Chili supper, silent auction Feb. 20 at school cafeteria

The Salado High School Student Council and the Volunteer Fire Department are joining forces for a fund-raiser 5-8 p.m. Feb. 20. at the school cafeteria.

The Student Council will be sponsoring the silent auction to be held during the chili supper hosted by the Salado Volunteer Fire Department. Student Council members are now collecting items for the auction. Tax deduction forms will be provided with each donation. Items will be displayed alongside the name of the contributor.

The Salado Volunteer Fire Department chili supper proceeds will be used for the purchase of needed equipment and supplies.

The Student Council students learn citizenship, leadership and service, while involving themselves in community or school service every month.

In October, the Council sponsored Red Ribbon week, a national drug abuse awareness program. In November, members collected Thanksgiving foods to donate to Martha's Kitchen. During the Christmas Stroll, the Council opened a refreshment stand on Main St. Council members also assists community members in each bi-weekly recycling session at IGA. Each year, a member is selected to serve on the campus site-based committee, a school improvement organization that meet once a month. These students also show appreciation for the hard work of their teachers by preparing an appreciation gift each six weeks, plus a teacher appreciation breakfast in the fall.

The funds collected at last year's silent auction provided four graduating members with scholarships, as well as funds for several students to attend the state leadership conference in April.

Water issues in Salado main topic of Chamber of Commerce meeting

by Tim Fleischer
Editor-in-Chief

Pat Merrill and Rick Preston addressed the Salado Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors Feb. 14. The Board had "Water" as the theme of its February meeting.

Merrill is chair of the Salado Creek Preservation Committee of the Salado Historical Society. She gave an overview of the history of the committee and its work in the village to protect Salado Creek.

The Creek Preservation Committee was re-organized in 1991 when some citizens felt concern over possible damage to the creek from population growth.

The Creek Preservation Committee was one of the first volunteer citizens monitoring efforts in the state. Today, it is one of the models of a successful volunteer monitoring program for others in the state.

The Creek Preservation Committee concentrates its efforts on four areas of concern: testing the water of the creek, educating the public about water quality, compiling a creek history and taking action to prevent or stop contamination of the creek.

Committee members took interviews with village old-timers about the creek to compile an oral history so the remembrances would not be lost.

Most of the 38 active committee members take part in monitoring the creek on the first Tuesday of each month at six different locations along the Creek.

The water is tested for phosphates and fecal coliform, as well as dissolved solids, nitrates and temperature and appearance.

The Committee works to inform the public about water quality with articles, Alerts and test results in the Salado Village Voice, as well as through brochures and programs with school groups.

The committee also maintains a working relationship with state and local governmental agencies concerning Creek water quality.

The committee worked to stimulate the clean-up of the old Texaco station, which had tanks leaking into the creek.

"This has been a long process," Merrill said, "but I think we will see it completed."

The committee tries to work with builders and real estate professionals to use pollution-abating construction material and equipment in building in Salado.

Salado Creek is 27 miles long and feeds into the Lampasas River, which eventually feeds into the Little River, Brazos River and the Gulf of Mexico.

Clean water is, according to Merrill, "a responsibility for all of us to share."

Rick Preston, manager of Salado Water Corporation, which supplies water to over 1,100 members, discussed current and future water supply for the village.

Preston examined the dramatic growth Salado has seen, noting that the Water Corporation has more than doubled from 456 members four years ago to the present 1,100.

Salado's own Thelma Fletcher

Thelma Fletcher honored

Thelma Fletcher of Salado was honored with a "This Is Your Life" program recently when area Republicans met at Mill Creek Country Club.

Deborah Van Dormolen, president of Chisholm Trail Republicans, reviewed historical events which have taken place in the lifetime of the ninety years "young" resident of Salado.

Mrs. Fletcher has seen fifteen United States Presidents serve our country since her birth February 6, 1905, in the Big Bend Country of far West Texas.

She has seen several amendments to the Constitution, including passage and repeal of prohibition, granting of the right to vote to American women, enactment of the income tax and passage of Civil Rights laws.

