

Work begins on sewer extension

By TIM FLEISCHER
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Work began Feb. 25 to extend the Salado sewer collection system to the Salado ISD properties on Thomas Arnold Road and Williams Dr. even though the properties have not yet been annexed into the Village of Salado.

Village administrator Don Ferguson announced that the sewer system will go on-line on April 2. He added that he will hold another meeting with property owners about tying into the system. He said that information on contractors, requirements for tying into the system and resources for decommissioning the septic systems will be on the Village website by the end of February.

As of press time Feb. 26, the information had not been posted. Nor had a date for the next meeting with property owners been announced.

However, aldermen are moving forward with the annexation of the Salado school property and will meet on Feb. 28 in a special meeting to discuss the annexation of those properties.

The Board of Aldermen approved contract amendment 8 with McLean Construction for the construction of 590 feet of sewer collection to serve the new Middle School and High School complex on Williams Rd. for $83,357.

Aldermen approved the contract amendment 5 for Kasberg Patrick Associates for $6,100 for their work on the Williams Rd. extension.

Aldermen approved the contract amendment 4 with KPA for their work on the extension of the sewer collection system to Salado School Road to serve the school facilities at Thomas Arnold Rd.

The board approved contract amendment 7 with McLean Construction for the collection line on Salado School Road for a cost of $175,550.

The contract amendments will be funded by the Salado ISD, village administrator Don Ferguson told aldermen.

Work on the extension of the collection system to the Salado schools will take about three months, according to Ferguson.

Salado School Road will be closed Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 2:45 p.m. during the construction of those lines, according to Superintendent Michael Novotny.

While the Salado ISD annexation request is the first to come to the Village as the completion of the Salado sewer system nears, aldermen stumbled on a second annexation that could bring 171 new homes into the Village.

Aldermen on Feb. 21 failed to take any action on a Concept Plan and variance request relating to minimum lot size for a 54-acre subdivision at the northeast corner of Royal St. and Smith Branch Rd. on property owned by Drake Land Development, LLC.

The proposed Concept

Plan called for lot sizes of just under 1/4-acre, which would require the developer to annex into the Village of Salado in order to serve the properties with sewer. The minimum lot size allowed by state law and the Bell County Health Department for property served by an on-site septic system is a half-acre. That is also the minimum lot size allowed under the Zoning and Subdivision Ordinances for properties zoned Residential.

The smallest lot size in the Concept Plan is 9,205 sq. ft., according to Ferguson, requiring the board to approve the variance request along with the Concept Plan.

The Concept Plan will have sidewalks, according to Ferguson. In lieu of dedication of park land, a requirement of local ordinances, the developer will pay the Village $34,000.

The property owner would also dedicate Smith Branch Rd. to the Village of Salado. Currently Smith Branch Rd. is a private road that has been maintain by Bell County. However, for the past three decades (at least) it has been used by the public.

Alderman Frank Coachman stepped down from the dais and recused himself from any discussion or vote on the matter because he owns property adjacent to the proposed subdivision.

Alderman Michael McDougal was absent, bringing the Board down to two aldermen and the Mayor, who could vote in case of a tie.

However, the issue never came to a vote.

After expressing concern that the developer did not have a firm commitment to annex along with the Concept Plan, aldermen Michael Coggin made a motion to not take any action “until we have a more formal agreement with developer that he will annex the property.” The motion did not receive a second.

Andy Jackson made a motion to approve the Concept Plan and variance request that was recommended by the Planning & Zoning Commission and by Village Staff. It failed to receive a second.

During discussion, Ferguson reminded aldermen of the Village policy that the sewer would not serve properties that were not voluntarily annexed into the Village by the owners. “They won’t get service until they annex,” he said.

The Zoning Ordinance has requirements on the size of houses in relation to the lot. For a Single Family Residential 7 zoned property, the house and accessory buildings may cover a maximum of 35 percent of the lot.

The Zoning Ordinance also has Zoning Districts for SF-PH, Single-Family Residential-Patio Home District with a minimum lot size of 4,500 sq. ft. with approved on-site sewer and SFA, Single-Family Attached Residential District (Condos and Townhouses) with a minimum lot size of 3,000 sq. ft. with approved on-site sewer.

Buckley sets town hall Feb. 28

District 54 Representative Brad Buckley will hold a town hall meeting 6:30 p.m. Feb. 28 at the Salado Civic Center.

“I am looking forward to getting to visit with my hometown Saladoans and not only catch everyone up on what’s been happening in Austin thus far, but to hear what is on their minds.”

“I have greatly enjoyed getting to meet with constituents who have made the trip to Austin, however I am excited to get back to the Village and hear directly from the people who sent me to the Capitol.”

