Salado ISD budget hearing set Aug. 28

The Salado ISD Board of Trustees will meet in special session 7 p.m. Aug. 28 to consider a $3.9 million operating budget for the 1995-96 school year.

After a hearing on the proposed budget, the board will approve the budget and set a date to set the tax rate.

The Bell County Tax Appraisal District will not have proposed tax rates until Aug. 25 at the earliest, so the tax rate will not be set until later.

"The total budget for 1995-96 is 4 percent higher than last year," said supt. Steven Ervin.

"Salado will spend most of its money to pay for personnel, including teachers, administrators, support staff and benefits." Ervin

Several ducks practice for the big race Oct. 7.

Race is on Oct. 7

The race is on!

The first annual Duck Race down Salado Creek will be Oct. 7 in Pace Park as part of the Salado Family Festival.

The grand prize in the duck race will be a travel package valued at $3,000. The winner may choose either a seven day ski trip for two to Colorado, a seven day Bahama cruise for two, a three night Hawaiian trip for two or a five night family trip for four to Disneyland.

Second place winner will receive a Salado shopping spree, while third place will win an original painting by Salado's own wildlife artist Ronnie Wells.

Other prizes in the race include a stay for four at the YO Ranch in Mountain Home, a Lynn Haney Santa from Gregory's and stays at Salado's bed and breakfast inns.

A full list of prizes in the race will appear in following editions of the Salado Village Voice.

Ducks are now available for $25 for one duck, $100 for five or $200 for a flock of 12 ducks.

A maximum of 1,000 ducks will be floated down the creek from the springs at Sirena to the rapids at the end of Pace Park.

The Salado Family Festival is an effort by the Salado Chamber of Commerce to raise funds for the Salado Youth Association, which is building baseball fields and soccer fields on property off Rose Lane, according to event chairman Tim Fleischer.

"The Chamber of Commerce and Salado Youth Association is putting together the Family Festival for several purposes: to raise money for a worthy cause, to bring the many different folks in Salado together and to have fun. The latter is the most important, which is why we will have food and refreshments, free games for children, a kid art table, games for adults including volleyball, dominoes, horseshoes and much more."

Kids will have a great time in the balloon stomp, sack race, egg toss, balloon race and three-legged race.

Also, the Salado Family Festival will have the first-ever tug-of-war across the creek.

This "Pull for Youth" tug-of-war tournament has as its grand prize a party for up to 18 people given by La Mansion de Salado. Entry fee into the tug of war contest is $25 per team of nine people with all proceeds given to the Salado Youth Association.

You can enter the duck race by purchasing tickets at many locations in the village including the Salado Chamber of Commerce, the Salado Village Voice, IGA Village Foods and Century 21 Bill Bartlett.

As the rubber ducks are sold and numbered, they will be displayed in a net at Village Foods

Party, drawing Sept. 21 for Service Center

Mark your calendars for Sept. 21! You will want to be on hand for the party and raffle to benefit Salado's forthcoming Service Center to be located at Rose Lane.

"It will be an evening of fun, meeting your neighbors and supporting a good cause! And you may be the one to go home in a classy Polo green Achieva Sports Car. You won't want to miss it," Grace Jones, president of the Community Service Center Foundation.

The doors of the Bell County Expo will open at 6:30 p.m. If you wish to participate in the raffle, the cost is $100 per ticket. If you just want to be part of the evening, it will be $25

Tall Tale

The Unbelievable Adventure rated PG

starring Patrick Swayze, Oliver Platt,
Catherine O'Hara

Our rating: ****

by Tim Fleischer
Editor-in-Chief

Disney's Tall Tale is a lot of fun for the family. What it lacks in substance, it makes up for in style.

Tall Tale is the story of Daniel Hackett, a young boy who really doesn't believe the stories of Pecos Bill, Paul Bunyan and John Henry told to him by his father. Until the day he meets them for himself after drifting down a river into the desert.

