Orphan's Home Cycle topic of Institute lecture Mar. 7

As a writer whose works often focus on small-town Texas life, Horton Foote will be in his element when he visits Salado March 5-7. Foote is opening the Institute for the Humanities' spring series Becoming - The Creative Journey.

Since the 1940's Horton Foote has been writing plays about Southern life in the 20th century. His plays, written both for the screen and the theater, have featured many famous people including Lillian Gish, Gregory Peck, Marlon Brando and Robert Duval.

The first screenplay written by Horton Foote to receive critical acclaim was his adaption of Harper Lee's novel To Kill a Mockingbird. It garnered the Writer's Guild of America Screen award and the Academy Award for script writing in 1963.

Foote went on to win an Academy Award for his screenplay Tender Mercies, which won an Academy award for its star Robert Duvall. Foote also wrote the original screenplay for The Trip to Bountiful starring Geraldine Page. Bountiful received an Academy Award nomination for "Best Screenplay," and a nomination for the Writers' Guild Screen Award.

March 6, Horton Foote will host a seminar at the Inn on the Creek 10 a.m. 3:30 p.m. The seminar topic is "Belonging and Becoming in The Orphans' Home Cycle." He will lead the seminar in conjunction with Laurie Porter, an English professor at the University of Texas at Arlington. Porter is currently writing a book about The Orphans' Home Cycle, a series of plays about Texas by Horton Foote.

Foote will also offer a lecture at the Mill Creek Dining Room on March 7. The lecture titled "Things Have Ends and Beginnings," will take place from 4 p.m.-5 p.m. and will be followed by a discussion and dinner.

The Institute is a non-profit organization that offers educational programs in the humanities. If you would like more information on the Institute and its events, write or call P.O. Box 527, Salado, Texas, 76571; (817) 947-5729.

Ladies Auxiliary donates to many Members of the Community Projects Committee of the Salado Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary, chaired by Teddie Dennis, met recently to review applications from Salado organizations for financial assistance for 1993.

Seven applications were received and all were approved. Committee members studied the applications carefully and funds were allocated where the need appeared to be greatest, where the largest number of citizens from a broad spectrum of groups would benefit, and which would provide the most long-lasting benefits to the community.

New Recipients

Because of its successful fund-raising efforts during the past year, the Auxiliary was able to help three organizations for the first time. They are Salado Humane Society, $50; Salado Cub Scouts $50 and Salado Starflight Campfire Troup K2, $150.

Other Recipients

The Old Salado School Foundation was given $1,000 for its project of renovating the Old Red School building.

The Salado Public Library was given $1,000 which is double the amount given last year. This increase will help the Library in the expansion and move to its new location in the (Old Red School) community center.

The Salado Volunteer Fire Department received $1,350. This money will be used to cover the cost of hepatitis-B vaccine for 15 volunteer fire fighters and emergency medical technicians.

According to Captain and E.M.S. coordinator Wayne Rutherford, the vaccine is required under a new Public Health law for the protection of the men and women serving in this capacity.

Tablerock of Salado was given $500. According to president Jackie Mills the money will be used for road repair on the property.

Scholarships
The amount of money allotted to scholarships for 1993 has been increased from $1200 to $1800. Three scholarships in the amount of $600 will be awarded to graduating seniors at the end of the school year. Applications for these scholarships may be made through the school counselor.

The Auxiliary raises funds with membership dues, an annual quilt raffle, and its annual "Christmas in October" project.

Andy Phair is serving as the 1993 president of the Salado Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary.

Elementary hosts Taco Supper at Open House

Thomas Arnold Elementary will host a Taco Supper 5 p.m.-6:30 p.m. March 4. All-you-can-eat for $3.50.

Open House at the high school and elementary will follow from 6:30-7:30 p.m.

Government Commodities set for March 8 distribution

Commodities will be distributed 9 a.m.-noon, March 8 at the Methodist Church.

If you think you are eligible bring your social security card or drivers license. If you are unable to come give a neighbor, friend or relative a note with your permission to pick them up for you.

starring Robert Redford, Sidney Poitier, Dan Ackroyd, River Phoenix, David Straitham, Ben Kingsley

Our rating: ****

by Tim Fleischer

I really enjoyed Sneakers, though it is a piece of fluff, starring some of the biggest names in Hollywood.

It is fast-moving, twisting and turning in a setting of international technological espionage.