Mrs. Fletcher has seen our country involved in five major wars and military conflicts: WWI and WWII, Korean War, Vietnam War and Desert Storm. She heard the booming of the cannon when Pancho Villa made his infamous raids into southwest TX and has noted American troops being deployed to Haiti on three occasions.

She has seen financial crises, depressions, recessions, upturns, and downswings and has spent all of her adult life enjoying the fruits of the American free enterprise system. Recognized as a "star" example of the free enterprise system in America, Thelma Fletcher has been honored on numerous occasions for her contributions to her profession of appraising of libraries, rare books and antiques, as well as historical preservation and community service.

She has played a major role in making the unique village of Salado into a Mecca for antique dealers. She moved to Salado in 1954 when it was a ghost town and has seen it grow to its present size.

She was a charter member of the Salado Chamber of Commerce and its Ladies' Auxiliary, Salado Historical Society, Salado Public Library, Salado Merchants' Committee, Central Texas Area Museum, and Chisholm Trail Republican Women's Organization. She participated in the first Republican Party Precinct Convention in Salado which was held under a hackberry tree on the grounds of the Old Red School, now the Salado Civic Center.

Thelma continues to endear herself to others with her vivacious personality, sense of humor, her loving heart and her devotion to family, church and her community.

"And many more, Thelma!"

Bush's baptism during state of state

Governor George W. Bush got his first baptism under fire last week when he addressed a joint session of the legislature with a State of The State communication that lasted less than half an hour and was interrupted a number of times by the standing room only crowd.

Governor Bush held to his campaign course of speaking of tort, welfare and education reforms plus the curbing of juvenile crime. He is on target for three of these reform minded plans but when it comes to the education plank -- he is a bit off center. Putting the total education of our young people in the hands of locally elected school boards is courting disaster. If there were not state standards for course content, textbooks and graduation requirements we would have students ill trained and ill prepared for either higher education or the work place. What local board of education could possibly determine the exact number and type courses needed in their district to assure graduates entry into major Texas or national universities?

Might not the locals in rural areas decide that only the study of pigs and goats would best serve their students? How many hours of science, math, social studies and foreign language would be required to graduate? Or would they be required at all? How many credits to graduate?

And then would come the business of deciding if any teaching at all is taking place. Would there be standardized testing and what sort of requirements would locals have when hiring new teachers? The list of potential pitfalls is limitless without some sort of oversight control.

On the other hand - what Bush may end up doing could result in limiting the endless number of reports required by the Texas Education Agency! If he could unshackle the teachers and administrators from the unneeded and rarely used statistical data that keeps teachers away from kids and administrators away from their duties - then our new Governor would be hailed as a true folk hero of the 20th Century here in Texas!

Responsibility for the education of the millions of young people in our State needs to be a shared duty. Involved should be the central education agency working in harmony with local officials - rather than as adversaries and both hand-in-glove with parents. The State's job would be to set minimum standards to be met by all districts. They would also certify teachers and have the right to accredit districts for funding purposes. This accreditation would include how well things are being taught and how fiscally responsible the trustees and administrators are when it comes to handing public funds. Beyond that they would share authority with the locals including work on textbooks, testing, course work and class size. No more would there be minutia-type directives on everything up to and including the length of teacher coffee breaks or student pep rallies. Also, it would be good if this partnership would require that English be required as the basic language tool to be spoken and used in all schools - which in turn would free kids from the handicap some now have when they go out into an English speaking world.

Concealed Weapons

It is apparent that the legislature will pass and the Guv will sign a bill permitting Texans to carry concealed weapons! One has to wonder that if this is such a great and safe idea, why it is that lawmakers have excluded the carrying of such weapons wherever and whenever mem-

Carol Eads was one of 11 Southern designer to work on The Doris Henderson Designer's Showcase House in Miniature, on display in Dallas.

Miniatures: a big idea only smaller

It's a big idea...only smaller. One inch scale to be exact. For the first time in design history talented interior designers have teamed up to design a showcase house in miniature. The Doris Henderson Designer's Showcase House in Miniature is on display at the Dollhouse Museum of the Southwest, 2201 Routh Street, Dallas. The miniature home was renovated by 11 Southern designers including Salado's own Carol Eads.

