Bricks still for sale

Saladoans, alumni of the old red school house and others will have the opportunity to perpetuate their names in printed bricks to be laid in a patio area in front of the old school. Cathy Sands, chairman of the brick sales, says the patio was designed by the architects to conform with the style of the old school structure. It will be an attractive area with a bench seating and landscaping as an inviting place for visitors to relax.

Individuals, couples, families and businesses can purchase the bricks at $100 each with one name or a Mr. and Mrs. combination. They may also be purchased for entire families with each member's name on a brick or they may be bought as a memorial for family members or friends. Set as brick pavers, the patio area will be at the north entrance of the old Red School so they will be seen by all who enter the beautiful Civic Center.

"We are hoping everyone in Salado will purchase at least one brick or several for their family and friends. Be a part of this fund raising project that will pay off our $100,000 debt and have a little piece of the brick!" said Cathy. For more information call 947-1000.

Dedication of the Salado Civic Center will be 10 a.m. Oct. 9 at the renovated old red school on Main St. Salado.

Shoemaker will not run

Bob Shoemaker, Bell County Commissioner, Precinct 2 announced Sept. 20, that he will not be a candidate for reelection in 1994.

Shoemaker, who will complete his second four year term as the Commissioner for Precinct 2 in December 1994, gave the following statement.

"I have decided that after 8 years as an elected official it will be a good time to give someone else the opportunity to represent Precinct 2 on the Commissioner's Court. Accordingly, I will not seek reelection as a Bell County Commissioner. I am making this early announcement in order that potential candidates for the job will have ample time to consider running for the post. I will continue to be a full time Commissioner until the end of my present term, which has over 15 months to run.

"I enjoy serving the citizens of Bell County as an elected official. It is very satisfying to work with county department heads and other efficient county services. Elective service has given me the opportunity to make thousands of new friends throughout the County and I appreciate their support."

Museum hosting Friends Evening

The Bell County Museum is hosting an Evening for our Friends 7-9 p.m. Sept. 26.

"We at the Museum are extremely fortunate to enjoy such an enthusiastic interest from our community," says Director Alice Burbank. "We will be showing our appreciation to all our friends, both those that help us financially and those that give of their time and expertise. We are also excited about the opening of our new exhibit, "When Cotton Was King" and would like to take this opportunity to give our friends a sneak preview of this hands-on exhibit.

The Museum would like to invite everyone to come to the Museum and join in the fun and thank the community for its enthusiasm and generous support.

Dress is casual and refreshments will be served. The Museum is located at 201 N. Main Street in Belton.

Rep. Dianne Delisi

Members of the Chisholm Trail Republican Women will meet at the Mill Creek Club dining room 6:30 p.m. Sept. 23.

Rep. Dianne Delisi will speak on "Women in Politics in the 90s." Rep. Delisi was elected to the House of Representatives in Nov. 1990. The representative from Temple serves on the House Committee on Administration, House Committee on Public Safety, House Committee on State, Federal and International Regulation.

For more information, call 947-5331. Reservations are necessary.

Deadline near for trees

The deadline is drawing closer to order Christmas trees for display along Main St. during the holiday season. Many of Salado's shopkeepers and landowners will be lining Main St. with Christmas Trees decorated with white lights during the Country Christmas Weekend and throughout the holiday season to draw visitors to the village for shopping, dining and more.

The trees may be ordered from Dale Kehn at IGA Village Foods until Sept. 30, or by calling Sherri Pilgrim or Cathy Sands.

The trees will be treated and ready to install by the purchaser Thanksgiving week.

Each tree owner is asked to put white lights on the tree and have them lit each evening until 10 p.m. Thanksgiving through New Year's Day.

The northern pine, a long-needle tree, will be sold for $10 for the four-foot tree and $20 for the five-foot tree.

For more information, contact Sherri Pilgrim at 947-5024, Cathy Sands at 947-1000 or IGA Village Foods at 947-8922.

Humane Society Garage Sale set

The Salado Humane Society will hold a garage sale 8 a.m.-4 p.m. Sept. 25, at the north end of S&W Food Mart. Proceeds will benefit the Society.

The Society will accept any and all donated items. Call 947-5288.

Youth Assoc.

plans day in park

The Salado Youth Association presents "Kids Day at the Park", Sept. 26 at Pace Park.