In the desert he meets Pecos Bill, who shoots off the trigger fingers of a couple of cowboys bent on getting the gold teeth out of young Daniel's head one way or the other. He shoots off their trigger fingers because it's Sunday, and Pecos Bill doesn't want to do any killin' on Sunday.

Patrick Swayze is perfectly cast as the rough-and-ready Pecos Bill who lives by a code of honor, which includes not spitting in front of ladies and doing right by the land.

Oliver Platt is a little wimpy as Paul Bunyan, but other than that, no real complaints about this fanciful story. It is good entertainment to watch with the kids or grandkids.

Ripple of discontent may form 3rd party

There is more than just a ripple of discontent coursing through the main stream of American politics these days which many feel is the precursor to the arrival of a potent third party movement capable of not only challenging Democrats and Republicans but actually putting independent-moderates in charge of what we charitably call our government in Washington.

You, no doubt, will recall the highly successful third party movement led by H. Ross Perot in 1992 that dumped incumbent President George Bush and handed Bill Clinton the "big enchilada." A man who was clearly not the most popular politician on the block.

Perot received more votes as an independent than any other third party candidate in history. His "United We Stand America" followers shook the foundation of staid political groupies across the nation and still commands respect as was noted some days back when nearly all of next year's presidential hopefuls made a pandering pilgrimage to Dallas to speak to the UWSA faithful.

Current polls across the nation indicate great dissatisfaction with both major political parties despite the heavy handed "contractual" work by the newly minted Republican majority in Congress that has failed thus far to secure the holy grail of term limits, balanced budgets, welfare and campaign reform plus control of the special interest lobbyists.

Democrats have been heavily in disfavor for giving away the store to secure votes over the past 40 years and have found no way to return to power without acting sensibly when it comes to handling tax dollars and give-away programs.

This they cannot seem to do even though their moderate leaders are jumping ship through turn-coating or early retirement, all in disgust at their own party's lack of direction.

Examples of some top Democrats planning not to seek reelection in 1996 include (to date) Senators: Bill Bradley, (D-New Jersey); Paul Simon, (D-Illinois); Jim Exon, (D-Nebraska); David Pryor (D-Arkansas) and Howell Heflin (D-Alabama).

Word is even circulating around D. C. that Senator Sam Nunn, (D-Georgia) - one of the real leaders in Washington is about to lay down his sword. A true loss to government that includes both parties, the White House and citizens of all stripes and persuasions.

As a result of this bipartisan unhappiness on the part of the electorate, it is not surprising to find the current third party movement a true directional change in the political wind. One that cannot, or should not, be ignored.

A recent Texas Poll indicated a favorable opinion of Colin Powell by an overwhelming 65 percent even though the pollees did not know what party, if any, he embraced.

A nationwide U. S. News survey, indicated as late as last week, that Powell also holds a favorable rating among 71 percent of all American voters regardless of party affiliation.

It is from high ratings like these that independent leaders emerge especially when the disapproval marks of the two leading parties edge upward by the day.

The independent or third party movement is not something new in American political history. A quick look at the record proves this point. We find the first example of minor

Town hall meeting Aug. 29

The third and final town hall meeting on the subject of incorporation of Salado is scheduled for 7 p.m. Aug. 29 in the school cafeteria on Thomas Arnold Rd.

Jim Reed, a professional planner with the Central Texas Council of Governments, will make a formal presentation by the CTCOG team. The presentation will include the tax base information as well as final recommendations on the direction the team thinks the community should take.

The results of a non-binding ballot will also be presented at the meeting.

If there is sufficient interest in incorporating Salado when the Salado Chamber of Commerce receives the final CTCOG report, a meeting of citizens living within the area to be considered for incorporation will be held to secure the prescribed number of signatures asking the county judge to call for an election on the issue.

The official boundaries, plats, census information and other legal documents required by the County Judge will be secured to accompany the request for election.

Should the incorporation issue pass, a second vote would follow to select leaders of the newly incorporated city.

During the second town hall meeting, Reed presented possible boundaries for incorporation. One set of possible boundaries included the historic district of Main St. and Royal St.

including Victorian Oaks. Another set included the aforementioned area, plus a large portion of Mill Creek and the west side of I-35 just past the school complex on Thomas Arnold.

