First State Bank Temple proposes merger with Salado National Bank

First State Bank, Temple's only locally owned independent bank and the fastest growing Bell County bank, announced today the proposed merger of Salado National Bank, Salado, Texas into First State Bank. The Board of Directors of both banks have unanimously approved a merger agreement whereby Salado National Bank will be merged into First State Bank, at which time the shareholders of Salado National will receive cash for their shares.

downtown Marlin at 233 Live Oak, First State Bank also maintains a Chilton office in Falls County which is located at 111 6th Street. The Bank's main offices are at 5550 SW H.K. Dodgen Loop in Temple.

As of March 31, 1993, First State Bank had $55,097,000 in total assets, $37,841,000 in net loans, $48,219,000 in total deposits and $4,756,000 in total stockholders' equity. On the same date, Salado National Bank had $18,530,000 in total assets, $8,965,000 in net loans, $17,133,000 in total deposits and $1,353,000 in total stockholders' equity.

Donald R. Grobowsky, president and chief executive officer of First State Bank noted "The acquisition of locally based, independent Salado National Bank is consistent with our goal of expanding into additional attractive markets in Bell County. The merger will enable the banking offices and customer base of each bank to be combined in a unique market fit which will offer greater convenience and banking services for the customers."

President Grobowsky continued, "We have considered expansion into the unique Salado community for some time and presently have a number of customers in the Salado area. This merger will enable both our old and new Salado customers to benefit from added convenience of additional banking offices, which are staffed by bankers that make their own decisions without delays. This bank expansion should support our increasing efforts and our commitment to bringing the service of a locally owned, independent bank to all segments of the Bell County Market".

S.R. Greenwood, chairman of the board of Salado National Bank agreed that the merger was a strategic market match. "First State Bank and Salado National Bank are both locally owned and based independent Bell County banks that have been dedicated to providing to providing a full line of lending and quality consumer and commercial banking services. By joining a growing organization that has a strong capital base and earning performance, it will allow us opportunities to expand our banking capabilities. Our customers and our employees will surely benefit from this merger," he said.

Chairman Greenwood further noted that Salado National Bank is the largest and oldest operating bank in the Salado market. Until its April 1979 opening, the local Salado community had been without a commercial bank since 1920. Maybe appropriate for historic Salado, the only earlier bank in Salado was another First State Bank which operated from 1911-1920. The existing First State Bank, Salado

The IRA Advantage Available to Most Workers

News USA

(NU) - If you think of the Individual Retirement Account as a thing of the past, here's a pleasant surprise: Nearly every American worker who received taxable compensation in 1992 is eligible to make a contribution to an IRA. But time is running out. An IRA contribution for 1992 must be made by April 15, 1993.

"Because of restrictions that Congress imposed on IRAs in 1986, many people mistakenly believe that IRAs are no longer available," says Catherine L. Heron, vice president for tax and pension matters at the Investment Company Institute, the national association of the mutual funds industry. "IRAs are still available, and they still offer great advantages in the form of tax-deferred earnings on retirement savings."

A major change made by Congress in 1986 affects just one aspect of IRAs — whether a taxpayer's contribution to an IRA is tax-deductible, Heron says. "Workers who aren't covered by an employer's pension plan were not affected by the 1986 law changes. For them, an IRA contribution up to $2,000 — how much depends on earnings — be deductible — depending on their earnings. For a single worker who earned between $25,000 and $35,000 in adjusted gross income, an annual contribution of up to $2,000 is fully deductible. For married taxpayers filing joint returns, the deduction phases out between $40,000 and $50,000.

"Even if a taxpayer cannot make a tax-deductible IRA contribution, it is still worthwhile to consider making an IRA contribution that is not tax-deductible," says Heron. "IRA earnings — such as dividends, capital gains or interest — are not taxed until the money is withdrawn."

Almost all working Americans are still eligible to contribute up to $2,000 to an IRA — whether or not the contribution is deductible — and have all taxes deferred on the IRA's earnings until the money is withdrawn. Only those workers who will be 70 1/2 years of age by the end of 1993 may not make contributions, Heron notes.

IRAs can be easily set up at a variety of places, including mutual funds, stock brokers, banks and life insurance companies. Because mutual funds are the single most popular vehicle for Americans' IRAs, the Investment Company Institute encourages individuals to consider taking advantage of tax deferral through a mutual fund IRA.