During a recent reception, museum supporters honored the designers who rescued the aging eleven room Victorian Queen Anne style miniature house from ruin. The special event formally recognized designers for devoting time, talent and money to this labor of love. The reception was held at Dallas' Beaconhill Showrooms in the Oaklawn Design District. Also there to celebrate was carol's husband Arthur (Cappy) Eads and her mother Joanne Plum. Plum is a member of the Dollhouse Museum.

One of the most talked about rooms is the stylish dining room designed by Eads. "What a fun experience to design a room from the beginning without limitations," said Eads. "It was a great challenge to make my rug, draperies ad floral arrangement, I now have a tremendous appreciation for miniatures and the time it takes to create small wonders."

Although the designers are veterans to showhouses, most are novices to miniatures. Their challenge was to translate big ideas into tiny spaces. In the house, you'll find everything befitting an expansive mansion including lovely wreaths, stenciled hardwood floors, fine rugs, widow treatments and handcrafted furniture.

In the fantasy house, there are also touches of reality. For example, in the kitchen there's an infant highchair complete with a tiny bowl of cheerios and a silver teaspoon. The footrest, meanwhile features a lone cheerio with a dribble of milk.

The house, a reproduction of a 1883 mansion built by Captain Joseph Angel of Portland, Oregon was not always so beautiful. Lacking furniture and in need of refurbishment, the house languished in storage for years until it caught the creative eye of Museum Board Member Doris Henderson.

Henderson envisioned a showcase house to benefit the Dollhouse Museum. Gathering a crew of fellow designers, which launched a year-long renovation project while fighting a personal battle with cancer. Shortly before her death in July 1992, the house was named in her honor.

The Dollhouse Museum of the Southwest is a private, non-profit organization dedicated to encouraging an appreciation of the history, art, craft of miniatures, dollhouses, dolls and toys.

Preston noted that the Corporation pumped a total of 180 million gallons in 1992, 200 million gallons in 1993 and 209 million gallons in 1994.

The Water Corporation maintains 500 million gallons yearly capacity in its wells. "We are not hurting for water," Preston said. "Where there may be problems in the future will be in getting that water to where we need it."

Preston said the Water Corporation will spend up to $250,000 in capital improvements in 1995. Work will soon begin on a $120,000 project to re-work water lines to the Woods of Salado area.

"When the development was first planned, it was for 5 acre tracts," Preston said. "Today, we have several 1 and 2 acres tracts out there, which means there are over twice as many folks out there than we had originally planned to serve."

The Water Corporation owns surface water in Stillhouse Lake but does not use this water because it would require a treatment plant, a $2-3 million investment Salado is not ready for yet, Preston said.

Central Texas Water Supply Corporation plans on building a water treatment plant on FM 1670, which the Salado Water Corporation may be able to access in the future.