Redford stars as Martin Bishop, a 60s activist turned high-tech crookbuster, who breaks into banks to find their weaknesses for his clients. The National Security Agency (with agent Timothy Busfield) hire Bishop and his crew of Sneakers to find a black box with astonishing capabilities to break codes of all kinds.

Everyone from the Russians to the NSA to the Mafia want to get their hands on the "black box," which has the ability to change world power.

Ackroyd is hilarious as Mother, who sees a conspiracy behind every tree. Noting that the CIA was in Managua a day before the earthquake he tells partner Crease (Poitier), a former Company agent, "Well, I can't prove it, but...."

Sneakers is chock full of liberal digs, but don't let that stop you from enjoying this witty, fast action thriller.

Hands on wallet: legislature is here

"Never blame a legislative body for not doing something. When they do nothing, that don't hurt anybody. It's when they do something is when they become dangerous."

Will Rogers

Several issues back, this column recommended to readers, that they consider voting for the two school related constitutional amendments that will appear on the May 1, ballot. Proposition One and Two as they will be listed, call for statewide approval of the current method of collecting some school taxes through the current county so that money can continue to be moved from the property rich to poor school districts and a second measure to prohibit the legislature from passing mandated educational programs without the necessary money to go along with the ideas and laws. We did mention one caveat that we felt should temper our approval of these amendments and that is to have, in advance, full knowledge of how the changes will be implemented once they become a part of the Texas Constitution. In other words, what laws will be passed to accomplish the voter's deci-

Well sirs and madames, as they say down in my former hometown of Uvalde, it looks like this warning made sense cause from what they are now saying down in Austin - the lawmakers are fixing to "put the big britches on us"! How come? Just let me give you a quote or two from our lady governor as they appeared in the Austin American Statesman: "Voters don't need such information (how the amendments will be implemented) in order to decide how to vote." "In the voters mind it is easier if we keep it real simple."

Thanks a lot Ann - make it simple so we simple taxpayers won't ask questions. Or do you think we are so dumb we won't understand what brilliant maneuvers you all are up to down in the "windy" capitol complex?

Other "leaders" following the Guv including Bob Bullock and most of the Democrats in the key committees except speaker

Pete Laney have fallen in line with the plan to have us vote now and find out later what sort of laws will be enacted to put the "will of the people" in place. What foolishness! For once we agree with Rep. Tom Craddick, who chairs the GOP caucus when he noted that approving the amendments without knowing how they will affect the schools and our taxes is like signing a blank check.

Between now and May 1, we should demand to know what sort of laws will be passed to carry out the amendments. This can be done - not easily perhaps - and certainly not if they continue working only two or three days a week - but it can be done. Unless these elected pooh-bahs prefer to shake us down

"one more time" as has been the case in so many instances during the past. Besides there is more time between now and May 1, than from that date to the end of the session on June 3!

This is such a blatant disregard for voters that we should all stand up on our hind legs and write,

Moore to play football in El Paso

Salado High School senior Bubba Moore signed last week to play football with University of Texas at El Paso. He will attend UTEP on an athletic scholarship to be the Miners' punter.

Moore, who played only five full games in 1992, averaged over 42 yards per punt. He also kicked for the Eagles, with his longest field goal of 46 yards and converting 13 of 14 extra points.

Moore was named All-District punter and kicker this year.

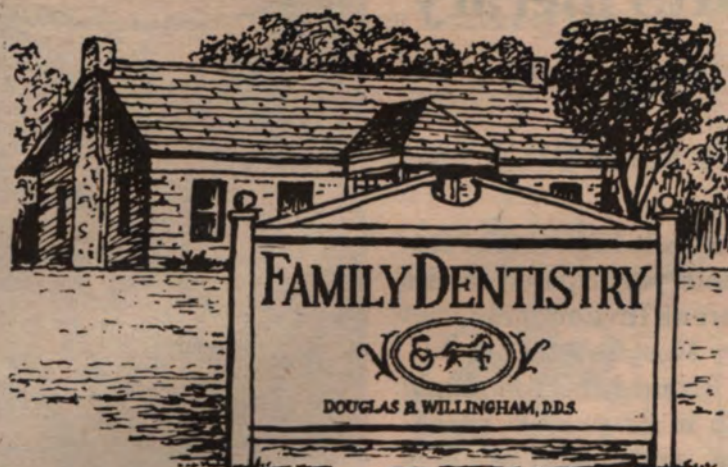

Moore was also quarterback for the Eagles during his shortened football season. Early in the season, his collarbone was broken, causing him to miss several games.

