyn Womac had nine kills, three aces and seven digs for the Lady Eagles. Kate Mentzel had five kills and seven blocks while Lindsay Quirk had six kills and three blocks. Laramie Jackson had four kills, eight blocks and an ace. Lauren Mewhinney had 13 assists and a block.

The JV squad won in two 15-4 and 15-3, led by Michelle Houston, who had two kills and three aces. Brittani Boydston had a kill and five aces, Jenny Goode had three kills and an ace and Amanda Tumey had two kills.

The Freshmen also beat Rosebud-Lott in two: 15-1 and 15-5. Rachel Blodgett led the squad with seven service points.

The Lady Eagles improved to 4-2 in district and 11-12 overall by beating Bruceville-Eddy on the road Oct. 6: 15-1 and 16-14.

Mentzel had four kills and five blocks, while Womac had four kills and two digs. Jackson had three kills and six blocks and Quirk had three kills.

The JV squad also beat Bruceville-Eddy in two: 16-14 and 15-0. Houston led the team with two kills, a block and an ace. Goode had a kill, a block and two aces while Tumey had four kills and an ace.

Salado's JV team is 13-5 on the season and 5-1 in district play.

The Freshmen girls also swept Bruceville-Eddy in two: 15-5 and 15-13. Kristen Womac scored five service points for the girls.

The freshmen squad is now 12-6 overall and 5-1 in district play.

Salado teams play Moody on the road Oct. 13.

Jarrell sweeps Salado

Jarrell swept Salado's football teams last week, defeating the JV 26-0 Oct. 4. "The defense played great in the first half, but ran out of gas in the second," said coach Keith Novicke. "Offensively, we moved the ball well early but we could not get it in the endzone."

Evan Gillespie led the offense with 55 yards on five carries; Isaac Berumen had 50 yards on 18 carries and A.J. Lopez had 31 yards on three carries.

Trevor Egbert and Tyler Ronney, who recovered a fumble, led the offense.

The seventh grade Eagles fell to the Jarrell Cougars 2-0. Yes, it was a football game. The Cougars tackled the Salado punter in the end zone after a high snap late in the third quarter.

Robert Cloud and Alonzo Galvin continued to provide good blocking for the Eagles and Kevin Goodman ran the ball well. Chad Tumey, Justin Pruitt and Justin Konzen led the defense. The Jarrell 8th grade scored a touchdown late in the first quarter. With the extra point they took a 7-0 lead. The Eagles were trying to catch up the rest of the night.

Salado took the ball on the 20 yard line after the kick-off. On the first play Jesse Rodriguez exploded through the line for an 80 yard touchdown. The conversion failed.

Jarrell added two touchdowns in the second quarter to build up a 21-6 lead.

Grant Whites scored for Salado from 48 yards out on a reverse play. Rodriguez scored the conversion to cut the lead to 21-14 at half. The only points of the second half were a Jarrell field goal, for a 24-14 final.

Rodriguez had another outstanding night both offensively and defensively. Wesley Ruth aided in the offensive effort. Seth Hale, Michael Tracy and Jared Quirk made big plays for the defense.

Select softball

Michelle Houston and Stephanie Krueger recently competed in a 16 and under girls select softball tournament in Round Rock. The team that Michelle and Stephanie play for is the Round Rock Crush. Michelle plays first base and Stephanie pitches for the team. The team took first place beating out teams from Austin, Round Rock, and Cedar Park. Stephanie was given one of the game balls for her outstanding pitching during the tournament. The girls will compete in tournaments in San Marcos, Round Rock, and Temple for the fall season. The team is an 11 girl team composed of girls from Round Rock and Salado. They are coached by Bobby Roten.

Local pharmacist to celebrate National Pharmacists Week

Texas Pharmacy Association (TPA) recently explained the role of pharmacy and pharmacists in celebration of National Pharmacy Week in October.

This year's theme, Your Prescription for Good Health-Talk with Your Pharmacist, focuses how the community can benefit from pharmacy services as well as the pharmacist's expertise. In recognition of Pharmacy Week in Texas, Governor Rick Perry proclaimed, "throughout this campaign and beyond, let us always be mindful of the important contributions of pharmacists to the well-being of Texans across our great state."

TPA announced that the importance of drug therapy, prevention, and screening to the health care community will be highlighted during National Pharmacy Week, October 21-27. During this week of recognition, pharmacists across the country will be providing additional opportunities for patients to consult with them about their medication.

"Today's pharmacists stand ready to help you optimize your prescription drug regimen. You may rely on me to help you in any way I can," said pharmacist Stan Drake, Village Pharmacy of Salado. Pharmacy has expanded its role from preparation and dispensing to a wide range of patient-oriented services. Changes in healthcare have generated great diversity in pharmacists' practice settings and increased interaction with patients. Pharmacists consult directly with doctors and patients about selecting and using the right medications and monitoring patients' progress with particular drug therapies.

Diabetes monitoring, blood pressure checks, glaucoma screenings, bone density tests, and pain management are taking place in pharmacies everyday. The public has ready access to information about their health and medications from their pharmacists. Rey Moreno, R.Ph., TPA president said, "the pharmacist is no longer simply a dispenser of drugs, the pharmacy itself has become a health center, he also noted, "patient awareness of specific health conditions and wellness programs benefit overall patient health."