Events for ages 5-15 boys and girls, will include: Egg Toss, Three-Leg Race, Sack Hop Race, Balloon Stomp, and Water Balloon Race.

Entry fees are $1 per entry, and events will begin at 1:00 p.m.

Hamburgers, hot dogs, and sodas can be purchased beginning at noon. There will be trophies and prizes for all. Proceeds will benefit the Salado Youth Association land purchase for additional baseball and soccer fields along with other recreational facilities. Memberships to the SYA will be available.

Lions Club starts directory effort

The Salado Lions Club is kicking off plans for the updating and printing of the 1994-95 edition of the Salado Telephone Directory. The directory was originated several years ago by the Lions Club as a community service project and means for supporting Club projects.

Members of this year's committee are Lions Randy Blodgett, Paul Boggs, Bob Vernon, Lions Club President Ross Greenwood and Don Owens.

Residents can mail updates to Don Owens at P.O. Box 428, Salado, TX 76571 or call 947-0032.

Proceeds from the yellow page advertisements are used for Lions Community and Youth Projects.

Loaded Weapon 1

Rated PG

starring Emilio Estevez, Samuel L. Jackson, Kathy Ireland, Jon Lovitz, William Shatner

Our rating: **

by Tim Fleischer

Editor-in-Chief

Loaded Weapon 1 is a stupid movie. Stacked full of sight gags, it will make you laugh, against your will. Loaded Weapon 1 seems to have been written by fourth graders, most of whom are editors of National Lampoon.

Starring Emilio Estevez as the burned-out disenchanting cop Jack Colt, Loaded Weapon 1 is a spoof of all cop movies, including Lethal Weapon and Dirty Harry movies. In one scene, Colt stands over a criminal, asking him, "Do you feel lucky punk? You're asking yourself, was that 137 shots or 136 shots I fired?"

It was a much better scene with Clint Eastwood, who does not appear in the video. Almost everybody else in Hollywood does make a cameo appearance in Loaded Weapon 1, including Bruce Willis, Charlie Sheen, Whoopi Goldberg, F. Murray Abraham and others.

If you enjoy spoofs like Airplane! and The Naked Gun, this is right up your alley. If you don't, Loaded Weapon 1 is a movie you should not load into your VCR.

It is available from IGA Village Foods Videos.

"I hope we never live to see the day when a thing is as bad as some newspapers make it."

Will Rogers
July 19, 1934

Will Rogers also said "All I know is just what I read in the papers." This of course predated the most popular of all visual aids - TV. Wonder what he would have said about that miracle? At any rate - the newspapers last week had a variety of information that merits comment - even from a small town commentator.

The big story of the week was the accord signed by Yitzhak Rabin and Yasser Arafat which may or may not bring peace to the Jews and the Palestinians in that area. Our hope is that one day soon brother Arafat will take some of the money he is borrowing from President Clinton and go to the nearest haberdashery and invest in a new top hat. His towel is getting frayed and his jacket needs help. Might also be a good idea to have a barber introduce him to the newest shaving techniques. He face looks like its been attacked by moths and locusts.

Don't know if any of you read G.B. Trudeau's

Off the Record

by Ken Clapp

"Doonesbury," but last week's offerings will surely knock you off the Christmas tree. The strip shows a college president talking to his top aide and bemoaning the fact that the minority kids in school today want separate courses; separate professors; separate dorms, books and studies. The prexy turns to his aide and says "What else do they want now?" Answer; Separate drinking fountains!

Trudeau has somehow lurched into one of the strangest moves in the post desegregation period in our history, namely the move by some back to separatism.

Bloody Video

Word is out that a newly released video game with the title "Mortal Kombat" is selling well among our younger citizens. The game, targeted for 8-13 year old boys, contains among other things, a sequence wherein one martial arts fighter rips the beating heart from his opponents chest. In another round of the same video the winner holds high the bleeding head of the vanquished player.

This graphic software is not being welcomed with open arms by some parents and a few, very few, video stores. Acclaim Entertainment Inc., owner of the video airily dismissed concern that its violent content might harm children.

Two comments on this. Acclaim might not be so cavalier with their attitude about this new product if folks refused to buy the video. It does tend to prove that some companies care for dollars over any evil social effect coming from what they produce. The second comment is probably more to the point. If parents told their kids no - just one time - this sort of nonsense would stop! Can you imagine the look on a youngsters face if mom or dad told him or her no? End of permissive world and the start of something better?