Depends on Earnings

For those covered by a qualified pension plan at work during 1992, an annual IRA contribution may also

The trials and tribulations of financing education is much in the news these days as our elected lawmakers wander through the wilderness of equality in opportunity and slog - neck deep - in the morass of stealing from the rich and passing the bucks on to the poor. All this has been on the minds of our Austin leaders for session after legislative session with success just a million or so dollars away from their mindless hands while at the same time trying to keep the yapping wolf in legal clothing away from the school house door.

As if this were not enough to harass educators we find mandated programs demanding more paperwork; teachers who lean towards unionism and higher salaries above all else; poor student achievement on standardized tests and parents who could care less what goes on at school provided they are not troubled with details.

Add this to the fact that the federal and state courts have - over the past several years - opined that anything and everything to do with morals, religion, God, prayer or the Bible is dangerous for the expanding minds of our young and therefore forbidden to be discussed or practiced in the classroom. Woe betide the school district or official that would entertain the thought of a Christmas play or nativity scene. Easter holidays become "spring breaks". And even time out for a silent personal prayer in most place is verboten! The courts are full to overflowing with just such cases.

With all this foolishness cascading over and around those who have been put in charge of our schools - it is small wonder that little or no variation, from the narrow confines of what is acceptable and what is never occurs.

Salado Class of '93

It is therefore with great pleasure that the following report is made to readers concerning the current graduating class at Salado High School!

The Class of 1993 is small, if measured by the vast numbers of graduating seniors in the larger urban areas of the State. It is, however very large in something rare in this day and time - maturity. Case in point - the traditional Baccalaureate ceremony during which a farewell to graduates takes the form of a religious and moral message. These programs are usually held the Sunday before Commencement and in days gone by took place either in the high school auditoriums or football fields. Not any more! Fear of violating the court's many orders to keep anything smacking of religion or morals as far away from young people as possible - school districts in recent years have turned away from this particular phase of the traditional senior week services and programs.

The Salado High seniors were told all this and also told that if they wished to have such a Baccalaureate program and would arrange it themselves and voluntarily attend it - then fine. Have at it! And so the seniors took over what their elders feared to handle, as a school sponsored event on school property and on May 23 in the First Baptist Church of Salado, the graduating class held their own service with the assistance of a number of ministers and adults that were asked to help by the departing upper classmen.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Several weeks ago the Board of Trustees of the Salado Public Library sent letters to all Friends of the Library and to other Saladoans who have supported the Library in the past. Solicitations were also sent to several also sent to several large outside corporations doing business in Salado and many large businesses within our own community. In each instance a list of specific items needed to furnish the Library was included, with a request to fund a chosen item.

The response has been very gratifying ($4,153). In these days when every organization is looking for money, this kind of response shows a special dedication of the village toward an institution that provides education and enjoyment for everyone.

Yes, the Board would like to have had more money assigned to specific items ($3,003.) There's no need to feel that you can't still make a contribution, however. We plan to attach a plaque to each item honoring those who have contributed for it. Some items may have several names.

The following is a list of some items still needed and unfunded: 2 stenographer chairs $115. each, 1 paperback book displayer $468. and secretarial desk $350.

Shelving is very expensive, so we're planning to construct wooden shelves ourselves, as we have done in the past.

The Board of Trustees of the Library wish to thank every contributor to the new Library. We expect to move into our new quarters in the Old Red Brick School in the early Fall.

Jeanne Barrier, president

Salado Public Library Board of Trustees

Dear Editor:

In these busy and harried times, we don't always take nor make the time to acknowledge good works and kind deeds. The time is long over due to pause and acknowledge a group who have so unselfishly and diligently served the youth of our community.

No task is too small or seemingly too large for this group to undertake, whether it is much needed pair of eye glasses for a child whose family has fallen on hard times, or a complete drug education program annually funded, including the education of those who will teach it. Our handicapped children, so often robbed of normal childhood activities, are given the invaluable experience of summer camp. They, too, will be able to have the memories of bunks, swims and "chasing" the butterflies. Just this year, this group's college scholarship program was expanded so that even more deserving young people could receive the greatest gift of all-education.

This group, which has served so well and so conscientiously, never expecting praise and not often enough receiving it, is our very own LIONS. These incredible individuals continue in so many ways to enhance our community, not through fine buildings or monuments, but by investing in our greatest asset - our children. Next time you see a LION thank them for a job well-done, they deserve it.

A grateful mom and teacher,
Penny S. Curry

Dan Brown to show in Salado

The 27th annual Salado Art Fair preparations are well on the way to becoming a reality. The artist and craftsmen are picking their locations and the details of the planning committee are falling into place. The annual Salado Art Fair will be held August 7-8 in Pace Park.