TPA notes that consumers should expect a higher level of service from today's pharmacists. Pharmacists coordinate patient care and monitor side effects with physicians and other healthcare providers. Consumers should look to their pharmacist to provide medication-counseling services, including drug regimen reviews and drug interaction checks.

The Texas Pharmacy Association is a state professional organization serving more than 3,500 Texas pharmacists, pharmacy technicians, pharmacy school educators, and pharmaceutical representatives for more than 120 years. The Association's goal is to meet members needs through Advocacy, Communication, and Education.

Village Pharmacy of Salado is located at 213 Mill Creek Drive, Suite 155. 947-3185.

Not all tremors are Parkinson's disease

Dear Dr. Donohue: My hands shake. They shake worse when someone points it out to me. My wife thinks I might have Parkinson's disease. I don't. What are some of the other symptoms of Parkinson's disease?

Answer: The Parkinson tremor is most noticeable when the hands are resting — sitting in the lap, for example. The tips of the index finger and thumb roll over each other constantly. In time, other muscles are affected, and the tremor is more obvious. For instance, the fingers of the hands might continuously bend

To Your Good Health

by Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

and straighten. Muscle rigidity is another Parkinson's trait. When the doctor tries to bend a Parkinson's patient's relaxed arm, the doctor meets with great resistance. It is tough to bend the arm even though the patient cooperates.

Parkinson's patients walk leaning slightly forward and take tiny, shuffling steps. The arms are held stiffly. The natural arm swing disappears.

The face is frozen in an expressionless stare.

Handwriting degenerates. It becomes smaller and smaller and more and more illegible.

Your tremor sounds more like essential tremor.

It is also called familial tremor because it runs in families. It is most pronounced when a person tries to execute precise motions, such as threading a needle. It does get worse with anxiety, such as your tremor does when it is put on display.

Settling the issue of tremor is important. There are medicines for essential tremor and Parkinson's disease, so staying ignorant is not improving matters.

I'd like you and your wife to read the Parkinson's report that I am sending you.

Enhance your mind and body through exercise

We all know that regular exercise is good for our physical appearance. It can make everyday activities easier. It allows us to reach top performance in a specific sport. What we don't always take into account are the mental effects of exercise.

People often report feeling less stressed, calm and even happy in the minutes and hours following exercise. This is partly due to a chemical change that exercise stimulates in the body. When you cycle, swim, run or carry out any other form of strenuous endurance exercise, your pituitary gland releases endorphins. These are chemicals that can block sensations of pain and produce an overall feeling of euphoria. These by Kelly Griffin, B.S., C.S.C.S.

naturally produced brain chemicals are also released in times of stress as a defense against pain. The effect of the release of endorphins when exercising is known as the "runner's high" and can explain why some people can get addicted to specific exercising habits. It becomes a fix where many people can't function without the endorphin-induced mood elevation.

Most research shows that the increase in endorphin levels is only related to aerobic activities such as swimming, biking and running. The Department of Health and Sports Science at the University of Richmond conducted a study to see if weight training produced the same heightened levels of endorphins afterward. Although results varied between athletes, overall there was no significant increase in endorphins.

Are increased endorphins the only reason you feel great after exercising? Of course not.

Exercise can give you a sense of accomplishment, improve your self-esteem, take your mind off stress and help regulate your sleep cycles. Fitness will help you control your weight, a real boost to your self-image, and a commitment to fitness will help you make healthier food choices, which in turn improves your health and well-being.

The results are clear: Physical activity is good for both mind and body. If you are not exercising on a regular basis, you're missing out on an easy way to relieve stress and boost your well-being.

Kelly Griffin, B.S., C.S.C.S., is a personal trainer and the owner of Power Break Fitness.

Practicing yoga keeps the spine toned, elastic and healthy

The 18 wheeler diesel mechanic drove 50 miles from Andrews to Odessa, Texas to sweat his way through a yoga class. After eight months he was doing advanced work. Once considered a religion yoga has developed a wide range of followers who use it as a tool to achieve goals. Even mainstream medicine has recognized its benefits as an aid to the treatment of a variety of diseases including cancer, arthritis and heart disease.

Yoga Master Paul Coates can help you get started. His second fall yoga class begins 5:45-7:00 pm. Oct. 22 at The Cultural Activities Center, and 6:45 p.m. Oct. 23 at Salado Springs Celebration Center in Royal Street Courtyard continuing through Dec. 4.

As an approach to life, yoga is grounded in the holistic tenets of harmony and balance, derived from the Sanskrit prefix "yuj," which means "connect." So yoga is unification as well as an art, a science and a philosophy. Yet it is as much a journey toward physical well-being as toward mental wellbeing.

Practicing yoga poses, called asanas, keeps the spine toned, elastic and healthy. Because the spine is the command center of your life's activities, yoga helps its students to become more toned, elastic and healthy.

A goal of practicing yoga is to develop sensitivity to awareness and balance. In practicing asanas, the bottom line is to focus on the moment as you work each pose. "What we usually do," says Coates, "is allow our mental body to override everything and, like a general, give it full command to lead the troops. That impedes concentration." An ancient Indian sage defines yoga as "stilling the chattering of the mind."

"People who practice yoga must focus on the present," adds Coates, who confirms that yoga is enjoying a growing popularity among older people. "They find they can practice the techniques regardless of physical limitations," he says. Coates began teaching Yoga in 1968 after recovering from a serious illness, and has studied at the California Institute of Asian Studies and the Integral Yoga Institute in San Francisco, as well as schools and ashrams in New York, London, New Delhi, Benares, India, Rangoon, Bangkok, Hong Kong and Singapore.