Health Plan

President and Mrs. Clinton's Health Program is doomed to fail even though it is getting a world of press right now. Reason, in this writer's opinion, is that it is too all encompassing. How to get most for your money from Post Office

How to get the most for your postal dollar

by Sue Brunson
Salado Postmaster

When you're ready to use the services of the United States Postal Service, you may want to get the best service for your money. You also want to choose the service that meets your particular need. When customers aren't sure what postal option best suits their needs, they may spend money for services they don't need. The solution is to know what delivery services are available and the difference between them. The following description of postal services and products acquaints you with what's available and allows you the opportunity to make the best selection for you mailing requirements:

Certified Mail: Certified Mail provides a mailing receipt and a record of delivery is maintained at the recipient's post office. A return receipt provides the sender with proof of delivery (bought for a fee). Certified mail service is available only for First Class Mail.

Certificate of Mailing: This is the answer if the sender needs only a receipt to prove something has been mailed. A certificate of mailing does not provide insurance, no record is maintained at the post office and it does not verify the contents of what was mailed. The certificate can be used with all classes of ordinary mail.

Cash Receipts: Customers needing proof of payment of postage, and their services, are entitled to cash receipts. Simply ask the clerk for a Cash Receipt.

Collect On Delivery (COD): COD service is best when the sender wants to collect for merchandise when it is delivered to an addressee. It may be for merchandise which must have been ordered by the addressee, sent by Parcel Post, First-Class Mail or third-class mail. Fees charged for this service include insurance protection against loss or damage. Items sent via COD may also be sent Registered Mail. Insurance coverages is available up to $600. COD service is not available for International Mail.

Return Receipt: This is the sender's proof of delivery. It is available on mail insured for more than $25 and for certified, Registered, Collect-On-Delivery (COD) and Express Mail articles. The Return Receipt shows who signed for the item and the date it was delivered. For an additional fee, the sender can get an exact address of delivery or request restricted delivery service.

Registered Mail: This is the most secure option offered by the Postal Service. Registered Mail is designed to provide added protection for valuable and important mail. Postal insurance may be purchased, at the option of the mailer, up to a maximum of $25,000. Return Receipt and restricted delivery services are available for an additional fee. Registered articles are controlled from the point of mailing to delivery. First-Class postage is required on Registered Mail.

Priority Mail: This is First-Class mail weighing more than 12 ounces. The maximum weight for Priority Mail is 70 pounds, and the maximum size is 108 inches in length and circumference combined. When sending Priority Mail, use the free Priority Mail stickers available from your local post office. Insurance can be purchased on Priority Mail items.

Special Delivery: You can buy Special Delivery service on all classes of mail except bulk third-class. It provides for delivery, even on Sundays and holidays, during hours which extend beyond the hours of delivery of ordinary mail. This delivery service is available to all customers served by city carriers and to other customers within a one-mile radius of the delivery post office. Make sure the mail is endorsed Special Delivery.

Express Mail Service: Express Mail service is the fastest service. Express Mail Next Day Service provides several options for both private and business customers who require overnight delivery of letters and packages. To use Express Mail, take your shipment to any designated post office, generally by 5 p.m. or deposit it in an Express Mail collection box with the appropriate postage. You may also request Pick Up service for a $4.50 per trip fee by calling 1-800-222-1811. Express Mail service comes with a money-back postage guarantee. Ask about this guarantee at your local post office. Express Mail prices range from $9.95 for letters up to 8 ounces, $13.95 for packages up to 2 pounds and $19.95 for packages weighing five pounds.

Tax-deferred investments may be more beneficial to social security recipients

Part 4 of 4 in a Series

Among the taxpayers who will be affected by the new tax law are certain recipients of social security benefits. Currently, about 20 percent of the 41 million Americans who receive social security benefits have some portion of those benefits taxed. Those people are already familiar with a formula that, depending on their income, subjects up to 50 percent of their monthly benefits to taxation. Under the new law, however, the taxation of social security has increased in complexity. The ceiling on the amount of benefits potentially subject to tax has risen to 85 percent. And, at the same time, the income thresholds that determine who is affected and to what extent have risen.