Other business

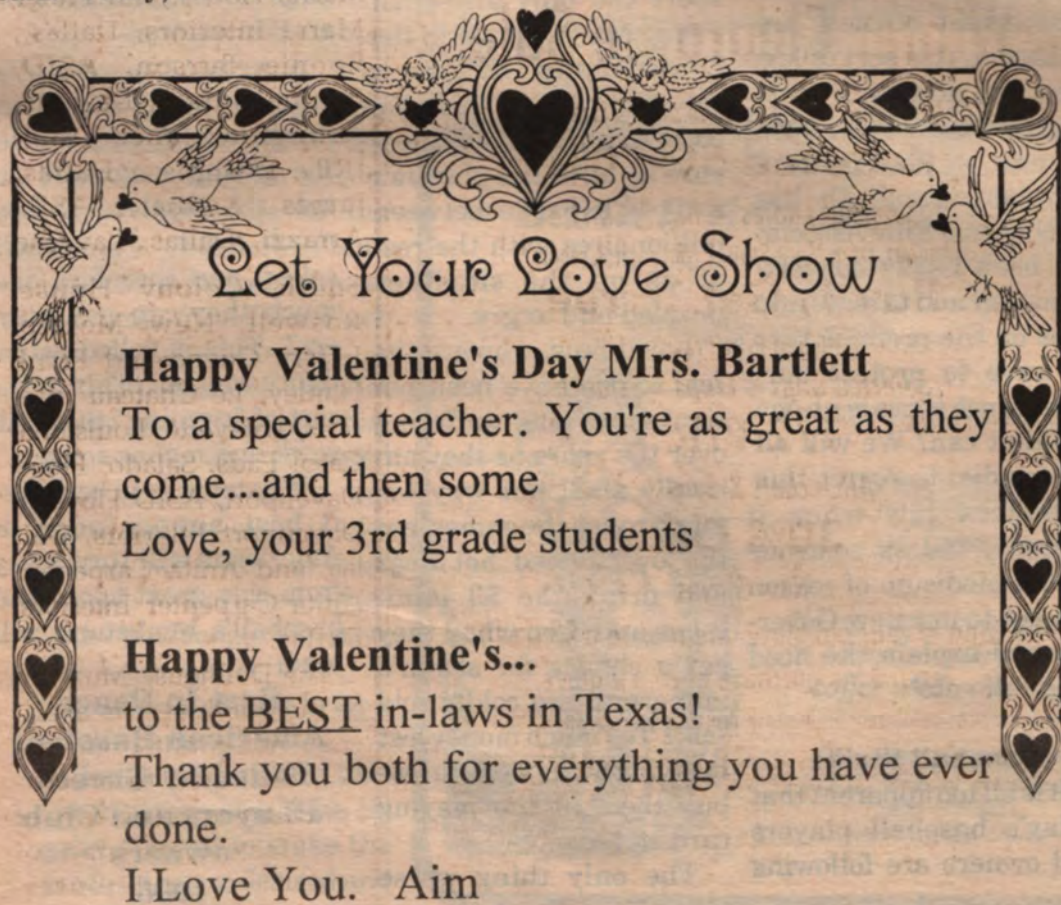

In other business, the Chamber heard reports from the Old Salado School Foundation that the note balance on the Civic Center is now $12,000. "We hope to reduce this by half at our March auction," said OSSF president Ken Clapp.

Steven Ervin reported that the banquet was a success and profitable for the Chamber.

Charles Allen told the board that 80 percent of the booths for the Antique Show April 22-23 have been reserved by dealers. The Antique Show will be held at Salado schools.

Salado Merchants Committee chair Cindy Dale said the committee is working on several projects, including lighting Main St. bridge during the Stroll, street lights on Royal St., lighting the billboards, and supplying trash cans along Main St.

Planners of the 1995 Old Salado School Foundation auction have put together a real-meal-deal for those who buy the $6 advanced tickets according to ticket sales chairman Lloyd Parks. The annual auction set for Saturday, March 4, at the school cafeteria on Thomas Arnold Road will start at 6 p.m. with a meal fit for a king. Chairman Parks noted: "We will have a Mikeska catered meal complete with barbecued sirloin, sausage, potato salad, baked beans, cole slaw, pickles, onions, peppers, home made bread, coffee, iced tea and home made brownies—all for $6. You can't beat the price," he continued. "And the reason for the special meal at a low cost is to attract folks to come out and be a part of the auction fun and hopefully buy some items—thus helping to pay off the bank note on the civic center."

OSSF President Ken Clapp announced last week that thanks to a $2000 grant from the Ladies Auxiliary the building debt has been reduced to $12,000! "We are ever so grateful to the Auxiliary for this help. We are knocking on the door of a debt free civic center. If we can raise half the amount we owe ($6,000) through the auction and then sell a few more bricks and life memberships—we will be ready to burn the two-year-old $100,000 note. What a great day that will be." Clapp stated.

Bea Stewart, president of the Salado Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary, presents checks to help with the Old Salado School Foundation fund-raising efforts. OSSF President Ken Clapp accepts a $2,000 check while Lloyd Parks, fund-raising chairman for the landscape and development committee, accepts a $500 check.

The board of directors of the OSSF plan to host a village-wide note burning celebration shortly after the note is paid off in order to properly thank everyone who has had a part in the renovation of the old school building that has turned into the focal point of civic activities here in Salado.

Patsy Sanford, chairman of this year's auction urged villagers to be gathering up auctionable items so there will be many things for the crowd to buy. These items may be brought to the civic center for storage until March 4, or may be delivered to the cafetorium that Saturday morning starting at 9:30 a.m.