Cost for the six-week class is $35 per person and early registration is encouraged. There is no special equipment required for students to enjoy the class, however loose clothing and a large beach or bath towel (to sit on) are recommended. To register in Temple contact the Center at (254) 773-9926.

For further information about the classes or to register for Salado classes, please contact Paul Coates at (254) 947-9992.

Air travel is safe...but be prepared

For sure, air travel has changed in America. Is it safe to travel the skies? Maybe not as much as we once believed, but flying is still one of the best and safest ways to get around.

We all hope that the events of Sept. 11 will never repeat themselves. Emergencies on a much smaller scale, however, will continue. Connections are missed, flights are re-routed, planes have mechanical trouble. Whatever the case, at some time or another you will likely end up stuck somewhere. You may have to scramble to make all the necessary changes in your travel itinerary.

Here are some practical suggestions for preparing for these difficulties.

Make lists. Have phone numbers handy. You should have the telephone numbers of all the people

Dollars & Sense

by David Uffington

you plan to visit, as well as relatives, friends and neighbors you can call in an emergency. List the emergency telephone numbers of banks and credit-card companies; you'll need them if you lose your credit cards or go beyond your limit. Keep these numbers somewhere other than your wallet.

- Pack light. The less luggage you carry, the greater your mobility. Anyone who has had to run to the other end of an airport to catch a flight knows what I mean. Have some toiletries and change of clothing in your carry on luggage in case you are stranded.

- Carry other essentials with you too, medications, prescription information, a card listing your blood type and any other information about your medical condition.

- Take along an extra $300-$400 in cash. If you're traveling overseas, you might want to convert a few dollars into local currency so you have some in hand when you arrive.

- Also if you're traveling overseas, take along a copy of your passport and leave a copy at home.

- Carry a cell phone. This is your fastest and most reliable link to family or business associates in an emergency. Pass the cell-phone number around to everyone who needs it.

- Consider travel insurance. Companies like Traveler (www.traveler.com) offer insurance for medical and other emergencies and can also protect against trip interruptions or delays. A policy for a one-week trip typically costs around $100. (Don't confuse these with flight insurance, typically offered at airport kiosks; these pay beneficiaries a lump sum benefit if you die in a plane accident.)

- Use a travel agency. They can offer more protection to you than if you purchased a ticket directly from the airlines. And if you have to make some major adjustments on the road, you will certainly be glad you bought your tickets through an agency rather than online.

Reservists, new enlistees may get deferral for back taxes

The Internal Revenue Service reminded reservists called to active duty and new enlistees in the armed forces that they might qualify for a deferral of taxes owed if they can show that their ability to pay the taxes is impaired because of their military service. The Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act provides this benefit.

The Act covers active duty members of the military services - Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard. Reservists must be placed on active duty to qualify. National Guard personnel not serving in a federalized status - for example, on state active duty for disaster relief - are not covered.

The deferral applies to taxes falling due before or during military service, and extends the payment deadline to six months after the military service ends. No interest or penalty accrues during the deferral period.

The deferral is not automatic. When applying for the deferral, the taxpayer must prove both an inability to pay the tax and that this inability resulted from military service. A taxpayer must have received a notice of tax due, or be on an installment agreement with the IRS, before applying for the deferral.

The deferral is limited to an initial period of service, not reenlistment periods. This would include:

- * an active duty period pursuant to a first enlistment

- * a period of service following recall to active duty from a Reserve or National Guard unit, or

- * the first period of a reenlistment following a break in service of at least one year.

For officers meeting one of these conditions, the period is limited to two years.

The deferral does not extend the deadline for filing any tax returns. Taxpayers may get extra time to file under other provisions, such as being stationed overseas or in a combat zone.

Details on applying for the tax payment deferral are in IRS Publication 3, "Armed Forces' Tax Guide," which is available through the IRS Web site, www.irs.gov, or by calling (toll-free) 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

An Open Exchange of Ideas

If current redistricting plan remains intact, South Bell could emerge as District 23's congressional "King Maker"

Off the Record

by Ken Clapp

DEBATE OVER SECURITY VERSUS THE BILL OF RIGHTS BRINGS US FACE TO FACE WITH A MODERN "TIME THAT TRIES MEN'S SOULS".

If no changes are made in the current judicially constructed congressional redistricting plan and Bell County is actually cut in half with Salado, Killeen, Harker Heights and part of Belton assigned to District 23, and if (a not so far-fetched "if") Congressman Henry Bonilla, the current incumbent in 23, moves to District 31 - there would be a wide open race in our currently assigned congressional-23!

A race that could at least be partially controlled by the 80 thousand or so folks in south Bell County - the largest population center in the newly reorganized district.

Under the scenario outlined above, thoughts naturally turn to who might run for an open District 23 congressional seat.

Money, or at least the ability to raise big time campaign funds, will be key to who wins, so someone with deep pockets and willingness to buy the office might have the best shot.

Aside from the money raising problem, our suggestion is that Tim Brown, Salado's Commissioner, would be an excellent candidate. He is articulate. Cleans up nicely and makes a good impression. Fact is he is knowledgeable about the issues and after all - win or lose on a first-time-out basis, in a congressional race, has some positives that can be taken to the political savings bank for either immediate gain or future campaign adventures.

Former county judge John Garth would probably consider tossing his hat in the ring - depending on his residence and where the dividing line is finally located that splits the county in half.