The old law stated that a social security recipient could determine whether a portion of his or her benefits was taxable by comparing his or her "modified adjusted gross income" (i.e., adjusted gross income plus any tax-free interest and half of the recipient's social security benefits) to an existing income threshold. The threshold for married couples was $32,000; for single individuals, it was $25,000. The formula for determining the taxable portion of social security benefits under the new law retains many of the features of the old law. For instance, modified adjusted gross income is still computed in the same way; but under the new law it's called provisional income.

Social security recipients must still compare their provisional income against a threshold amount to compute taxation up to a certain percent of benefits. However, this is where most of the similarities end and where the new law becomes much more complicated.

Under the new law, the percentage of benefits potentially subject to tax has increased from 50 percent to 85 percent. To ensure that lower-income social security recipients would not be affected by the new higher taxation limit, the new law adds a second-tier threshold. The table accompanying this article illustrates these two tiers.

The types of investments that social security recipients own can make a substantial difference in the amount of their benefits that are subject to taxation. One of the few remedies for these investors is to move some of their investment dollars into tax-deferred vehicles, such as annuities. Under the old law, when no more than 50 percent of an individual's social security benefits could be taxed, many investors who tried this strategy found that they generated little or no tax savings at the expense of relinquishing a substantial amount of cash flow. However, now that up to 85 percent of an individual's benefits are potentially taxable, the advantages of this technique may be improved for some social security recipients.

Income oriented investors should keep in mind that while moving some investment dollars into a deferred annuity may help reduce their overall tax liabilities, this strategy could also reduce current cash flow. Investors should weigh all parts of their financial plan, not just taxes, when considering this strategy.

Provisional Income	Maximum Portion of Benefits Subject to Tax
Single Individuals
Less than $25,000	0 Percent
$25,000-34,000	50 Percent
In excess of $34,000	85 Percent
Joint Filers
Less than $32,000	0 Percent

The Taxpayer Bill of Rights

These are typical questions asked by taxpayers and are presented as a public service of this publication and the IRS.

Q. I've always filed my taxes on time and to my knowledge, correctly. There is, however, that little worry that someday I might have to deal with the IRS. What protections do I have under the law?

A. In 1988, the Taxpayer's Bill of Rights was signed into law. The bill guaranteed all people specific rights when they deal with the Internal Revenue Service. Many of the provisions included in the document were already IRS policy.

Q. What is the IRS's policy for dealing with taxpayers?

A. The IRS believes that it is your right, as a taxpayer, to be treated fairly, professionally, promptly and courteously by IRS employees. The goal of the IRS is to protect your rights so you will have confidence in the American tax system.

Q. Where can I get information on the issues that are covered in the Taxpayer Bill of Rights?

A. Among its many provisions, the Taxpayer Bill of Rights requires the IRS to provide taxpayers a written statement of their rights when determining or collecting tax. A four-page document, called Publication 1, "Your Rights as a Taxpayer," gives an overview of your protections and responsibilities under the law.

Topics covered include: free tax information and assistance, appealing audit findings, the collection of taxes, and a special Problem Resolution Program (PRP). You can order this publication and others by calling 1-800-829-3676.

Q. What's involved in appealing an audit?

A. If you don't agree with the IRS's findings, you have the right to appeal them. Most differences can be settled through the IRS Appeals office. However, if the matter cannot be settled to your satisfaction, you can take your case to court. Publication 5, "Appeal Rights and Preparation of Protests for Unagreed Cases," explains your appeal rights in detail.

Q. What is the Problem Resolution Program?

A. If a taxpayer has a tax problem that they haven't been able to clear up through the normal channels, a PRP employee can be assigned to work one-on-one with the person to help resolve the issue. The PRP office also has the authority to cut through red tape if a person is suffering or about to suffer a significant hardship. Call 1-800-829-1040 and ask for the Problem Resolution Officer.

Drug Impaired Driving: What You Should Know
Washington, DC, (NAPS)—Here's news about prescription medicines and driving that should give you a healthy knowledge about safety.

Police officers can now determine if you have been using drugs while driving.