But the most recent census figures show Salado to have too few people to incorporate more than a two square mile area. The most optimistic figures, according to Reed, showed a population of under 2,000 in a four square mile area which would include all of Mill Creek and other subdivisions off Holland Road.

One citizen suggested a house-to-house count of Salado residents, which may prove enough citizens live within a four square mile area to call for incorporation of the larger city.

Letters to the editor written

Editor:

The diatribe by Mr. Ken Clapp against Republicans and the proposed cuts in funding for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting can not be left unanswered.

First, the subsidy to PBS is a subsidy to an elitist minority constituting less than 10 percent of the population and (I really hate to use this argument) to that population that needs subsidization least.

Secondly, the programming is scarcely better than commercial TV. The McNeil-Lehrer News Hour is about five minutes news and the remainder old tired out biased opinion from old tired out journalists and politicians. The Capital Gang is the same old garbage from the same old journalists in shrill and clamorous voices. (I would personally pay money to get Eleanor Clift off TV). Washington Week in Review is a quieter version of The Capital Gang but it is the same old biased garbage. My observation is that adults are more enamored of Barney and Sesame Street than are children. Documentaries are for the most part extremely biased toward socialism, particularly those of Bill Moyers. Masterpiece Theater is generally spoken in a language that is difficult to understand even though presumably it is English. Daytime educational programs are rarely educational and in some cases in error. Beginning French and Spanish are good - if you know French and Spanish.

Public Broadcasting is not all good nor all bad but a government subsidy is neither needed nor warranted in light of our tremendous debt and continuing deficits. Let PBS sink or swim in the private sector.

I am not, by the way, a greedy tycoon seeking to fatten my pocket book.

Dear Editor:

During the past year, residents of Salado have had to consider the advantages of a rock quarry and the protection of the designated historic district. The noise and pollution ascribed to the rock quarry generated a fair amount of resistance. In regard to the designated historic district, a dilution or even deletion of the ambiance is alleged to be a major problem.

However, these issues may be trivial compared to the effort to convert I-35 into the NAFTA super-highway.

Judge Garth is a strong advocate of this conversion and Tim Brown, our commissioner, is quoted: "We need this highway." Another advocate has posed the question: "Can you imagine Boston or New Orleans saying that they would prefer not to have a seaport?"

Without comment on the intelligence of the people of those cities, perhaps it is time to consider whether the up-grading (or is it down-grading?) of I-35 as it passes through Salado is to our advantage.

If more traffic, 26 lanes, trucks with capacity of 170,000 pounds and more noise are deemed desirable for our village, we need to express our support to Judge Garth and Mr. Brown. They will surely respond to our wishes.

Sincerely,
Bob Merrill

Wendell C. Williams, president of Peoples National Bank, announces several staff changes.

According to Williams, "With the continued growth and expansion of our bank, Don Owens will transfer to the corporate level to serve as Vice President for Marketing, Retail Products and Business Development. Glenda Hill has been named Personnel Officer and Training Coordinator."

"Don has done a tremendous job for Peoples National Bank in the Salado market and it was not an easy decision to reassign Don to another area of our bank," Williams said. "However, with Don's talents and abilities and the need we have in the corporate marketing area, it was a natural fit."

"Glenda brings a great deal of experience to the Corporate Personnel Officer and training coordinator position," Williams said. "As a bank grows so does the staffing, resulting in full-time training becoming a vital component to our commitment to quality banking."

In addition, Andy Vaughn has joined the bank, and will serve as Vice President for Peoples National Bank. His duties will include serving as Salado Branch Manager as well as Consumer and Mortgage Lending Officer.

Andy is a graduate of Texas A & M University, holding a B.A. and MBA in finance. He brings over 19 years of banking background, having most recently been associated with Texas Trust Savings Bank in Austin. Andy is a past president of the Georgetown and Copperas Cove Chambers of Commerce. He has also served as past president of the Copperas Cove Rotary Club.