The senior also is an Eagle standout in basketball and track, though he plans to play neither sport in college.

Moore said last week that he will study business management.

Boerne continues tradition with antique show March 6-7

A tradition is alive and growing in the Texas Hill Country! This year's "lucky thirteenth" anniversary of the original Boerne Optimist Hill Country Antique Show & Sale will be held at the Kendall County Fairgrounds 10 a.m.-7 p.m. March 6, noon-5 p.m. March 7.

Two buildings will be filled with 65 dealers from New England, the Midwest, and the Southwest. These dealers "save back" their finest estate antiques for this event and the collectors are never disappointed.

Part of the charm of this Hill Country tradition is the lovely hill country setting at the county fairgrounds with ample parking under the huge old oak trees. Two halls are transformed into a creation of "past in present times." Sharing this historic site will be the annual Friends of Boerne Library book sale in the Old Dance Hall.

This year dealers from New England, the Midwest and the Southwestern states will be joined by a few new dealers, bringing their own new fresh ideas. Brimming booths will offer wicker, golden oak, primitive pine and cherry, good "Old Paint" pieces and all in between. These dealers will enhance their furnishings with accessories of baskets, linens, quilts, stoneware, folk art, books and pewter. Other dealers will exhibit an array of glassware, dried floral, antique postcards, paper goods, victrolas and antique jewelry.

The Optimists will offer food, snacks and beverages prepared on the premises. The proceeds from these concessions, as well as the antique show funds, will benefit the youth of Boerne.

Admission is $3.50 and good for both days.

First Hand: Body language to your kids

by Steven Ervin
Salado ISD

The content of your spoken message is overshadowed by your non-verbal cues. Non-verbal communication involves the position or movement of the body - your posture, gestures, facial expression, eye contact, physical spacing and physical contact. By being attentive to non-verbal clues, both our own and those of others, we can create a better work environment through increased communication.

Significant forms of non-verbal communication include:

Body Language - One's body language gives cues to the meaning of what is spoken. Body language often transmits messages even when no words are spoken. The non-verbal message is very significant; when verbal and non-verbal messages conflict, it is highly likely that the non-verbal message is more accurate. examples of body language include:

Posture - Getting...boredom, anxiety
Hands on hips...anger, defensive

Head down... disappointment

Facial expression - a person's expression can be a great source of feedback regarding how they are receiving your message. Expression can reflect displeasure, friendliness, unhappiness, anger, disbelief or amazement.

Gestures - clenched fist...anger, pain, tension

Folded arms... inflexible, defensive

Arms to side... open to suggestion

Hands clasped behind head...at ease in control.

Eye contact - Good eye contact reflect honesty, attentiveness, interest and confidence.

Physical Space/Contact - Everyone claims a piece of territory around themselves, and defends it against intrusion. We allow those we feel close to emotionally to stand in close proximity to us. We stand farther away from those we lack respect for, distrust, or feel uncomfortable with.

Physical contact is a non-verbal cue of intense trust, rapport or intimacy. a statement of high rapport and trust is made via a handshake, backslap, holding hands, a gentle touch or an embrace.

By effectively decoding the non-verbal communication being sent by others, people can change, adapt, revise or clarify their communication and interaction with the given party. By utilizing the appropriate non-verbal cues, the sender can also increase the likelihood that the receiver of his message will understand his meaning. All such activity will lead to more effective communication and a more harmonious work environment.

Salado artist shows works at UMHB

Art works by Sheryl Russell will be displayed in Presser art Gallery on the University of Mary Hardin-Baylor campus through March 12.

Russell recently completed her art degree from UMHB. Prior to finishing her formal education, Russell developed a successful career in fashion illustration. She continues to expand her art and business interests while living in Salado, where she has recently helped form Salado Creek Studios.

Her exhibition features a variety of art forms including oil, painting, collage, and mixed media ceramic wall sculpture. All of the pieces in the show reflect her desire to experiment with new techniques and to explore new themes.

"There is a wonderful sense of freedom and playfulness in this exhibit and it shows how Sheryl is willing to stretch her creative boundaries," said UMHB Art professor Herhall seals.