Fort Worth drybrush watercolor artist, Dan Brown, will once again participate in the Fair. Brown paints Texas ...landscapes, wildlife and historical buildings.

His passion for history is evident in each painting. Brown spent more than 2 years researching the contribution the windmill made to the settling of the southwestern United States and in completing 40 paintings to illuminate windmill history.

Born in Midland, Brown grew up in Lubbock and studied art at Texas Tech University. He later studied with William Whiteside, Henry Gasser, and Ronald Thomason. For the past 18 years he has traveled Texas to research and paint. His paintings and prints hang in private collections in cities, towns and farmhouses all across Texas, in 18 other states, in Canada, Japan, Europe, Africa and South America.

He is a member of the Texas Wild Bunch, a 30 member association of professional artists. He has exhibited his paintings and prints of those original paintings at numerous events.

Brown's awards include; Grand Prize Purchase Award, Snyder Art League; Award of Excellence; Lancaster Art Festival; Reserve Champion, Where the South Meets the West Art Show in Gainesville. Finalist in the Sesquicentennial Southwestern Bell Telephone Directory Art Contest.

According to Brown his biggest award is the more than 3,000 collectors who have purchased his work.

This year 190 master artists and craftsmen, chosen from over 900 juried applicants will offer their quality works at the Salado Art Fair.

Inn on Creek hosts open house June 6

Inn on the Creek invites you to an Open House with a tour of the bed and breakfast facilities and light refreshments 2-5 p.m. June 6th. All four of the buildings will be open. Three of the buildings are located on Center Circle and one is located on Royal St.

"Since our opening in March of 1987," said innkeeper Suzi Epps, "we have continued to expand and develop our facilities to better serve our clients needs."

In 1986-87, Lynn and Suzi Epps and Bob and Sue Whistler moved a three story 1882 Victorian home to Salado from Cameron. The main building underwent extensive renovation after being pieced back together (it was cut into five parts for the 50 mile move).

The Inn on the Creek, located on Center Circle, offered guests elegant bed and breakfast lodging in its seven guest rooms. On weekend evenings, the Epps and Whistlers personally cooked gourmet meals for approximately 30 lucky folks (who were smart enough to make reservations long beforehand).

Demand for the quiet, candlelight dining grew so much that in 1980, the Inn on the Creek expanded its dining facilities.

An 1880 Belton home was moved next to the Inn and restored. With additional construction designed by Suzi Epps and built by Tim Brown, the new dining facility allows the Inn to seat 75 for week-end dinners.

The facility is also available for private parties, receptions, business conferences and other activities.

Last year, Inn on the Creek purchased the Reue House on Royal St. in Salado and renovated it for use as additional bed and breakfast rooms. The Reue House features four delightful bed and breakfast rooms within walking distance to Salado Creek and to Salado's many shops.

The most recent project for the Epps and Whistlers has been the restoration of the Holland House, an 1880 home from nearby Holland. The fine one-story Victorian home was an early doctors house in Holland, before becoming the "old telephone office."

The Holland House features five finely decorated bed and breakfast rooms across the street from the main building and restaurant on Center Circle. One of the bedrooms boasts a hand-carved rosewood bed made before the Civil War—a magnificent piece of furniture.

All bedrooms of the Inn on the Creek feature private baths. The Inn is a no smoking facility. For more information about the Inn on the Creek, or for reservations and rates, call 817-947-5554.

Fiesta-Flavored Salad

Adds

Sizzle to Summer Meals

Add sizzle to all your summer meals with Fast Fiesta Ensalada. Its tongue-tlingling taste and cool, crispy crunch are sure-fire cures for wilting warm weather appetites. And best of all, it's one of those super salads that's as adaptable as can be.

Start with an interesting mix of greens. Add cherry tomatoes or, if they're not at hand, regular tomatoes, cut into wedges. The recipe calls for red bell pepper, but a green, yellow, orange or purple one works just as well. No corn in the cupboard? Substitute beans — black, kidney, pinto or another favorite. And if you're short on scallions, chopped red or white onions add an equally enjoyable accent.

Toss your salad with a sassy, spicy dressing that will keep the crowd coming back for more. All it takes is equal parts of creamy Italian or Ranch dressing and San Antonio's own Pace® Picante Sauce in the cook's choice of mild, medium or hot. A Southwestern salad standby for nearly half a century, its garden-fresh flavor and zesty jalapeño "heat" add true Texas taste to any summer salad. Mixed into mayonnaise, stirred into sour cream, added to bottled dressings or served solo as a slim-style salad topping, it makes cooling salads summer's hottest menu mainstays.