There would also be a number of other interested pols in Killeen-Harker Heights not to mention all those wannabes in Williamson County.

And, don't forget all the pettifoggers in the area who might or might not be acceptable - but are always available and willing!

PM Blair is a friend-in-deed

The aftermath of September 11, remains a part of our thinking as we slowly, as individuals and a nation, put our lives back together after a month of worry and fear, sorrow and anger.

During this time of mourning and remembrance we have been helpfully restored by the actions and speeches of Great Britain's Prime Minister Tony Blair.

We recall his special trip to Washington to be at President Bush's side during the dark days that immediately followed the New York and Washington atrocities.

He was present in the House of Representative's chamber when Bush, on September 20, addressed the nation via a joint session of Congress.

He has since made special trips to Russia, Pakistan and India to help firm up the coalition that the United States is forging.

What also impressed this writer was the impassioned speech PM Blair made to his Labor Party's convention on October 2. It took many Americans back to the 1940's, when England stood alone against the Nazi tyranny. France had fallen, as had the bulk of Europe, leaving only Britain to face an almost insurmountable challenge, with a brand new leader - Winston Churchill.

Churchill's thrilling speeches were beamed to America via BBC-radio and we could feel the power of his words. Words that brought his people together so they could hold on until America entered the war, as we did on December 7, 1941.

Phrases like - "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat", (May 13, 1940); and after Dunkirk: "We shall fight them on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills - we shall never surrender" and in a tribute to the Royal Air Force: "Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few".

It was in this Churchillian tradition that Blair thundered his way through a speech about the war on world terrorism in which he roused his audience with such phrases as: "I say to the Taliban - surrender the terrorists or surrender power. It's your choice".

Also: "Whatever the dangers of the action we take, the dangers of inaction are far, far greater"; and "If they could have murdered not 7,000 but 70,000 does anyone doubt they would have done so and rejoiced in it?"

The Prime Minister concluded: "There is no compromise possible with such people. There's no meeting of minds, no point of understanding with such terror. Just a choice: Defeat it or be defeated by it. And defeat it we must".

Strong words that helped raise spirits during our days of recovery. Hopefully we will never forget Tony Blair and our other friends who stood with us on September 11, after being viciously attacked by those who hate us for reasons beyond our comprehension.

"Times that try men's souls"

The questions of federalizing airport security and granting extraordinary powers to federal enforcement agencies are raising issues that most of us never thought would come up - namely how many of our personal rights, as outlined in the Bill of Rights, are we willing to relinquish to the government, even temporarily, in order to feel safe?

This debate has just started in Congress but civil libertarians will be in full cry in the near future. The courts will eventually be drawn into the matter but it is in the hearts and minds of thoughtful citizens where the matter will be considered and finally decided.

These may truly be a modern version of "the times that try men's souls" as was so eloquently written in 1776 by Thomas Paine in "The American Crisis."

A thorough study of Paine's revolutionary war pamphlets might give us some insight on dealing with change as we begin our journey together at the start of this new millennium.

More from ground zero

By: JEFFREY HART

I have reported in this space on that second day that will live in infamy, Sept. 11, 2001, when a clever plot murdered some 6,000 people in New York and Washington. Every aspect of this thing is an outrage. For example, some 300 English people died in the World Trade Center, and no doubt many people of other nationalities.

New York is not Boston, Chicago or Philadelphia. It is a great imperial capital, like Athens, Rome, Alexandria. People of all colors and sizes come to New York seeking opportunity and money. And the opportunity sometimes seems infinite.

At about 9 am. on Tuesday, Sept. 11, I was riding in a taxicab down Fifth Avenue on my way to work. Then, down at the bottom of Fifth Avenue, I saw the black clouds of evil-looking smoke pouring out of the World Trade Center.

I'm not sure I can communicate how disoriented and wounded New York seemed to me that day and on subsequent days.

All the ordinary things seemed crippled, disrupted, kaput. Restaurants and offices closed. The buses and subways were not working. The tunnels were closed, I suppose in fear of another bomb.

Commentary

by Jeffrey Hart

I'm not sure I can communicate how disoriented and wounded New York seemed to me that day and on subsequent days.

People were walking across the rivers on bridges, trying to

I myself could not get out of town to go home to New Hampshire. I had a plane reservation, but that was worthless. All airports were closed on Wednesday, the day following the attack. Amtrak wasn't running. Neither were the buses. A rental car? No, the highways were tied up and strangling with traffic.

I received a phone call from a recent Dartmouth graduate who told me that he was all right, and so was his wife. They worked in an office building directly across the street from the World Trade Center. He felt the first explosion as a tremor in his building, then looked out of the window and saw the second plane hit the second tower. He will never forget it. He said some executive in his company said that there's nothing to worry about, no need to evacuate the building. Was this guy nuts? My student and his wife started walking up the West Side Highway.

Three days later I finally got to New Hampshire. It looks as if we are going to whack the terrorist networks. It can be done.

My favorite anecdote dates from maybe 20 years ago. The Israeli Mossad learned that a terrorist was at a hotel in Paris, thus much more vulnerable than in Teheran or some such place.

The Mossad technicians entered his hotel room when he was out and rigged his phone to explode when a remote-control button was pushed.

This fellow was in bed with a woman when his phone rang.

"Is this Abdulla Mohammed?"

"Yes."