Presser Art Gallery is located on the floor of Presser Hall at 9th and King St. on UMHB campus in Belton. Gallery hours are 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m. weekdays. All exhibits are free and the public is welcome.

IRA contributions may give tax-deduction

It's tax season, and if you're looking for just one more deduction that could reduce your tax bill, don't forget about your IRA. The odds are good that the contributions you make to your IRA are at least partially tax deductible, and the good news is that you have until April 15, 1993, to make a contribution for the 1992 tax year.

How do you know if your IRA contribution will be deductible? The answer depends on your income level and whether you are an active participant in an employer-sponsored retirement plan, such as 401(k) plan.

If you and your spouse aren't covered by such a plan, you can deduct the maximum contribution allowed—$2,000 ($2,250 for married couple if only one spouse works), regardless of your income. If either you or your spouse is covered by an employer-sponsored plan, your contributions are still fully deductible if your adjusted gross income is $25,000 or less ($40,000 or less for married couples). IRA contributions only become totally nondeductible when either you or your spouse is covered by an employer-sponsored plan and your income reaches $35,000 ($50,000 for married couples).

Even if you find that your contributions are non-deductible, don't put your IRA into mothballs. An IRA is still one of the best retirement savings vehicles around, deductible or not. You can still make annual contributions up to $2,000 to your IRA, and taxes will continue to be deferred on all the earnings that your contributions achieve.

This tax-deferred growth really comprises the biggest and best benefit of your IRA. With or without the tax deduction, the earnings from your investment compound year after year without being reduced by current taxes. Let's look at an illustration. Assume you invest $2,000 at a rate of 10% and you're in the 28% tax bracket. This $2,000 will generate $200 the first year. Outside your IRA, you would pay 28% of the $200 earnings in taxes, keeping only $144. Inside your IRA, all $200 earned keeps working for you and compounds tax-deferred until you withdraw it. If after 20 years, you hadn't deposited another dime in your IRA, your original $2,000 investment would have grown to about $13,455 compared to $8,034 outside an IRA. Expanding in our illustration, if you were able to invest $2,000 each year in your IRA for 20 years, the value of your account would be even greater, providing more income for your retirement.

You may begin making withdrawals from your IRA at age 59-1/2 (any withdrawals before this are generally subjected to a 10% IRA penalty), but you aren't required to take money out until age 70-1/2. This gives you the flexibility of tapping into your IRA at retirement if you need the money for living expenses, or allowing the money to continue to grow tax-deferred if you don't need it. Once you begin withdrawing funds from your IRA, you'll only pay taxes on the amount you withdraw. The balance will continue to grow on a tax-deferred basis.

With or without the tax deduction, an IRA is still one of the smartest retirement savings programs around. If you've been neglecting yours, take a closer look at the benefits it offers.

Fiebig gets calf at Houston show

At the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo Michael Wayne Fiebig of Salado stood in the spotlight of the calf scramble winner's square.

Michael was one of 28 determined contestants who attempted to catch a calf, halter it and bring it into the square during the Feb. 21 performance of the show.

In exchange, Michael will receive a $1,000 certificate donated by James McCall to be used for the purchase of a registered beef or dairy heifer.

Next year, Michael will return to the Houston Show Arena with detailed records and a well-groomed heifer to compete in a special livestock show competition for additional prize money and awards.

Supervising the project will be J. Brit Owen, Salado ISD Agriculture Science teacher.

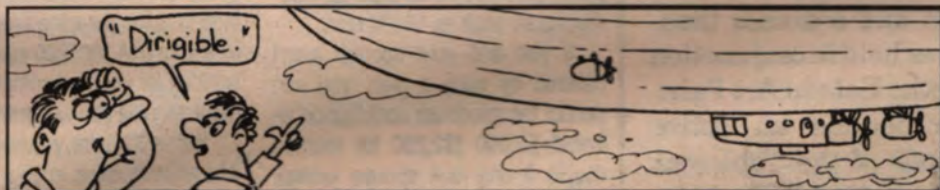

According to Robert Norwood Chairman of the Calf Scramble committee, more than 12,400 animals worth $3.27 million have been given to the youth of Texas since the program was established in 1942.

"The calf scramble is a unique program. Each contestant must demonstrate the tenacity to catch and halter a calf; in addition, he must spend time and resources to raise the calf for a full year," said Norwood.