Andy and his wife Judy, have two sons Neil and Reid. They currently reside in Georgetown, and will move to Salado in the near future.

Williams, said, "Andy brings a great deal of banking experience to Peoples National Bank. These staff changes will continue to enhance our commitment of serving our customers."

The Temple-Belton-Salado area is proud to offer "ecotourists" another spectacular area for hiking, bird watching, photography, and just enjoying nature.

Miller Springs natural area is located next to the Lake Belton dam on 263 acres of Corps of Engineer property. Miller Springs Alliance is a 501(C) non-profit organization, which operates on a long term lease with the Corps of Engineers, becoming the first such organization to do so in the State of Texas.

"The many partnerships with seven surrounding school districts and cities, Bell County, three colleges, private businesses, and numerous individuals, exemplify the region's intense desire to preserve and protect this delicate natural area, while providing education for our citizens," said Connie Kuehl, Director of Tourism for Temple, and founding board member.

"Over 7,000 school children were able to experience environmental education first hand this year. Students of archeology can view the awesome power of water, where Lake Belton overflowed the spillway in 1992, carving out a huge canyon and creating a wetlands area below," Kuehl added.

Texas Department of Transportation's ISTEAF funding was awarded to restore an historic bridge in the area. A grant from Texas Parks and Wildlife funded the creation of a fully accessible board walk trail, "Miracle Mile" which allows people with disabilities the opportunity to view the wetlands and restored native prairie below. A grant from U.S. Fish and Wildlife Department, with labor provided by juveniles serving community service hours, Boy Scouts, and interested individuals, are developing the wetlands area.

Its unique geography includes the Balcones escarpment, several naturally flowing springs, excavated areas that created Lake Belton dam and spillway, bluffs, canyons, and "Watchable Wildlife". Over eight miles of trails have been constructed of varying degrees of difficulty.

The natural area is open free to the public from dawn to dusk. No alcohol, fires, pets, or vehicles are allowed in the park.

Additional funding through grants and partnerships will build an environmental learning center with "green" architecture, interpretive displays, lab, and weather station.

For more information or tours, call; Connie Kuehl 770-5720 or Mary Ann Smith 780-2818.

Over 1.1 million inquire about Texas travel, tourism is 3rd largest industry in state

The State of Texas received more than 1.1 million inquiries for travel information during the first 11 months of fiscal year 1995, setting a new record for the second year in a row. That pace is 10.4 percent ahead of the previous fiscal year's pace according to information compiled and analyzed by the Texas Department of Commerce Tourism Division and the Texas Department of Transportation Travel and Information Division.

"The continued increase in travel inquiries is testament to the diversity and appeal of Texas," said Darren Rudloff, Tourism Division director. "The popularity of Texas as a travel destination continues to grow as more and more people discover the wealth of activities and sights available," he added.

As of the end of July, Texas received 1,162,375 requests for travel information. For the month of July alone there were more than 90,000 inquiries, an increase of 52.8 percent over July 1994. It is projected that the total inquiries for fiscal year 1995 will reach approximately 1.2 million. The State of Texas fiscal year runs Sept. 1 - Aug. 31. The inquiries tallied include both United States and international requests.

Commerce's Tourism Division is responsible for advertising and marketing Texas as a premier travel destination and overseeing a contracted telemarketing operation to handle toll-free telephone calls. The major portion of the 1.1 million inquiries were made by persons calling Commerce's toll free number, 800/8888-TEX.

The Texas Department of Transportation is responsible for producing the state's travel literature and fulfilling the information requests.

Tourism is the third-largest industry in Texas. In 1993, travelers spent an estimated $22.8 billion in Texas. That amount sustained approximately 422,000 jobs. Texas is the second-most visited state in the nation, and in 1994 approximately 166 million people traveled in and to Texas.

Prostate screening announced

Exams for the early detection of prostate cancer will be available during the 1995 Prostate Cancer Screening Clinic at Scott and White in Temple from 8 a.m. to noon on Sept. 16, and Sept. 23, as part of Prostate Cancer Awareness Week, which runs Sept. 16-23.