“My constituents issues are my issues and hearing from them directly will always be of vital importance to me, and I hope all my friends and neighbors in Salado will to come out to get an update on things from Austin and to better inform me on what matters to them.”

Representative Buckley will be discussing his legislative priorities, committee assignments, and other local topics.

Rep. Brad Buckley is a first-term legislator from Salado and represents part of Bell County and all of Lampasas County in Central Texas.

He holds a Bachelor of Veterinary Science and a Doctorate of Veterinary Medicine from Texas A&M University, and is a local veterinarian in Killeen.

TxDOT begins work to replace CD 493 bridge

Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) began a project to replace the CR 493 Bridge at Salado Creek, northeast of Salado on Feb. 25.

The project, designed to increase safety, will replace the existing structure with a wider, longer, concrete bridge that meets current roadway safety and design specifications. The approaches to the structure will also be upgraded and replaced.

Knife River Corporation-South, of Bryan, is undertaking this bridge replacement project at a cost of $1.2 million.

Work will take place between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. The bridge and roadway closure, to through traffic, also went into effect Feb. 25 and remains until construction is completed.

The project is scheduled for completion in the late Fall of 2019.

TxDOT urges residents to be cautious and watch for construction personnel and equipment in the work area.

Historical Society Pot Luck Dinner is March 4

Salado Historical Society invites local residents to its annual Pot Luck Dinner 6 p.m. March 4 at the Salado Church of Christ Activities Center, 225 N. Church St.

The Society provides “pork loin”, paper goods, and tea, coffee, water. Members and guests are asked to bring a favorite dish of vegetables, salad, bread, or dessert. There will be an opportunity to join the Salado Historical Society.

Michael Walton of Preservation Georgetown will be the speaker.

In February 2017, the Georgetown Heritage Society changed its name to Preservation Georgetown.

Background

America’s Bicentennial celebrations in 1976 sparked a nationwide preservation boom. In Georgetown, a group of citizens who had worked diligently on Georgetown’s Bicentennial celebration also had a heightened awareness of historic resources at the local level. It was the vision of this group that led to the formation of the Georgetown Heritage Society.

The organization’s mission is to preserve and promote interest in Georgetown’s heritage—its historic buildings and sites and the people associated with them, as well as the documents, pictures and other records relating to them.

Lasting achievements are organizing Georgetown’s Christmas Stroll, reviving the old traditional May Fair (now the Red Poppy Festival), starting the Georgetown History and Visitor Information Center (now run by the City) and collecting a substantial repository of historic photographs and documents (now in the custody of the Georgetown Public Library).

Most recently (2013), the Olive Street National Register Historic District was established in Georgetown; a project initiated, managed and funded by PG. The charge of the organization continues to expand to meet responsibly the growth and needs of the community

Durable good orders on decline, indicating peak in economic growth

The Markets

In another week of bad news and good news, the S&P 500 managed to eke out a gain of 0.62 percent to close at 2792.67. There was plenty of economic bad news but with each new release, another tweet or rumor out of the White House about a possible end to the nascent trade war offset the downturn. That pattern tends to confirm the thesis that tariffs, both existing and threatened, are holding market values down. The week’s small rise has generated an 11.40 percent gain year to date and puts the Index up 1.65 percent from a year ago but still leaves it down over 5.7 percent from its high last year.

The ten-year U.S. Treasury note yield also eked out a tiny gain of 2.3 basis points (hundredths of a percent) for the week to a 2.655 percent yield. As we have written before, early last quarter the note was yielding 3.2 percent but a souring outlook for the trade war dropped the yield. The Treasury yield curve remains fairly flat out to five years while the dip between two and five years continues to suggest that the bond market anticipates a slower economy a year or two from now, but is optimistic about 5 years and beyond. Oil futures climbed another 1.76 percent to $57.19, largely based on optimism for a thaw in the U.S.-China trade war. Gold closed at $1,330.70, up 0.43 percent but still down almost 3 percent from a year ago.

The Economy

We have often commented on business orders for durable goods as a barometer for our economic future. The Commerce Department, in a government shutdown-delayed announcement, let us know that net, adjusted business investment in durable equipment

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

declined 0.7 percent in December, the fourth decline since August of last year. December’s year-over-year investment growth was only 2.5 percent, contrasting sharply with a 13.5 percent trailing one-year investment growth as recently as last August. Deeper in the report the numbers looked even starker. Orders for communications equipment were down 5 percent and primary metals and machinery orders were down a like amount. The survey respondents cited the usual list of issues, personnel shortages, transportation restrictions, and the threats of a supply-chain disruption from tariffs.