The scramble is held during each of the 18 performances of the rodeo which includes profession rodeo action, top-notch entertainers, indoor fireworks and much more.

All proceeds from the Houston Show benefit the youth of Texas in the form of scholarships and research grants to Texas colleges and universities.

Buying And Remodeling An Older Home

If you've bought a home that is in need of some renovation, the warm spring months are the perfect time to start a variety of home improvement projects. And one of the most important areas of renovation for any home is its energy efficiency.

Having optimum amounts of insulation installed is one of the first steps toward an energy efficient home. This is particularly true for older homes because most do not meet today's insulation standards recommended by the Department of Energy (DOE). By upgrading your insulation levels to meet these current standards, you'll help to reduce your annual utility bills, save valuable energy dollars, and make your home more comfortable.

Perhaps the best type of insulation for retrofit—bringing older homes up to new insulation standards—is "blown-in" insulation, such as CertainTeed Corporation's Insul-Safe III®. It is noncombustible, noncorrosive to pipes and wires, and does not provide sustenance for pests and vermin.

Blown-in insulation has several benefits. The major one is that it offers uniform coverage, especially in hard to reach areas. The material becomes an excellent thermal blanket, leaving no nook or cranny exposed for heat to escape.

An insulation contractor can evaluate your home to determine how much insulation you need and if blown-in insulation will be beneficial. It is important to have blown-in insulation installed by a professional who has the necessary skills, experience and tools, and uses a quality insulation

Check For Thermal Efficiency

Even if your main goal is to reduce the noise in your home, you should be sure to reap the energy-saving benefits that come with having the correct levels of insulation.

Since the Council of American Building Officials (CABO) recently upgraded its Model Energy Code of thermal recommendations for homes, it's a good time to determine if your home is properly insulated to help maintain its overall energy efficiency.

For most homes across the country, the Model Energy Code now recommends a minimum insulation level of R-19 in the sidewalls. R means resistance to heat flow. The higher the R-value, the greater the insulating power.

Practical Soundproofing Tips

In addition to insulating, if you are in the process of renovating or remodeling your home, here are some additional "sound" steps you can take.

- Install thick carpeting and padding.
- Caulk around windows and use weatherstripping.
- Use solid wood core doors or mineral core doors.
- Thick glass, insulating glass, and storm windows.
- Select quiet, high quality appliances.
- Install telephones, doorbells, intercom or audio built-ins on interior walls only.
- Caulk holes made by wiring that penetrates connecting structures.
- Seal openings around ceiling fixtures air tight.

Protecting Our Environment

"Trees Forever" Wins National Environmental Excellence Award

(NAPS)—Our environment may be cleaner and our country may be greener in the years to come, thanks to tree planting efforts going on today.

One successful tree planting project, called "Trees Forever," has been selected from a group of 37 nominees representing 17 states as the first winner of the prestigious Geo Award for Environmental Excellence. The award, presented by the Chevrolet-Geo division of General Motors, was created in conjunction with partners American Forests and the USDA Forest Service to annually celebrate the work of this year's outstanding non-profit tree-planting group.

Trees Forever, a program of the Iowa Natural Heritage Foundation, began in 1989 and now boasts more than 6,000 active volunteers. It has been the driving force behind hundreds of successful tree-planting projects in some 200 Iowan communities, large and small.

The actual "Geo" Award is a specially-commissioned Steuben Glass sculpture. Triangular in shape, "The Geo" depicts a pristine grove of trees which symbolize the vitally important work of urban reforestation. Along with this unique work of art, the Geo Environmental/Tree Program presented a $5,000 grant to Trees Forever.

The Geo Environmental/Tree Program is a grassroots undertaking that educates the public about the environmental benefits of planting trees and encourages citizens to get involved on a local level. Geo, the most fuel-efficient family of automobiles sold in the U.S., as rated by the E.P.A., has provided major support to dozens of local tree planting groups around the U.S. since 1989.

Through these ongoing partnerships, over 150,000 trees have been planted thus far, one for every Geo automobile purchased in areas where the program is active. Additionally, the program is responsible for numerous tree planting events, workshops and conferences throughout the nation which aid local communities with urban renewal efforts as well as city beautification and cooling.

Organizations or individuals desiring more information, or wishing to nominate a group for the 1993 award may call 1-800-TREE-GEO, or write The Pearlman Group, 11755 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 880, Los Angeles, CA 90025.