An estimated 1.5 billion prescriptions are filled in the United States each year. In fact, studies show drugged driving is as big a problem as drunk driving. Fortunately, police officers can now determine if someone has been using drugs while driving.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration of the Department of Transportation has developed a Drug Evaluation and Classification program. Now, officers skilled in the procedure can determine drug impairment and predict the category of drug used with a high degree of accuracy. One more thing to consider is that if you drive while impaired, your insurance may not cover you.

Salado Fire Department Captains Wayne Rutherford and Kenny Wigley, along with Firefighter Cortney Renfro attended the Basic Training Life Support (BTLS) class held at the Harker Heights Fire Academy Sept. 10-12.

According to Capt. Rutherford, "BTLS is three days of intensive training on the treatment of trauma victims. In BTLS the emphasis is placed on immediate Cervical Spine immobilization and rapid assessment of injuries. The proper essentials treatments to keep the victim alive during transport and the best way to package the victim for that transport."

When a person is involved in an accident, whether a car wreck or falling off a roof, they become a "trauma victim." The treatment for a trauma victim differs greatly from a medical emergency, such as a heart attack or stroke. The more critical the injury the more likely rapid surgical intervention will be the victim's only hope for survival.

In our area, Scott and White Hospital is the designated trauma center.

Paramedics on the scene have the authority to institute a Trauma Alert, if a person has sustained critical injuries. When a Trauma Alert is called by a field paramedic, the appropriate medical personnel, including any or all necessary physicians are assembled in the emergency department and an operating room put on standby for the victim.

With advanced training in traumatic emergencies, proper treatment at the scene, and early institution of a Trauma Alert, a trauma victim can be in surgery within 60 minutes, dramatically increasing the chance for survival.

Fire Safety Check Can Save Your Life

(NAPS)—Most people think a fire will never happen to them. Yet each year, a half million home fires kill more than 3,500 people—about 10 a day. What makes these deaths even more tragic is that the vast majority of these fires can be prevented.

During National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 3-9, Aetna Life & Casualty is urging people to take 10 minutes to check their homes for fire hazards. Aetna offers a free brochure, the "10 Minute Fire Safety Audit," a room-by-room guide that identifies 38 common fire hazards from the attic to the basement.

Since home fires peak during the winter months, when use of heating equipment is at its highest, October is a good time to give your home a fire safety check.

Among the tips offered in the brochure are the following:

- The kitchen is the number-one site for home fires. Keep a fire extinguisher in the kitchen near an exit door, and on each floor of your home.

- Keep portable space heaters at least three feet away from combustibles. If a heater isn't keeping you warm enough, you're asking it to heat too big a space. Don't move closer to it; fix your heating problem.

- Don't run electrical cords under a carpet. Walking on a cord can damage it and lead to fire.

- Never leave cigarettes burning unattended. Keep ashtrays on stable surfaces. Use large ashtrays that fully contain smoking materials.

- In the bathroom, don't hang clothes or towels to dry on or near a heater.

- Don't let your attic get too cluttered, and don't put combustibles next to the chimney.

- Always use a fire screen on a fireplace. Move furniture and other combustibles at least three feet away from fire. Don't leave papers near the fireplace.

- Have your furnace professionally inspected and cleaned once a year, preferably before heating season starts.

- Recent studies indicate that clothes dryers can be fire hazards.

For a free copy of the "10 Minute Fire Safety Audit," call 1-800-950-SMOK (1-800-950-7665).

Miller addresses Salado Lions

Richard Miller, County Attorney, will be the guest speaker at the Salado Lions Club luncheon meeting 11:30 a.m. Sept. 22 at Mill Creek dining room. Now is time for fall deep cleaning

After inadvertently tracking the oily, sticky traces of a long summer into the home, homeowners should initiate a fall comprehensive cleaning of all interiors to thoroughly remove the residues left behind on carpets, furniture, and draperies, and to prepare the home for the cooler holiday months.

When planning a fall deep cleaning, ServiceMaster, a recognized leader in heavy-duty residential and commercial cleaning, says that homeowners should note the following:

- Furnishings that come into daily contact with exposed skin, such as upholstered chairs and sofas, are in special need of attention, since they may contain residues of sticky perspiration, suntan oil or lotion.

- Upholstered furniture should be professionally cleaned as often as carpeting because furniture fabric is more delicate than carpet and more likely to be damaged by dirt.