Adding to the gloom, U.S. existing home sales declined 1.2 percent in January and factory output unexpectedly contracted 0.6 percent. At the same time, unemployment claims fell 23,000 for the week but the four-week moving average of claims rose to the highest level since January of last year. Quite importantly, the Conference Board’s Index of Leading Economic Indicators decreased slightly in January bringing the six-month growth in the Index to a mere 0.8 percent. If we exclude the volatile transportation numbers, durable goods orders increased an anemic 0.1 percent in December with core capital shipments only up 0.5 percent.

Once again, the numbers are coming out with about a one-month delay because of the 35-day government shutdown so we are still largely in the dark about economic activity in January. By now we normally would have the first estimate of the fourth-quarter and full-year GDP growth for 2018. Moody’s Analytics has dropped their fourth-quarter estimate to an annualized 1.7 percent growth for the quarter while the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank is estimating 1.5 percent.

All those numbers continue to indicate that we have reached a plateau in U.S. economic growth with the Leading Economic Indicators, perhaps the most visible sign, bobbing up and down for several months. We appear to remain on the edge of either an economic second wind or a sag into recession. Also unchanged is the assessment that imposition of the threatened 25 percent tariffs on both Chinese imports and European auto imports would probably tip the U.S. and world economies into recession while removal of that threat and the elimination of all the tariffs imposed since early 2018 could extend economic growth well into next year.

Finally, the imminent threat of a hard Brexit is an unknown that might have profound effects on the world and U.S. economy. The uncertainties and threats generated by an increasingly anti-global series of political moves are clearly having a negative effect on potential growth. Hope remains though that U.S. and U.K. leaders may yet recognize that trade wars and isolationist nationalism are big negatives to all concerned and will reverse their policies.

Fifth grade classes Pay it Forward

Two of our fifth grade teachers, Katie Rose and Haley Pietsch, read the book “Pay it Forward” with their students as a two week novel study. They also completed “Pay It Forward” projects with the students during those two weeks to teach them that they can help change the world at any age.

The students made giant posters and placed them all over the intermediate school building and cafeteria describing ways that the students in Salado can be kind to others.

The students wrote and hand delivered thank you notes to every single person employed by Salado Independent School District. The students wanted to make the project even more special and from them personally, so they each brought in twenty five cents of their own money and purchased candy to attach to each thank you note.

The students made almost 1,000 post-it notes and placed them around all three schools, portable classrooms, all of the teachers’ classroom doors, principals’ desks, gyms, cafeterias, lockers, and janitors’ closets. Each of the notes was intended to make those reading them feel special and encourage them to continue to pay it forward.

We have already witnessed students outside of the fifth grade giving encouraging notes to others.

The intermediate school office had their own pay it forward Valentine’s idea for the teachers. Thank you to our fifth grade students and teachers Katie Rose and Haley Pietsch for inspiring others and having a positive impact on the Salado community!

Sherrod Brown Is Not an Idiot

Rich Lowry

The day has arrived in the Democratic Party when Sherrod Brown is a kind of moderate.

The impeccably progressive Ohio senator who has long occupied a spot on the left flank of the Democratic caucus is declining to sign up for the fashionable radical causes of the hour.

Brown has not endorsed the Bernie Sanders “Medicare-for-all” plan that contemplates the end of private insurance in America, nor for the outlandishly expensive and eminently mockable Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez “Green New Deal.”

This marks Brown out from other Democratic senators running for president, who aren’t letting practicality or future worries about a general election keep them from putting their names to legislation that will never pass and opens them up to obvious attacks.

A variety of forces tether Brown to reality more than his colleagues. He’s been in elected politics his entire adult life, and although he’s been willing to go his own way -- he voted against the Defense of Marriage Act in the 1990s when that wasn’t popular -- he’s pragmatic enough not to get carried away with wild enthusiasms.

He’s managed to thrive in an increasingly red state.

In 2016, Donald Trump handily won Ohio. The state is not Alabama, but it’s not New York or California either, where a Democrat can discount any need to appeal to culturally conservative voters.

Finally, Brown’s base is unions that have no patience for pie-in-the-sky environmental schemes that threaten their jobs, or radical schemes to overturn current health care arrangements when many of them have gold-plated plans they want to protect.

All of this means that Brown has the sense to steer clear of proposals that will almost certainly diminish a Democrat’s chances of beating Trump.

On paper, Brown looks like a strong general election candidate, and not just because he’s avoiding ridiculous excesses.

The natural play for Democrats in 2020 would be to nominate someone, like Brown, who has a good chance of winning back the Blue Wall states and therefore putting away the election (barring some unforeseen event that opens up Hillary states to Trump).