Bang. The explosion decapitated him. Le Monde reported that the woman was hysterical when the Is police arrived.

Happy hunting. Go for it.

Victims' Compensation Program aids families

JOHN CORNYN
ATTORNEY GENERAL

October is Domestic Violence Awareness Month. I would like to take this opportunity to provide information on the Crime Victims' Compensation Program, which can provide assistance to victims of family violence.

The Texas Legislature created the Crime Victims' Compensation Fund to help victims of crime and their families pay for out-of-pocket expenses related to the crime itself.

The Crime Victim Services Division of my office administers the program that pays victims from this Fund. No taxpayer money is used for the Fund. Instead, criminals, the people who commit the crimes, contribute to the Fund through fines assessed by state and federal courts based on the level of conviction.

In addition, some offenders are ordered to reimburse the Fund for monies the program paid to their victims. Jurors in Texas also have the option of donating their daily salaries to the Fund.

Eligible victims and their family members or claimants can receive up to $50,000 for certain expenses incurred as a result of a crime. Some of these expenses include medical bills, counseling bills, lost wages, lost support, and funeral and burial costs.

Victims who have suffered catastrophic injuries (a total and permanent disability as a result of the crime) are eligible for up to an additional $75,000 to cover other expenses such as alterations to a home or vehicle to make it accessible, job training and vocational rehabilitation, home health care, durable medical equipment, and long-term medical costs.

In 1999, the 70th Legislature added some extra benefits to the compensation program for victims of family violence. The Legislators recognized that many of these victims stay with their abuser because they have no financial resources.

Victims of acts of family violence that occur on or after June 19, 1999, may qualify for up to $3,800 in financial assistance for relocation. This one-time assistance includes up to $2,000 for moving expenses and up to $1,800 for assistance with rent that is associated with moving away from the abuser. And, thanks to changes made during the most recent Legislative Session, victims of sexual assault who were assaulted in their place of residence on or after Sept. 1, 2001, may also be eligible for relocation assistance.

In addition to money for relocation, survivors of family violence who have dependent children can receive loss of support payments on behalf of their dependent children. These funds can, on a temporary basis, help make up for the income lost when leaving a partner or spouse.

The Texas Legislature establishes the compensation guidelines that specify which expenses are eligible for reimbursement. The compensation program does not pay for the loss of material possessions such as stolen items or crashed cars.

For more information on the Crime Victims' Compensation Program, visit the Office of the Attorney General Web site at www.oag.state.tx.us. Applications for compensation are available online and by calling our office at (800) 983-9933.

Manifesto to win war on terrorism

By AMAN MOTWANE

The destruction was devastating, the shock and terror overwhelming, the pain and grief crippling. But to win this war, what we need now, more than ever before, is a clear head. We need wisdom. As President Bush said in his address to the nation, "In all that lies before us, may God grant us wisdom." With wisdom, we will get the calm courage and the power to win this war.

1) WE WILL win this war by rising above our anger and grief. We will make sure that our emotions never blind us into taking rash actions. We will seek clarity and understanding and trust that our best course of action will arise from our wisdom.

2) WE WILL pause to learn and consider even as we move swiftly. Our overarching goal is nothing less than creating a new world where terrorism can't take root again. We will not get sidetracked by short-term victories that sacrifice this overarching goal.

3) WE WILL win this war by having faith in our ability to eradicate terrorism. At times, this goal will feel impossible. But we will keep reminding ourselves that until just a few days before the Berlin Wall fell, most people couldn't even imagine it would happen.

4) WE WILL make it our highest priority to avoid the loss of all innocent lives. In most wars, because of the loss of innocent lives, both the winners and the losers ultimately lose. We will fight this war in such a way that the winners truly win and the losers truly lose.

5) WE WILL open our eyes and not confuse the citizens of a country with their government. Citizens are often victims of a self-serving dictatorship. We don't want such innocent citizens to become victims of this war.

6) WE WILL never forget that this is not a war between religions. The terrorists want this situation to escalate into a war between Christians and Jews on the one hand and Muslims on the other. Our nation was founded on the freedom of religion. We embrace all beliefs and faiths. This is a war between freedom and fear.

7) WE WILL look at the attack on the World Trade Center as not just an attack against America, but an attack against the world. Over a third of those who perished were from 65 countries other than America.

8) WE WILL win this war by uniting with the world like never before. We will collaborate like never before. We will understand each other like never before. We will live by the words, "One World, United." We will collaborate, connect and understand not just government to government, but citizen to citizen.

9) WE WILL win this war by recognizing that the world is interconnected and interdependent. Every corner of the globe plays a vital role in our survival. And we will equally hear, appreciate and understand everyone.

10) WE WILL rush to help all those affected or displaced by this war — whether they are the ravaged citizens of New York or refugees from any land this war takes us.

11) WE WILL win this war by raising our understanding. We will seek to get a clear understanding of why terrorists would be willing to give up their own lives in order to hurt us.

12) WE WILL win this war by modeling for the world that there is profound meaning and true fulfillment in freedom. We will set such a shining example that potential future suicide bombers will choose freedom over any "glory" the terrorist leaders promise them.

When all is said and done, we will win this war, not so much with might or weapons, but with wisdom and understanding.