- Once soil becomes visible on an item, it typically means that the fibers are saturated with dirt and that removing discoloration may be impossible; thus it is important to initiate deep cleaning before furnishings actually appear soiled.

- A deep cleaning also removes bacteria and fungi which are imbedded in furnishings and cause allergies and other illnesses in some people.

More dirt enters the home through open windows during the summer, so it is important to shake out draperies and vacuum the header. As a general rule, the drapes should be cleaned every two years.

Those who conduct fall deep cleanings of their home benefit from having healthier environment in which to live.

Picante Pizza Takes Top Prize in Teenage Cooks Recipe Contest

ChiliPizza, a crowd-pleasing, cross-cultural culinary creation, has taken the top prize — $1,000 — in the fifth annual teenagers-only Pace® Picante Sauce Young Cooks Recipe Contest. The prize was split between co-winners Tracy Ceconeillo and Tracy Gallik of Jeannette, Pennsylvania, who created the winning recipe in a high school home economics class.

Easy to prepare, ChiliPizza tops a prebaked pizza crust with a zesty ground beef, bean and bacon "chili" that takes its big-as-Texas taste from mild, medium or hot Pace® Picante Sauce. Topped with cheddar cheese and bright bell pepper strips before baking, the pizza makes a super snack for a crew or a main dish for a few.

Teenage cooks again have the opportunity to win cash for original recipes in the sixth annual Pace® Picante Sauce Young Cooks Recipe Contest, open for entries now through January 31, 1994. Any great-tasting original main dish, soup, stew, appetizer, snack or side dish created by a high school or junior high school student is a potential winner, as long as it relies on at least 1/2 cup Pace® Picante Sauce or Pace® Thick & Chunky Salsa for its special appeal. For details and complete contest rules, send name and address to: RULES, Pace Young Cooks Recipe Contest, 3484 West 11th Street, Houston, TX 77008.

ChiliPizza

- 1 can (15 ounces) kidney beans, rinsed and drained
- 3 slices bacon, diced
- 1/2 pound ground beef
- 2 cups Pace® Picante Sauce
- 1 teaspoon ground cumin

- 1 12-inch prebaked pizza crust
- 2 cups (8 ounces) shredded cheddar cheese
- 1 cup short, thin red and green bell pepper strips

Partially mash beans with fork. Cook bacon in 10-inch skillet until crisp; drain on paper towels. Wipe out skillet with paper towel. In same skillet, brown meat; drain.

Add picante sauce, beans and cumin; simmer uncovered, stirring frequently, 10 to 12 minutes or until thickened. Place crust on cookie sheet; top with meat mixture. Sprinkle with bacon and half the cheese. Top with peppers; sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake at 350°F. 20 minutes. Serve with additional picante sauce. Makes 8 snack or 4 main dish servings.

Eagles win, 34-3

Salado tallies 338 yards against Holland

The Salado Eagles stung the Holland Hornets 34-3 Sept. 17 at Eagle Field, tallying 338 yards offense.

Jason Hosch led the offense with 129 yards running, including at 13-yard TD run in the first quarter.

Richard Jackson completed three of five passes for 47 yards and two touchdowns. He connected with Richard Berumen for a 6-yard touchdown in the first quarter. Billy Wilson caught a 31-yard touchdown pass in the third.

Jackson also ran for a 6 yard touchdown in the second quarter.

Berumen ran for an 8 yard touchdown in the third quarter. Berumen carried the ball for 81 yards on the night.

The Eagles totaled 291 yards rushing and 47 yards passing, while holding Holland to 133 total offensive yards.

The Eagle defense was led by Berumen, with 15 tackles and an interception. Other standouts were Chris Duzich, with 11 tackles including two for losses; Michael Sierra, with 11 tackles and one for a loss, and Jeremy Hosch with 10 tackles, two for losses. Anthony Sniggs had 10 tackles and Billy Wilson added nine tackles to the defensive effort.

Salado was called four times for 45 yards in penalties and did not turn over the ball to Holland.

Rosebud-Lott will come to town to face the 2-1 Eagles Sept. 24. Kick-off is scheduled for 8 p.m. at Eagle Field.

First Hand: Important to appreciate things that we have

by Steven Ervin
Salado ISD Supt.

While it is desirable to have aspirations and visions or the future, it is important to have an appreciation for what we have and what we have accomplished in life.