There’s little doubt that

Brown would have won against Trump in 2016. He has a much stronger connection to working-class voters than Hillary Clinton, and never would have dismissed them or the Upper Midwest. He came up in politics hanging out in union halls, and warns against coastal condescension toward the Midwest.

Brown can claim some measure of vindication with the rise of Trump. It has moved the center of gravity of American politics in his direction. Brown’s economic populism is no longer an outlier.

The question is whether the Democratic Party is leaving behind Brown’s style of politics. The left’s disdain for working-class whites has, if anything, grown over the first two years of the Trump presidency. And like Bernie Sanders, Brown will have the disadvantage of being a white male more interested in class rather than racial politics.

Part of Brown’s calculation has to be that he can leave the crowded left-most lane in the primary to others. And, so, yes, it has come to this: In the inflamed, #resistance-driven contemporary Democratic Party, Sherrod Brown is a voice of relative moderation.

John MacMurray to discuss his book, A Spiritual Evolution, at March 2 workshop

John MacMurray

Belton, Texas –John MacMurray, who has taught Bible and theology for more than 35 years, will discuss his book, A Spiritual Evolution, and his journey in search of a God who loves relentlessly during a workshop Saturday, March 2, at Dead Fish Grill, 2207 Lake Road in Belton.

“It’s time we consider looking at God a bit differently, maybe even better. And I think the place to look is into the face of Jesus,” said MacMurray, who started the Northwest School of Theology in Oregon and Open Table Conferences.

His book, A Spiritual Evolution, has been praised by C. Baxter Kruger, Ph.D., author of Patmos and The Shack Revisited, and by Wm. Paul Young, who wrote The Shack. MacMurray’s book chronicles his journey from dogmatism and fear to freedom and love. With humor and candor, MacMurray examines the distortions that shaped his view of God and crippled his spirit. He considers questions that haunted him for years and exposes common fears and assumptions. His conclusions promise a renewed sense of hope, joy, and freedom.

Registration will begin at 10 a.m. The first session will take place from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., followed by a lunch break. Lunches are available for purchase at Dead Fish Grill. The second session will be held from 1:30-3:30 p.m., immediately followed by a book signing and sales of MacMurray’s book.

"Teenage Love."

The Mississippi-born White waxed nearly a dozen singles for Duke, including "Just Look at You Fool," "The Tide of Love," "Yes, I've Been Crying," and "Stop These Tears," which reportedly features piano from New Orleans' Mac "Dr. John" Rebennack. She co-wrote "Lead Me On" which was a hit in 1960, for Duke labelmate Bobby "Blue" Bland. White toured nationally throughout the 1950s and '60s with artists such as B.B. King, James Brown, Junior Parker, Sam Cooke, Gene Chandler, Gladys Knight and the Pips, the Isley Brothers, Aretha Franklin, and Smokey Robinson.

In the late 1970s White moved to Chicago and became a favorite on the local blues scene, headlining at the Kingston Mines and other clubs from 1978 to 1987 and working with Junior Wells and the Louisiana-born bluesmen Lonnie "Guitar Junior" Brooks and Buddy Guy. Of Guy, she says: "Go to Buddy Guy's club. He's a wonderful person. He's marvelous. He's beautiful."

She returned to Houston in 1988 and once again began working the clubs, eventually settling in Austin in the early 1990s, where she recorded three highly acclaimed CDs, "Miss Lavelle," "It Hasn't Been Easy," and Into the Mystic."

CTC Fine Arts welcomes Warp Trio of New York for guest artist performance

The Central Texas College (CTC) Fine Arts department will host its spring semester Guest Artist Performance on Monday, March 4 in the Anderson Campus Center. Featured artist is Warp Trio from New York which has been described as an internationally touring cross-genre chamber music experience. Since its inception in 2014, Warp Trio has maintained a broad range of repertoire ranging from traditional classical to their own original compositions and virtuoso arrangements of music spanning several different genres. The group has begun making its mark on the classical music scene with energizing performances throughout the U.S.

Known for their electrifying performances, Warp Trio's members reflect the combination of Juilliard training juxtaposed with rock and jazz styles. The group has been described as, "A talented group that exemplifies the genre-obliterating direction of contemporary classical music." The one of a kind trio (that even has a fourth member) can be seen performing classical works in prestigious halls on the same tour where they headline a standing room only show at a rock venue.

Warp Trio has performed hundreds of concerts all across the United States, in addition to tours throughout the United Kingdom, Spain, Switzerland, Holland, Germany and the Caribbean. Highlights of recent seasons include headlining performances at The LEM Festival for Experimental Music in Barcelona and being one of the honored recipients of a New York Foundation for the Arts Grant.