Eagles split first 2 games of 1993 baseball season

The Salado Eagles Baseball team opened the season by dropping a 12-11 decision to the Jarrell Cougars.

The Eagles hit the ball very well, pounding out 14 hits. As good as the Eagles were on offense, they were just as bad on defense. Salado committed 10 errors on defense to allow 10 unearned runs.

The Eagles scored in each of the first five innings. They held leads ranging from one to four runs.

Salado has shutout over the last two while allowing four runs to allow Jarrell to take the win.

Jereme Hosch, Richard

Berumen, Jeremy Fischer, Chris Jackson and Brandon McGregor collected two hits each for the Eagles.

Fischer started the game on the mound for Salado. He went four innings allowing 8 runs of which only two were earned. Richard Jackson pitched the last three innings giving up four unearned runs to be saddled with the loss.

On Friday the Eagles continued their hot hitting and improved on their defense to take a 21-3 win over the Holland Hornets.

Salado jumped out to a 5-0 lead in the first inning and a half, but the Eagles committed two errors in the bottom of the second to allow three runs, two of them unearned.

The Eagles bats exploded after that. Salado scored 6 runs in the third, 5 runs in the fourth 4 runs in the fifth. This brought their total to 21 as the game was called due to the ten-run-rule.

Jereme Fischer led the Eagles at the plate going 3 of 4 with two doubles. Brandon McGregor, Chris Jackson, Bubba Moore added two hits each.

Richard Jackson pitched the complete game for the Eagles and was credited with the win. He allowed 2 hits and struck out 6.

TBC Christmas card wins 1st in ad contest

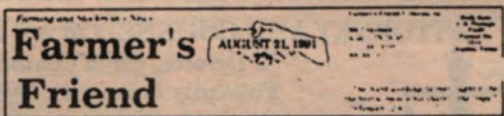

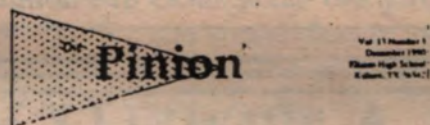

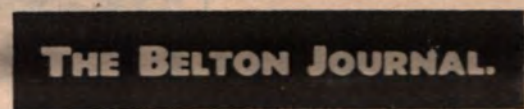

The 1992 Christmas card for Technology and Business Consultants, Inc. TBC of Kingwood and Salado, was honored with "Best of Show" and "Gold" Addy awards in the special entry - print division category at the Fifth Annual Central Texas Ad League Addy Awards banquet held in Killeen recently. Designed to be used as wrapping paper and printed entirely on 100 percent recycled paper products, this one-of-a-kind Christmas card was produced for TBC by Creative Communications, a Belton advertising agency.

A "Gold Addy" signifies the top level of all entries submitted in a particular category and "Best of Show" is determined by the judges to be the very best of all entries submitted for judging in all categories. The judging was done at the 10th District American Advertising Federation's Winter Leadership conference in Ft. Worth.

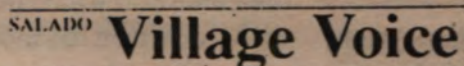

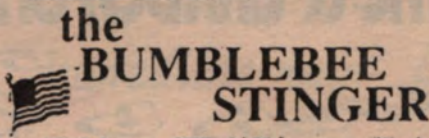

By winning a gold, TBC's Christmas card is now eligible for the 10th District Ad League competition begin held later this spring in Corpus Christi.

Garden Show set in Austin

The State Garden Show of Texas, formerly Texas Gardener's Annual Garden and Home Show, moves to the state capital for 1993.

The show features gardening exhibits and seminars 9 a.m.-6 p.m. March 13 and 10 a.m.-5 p.m. March 14.

Austin, the Heart of Texas gardening country, and within driving distance for 90 percent of Texans, will host the ninth annual garden show sponsored by Texas Gardener. The show is a week-end-long, one-stop shopping extravaganza for serious gardeners, who make the trek from throughout Texas and adjoining states to collect information, supplies, equipment and plants. Garden suppliers, power, equipment, dealers, nurseries, garden centers and other national and regional companies join local businesses on the exhibit floor to inform the gardener and sell garden products.

In all, 30 seminars relating to gardening will be offered during the week-end. Seminars are free with paid admission. Topics will cover all aspects of gardening including vegetables, ornamentals, fruit, native plants, organics, herbs, plus more.