Appreciate life - human life is limited. How you live your life will be reflected in your acknowledgment of this fact. Those who appreciate life try to lead a fulfilled life in every aspect of their daily living. When such an appreciation of life is the basis from which we behave, time is spent more precious and in more significant endeavors.

Appreciate others and their roles. A life void of other people would be extremely fruitless. Most of us live our life deeply interdependent with others. Take the time to reflect how much other people contribute to your well being and the similar role you have in the life of others.

Appreciate health - the behaviors to follow to insure good health are well known, inexpensive and time efficient. A loss of health cannot be bought back at any price. When we appreciate our health we take the necessary steps to insure reasonable health.

Appreciate all life forms - Mother Earth will not survive under constant abuse and neglect. Each of us serves as a caretaker of our celestial vessel for the generations to come. A respect for mother earth, and resultant behaviors, are essential for the continuation of our planet and mankind.

Appreciate the children in our lives - freely express kind words, encouragement, gratitude, positive comments, recognition, motivation, etc. Children are our greatest resource. Working with children afford us the privilege of affecting the future direction of our society. The recognition of this is both awesome and humbling.

Appreciate relationships - the bond you have with friends and families are among your most valuable assets. As much time, effort, and commitment needs to be put into these relationships as is exerted towards any task, job responsibility, or financial goal. There is no greater success than the ability to sustain and nourish these relationships. There is also nothing in life which can match the rewards which can be realized through such relationships.

Quackery

by Ilene C. Miller
County Ext. Agent - H.E.

Quackery in the United States today costs more than $25 billion. These unsound dietary medical treatments can prevent consumers from seeking proper treatment.

To recognize the dietary medical quackery device, the Food & Drug Administration (FDA) and the Council of Better Business Bureaus provide these personal protection tips:

1. Be wary if a product's label or advertising promises immediate, effortless or guaranteed results.
2. Be wary of testimonials in ads or on labels from satisfied users. They rarely can be confirmed.
3. Don't be taken in by a "money back guarantee." A guarantee is only as good as the company that backs it.
4. Be wary of promises that a product is effective for a wide variety of ailments.
5. Be wary of promises of complete relief from pain.
6. Don't be taken in by promises that a product offers a "cure".
7. Watch out for claim s that a treatment or product has been approved by the FDA. Federal law doesn't permit mention of FDA in any way that suggests marketing approval for any drug or medical device.
8. Don't give too much importance to the term "natural ingredients." The definition of "natural" is elusive and the word is often abused.
9. Look out for other misleading words such as: amazing, secret, miracle, special, vanish, painless, discovery, breakthrough, exclusive, instant, immediate or fast.
10. If the product sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

FOR THOSE ON MEDICARE

Don't miss out! You can still get health coverage even with most existing health problems.

Seminars in your area

Place: SeniorCare Office, World Savings Building 3407 South 31st Street, Suite 130 Temple, Texas

Date: Daily seminars, Monday - Friday Sept. 1, 1993 - Nov. 30, 1993

Time: 10:00 AM or 2:00 PM

During our Open Enrollment period, most are eligible for SeniorCare coverage, regardless of one's health condition.

No physical examinations are required, and you do not need to provide any medical records of existing health problems.

SeniorCare is an enhancement to your Medicare coverage. With SeniorCare, there are no deductibles and limited co-payments. Coverage is provided for routine physicals, eye exams, and flu shots, as well as a broad range of other medical procedures. And SeniorCare will pay for most medical expenses not covered by Medicare.*

Don't wait! Apply today to receive all the benefits of SeniorCare coverage. Open enrollment ends November 30, 1993.

* Certain limitations and exclusions apply.

Call (817) 770-5000 today for a benefits brochure or to register for a no-cost seminar.

CHURCH

Covered dish supper at FBC

There will be a community covered dish lunch and gospel singing, Sept. 26, at Salado's First Baptist Church. The lunch and singing will begin shortly after the 11 o'clock service.

Singing will be on the creekbank behind the church until 3 p.m. Those interested in singing should call 947-5465 and give your name, address and phone number. Bring your lawn chairs for a comfortable afternoon.

OSSF Board to meet Sept. 23

The Old Salado School Foundation will meet in regular session 9 a.m. Sept. 23, in the fellowship hall of the Salado Church of Christ.