The group is also known for its collaboration with other artists such as its sold out premier of the Warp Triple Concerto for Piano Trio and Orchestra with New York City's Urban Playground Chamber Orchestra. It has also partnered with spoken word artist LuiKwuiDon to create the program "Black Voices" that showcases music and poetry from African-American composers and authors.

Individual members are Mikael Darmanie, pianist, who made his debut as a conductor with the Carolina Chamber Symphony in 2008. He has since conducted various piano concerti from the keyboard and symphonic works of Bach, Brahms, Beethoven, Haydn and Liszt.

Violinist, violist and composer Josh Henderson has performed as a soloist for the Cincinnati Chamber Orchestra, the China Performing Arts Broadcasting Troupe, the Starling Chamber Orchestra, Accent X Festival Orchestra and in venues such as Carnegie Hall and the Kennedy Center. He has also built a reputation for his electric violin performances in the genres of rock, jazz, hip hop and country fiddle. Henderson is currently the music director for the Emmy award-winning Damien Escobar.

Ju Young Lee, cellist and graduate of the Juilliard School, is known for solo performances with the Nashville Symphony, the Curb Youth Symphony and the New York Symphonic Arts Ensemble. He also performs internationally with Escobar and his quartet and throughout the U.S. with the Core Ensemble.

The "fourth" member of Warp Trio is Rick Martinez. As a drummer and percussionist, he adds amazing rhythmic reinforcement to the group. He studied at the prestigious Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore, MD and under classic percussion greats including Tony Moreno, Wayne Krantz, Mike Richmond and Dave Pietro.

The Warp Trio guest artist performance is at 7:30 p.m. and tickets are $5 at the door. Proceeds benefit the Central Texas College Fine Arts Department Concert Series Music Scholarship Fund.

Texas celebrates Independence on March 2

FROM THE TEXAS STATE ARCHIVES AND LIBRARY

The Declaration of November 7, 1835, passed by the Consultation announced that the Texan war against Mexico principally intended to restore the Mexican Constitution of 1824, abrogated by the actions of President Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, and to achieve separate Mexican statehood for Texas. The members of the Consultation had hoped to attract popular support for the Texan cause from the other Mexican states.

By the time the Convention of 1836 met at Washington-on-the-Brazos on March 1, 1836, such temporizing was no longer acceptable. On the first day, Convention President Richard Ellis appointed George C. Childress, James Gaines, Edward Conrad, Collin McKinney, and Bailey Hardeman a committee to draft a Declaration of Independence.

George Childress, the committee chairman, is generally accepted as the author of the Texas Declaration of Independence, with little help from the other committee members. Since the six-page document was submitted for a vote of the whole convention on the following day, Childress probably already had a draft version of the document with him when he arrived. As the delegates worked, they received regular reports on the ongoing siege on the Alamo by the forces of Santa Anna's troops.