Scott and White is one of approximately 1,000 sites around the country where exams will be available during Prostate Cancer Awareness Week. To schedule an exam, men must make an appointment by calling 724-5770 or 1-800-725-1343. Appointment scheduling for men who have been previously screened at Scott and White began on Aug. 7. Other appointment scheduling for men who have not been previously screened will begin on Monday, Sept. 11. Appointments are limited and available on a first-come, first-served basis.

Scott and White expects to screen approximately 1,200 men in the Central Texas area, and approximately 500,000 men are expected to participate nationwide. The exams will consist of a digital rectal examination and a prostate specific antigen (PSA) blood test, each of which takes about one minute to perform.

"The combination of these two tests is the most effective and efficient method for detecting prostate cancer at an early stage, before it has escaped the prostate gland," said Dr. Richard C. Klugo, principal investigator for the

Early Day Tractor, Engine show Oct. 6-8

The Texas Early Day Tractor and Engine Association (TEDTA) 23rd Annual Fall Show will open at noon Oct. 6 and run until 3 p.m. Oct. 8.

Show hours are 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Oct. 7 and 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Oct. 8.

Heritage demonstrations such as corn shelling, wheat threshing, plowing, shingle cutting, goat shearing, fence weaving, blacksmithing, and others will be held.

A tractor parade and tractor pull are also scheduled. Early pioneer costumes are encouraged, and many fun activities are scheduled for the whole family.

R.V. parking will be allowed in designated areas. No hook-ups are available. Area hotels are offering discounted rates, with over 500 rooms located within one mile of the show grounds.

"Country style" arts and crafts booths are available upon review and approval. Flea market booths are also available for farm related items.

Over 250 tractors, 300 small engines, and 8000 people were in attendance at last year's show of the TEDTEA. The now over 400 member association has done an incredible job since establishing it's permanent home here in Temple. In five years' time, the association has taken an unsightly tract of city land and turned it into the beginnings of a "heritage" city. The Association now leases 48 acres from the city on a long term lease.

Improvements to date include, rest room facility with showers, bleachers and announcer stand, popcorn concession house, large equipment building, "ice cream house", a very old log cabin relocated from east Texas, a loading dock for heavy equipment, P.A.

A "Tabernacle" style cook shack, will sell beans, bar-b-Que and corn bread, seating 350. The "Trojan house" a 100+ year old farm house, and the "Seaton Gin" will also be featured.

Another treasure has recently been salvaged from the blow torch. With only six hours to spare, a 1916 "Universal Unaflow" steam engine, built by the Skinner Engine Co. in Erie, PA. and used by the Seely Electric Co. Inc. in Spencer, NY. The engine ended its career at the Carnation Co. in Schulenburg in 1973 and was scheduled for demolition.

Jerry Jones of Seeley, happened to stop by when the building was being demolished prior to removing the engine. His frantic call to the TEDTEA resulted in several members pooling their money to transport it to the show grounds!

This rare steam engine, complete with original foundation drawings, is now located safely at its new TEDTEA show grounds for display.

A rare 1900's Corfiss type Atlas Steam engine from a sorghum mill is also being restored. Additional large engines are being added to the collection, some of which will run or be displayed at the October show.

The "Seaton" cotton gin, continues to be a source of pride and labor, as restoration continues.

Built by Karel Motl in the early 1900's, and later purchased by Charlie Siimek and John Dukatnik about 1910, it was purchased, moved and operated by Pavel Olejnik from 1912 to 1915. It was then sold to a man named Svejcar who sold it to Adolph Lesikar in 1921.

After his death in 1930, his brothers Joe and Jerry renamed it the "Lesikar Brothers Gin" and operated it until 1965 when it was shut down. In 1991, a daughter, Martha Lesikar and niece, Jane Williams donated it to the TEDTEA.