Admission is $4.50 per adult and children under 12 years of age are free.

Food Guide Pyramid Can Help You Eat Right

(NAPS)—Americans can learn to eat more healthfully by rethinking meals from the ground up with the help of a special pyramid that shows how much should be eaten from the main food groups to have a healthy diet.

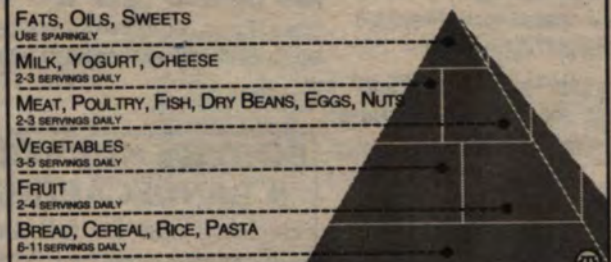

That's the goal of the March 1993 National Nutrition Month "Eat Right America" campaign sponsored by the National Center for Nutrition and Dietetics (NCND) of The American Dietetic Association (ADA). The campaign uses the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Food Guide Pyramid to plan meals and menus that include a variety of foods associated with good health.

To make healthful meal planning easy, says the NCND, emphasize food groups at the base of the pyramid. The first food group is the bread, cereal, rice and pasta group. Most people should eat six to 11 servings daily from this group. The vegetable and fruit groups are on the next level. "People who select the recommended three to five vegetable servings and two to four fruit servings, in addition to the appropriate number of grains, truly have built a sound foundation for good eating," said Nancy Schwartz, PhD, Registered Dietitian, director of NCND.

The next level on the pyramid includes the milk, yogurt and cheese group and the meat, poultry, fish, dry beans, eggs and nuts group. Fewer servings from these groups are required to meet nutrient needs. At the tip of the pyramid are fats, oils and sweets, which should be used sparingly since they are calorie-rich and nutrient-poor.

"The Food Guide Pyramid shows just how easy

The Food Guide Pyramid

Following the Food Guide Pyramid helps build a healthy diet from the ground up.

it is to eat right without giving up favorite foods. Balance, variety and moderation, the pyramid way, are the keys to a healthful way of eating," Schwartz said.

Following is a light and healthful dinner menu, based on healthy Food Guide Pyramid choices.

- 4 ounces Lemon Chicken with Basil
1 cup steamed rice
1 teaspoon margarine
1 cup Carrots à l'Orange Salad
1/4 small cucumber
1/2 small tomato
1/4 small red onion
1 tablespoon oil and vinegar dressing
1/2 cup unsweetened applesauce
2 ginger snap cookies

- Lemon Chicken with Basil
3 tbsp lemon juice
2 tbsp vegetable oil
1 tsp onion, very finely chopped
1/4 tsp salt
1/8 tsp dried basil
4 boneless skinless chicken breast halves
1. Mix all ingredients except chicken.
2. Place chicken pieces in shallow baking pan.
3. Pour lemon mixture over chicken pieces.
4. Bake at 400°F until chicken is tender, about 1 hour. Baste chicken several times with liquid in pan during baking.

- Carrots à l'Orange
3 cups carrots, sliced
2 tbsp onion, chopped
1 cup boiling water
1/8 tsp salt
2 tbsp frozen orange juice concentrate
1 tsp lemon juice
2 tbsp vegetable cooking liquid

1. Add carrots and onions to boiling salt water. Cover and boil gently until carrots are tender, about 20 minutes. Drain; save 2 tablespoons liquid.
2. Add orange juice concentrate, lemon juice, and cooking liquid to drained vegetables; stir gently. Reheat to serving temperature.

call or go in person to demand we be told well in advance what all will be put into the enabling legislation should the amendments pass. These are fairly good amendments but good constitutional changes can become disasters if lawmakers implement them with poorly drawn laws that contain lobby influenced loopholes that achieve nothing but more confusion and cost to the taxpaying public.

This is all a disgrace! We may be simple minded Ann, but not to the point that we don't know what you all are up to in Austin. No more buying "pigs in a poke" because based on past performances - most of us don't trust many of you officials who continue to pull stuff like this on us "citizen-simpletons".

Humbag! And that is the nicest, most printable thing this writer can think of concerning this outrageous attitude towards the Texans who put these folks in office.