EASING NURSING HOME PAIN: OWNERS', NOT PATIENTS'

Jim Hightower

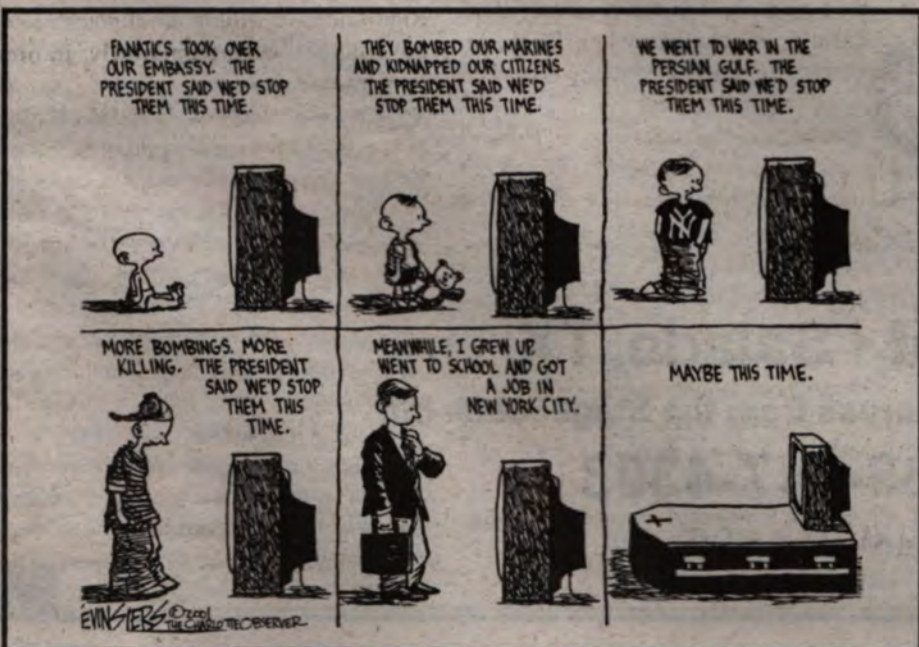

Here comes another sweet dollop of compassion from George W. Bush, this time directed at ill, vulnerable, and often-abused senior citizens who reside in nursing homes across the country. The federal government regulates 17,000 of these nursing-home operations, which get $39 billion a year in our tax money to care for 1.6 million elderly or disabled patients.

Few industries as a whole have had such a sorry record of performance as this one. Hardly a month goes by without another scandal that reveals shocking levels of mistreatment by nursing home firms that squeeze unconscionable profits from sick old people by understaffing and under caring. Just last year, the U.S. Department of Health found that most nursing homes do not have enough employees to provide proper care.

The good news is that Mr. Compassionate Conservative has a plan. It's called the "nursing home quality initiative." The bad news is that, instead of relieving the pain of suffering patients, Bush's plan provides relief for the nursing home industry itself! Its lobbyists have been crying that operators of these places are over-regulated. So, sure enough, he's proposing to reduce the frequency of inspections, ease the standards for patient protection, eliminate a host of penalties for mistreating patients, and -- get this -- allow the companies to inspect themselves.

The Bushites, always compassionate toward corporate campaign contributors, say that they want government to move away from an adversarial approach, to a "collaborative" relationship with the industry. One part of their proposed sweetheart collaboration is to eliminate the policy of automatically punishing nursing homes that, on two consecutive biannual inspections, have been caught causing harm or immediate jeopardy to the patients.

Anyone who votes for this should have to stay in one of the worst of these places.

Salado United Methodist Church

The Salado United Methodist Church was built in 1890 in the Carpenter Gothic Style. The frame building has served the congregation continuously since then, and it has been honored with a Texas Historical Commission marker and a listing in the National Register of Historic Places.

The Methodist congregation was organized in 1854 at a camp meeting on Salado Creek about four miles downstream from the present church location.

Rev. Thomas Gilmore, a circuit-riding evangelist, preached at this meeting near Ferguson's Mill.

During the years of Salado College (1860-1884) and until the Church was constructed, Methodist shared the Salado College auditorium with the other local congregations in a union Sunday School with alternating preachers.

In April 1890, a building committee of J.L. Bailey, W.H. Cawthon and J.M. Porter was appointed by the Quarterly Conference to oversee the construction of the new Church. Lumber was hauled by wagon from Austin, and the simple plans were drawn by members of the congregation.

In remodeling in 1946, the facade of the building was changed somewhat. The initial Gothic doors were replaced with centered double doors to allow the corners to become rooms for Sunday School classes. A balcony was added at that time and the ceiling was lowered to the tops of the side Gothic windows.

All of these features were returned to the original in the restoration of 1996.

The red pine floor is original as is the beautiful Myra Bailey stained glass window behind the altar. The Communion Rail and the pulpit are also from the 1890 construction.

Other windows were installed in 1952 to honor many of the early families of the Church. The needle-point cushions at the Altar were fashioned by Church members in 1983 from designs blended with the windows. These designs and the cross stitch pulpit scarf were done by Betty Bunker.

The Fellowship Hall of the Church was the former Prairie Dell Methodist Church. This church merged with the Salado Methodist Church in 1951 and the building was moved here at that time.

The congregation of the Salado United Methodist Church is a growing, thriving one and they are happy to welcome visitors to a tour of their Sanctuary, the only original Church building still in use in Salado.

Listening Project gives children an opportunity to express feelings about emotional events

The Listening Project is a local plan to help children troubled by fears, dreams, and nightmares as a consequence of the terrorist assaults on Sept. 11 and by anxieties about potential terrorist attacks and military action in the future.