Anyone with a question on donations should call civic center manager Laura McQueary at 947-5040.

Tickets for the dinner are now on sale at People's National Bank, First State Bank of Salado, Fletcher's Book Store, the Chamber of Commerce office on the first floor of the civic center or from any member of the Board of Directors of the Old Salado School Foundation.

Record

bers of the legislature are gathered? This is bad social policy and we are going to find folks with hair-trigger tempers packing heat. There are going to be a number of "oops -- sorry, my mistake" shootings and even with tort reform the liability potential for those who carry hidden guns will be enormous. If most law enforcement officials are opposed to this sort of law - how is it that our elected officials suddenly became so smart on the subject of criminal control? Or has the National Rifle Association been busily converting money and threats into votes on the premise that we have to protect ourselves since there is no one else that can? We will all live (or die) to regret this knee-jerk law when it passes - unless someone with a modicum of reason can get to our new Governor and explain the need for a full veto!

Baseball Strike

It is all too apparent that today's baseball players and owners are following the 1882 attitude of William Henry Vanderbilt when he proudly announced: "The Public Be Damned"! The current impasse in baseball that threatens the 1995 season after killing off the 1994 playoffs and world series has been caused in large measure by granting the sport the only anti-trust business exemption in the United States. As a result the club owners have become wealthy beyond measure as have the players - so it is a battle between millionaires with the rest of us on the sidelines puzzled and angry.

Loyal fans, who are the real losers have been patient and long suffering over the years as they annually shell out way too much to see the games; eat the over-priced hot dogs and drink the $3 minicokes and then when they get a chance for a star's autograph are coldly told "no"! Too much money lost in giving away signatures - buy them at the playing card stores.

The only thing worse than letting all this drag on for years would be to have our top elected officials enter the fray. Should the team of Clinton, Dole and Little Newtie and the rest of the congressional lineup ever step up to the plate - our national pastime could easily become an unrecognizable as a page of instructions from an IRS manual.

If we are truly worshipping at the altar of "free marketing" why not let the paying customers decide the matters of how much money the owners collect and therefore how much they can pay players? This is called attendance control. This is the sort of "capping" that will work and makes sense.

Whatever is to be done - it best happen soon or Americans will turn away from this great sport and baseball's tombstone will read:

Varsity basketball squad remain in hunt for play-off spot; must win & hope for Hutto loss

The Varsity Eagles still had hopes of reaching the play-offs at presstime this week, but they would have to beat first place Somerville Feb. 14 and hope for a loss by Hutto to cause a two or three-way tie. If Hutto won its Feb. 14 contest, then the Hippos would own second place as they squeaked by Salado 49-47 Feb. 10.

The Eagles led by two points at the the end of the third period, but were outscored 18-14 by Hutto in the last period.

Paul Gidley led the Eagles with 14 points, followed by Jerome Peoples, with 10 points.

Cabaniss, 9 points, Kurt Salisbury, 8 points and Joey Agee, 6 points.

The Varsity Eagles were 5-4 in district play at presstime. Results of their contest Feb. 14 with Somerville were not available at press time.

Junior Varsity Eagles

The JV Eagles beat Hutto 40-28 last week. They were led by a 15 point effort by Roger Buckley.

Also scoring were Lamar Kirk, 9 points, Vinny Michna, 6 points, Shawn Mitchell, 5 points, John Woolard, 3 points, and Mitch Lindley, 2 points.

 Monday-Sat: 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Sun. 12-5 p.m.

The City Federation of Women's Clubs Brunch and Style Show will be held 11 a.m. Feb. 18, at the Mill Creek Country Club. Tickets are on sale now, $16 each, at the Village Boutique. Seating is limited. The 19 models will be familiar to many, as they are members of the City Federation of Women's Clubs.

Owners of the Village Boutique, Sharlean Ledel and Yvonne Collins will offer fashions for all age groups in a variety of colors for spring and resort wear.

will be introducing a totally new line called Ciel Bleu. Other popular lines of fashions included in the show will be Lilly Pulitzer, Cynthia Max, Arthur Max, and Vittadimi, among the more familiar labels.

Many of the popular lines of clothing found at the Village Boutique will be on the runway of fashions presented Feb. 18.