Fast Fiesta Ensalada

Gerigs named outstanding farmers

Michael and Gregory Gerig of Bartlett and Salado were named as the Outstanding Conservation Farmers for Zone 5 at the Texas State Association of Soil and Water Conservation District annual award banquet on May 4 in Stephenville.

The brothers were previously honored as the Outstanding Conservation Farmers by the Little River-San Gabriel Soil and Water Conservation District, which includes all the land between Little River and the San Gabriel River in Bell, Williamson and Milam Counties.

The Gerigs operate almost 1,200 acres of land in Bell and Williamson counties. Both are graduates of Texas A&M University. They farm over 900 acres of cropland consisting of wheat and grain sorghums. Their farmland is protected by almost 170,000 of terraces, six erosion control structures and 40 acres of permanent grass waterways.

They were among the first area farmers to use minimum tillage practices to maintain maximum plant residues on the soil surface during periods when a crop is not being grown.

The brothers also operate a cow-calf operation and a swine breeding operation. They recently built grain storage facilities of their land to better utilize grain produced on the farm.

Michael and his wife Ruth of Bartlett have 2 children. Ruth serves an adult 4-H leader in Bartlett and is a teacher in the Bartlett School system. Gregory and his wife Cathy of Salado also have 2 children. Cathy is an adult leader with the Salado 4-H and is a registered nurse with Scott and White in Temple.

Floyd Gibbs named range conservationist

Floyd Gibbs, General Manager of the 9,000 acre Solana Ranch near Prairie Dell was awarded as Outstanding Professional Range Conservationist in Zone 5 at the Texas State Association of Soil and Water Conservation District annual award banquet held May 4 in Stephenville.

Gibbs was earlier honored as the Outstanding Professional Range Conservationist by the Little River-San Gabriel Soil and Water Conservation District.

A native of the Salado area, Gibbs has been manager of Solana Ranch for the past 41 years during which time, the ranch has developed a nationwide reputation for the quality of its registered Simmental herd.

Gibbs was recognized not only for his contribution to the cattle industry through his Simmental operations but Gibbs management of the ranches natural resources has resulted in many benefits to the area surrounding the ranch.

"Salado Creek runs through the ranch and the purity of its waters can be traced directly to the land managers such as Gibbs in the watershed above Salado," said Bill Owen, District Conservationist with the USDA-Soil Conservation Service in Bartlett.

Elizabeth Silverthorne's latest biography, Sarah Orne Jewett, A Writer's Life, is a sensitive and fascinating chronicle of the author's New England background and the events and people who inspired her work. Born in 1849 in South Berwick, Maine, Miss Jewett chose to live her life as a single woman in order to pursue her literary career.

Her early works appeared in 1869 in the Atlantic Monthly and the Riverside Magazine for Young People as short stories. Her most popular short work, A White Heron, and her novel Country of the Pointed Firs, won instant acclaim. Author Willa Cather included Country of the Pointed Firs with Huckleberry Finn and The Scarlet Letter as one of three books destined to achieve literary immortality.

Miss Jewett's books are set in rural New England and are praised for her faithful recreations of local dialect and customs. Her work is also characterized by a strong sense of history, attention to detail, and a reverence for nature. Miss Jewett has an atavistic nature and was brought up in the family's 18th century home hearing family stories from her great aunts, uncles and grandmother. She often told friends that she looked upon her grandparent's generation as the one she belonged to.

Miss Jewett eventually chose to share her life with Annie Fields, a widow from Boston. The two entertained such literary giants as Charles Dickens, Henry James, Thackeray, John Greenleaf Whittier, Mark Twain, Oliver Wendall Holmes, and Willa Cather in Mrs. Field's Charles Street townhouse. The Jewett-Fields relationship has been the subject of much feminist discussion.

Mrs. Silverthorne is the author of several books including Ashbel Smith of Texas, Plantation Life in Texas, Christmas in Texas, Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings and two children's books The Ghost of Padre Island and Fiesta!

Sarah Orne Jewett is illustrated with period photographs and is available in hardback only for $22.50 at Fletcher's Books in Salado. The author, Elizabeth Silverthorne will be available for signing, 1-4 p.m. June 5.

Fletcher's Books and Antiques is located on North Main St Salado, 947-5414.