Participation is voluntary and free. A core of trained listeners will be selected from volunteers, but will not include professional mental health workers such as psychiatrists, analysts, social workers, psychologists, counselors, or ministers — although they may help in the training, planning, and support for the volunteer listeners.

The trained listeners will meet first with groups of children from four to seven years old. Group sessions will last approximately 45 minutes. The listeners will encourage the children to talk about their dreams, fears, and anxieties. They may ask the children what they think the meaning of a dream is, but the listener will not make specific comments on the dreams or take on the conventional role of a therapist.

The purpose of the project is to give children an opportunity to express their feelings about the emotionally shocking events that have upset the sense of safety and security. The focus will be on what the children tell the listeners, not on what the listeners tell the children.

The Listening Project will begin in Salado and then reach out to Killeen, Temple, College Station, and Austin. As the project develops, groups of older children and adults will be added.

Dr. Harry Wilmer, an internationally recognized Jungian psychiatrist, is the creator of The Listening Project. The concept for the project comes from the successful treatment programs he developed for Vietnam Combat Veterans and Korean War Veterans. His treatment involved interviewing and listening to these men, who suffered from depressive nightmares, and whose only treatment had been with medications. He has presented various papers, directed a symposium, and published a book (which was made into a docu-drama for ABC called "People Need People" starring Lee Marvin) based on his experiences.

The Listening Project is Dr. Wilmer's response to the feeling shared by so many Americans that each of us should do what he knows how to do best in an effort to help our country, and especially our children, through our national nightmare.

A group of 45 unpaid volunteers are helping to put The Listening Project into motion.

If you would like for your child (or children) to participate in The Listening Project, please mail child's name, address, phone number and parents signature to: The Listening Project, 3901 Chisholm Trail, No. 1, Salado, TX. 76571.

A shortcut from San Francisco?

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

My son Kevin Lewis is technical director for the television broadcasts of the Texas Rangers baseball games. He was in San Francisco with the team when the attack on America started on Tuesday morning, Sept. 11.

He arrived there late Sunday night for a game with the Oakland A's on Monday. Kevin's brother BZ lives in San Francisco, so the two got to hang out together. They spent Sunday night in Kevin's hotel room downtown. The next morning they went to scout out some potential wedding sites. BZ is getting married next May.

After the game Monday night, BZ stayed with Kevin again. They left a wake-up call for 8 AM Tuesday. The phone rang several times and they didn't bother to pick it up because they thought it was the hotel's wake up call.

They got up and looked at the clock. It was just 7 AM.

They wondered what was going on. The telephone rang again. It was Jill, Kevin's wife, with the news of the planes crashing into the World Trade Center. They called Margaret, BZ's fiancée, and went to her house. Later Tuesday, BZ went to his recording studio to do some work.

Kevin walked around the streets of San Francisco. The stores were closed and he saw few people. Tuesday, Kevin knew there would be no baseball for awhile. The team was scheduled to go to Seattle on Wednesday for a 4-game stay, but that was in limbo. The team was stranded. Kevin said he didn't know of a single team member who had family in the San Francisco area. Kevin was glad he did.

Early Thursday morning the Rangers assembled in the lobby of the hotel to take a 15 hour bus ride to Seattle. They boarded the buses, but were told to wait and see what Major League Baseball was going to do with the schedule.

The team members got off the bus and just waited around. Some went to a nearby Jack-In-The-Box. At eleven thirty they boarded the buses again, bound for Seattle. There was another call. Wait just a moment. All baseball games had been called off for the rest of the week. The team would take a bus back to Dallas. Thirty hours.

They headed south toward Los Angeles, traveling through San Jose and Fresno.

The team was riding on three buses. Two for the team, one for the rest of the people. Kevin was riding close to the traveling secretary. What a guy. Somewhere between San Jose and Fresno, he arranged for the team to get on a charter plane at Bakersfield.

The team was thrilled. Kevin expected to see some serious security precautions, but there were none. The buses drove right onto the runway, as they always do, stopped next to the plane and the team got on board. It was luxurious. All the seats were first class seats, all leather.

Two abreast on each side. Much better than a bus. The plane left Bakersfield at 8 PM Thursday. Kevin walked into his home at 11:45 PM. Jill was glad to see him.

he will be recognizing the beautiful hometowns of America, by visiting Thomas Kinkade Signature Galleries across the country. While visiting, Kinkade will be doing a live sketch, which will be auctioned off with a portion of proceeds going to the American Red Cross. "As the seasons change on earth and in our lives, it is important to reflect on our values and traditions that this country was based on Hometowns of American were and still are apart of shaping and molding these values" says Kinkade.

Thomas Kinkade is America's most collected living artist, a painter-communicator whose tranquil, light-infused paintings bring hope and joy to millions each year. A devoted husband and father, Kinkade grew up in the small town of Placerville, CA. This is where his traditional values were instilled. His devotion to spreading joy and peace through his art has been Kinkade's life goal.

TBC, International of Salado organized 2001 Users Conference

The 2001 Users Conference for companies utilizing Open Systems Accounting Software and TRAVERSE Accounting Software for Business was held last week in Belton. TBC International of Salado organized the three-day event which drew approximately 100 participants from around the U.S.