On the agenda for the meeting will include an educational presentation; progress report on the renovation of the old red school house; the dedication of the building as a civic center and a management report on the new structure.

Elizabeth Schwertner and Alex Berumen

Schwertner to wed Berumen

Mr. and Mrs. F.B. Schwertner, Jr. of Jarrell announce the engagement of their daughter Elizabeth to Alex Berumen.

Alex Berumen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Berumen of Salado.

The couple plan to wed Nov. 6 at Holy Trinity Catholic Church in Cornhill, TX. in Jarrell.

Exercise missing in MTV kids

Mill Creek Realty has new associate

Mill Creek Realty is pleased to announce their new Sales Associate, Dan Nolting.

Dan and his wife Joan are planning to build a new home in Mill Creek on Blaylock Circle.

Before coming to Salado, Dan was associated with J.B. Goodwin in Austin. He was a Sales Associate at the Westlake office for 3 1/2 years. Retiring from Dresser-Magcobar 7 years ago, Dan spent 33 years with the Houston based Oil Service Company.

The couple have two married daughters and one grandson. They are looking forward to becoming acquainted in the area and getting started on their new home.

MTV teenagers of the 1990's are simply not getting enough exercise, says an adolescent sports medicine expert.

"The message many teens receive both at school and at home is that exercise is 'not that important,'" said Dr. Albert C. Hergenroeder, chief of Adolescent Medicine and Sports Medicine at Baylor College of Medicine and Texas Children's Hospital in Houston.

Hergenroeder, who regularly does pre-season examinations of high school athletes, has studied exercise among teenagers. He believes schools and parents can do more to encourage physical activity among students of all ages.

"Physical activity levels among teens in school are inadequate," said Hergenroeder, a member of Project PACE (Physician-based Assessment and Counseling for Exercise), a national program examining physical activity guidelines for teenagers. "There are no established national policies on minimum levels for student exercise."

PACE is expected to recommend minimum levels when its findings are completed. Hergenroeder feels personally that adolescents should participate in three of more moderate to vigorous exercise sessions per week.

Hergenroeder also believes that many adolescents find little encouragement at home.

Studies have suggested that parents who exercise provide positive role models that can influence a child's desire to exercise, adds Hergenroeder who recommends that family activities emphasizing exercise begin early in life.

"Choose fun activities--swimming, walking, bicycling," he said. "Even dance or martial arts can be fun, provided the emphasis is not on competition."

"Children and teenagers should have time for unstructured activity outside the house. Adults can sometimes take the fun out of games by overly organizing them."

Hergenroeder says children are never too young to have fun. "For example, if they wish, kids can begin lifting weights as early as age 8, as long as there is supervision. In children, this builds self-confidence, not bulk," he said.

Parents can encourage teens in athletic or physical activities for which they show aptitude but he discourages parents from pressuring younger children unnecessarily.

"Exposure to many activities early on is healthy," he said. "But too much parental pressure such as overexposure to exercise or overindulgence is one sport is a huge mistake."

Hergenroeder adds that even for teenagers, it may be wise to pursue a variety of activities.

Some of the best professional athletes.. Dan Marino, Joe Montana, John Elway -- were involved in several sports before they focused on one. Variety helps you gain different skills and avoid injuries related to overuse and repetition."

Whether children and teenagers engage in physical activity at school, with the family, or through community programs such as the YMCA or Boy's Club, Hergenroeder believes exercise can help build healthy life-styles.

"If you offer them enjoyable opportunities for physical exertion, they will more likely pursue it on their own," he said.

them and force them into a mold that does away with much of the decision making they now have. This in order to provide health care for the 35 million who have none at this time. Why not - concentrate on a health plan for the poor, the unemployed, the helpless? One master plan for them that would be paid for by the government under one private health carrier with cost controls? Be cheaper overall and would tend to cut down the cost of medical care for everyone since hospitals would not be forced to charge those that have current policies for the unpaid bills left by those that don't.

In other words - Leave the majority alone and concentrate on the ones who need this help rather than force everyone into the same boat. Be sort of like trying to teach all levels of kids the same thing in the same class. It dummies the average of the bright and in the case of health care it reduces the care the majority is willing to pay for themselves.

Probably be like a flat income tax - so simple it would never get through the congressional maze we call lawmaking.