Dr. Willingham receives TDA President's award

Salado dentist Dr. Douglas B. Willingham recently received one of dentistry's highest awards, the President's Award of the Texas Dental Association, for his 7 years' service as editor of the Texas Dental Journal. The award was presented to Dr. Willingham by Dr. Jack L. Pierce of Fort Worth, president of the Texas Dental Association, at a luncheon during the group's annual meeting held May 5-9 in San Antonio.

The Texas Dental Association represents more than 7000 member dentists, and the Texas Dental Journal, its monthly publication founded in 1883, is the oldest continuously operating dental periodical in North America.

Willingham, who was elected to the position of editor in 1986, has won numerous state and national awards in dental journalism and received the Texas Dental Association's Distinguished Service Award in 1992. He was also named Central Texas Dental Society Dentist of the year in 1988 and was the group's nominee, the youngest ever, for Texas Dentist of the Year, an award given by the Texas Academy of General Dentistry.

Dr. Douglas B. Willingham was presented the TDA President's Award by Dr. Jack Pierce.

During the recent meeting Willingham, who had previously announced his intention to retire from the editorship of the Journal, also received the Award of Merit from the Board of Directors of the Texas Dental Association and the Texas State Award of the Pierre Fauchard Academy, an international honorary organization, for his "outstanding contributions to the art and science of dentistry."

Willingham, who continues to serve as historian of the dental association, has practiced general dentistry in Salado since 1981.

Upholstery? . . .

How can I tell if my furniture is worth reupholstering?

Furniture that's expertly reupholstered is often higher in quality than when the piece was brand new. Loose joints can not only be tightened, but also reinforced. Modern glues, materials, equipment and supplies can combine with original frames to produce better quality furniture than could be comparatively purchased.

General rule for hide-a-beds and recliners: If the mechanism is comfortable and works well, it's worth reupholstering.

Bank

National's merger partner, is even older, having been in continuous operations since being chartered in 1909.

During recent years, the number of Bell and Falls county banks have been reduced by approximately 50 percent through failures and reorganizations with out of town banking giants. However, during this period First State Bank has continued to show an impressive track record of substantial growth in quality assets, earnings and capital.

The existing local ownership group headed by chairman of the board, Frank P. Finch, and president Grobowski acquired control of First State Bank five years ago. Since that time the capital of the bank has increased from $400,000 to over $4,750,000, with its assets increasing to over $55,000,000. Chairman Finch noted that the ownership group believed in 1987 that a need existed for a strong well-capitalized, locally owned, independent bank that offered banking services to local individuals and businesses. This belief is even stronger today, based on a reorganized local banking market influence by absentee ownership and management.

President Grobowski added, "We are committed to providing the Central Texas market communities with a full range of high-quality personalized banking services. When we developed our market strategy of expansion some years ago, we simply felt we could build the best locally owned and managed banking organization in the Central Texas market. We strive to deliver the banking services that the area communities need in order to grow and overcome the recent economic downturn and present banking environment. We treat our customers like individuals and put their money back into the local communities through loans to businesses and individuals. That creates new jobs for the community and new customers for us. As long time citizens of the local community, we believe First State Bank simply has a different perspective about community than the other banking organizations."

Rita Brown named top 15

Rita Brown of Century 21 Bill Bartlett has been named among the top 15 sales associates in the Heart of Texas Brokers Council based on 1993 first quarter production, according to Vance Albrecht, Century 21 district director. An awards rally was held April 27 in Killeen.

Fort Hood Museum discusses future

The Fort Hood Museum Commission Executive Board met recently to discuss future plans, including a billboard on I-35, an oral history seminar, recording oral history of WWII Veterans, historical lectures and special events and displays in both the 1st Cavalry Division and 2nd Armored Division Museums.

The Commission invites all persons to join and preserve the achievements and history of Fort Hood and the dedicated military members who have trained and served in the Central Texas area. Dues are $15 per year, for information call (817) 526-4317 or 698-3387. The next meeting will be held June 3 at the 1st Cavalry Museum.

We should salute these young folks for wanting to preserve a graduating tradition as well as for seeking to include a moral touch to their pending departure into the wide, wide world that is just opening up ahead of them.

Another congratulation is in order as well. Every member of this year's class passed the required TAAS test that the state required as a final hurdle to graduate and one that should have kept a number of seniors off the stage on diploma night in nearly every school in Texas.

Well, done, Class of 1993 here in Salado. You have, we believe, what it takes to succeed. And parents of this class - you also deserve credit as well - so to you and yours we say again - congratulations and well done!