End-users attended training and breakout sessions with developers of the software, as well as manufacturers of vertical software applications which complement the basic functional modules. This is the second annual conference to bring visitors to Central Texas who have not previously been here, most of whom vow to return for family vacations. This year's theme "Camp Summers Mill" reflected a boot camp scenario

mand Sargeant" for the week), said that participants travel was affected by recent events but only one registrant did not make it from Chicago. She also stated that voices sang out loud and strong for 'God Bless America' and other patriotic moments.

Looking for Texas poster signing at Texan by Design Oct. 13

For most folks a picture is worth a thousand words, but for Rick Vanderpool a word--"Texas"--is worth a thousands pictures and a journey of several thousand miles across our great state.

Vanderpool will be signing his poster a "Looking for Texas" 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Oct. 13 at Texan by Design. The poster is 19x26 and the price is $25 sold exclusively at Texan by Design.

The journey began in 1994, when Vanderpool decided to travel all over Texas to photograph the name Texas. "I was mostly looking for Texas; simply the word, as part of an old sign on the side of a barn, on a once bustling storefront, now closed and crumbling, or on a brand new sign welcoming visitors to a revitalized Main Street. Tiny or huge."

Vanderpool began a series of trips that eventually led to over 20,500 miles and 54 days on the road to visit all 254 county seats in the state.

Vanderpool looked for the word Texas anywhere and on any material. He remembers one Saturday morning. "I had to lie flat out on a downtown sidewalk to photograph it as part of the foundry plate on the base of an iron support for a building in Henderson."

The outcome of his journey is his poster "Looking for Texas" and a book. The poster is composed of a collection of more than 400 black and white and color photographs. Amidst more than a hundred photographs in his book are some stories, sketches and whimsy.

Although he's finished with his poster, he still looks for the word Texas everywhere he goes. "Probably always will," says Vanderpool. He adds "Looking for Texas was more of an experience than I could ever imagine."

Texan by Design is located at #3 Old Town Salado. For more information call 947-4479.

Christmas in October

By ALBERTA URQUIZA

For most of us the microwave has become part of everyday use in the kitchen. Frozen foods are placed in the microwave and all it takes is a click of a button and out comes instant meals. If we prefer, we can easily go to Burger King and order a hamburger and fries. We don't go through the hassle of baking and cleaning, much less start a meal from scratch.

That is not the case for the ladies who bake for Christmas in October. Baking from scratch has become a tradition. Thelma Griffith has been volunteering to bake for many years. "I have been doing this ever since there's been a Christmas in October." She remembers the first time she baked for this event. "I made Christmas bread and decorated it with cherries and pineapple. We used to have Christmas in October at Stagecoach Inn in the Longhorn room. Everyone got called to help, there weren't that many people in town." This year Griffith will present "Fudge Pecan Pie" which she has been making since the second year Christmas in October was initiated. "Where I got the recipe is a secret," adds SEE CHRISTMAS, PAGE 18B

How to rid rain noise on a metal roof
This is a Hammer
by Samantha Mazzotta

Question: The Extension on the back of our remodeled house was roofed using sheets of corrugated tin (it once was a kitchen, tacked on around 1930). When it rains, the noise from that roof is terrible. The area is now a workroom, but on rainy days no one can work in there. Any suggestions on dampening the sound?

Answer: Tin roofs were common parts of older homes dating from the early 20th century, not to mention the small aluminum sheds that adorned the backyards of many a home in the past 50 years. It's rare to find a remodeled house that still includes this roofing feature, for the reasons you outline above. Tin and aluminum are quite durable, but once they begin to deteriorate, their demise is swift.

The kitchen extension you describe also became common in the 1930s and '40s, especially in southern states, as electric appliances replaced wood-burning stoves. Prior to that, many kitchens were completely separated from the house, since the constantly burning cook stoves created a lot of heat.

If replacing the roof is not an option (and replacing it this late in the year is not advisable, anyway), work to minimize sound and decrease the chance of rust and leaks.

Paint the top of the metal roof. Ask the salesperson at your local paint store what would best adhere to the tin. A coat of rust-preventive primer should go down first, followed by two or three more coats of paint. This barrier will muffle the raindrops slightly and slow deterioration.

Next, a layer of sound-absorbent material must be placed directly against the underside of the roof. A sheet of latex foam (similar to the egg-crate mattresses sold in camping departments) works well and is cost-effective. Home-improvement stores should carry sheets of different thickness; one-half inch should be enough to lessen the noise.

If these measures don't diminish the rain noise enough, well, a pair of headphones can be a good investment, too.

Griffith. At a benefit auction her Fudge Pecan Pie went for $300.

Griffith's favorite dessert is her "Mama's Chocolate Pie." "My mother taught me how to bake from scratch. Back then you didn't need measuring spoons." The pie cannot make it to the bake sale because it is a merengue pie and merengue is not allowed.

Adelle Johnson is among the ladies who have been volunteering for years. "I have been baking for this event for about 25 years. This year I will be baking 15 loaves of bread. It only takes me about six hours to make because I have two ovens," adds Johnson. Her recipe has been with her since 1988. "I got sick one time and one of my friends brought me Zucchini bread. I really liked it so I substituted banana instead of Zucchini." According to Johnson you can freeze the banana bread and it will last for about six months. "I usually bake 10 loaves of banana bread but we always run short. So I decided to bake 15 this year."

Both Griffith and Johnson agree that they will keep baking for Christmas in October as long as they can. Griffith adds "I love the village. We have the most heart-warming people in the world. All I do comes from my heart and I do it for a good cause."

Homemade baked goods will be for sale during the Christmas in October at the Salado Civic Center.