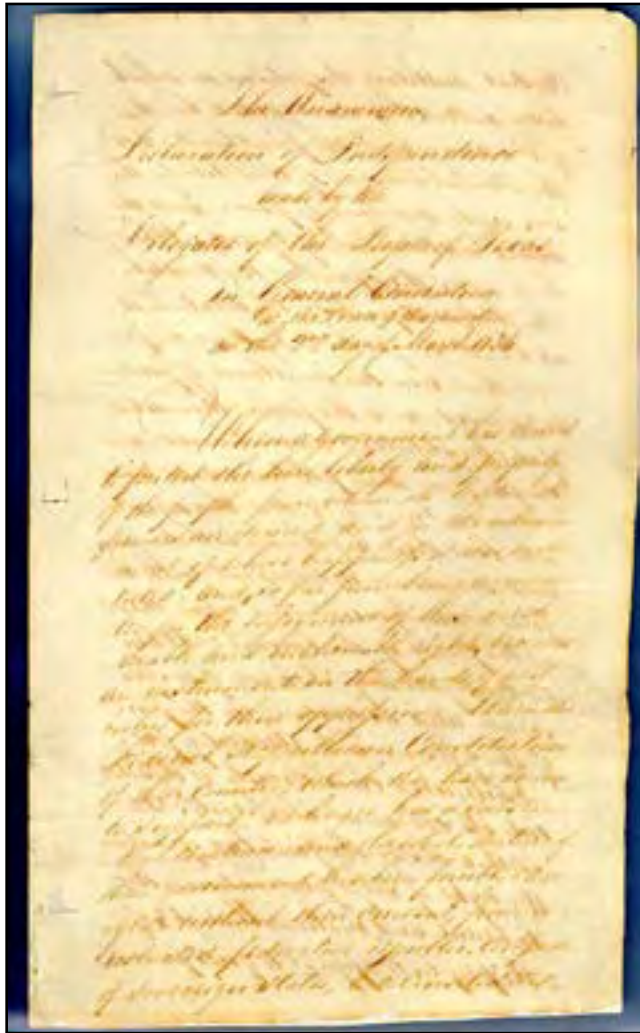

A free and independent Republic of Texas was officially declared March 2, 1836, when the 59 delegates -- each representing one of the settlements in Texas -- approved the Texas Declaration of Independence. After the delegates signed the original declaration, 5 copies were made and disbeen continually depressed through a jealous and partial course of legislation, carried on at a far distant seat of government, by a hostile majority, in an unknown tongue, and this too, notwithstanding we have petitioned in the humblest terms for the establishment of a separate state government, and have, in accordance with the provisions of the national constitution, presented to the general Congress a republican constitution, which was, without just cause, contemptuously rejected.

It incarcerated in a dungeon, for a long time, one of our citizens, for no other cause but a zealous endeavor to procure the acceptance of our constitution, and the establishment of a state government.

It has failed and refused to secure, on a firm basis, the right of trial by jury, that palladium of civil liberty, and only safe guarantee for the life, liberty, and property of the citizen.

It has failed to establish any public system of education, although possessed of almost boundless resources, (the public domain,) and although it is an axiom in political science, that unless a people are educated and enlightened, it is idle to expect the continuance of civil liberty, or the capacity for self government.

It has suffered the military commandants, stationed among us, to exercise arbitrary acts of oppression and tyranny, thus trampling upon the most sacred rights of the citizens, and rendering the military superior to the civil power.

It has dissolved, by force of arms, the state Congress of Coahuila and Texas, and obliged our representatives to fly for their lives from the seat of government, thus depriving us of the fundamental political right of representation.

It has demanded the surrender of a number of our citizens, and ordered military detachments to seize and carry them into the Interior for trial, in contempt of the civil authorities, and in defiance of the laws and the constitution.

It has made piratical attacks upon our commerce, by commissioning foreign desperadoes, and authorizing them to seize our vessels, and convey the property of our citizens to far distant ports for confiscation.

It denies us the right of worshipping the Almighty according to the dictates of our own conscience, by the support of a national religion, calculated to promote the temporal interest of its human functionaries, rather than the glory of the true and living God.

It has demanded us to deliver up our arms, which are essential to our defence, the rightful property of freemen, and formidable only to tyrannical governments.

It has invaded our country both by sea and by land, with intent to lay waste our territory, and drive us from our homes; and has now a large mercenary army advancing, to carry on against Wharton with the United States Department of State in Washington, D.C. It was not returned to Texas until some time after June 1896.

THE UNANIMOUS DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE MADE BY THE DELEGATES OF THE PEOPLE OF TEXAS IN GENERAL CONVENTION AT THE TOWN OF WASHINGTON ON THE 2ND DAY OF MARCH 1836

When a government has ceased to protect the lives, liberty and property of the people, from whom its legitimate powers are derived, and for the advancement of whose happiness it was instituted, and so far from being a guarantee for the enjoyment of those inestimable and inalienable rights, becomes an instrument in the hands of evil rulers for their oppression. When the Federal Republican Constitution of their country, which they have sworn to support, no longer has a substantial existence, and the whole nature of their government has been forcibly changed, without their consent, from a restricted federative republic, composed of sovereign states, to a consolidated central military despotism, in which every interest is disregarded but that of the army and the priesthood, both the eternal enemies of civil liberty, the everready minions of power, and the usual instruments of tyrants. When, long after the spirit of the constitution has departed, moderation is at length so far lost by those in power, that even the semblance of freedom is removed, and the forms themselves of the constitution discontinued, and so far from their petitions and remonstrances being regarded, the agents who bear them are thrown into dungeons, and mercenary armies sent forth to force a new government upon them at the point of the bayonet. When, in consequence of such acts of malfeasance and abdication on the part of the government, anarchy prevails, and civil society is dissolved into its original elements. In such a crisis, the first law of nature, the right of self-preservation, the inherent and inalienable rights of the people to appeal to first principles, and take their political affairs into their own hands in extreme cases, enjoins it as a right towards themselves, and a sacred obligation to their posterity, to abolish such government, and create another in its stead, calculated to rescue them from impending dangers, and to secure their future welfare and happiness.

Nations, as well as individuals, are amenable for their acts to the public opinion of mankind. A statement of a part of our grievances is therefore submitted to an impartial world, in justification of the hazardous but unavoidable step now taken, of severing our political connection with the Mexican people, and assuming an independent attitude among the nations of the earth.