Dwayne Fuller of Longview, restored the "Y" type 75 horse power Fairbanks Morse engine and started it at the 1993 annual show. The restored engine will again puff and bellow smoke, but this year it will run under the protection of a new building and roof. Efforts to reassemble and restore the myriad of delicate moving parts will be ongoing.

Photographs of early Bell County cotton gins, equipment, and employees are being sought, as well as donations/loans of parts, and equipment used during that era for demonstration and preservation. Oral histories will be taken to preserve the voices and the stories of an important part of Central Texas past.

Those wishing to contribute time, money, artifacts, stories, etc. are encouraged to come to the weekend show and help recreate the past.

The association netted over $25,000 at the 1994 fall show, which will be put directly back into the show grounds. Donations of money and rare equipment are exceeding all predictions. Manpower, parts, and of course, cash are being solicited to restore several large displays.

For further information on membership, contributions, booth space, etc. please contact the Tourism and Promotions office, at (817)770-5720 screening, a senior staff physician in the Division of Urology at Scott and White in Temple.

Screening

This is the fifth year Scott and White has participated in the annual screening. During the past four years, more than 2,700 men have been screened at Scott and White, and 49 of those were diagnosed with prostate cancer.

WHO SHOULD BE SCREENED FOR PROSTATE CANCER?

"We recommend that men between the ages of 50 and 80 with no prior history of prostate cancer undergo an annual prostate evaluation," said Dr. Michael R. Hermans, co-director of the screening, also a senior staff physician in the Scott and White Division of Urology. "In addition, men who are part of population groups with high rates of prostate cancer, including African Americans and those with a family history of the disease, should begin these annual tests at age 40."

SCREENING PROCEDURE

The screening involves two procedures: a digital rectal exam and a blood test called PSA. During the digital rectal exam, the doctor inserts a gloved finger into the rectum to feel for lumps or growths on the prostate. The PSA blood test (also known as a prostate specific antigen blood test) measures the level of a substance produced by the prostate gland. High levels mean that the man possibly has prostate cancer.

Each man will receive a sheet explaining what the physician has found during the examination. Results from the blood test will be available in about two weeks. If the physician detects a suspicious condition or if the PSA test reveals high prostate specific antigens, the man will be referred to a urologist for follow-up care or urged to see his primary care physician. If the man does not have a primary care physician or a urologist, arrangements will be made for him to be seen at Scott and White.

"Scott and White sponsors the annual screening as part of its commitment to cancer prevention and care," Dr. Klugo said. "It's important for men to understand that prostate exams are valuable, even when they don't think they have problems," he added.

Since 1989, when the first round of mass screenings took place in association with Prostate Cancer Awareness Week, researchers have noted the first signs of a turnaround in the number of cases of prostate cancer that are now detected in the early—and potentially curable—stages of the disease.

"Nearly 15 years ago, almost half of all diagnosed cases were advanced and incurable," said Prostate Cancer Education Council Chairman E. David Crawford, M.D., associate director of the University of Colorado Cancer Center. "By contrast, within the last two years, approximately 60 percent of diagnosed cases were localized and potentially curable. This shows that men are gaining a leadtime advantage through early detection."

Prostate cancer is the second leading cause of cancer death for men. In the United States, an estimated 244,000 new cases of prostate cancer will be diagnosed in 1995, representing a greater than 20 percent increase from 1994. Deaths from the disease in 1995 are projected to total 40,400. About one man in 11 will develop prostate cancer, however the rate increases in African American men to one in nine.

Although prostate cancer may develop without any warning signs, possible symptoms include: weak or interrupted flow of urine; inability to urinate or difficulty in beginning to urinate; need to urinate frequently, especially at night; blood in the urine or semen; and continuing pain in the lower back, pelvis or upper thighs.

Treatment options available for prostate cancer include surgery, radiation therapy and careful follow-up observation. In some cases, physicians will recommend "watchful waiting." New, nerve-sparing techniques have dramatically reduced surgery's negative side effects, including incontinence and impotence.