Proceeds from the show will go to the organization to benefit the many community efforts this organization sponsors.

According to Sharlean Ledel, the Village Boutique

Cortney Renfro (left) and Kevin Reichert (right) have received their EMT Intermediate Certification. The two Salado Volunteer Firefighters completed the intermediate course at Scott & White Hospital in Temple. "Both Renfro and Reichert attended the classes on their own time and at their own expense," said Fire Chief Wayen Rutherford. "It's fantastic to have young men who are that dedicated to their community and its safety." Pictured below are Thomas Arnold Elementary Pre-K students who visited the Salado Volunteer Fire Department Feb. 3, where they got the Nickel Tour and learned about fire safety. The SVFD is holding a chili supper Feb. 20 at the school cafeteria to raise funds for new emergency equipment. The chili supper, held in conjunction with a silent auction sponsored by the Salado High School Student Council, will begin 5 p.m. The SVFD continues to accept donations in its fund drive. A list of contributors to-date can be found on page 20, this issue Salado Village Voice. Donations may be mailed to the Salado Volunteer Fire Department, P.O. Box 503, Salado, TX 76571.

Eagles begin baseball practice

The 1995 Salado Eagle baseball teams start practice this week with high hopes and lofty goals. Salado has several talented players, but very few with Varsity experience. The Eagles return three seniors from last year's bi-district championship team. Jereme Hosch, who was a pitcher/outfielder last year, will be called upon to pitch and possibly play first base this year. Jereme was an all-state selection last year as pitcher. He hit .442 on the year with 5 homeruns. He had a 9-2 record as a pitcher.

Jason Hosch is a returning all-district player. He will be nestled behind the plate for his third year as varsity catcher. Jason hit .337 in 1994 with 3 homeruns.

Brent Cabaniss will return at shortstop for Salado. He was selected to the second team All-District squad at that position and will provide solid defense for the Eagles. His bat will also be counted upon as he hit .338 last year.

Shawn Easley was a part-time starter in the outfield last year. In 1995, he will be counted upon to provide offensive speed and great defense on a full-time basis.

Chris Frazier and Joshua Goodnight both registered close to 30 innings on the mound last year as freshmen. Both will be counted upon to increase their load on the mound and to play regularly at other positions this year.

There are several players who will have the chance to move up from the Junior Varsity and contribute to this year's varsity squad. They include infielders David Berumen and Eric Lopez, outfielders William Culp, Jerome Peoples, Vinny Michna and Chris McGregor.

Salado has new competition in the district in Somerville, Rogers and Academy, but with the return of a strong pitching staff, the Eagles should return to the play-offs.

Pace Park board to further consider trade when it receives proof of clear title to land

The W.A.Pace Memorial Park's Board of Trustees met Feb. 3, to take up the possible trade of .26 acres of land that belongs to the park and was fenced in some years prior to the purchase of adjoining land by Jack and Pat Herrington.

Park trustees last Fall notified the Herringtons to take down the fenced-in portion of the parkland. Subsequently the Herringtons asked trustees if they would be interested in a land swap that would allow the park board to increase the size of Pace Park by nearly an acre of land in exchange for the .26 acre. The acre of land adjoins the park on the west and runs from Pace Park road to Salado Creek.

Trustees asked District Judge Rick Morris for his opinion on the proposed land exchange since the board did not want to violate the 1946 deed of trust from J. W. Pace and Elizabeth Pace Hodges who gave the land, under trust, to the citizens of Salado for a public park.

Judge Morris ruled that the trustees would be legally allowed to make the trade if they so desired and the Attorney General's Office, representing the public in all matters of a public trust, further opined that they found no legal prohibition to the trade and that it would not violate the trust document should trustees decide to go ahead with the land trade.

Pace Park Trustees then took up the matter at the February 3, session and after full discussion of all facts leading up to the proposed land trade - voted without dissent, to have the Herringtons provide the board with a complete Title Insurance Policy indicating the current and legal ownership of the near acre of land under consideration.

Trustees will, upon receipt of the title policy, make a final decision on the proposed trade. They further set March 1, as a deadline for receipt of the title policy before proceeding further with the matter.