The Mexican government, by its colonization laws, invited and induced the Anglo-American population of Texas to colonize its wilderness under the pledged faith of a written constitution, that they should continue to enjoy that constitutional liberty and republican government to which they had been habituated in the land of their birth, the United States of America. In this expectation they have been cruelly disappointed, inasmuch as the Mexican nation has acquiesced in the late changes made in the government by General Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, who having overturned the constitution of his country, now offers us the cruel alternative, either to abandon our homes, acquired by so many privations, or submit to the most intolerable of all tyranny, the combined despotism of the sword and the priesthood.

It has sacrificed our welfare to the state of Coahuila, by which our interests have

Blow Your Own Mug, Tumbler or Sipper at Salado Glassworks

Spring is on its way and fun is in the air. What better way to gear up for March Madness and St. Patrick’s Day but with your own hand blown mug, sipper, or tumbler, to drink in the new season with friends?

Salado Glassworks is ready for their client favorite event -- available to ages 12 and older -- to create your own custom glass blown mug, sipper, or tumbler. Online reservations are open at www.saladoglassworks.com Prices differ depending on what glass option you choose.

Available dates are Fridays and Saturdays from Feb. 22 - March 16.

When you arrive at Glassworks, their team will help you pick up to three custom colors. You get to actually handle the glass with the pipe, use the tools to help shape out the piece and use your own breath to blow out the piece as one of their artists takes you through the process.

The artists of Salado Glassworks will assist clients in creating a blown glass mug, sipper or tumbler. Reservations are available online at www.saladoglassworks.com for the 12 and older event. Register for Friday or Saturday from Feb. 22 - March 16. Reservations sell out quickly for the annual event. PHOTO PROVIDED

“This event gives our clients a chance to get behind the scenes and actually manipulate the glass with us. The takeaway is a beautiful functional vessel that serves as an awesome reminder of a once in a lifetime memory, and that is the heart of Salado Glassworks.” says owner and lead artist Gail Allard.

It has, through its emissaries, incited the merciless savage, with the tomahawk and scalping knife, to massacre the inhabitants of our defenseless frontiers.

It hath been, during the whole time of our connection with it, the contemptible sport and victim of successive military revolutions, and hath continually exhibited every characteristic of a weak, corrupt, and tyrannical government.

These, and other grievances, were patiently borne by the people of Texas, until they reached that point at which forbearance ceases to be a virtue. We then took up arms in defence of the national constitution. We appealed to our Mexican brethren for assistance. Our appeal has been made in vain. Though months have elapsed, no sympathetic response has yet been heard from the Interior. We are, therefore, forced to the melancholy conclusion, that the Mexican people have acquiesced in the destruction of their liberty, and the substitution therfor of a military government; that they are unfit to be free, and incapable of self government.

The necessity of self-preservation, therefore, now decrees our eternal political separation.

We, therefore, the delegates with plenary powers of the people of Texas, in solemn convention assembled, appealing to a candid world for the necessities of our condition, do hereby resolve and declare, that our political connection with the Mexican nation has forever ended, and that the people of Texas do now constitute a free, Sovereign, and independent republic, and are fully invested with all the rights and attributes which properly belong to independent nations; and, conscious of the rectitude of our intentions, we fearlessly and confidently commit the issue to the decision of the Supreme arbiter of the destinies of nations.

as a suit. West's five-club overall also had nothing at all to do with clubs, but instead showed very long diamonds and instructed his partner to bid them.

Against six clubs, the Canadian West (Subhash Gupta) decided that his best chance to get two tricks was to try to get a heart ruff. Since this required his partner to be on lead at trick two, he elected to lead the four of diamonds, hoping to find East with the ten!

The scheme should have miscarried, since dummy had the ten, but the unusual opening lead caught declarer fast asleep. South could have won the first trick with either the six or the ten, but when he played dummy's deuce instead, an astonished East found himself winning the trick with the five!

East may have been momentarily flabbergasted, but he certainly was not paralyzed. After the five held the trick, it did not take him long to figure out what to do next.

Since his partner had obviously gone to great lengths to try to put him on lead, there had to be a reasonable explanation. And the only conclusion East could reach that made any sense was that West was trying to get a heart ruff.

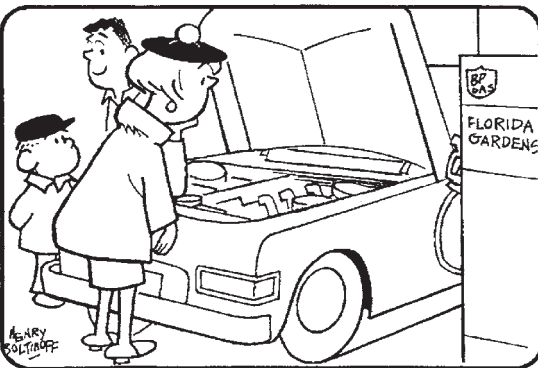

The heart return was duly trumped by West at trick two, and declarer quickly went down one. At the other table, there were no fancy doings, and declarer bid and made six clubs, giving the Canadians a gain of 1,470 points (16 IMPs) on the deal.