Prostate Cancer Awareness Week is organized by the Prostate Cancer Education Council, a consortium of physicians, health educators and prostate cancer patient advocates dedicated to increasing prostate cancer awareness among men and the women in their lives.

Important research results over the years have demonstrated the positive predictive value of conducting the digital rectal exam and the PSA test together rather than alone. Participants also have been asked about their vasectomy history. While preliminary analysis of data does not seem to indicate a link between vasectomy and prostate cancer, additional data will continue to be collected this year.

parties in the election of 1832. Two groups - Nullification and Anti-Masons took on Andy Jackson's reelection effort. They didn't do well other than representing an "anti" feeling on the part of a few Americans.

From that early date to the present there have been third party candidates in every presidential election. Few have been successful other than presenting a specific point of view. Think back to your high school American History days and see if you can recall such groups as: The Whigs, Liberty Party, Free Soil, The American Party, The Constitutional Union, Greenback Party, Prohibitionists, Union Laborists, Nationalists and in 1904 - Eugene Debs, who brought us face to face with the Socialist Party for the first time.

Other third party groups: The Populists, Progressives, Farmer-Labor, Socialist-Labor, Workers Party, and in 1932, when Franklin Roosevelt ran against Herbert Hoover, we even discovered Communists on our national ballot.

Moving to the so-called modern political period, we note the strong State's Rights Party movement which Strom Thurmond, Orval Faubus and George Wallace headed at various and sundry times from 1948 through 1960.

Then came the Independent Party under Eugene McCarthy and the Libertarians who remain a minor voice to this day.

The ballot has also attracted such independent "off-the-wall" cuckoos as Lyndon LaRouche and KKKer David Duke.

And finally, back to the 1992 election of Bill Clinton, we note once again the defeat of George Bush that came about as a direct result of the third party work of Ross Perot who racked up the largest number of independent tallies in history - 19-plus million votes - almost exactly 20 percent of the total cast!

Interestingly similar to Perot's hit on Bush, was the work of Theodore Roosevelt, who after being a Republican president nearly two terms (1901-1909), came back in 1912 as the independent leader of the Bull Moose Party.

He challenged his old friend William Howard Taft as a result of disgust at what he termed "the massive double dealing" that took place at the Republican convention in 1912.

Roosevelt came in second by pulling over four million Republican votes away from incumbent Taft, thus giving the White House to Democrat Woodrow Wilson. The personable T.R. ranks fourth in the list of top vote getters in the independent-third party game.

Sort of deja vu all over again as Yogi Berra would say, when we compare independent Teddy R's 1912 defeat of Taft that elected Democrat Wilson with the election 80 years later that saw independent Perot poll enough votes to allow a not-so-popular Democrat also unseat an incumbent GOP president.

There were two other third party candidates worthy of mention who polled more than a few votes. Second to Perot was George Wallace and his American Independent Party (1968).

That was the year Richard Nixon slipped past Hubert Humphrey by less than one percent of the total - slightly under half a million votes out of 73 million cast.

Wallace racked up nearly 10 million votes that year and was responsible, many think, for Nixon's paranoid-like fear, four years later, of George McGovern's campaign - despite the low ratings and floundering the Demos did during that 1972 fiasco.

That senseless fear pervaded the White House minions as well as President Nixon throughout his first term and led to the bugging of Demo headquarters at the Watergate building and the subsequent resignation of "Tricky Dick".

Third among the most successful independent candidates for president was John Anderson who scored 5.7 million votes in the 1980 Ronald Reagan win over incumbent Jimmy Carter.

1996 may or may not be the watershed year for a major third party uprising, but should the American electorate continue in their unhappy ways as it now appears they will - we could be privy to some historic upsets in the year or years ahead.

Especially if the current "business-as-usual" method of legislating in Washington continues - regardless of who is in the majority in Congress or who holds the White House!

Last, but not least - think for a moment about a mix and matched team of independents in 1996 that might include Bill Bradley or Sam Nunn and/or Colin Powell.

From those three alone could come a lethal combo that might cause major indigestion among the Demos and Republicans right up to election night - November 5, 1996!