Western Diamondback Rattlesnake

The largest venomous snake in Texas

There are times when I write this column that the information about an animal is scarce and a little difficult to come by. However, at other times the material that is available is almost overwhelming. There is so much information (true and false) that I would like to present that a column like this would quickly take up more space than is allowed, and such is the case with the Western Diamondback Rattlesnake.

The Western Diamondback Rattlesnake (Crotalus atrox) occurs from central Oklahoma through the western two-thirds of Texas westward to the southeastern border of California south to the state of San Luis Potosi, Mexico. In Texas, it is the most commonly encountered venomous snake in the Trans-Pecos eco-region, as well as the Tamaulipan thornscrub of south Texas. It is a habitat generalist, occupying a variety of habitats ranging from desert scrub near the Permian Basin to high elevation pine-oak forests of the Davis Mountains.

Western Diamondbacks are the second largest venomous snake in the United

Wild About Texas
Michael Price

States, slightly exceeded in size only by the Eastern Diamondback Rattlesnake of Florida and other east coast states. It is by far the largest venomous snake that occurs in Texas. Adult Western Diamondbacks can achieve lengths of up to seven feet in length, although just like in humans, the average is much smaller than this. Most individuals max out at a length between four and five feet in total length.

The body coloration of Western Diamondbacks can vary (depending on the soil type where it occurs) from a chalky gray to a dull reddish brown. Along the spine is a series of darker diamond-shaped markings that are bordered by a black and white border, hence the name diamondback. A common nickname among those who encounter this serpent frequently is coon-tail which refers to the black and white banded tail. These tail bands are of nearly equal width, one characteristic that is used to determine this animal from the more dangerous Mojave Rattlesnake that inhabits the Trans-Pecos area of Texas as well. The head is distinctly wider than the neck, giving this animal the famous “diamond-shaped” head. The pupils are elliptical, and the rattle is large and is capable of being heard from several yards away.

Diamondbacks, like other snakes, do not hibernate in the true sense of the word, but rather employ an activity known as brumation. This means that the snake’s metabolism, heart rate and breathing all slow down to a near stop, but they are quite awake and aware of their surroundings. They will often congregate in large numbers in “dens” to spend the long periods of inactivity of winter and once temperatures achieve a level of warmth that the snake finds tolerable, usually in early to mid-March, then the males begin leaving the densite in their quest to mate. Females release a pheromone that attracts the males, and many times more than one male will encounter a female that is receptive. During these encounters, the males will participate in a dramatic “dance” as they entwine their bodies together in a wrestling match style event. The winner is the one who is able to pin the other to the ground, and mating ensues upon the dominant male’s victory.

Diamondbacks are ovoviparous, which means they give birth to living young, and the foot-long neonates (which number from 4 to 25) are typically born in late summer and early fall. Other than having a “button” on the end of the tail, they are exact replicas of the adults and are fully capable of fending for themselves, including having fully functional fangs and venom apparatus’.

Western Diamondbacks defend themselves in a variety of ways, with the main defensive mechanism being that of camouflage. Even with the gaudy patterns and colors, this snake blends in well with its primarily brushy habitats. The second defensive plan is that of crawling away from a potential predator while rattling its tail slightly. If this does not deter its assailant, then it will begin to curl up in a defensive “s-coiled” stance and aggressively vibrate its tail, causing the rattling sound to get louder. This behavior is typically a final stand so to speak, and many times an encounter with a diamondback does not come to this point. Out of the 300 or so diamondbacks that I encounter each summer, less than 10 percent resort to this tactic, with most being satisfied to avoid any confrontations. The last defensive mechanism is that of biting and injecting a deadly venom into a would-be attacker. This venom, depending on a huge variety of factors, can be lethal to humans, although few human fatalities actually occur.

Despite these venomous propensities, the Western Diamondback is surprisingly beneficial in the fact that it preys primarily on small mammals such as mice and rats.

When participating in outdoor activities, the risk of encountering a Western Diamondback is slim, although it can and does happen occasionally. If such an encounter occurs, remember that this animal, despite its harmful capability, is more afraid of you than you are of it and it would prefer to be left alone. Most bites from this species occur when people make an attempt to either capture or kill this snake. The best course of action is to walk, don’t run, in the opposite direction, making both you and the snake more at ease.
