911 used only for emergencies

Calling for help during an emergency recently became a lot easier for many residents of Bell county as the new 9-1-1 emergency system went into service April 30. Central Telephone Company of Texas (Centel) reminds its customers in Salado, Nolanville, Little River, Heidenheimer, Holland, Milano, Moffat, Oenaville, and Zabcikville to use 9-1-1 for any fire, medical, or life threatening emergency.

"We encourage any of our customers who now have 9-1-1 to use the service for emergency situations," said Harold Miller, Centel's customer services manager. "Calls for administrative needs or other non-emergencies should be directed to the seven-digit phone number of the appropriate police, fire or medical agency."

9-1-1 calls from these Centel areas will be received at the Bell County and Coryell County Sheriff's departments except Milano where calls will go to the Rockdale Police Department. When 9-1-1 goes on line in Buckholts, calls from that area will be received at the Cameron Police Department.

The area's 9-1-1 system, which is maintained and operated by the Central Texas Council of Government, is fully enhanced with selective routing so calls made from either county will be automatically routed to the appropriate answering point based on the caller's location.

The system also has the ability to display both the caller's telephone number and address with its Automatic Number Identification and Automatic Location Identification features. However, the address information may not be available from some callers until the rural addressing project is complete.

Centel, which serves only as the collection agent for the 9-1-1 fee, encourages anyone using 9-1-1 to provide all the necessary information to the dispatcher when placing a call. Belvin explained, "Even though the 9-1-1 system has enhanced features, callers should still stay on the line and provide the vital information, such as the nature of the emergency and verification of the location of the emergency."

Our rating: *****

by Tim Fleischer

Editor-in-Chief

JFK is Oliver Stone's left-wing, pinko commie plot to discredit the government of the U.S. of A.....At least according to Rush Limbeau.

I think it is a thought-provoking look at the mystery behind the death of John F. Kennedy, a mystery that has lingered unanswered in the minds of many for almost 30 years.

Big, big-name actors jumped on the Stone bandwagon (or steam train), appearing in cameo roles, to include Edward Asner, Jack Lemmon, Kevin Bacon, Donald Sutherland and John Candy.

Whether you agree with the conspiracy theories put forth by Stone in the film, JFK is a must-see.

Kevin Costner, America's all-American, stars as Jim Garrison, district attorney in New Orleans, who is the only d.a. to bring anyone to trial for the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

Costner makes his role as the quietly intense d.a. believable. Unlike his past roles (especially Robin Hood) where viewers were watching Kevin Costner, viewers will feel like they are watching Jim Garrison.

JFK is Oliver Stone's most thoughtful work to-date. With the exception of Platoon, it is his best work to-date.

VP Quayle speaks hard truth

Most of the time when Vice President Dan Quayle gets up to speak I try to tune him out and go on to weightier items generally found in the comic pages or even funnier places such as the political gadflying of our members of Congress when they try to tackle important agendas like financing a million dollar study on why turkeys gobble in E flat minor!

This past week, however, the Hon. Danforth Quayle got my undivided attention when he spoke to hardliners in San Francisco and told these conservative worthies that the fault of the riots in Los Angeles was the rioters and the fault of the murders were the murderers and not society in general nor white folks in particular! He also laid blame for many of today's problems on the disintegration of the family unit thanks to a light-hearted attitude towards marriage and illegitimate children born to single mothers and supported by public funds.

Veep Quayle is 100 percent correct in his assessment. Bush and Clinton agree privately but publicly fearing a voter backlash by abortion friends and foes alike and minorities they bend with the wind and come up with meaningless chatter while wishing Quayle would clam up or talk about "important" things like outer space and the weather!

Perot and a Problem

Ross Perot's standing among voters is climbing... if we believe in polls... and apparently Bush and Clinton do for they are starting to zero in on the Texas billionaire. Both the Demo and GOP national department of dirty tricks are in overtime drive looking at all that the pint-sized Perot has done to gain his massive wealth with negative results to be leaked with proper fanfare to a frenzied media at the proper time. Don't worry too much about Perot. He can take care of himself with the news sharks, even if he has to buy their newspapers. The short jug-eared money machine does present a possible problem to all of us if his popularity continues to grow.

Let's just suppose Perot hangs tough at 33 percent and his two opponents do the same and let's suppose no one wins a clear majority in the Electoral College to be named President. Know what happens next? The election of the next President goes to the House of Representatives! And if that doesn't knock your hat in the creek, just think what sort of decisions that group of loonies has made in recent months and who they might pick as our top leaders! Too horrible to imagine, much gia, May 13, 1824. His wife, Lydia Anderson Ederington, was born in Memphis Tennessee on Jan. 12, 1931. The couple married in Bradley County, Arkansas Aug. 1, 1850.

The Halley's came to Texas in 1852, first living in San Antonio, but because of threats from Indians he moved his family to the Salado area in 1853.

In 1859, Halley was serving as a Bell County Commissioner.

When the town of Salado was laid out in 1860, Halley purchased Lot #15 of the Robertson Addition and built a home, now known as the Halley House, on North Main Street. He and his wife moved with their eight children to Salado so they could be educated at Salado College. In 1860, Halley presided over a meeting of Democrats in the largest meeting of its kind ever held in Bell County. He was elected as a delegate to the state Democratic Convention which was held that same year in Galveston.

In 1861, Halley became a partner of Thomas Jefferson Eubank, owner of a popular still located by his house back in a hollow near the Lampasas River (a site later to become known as Stillhouse Hollow) and the two men began a milling and distilling operation, after purchasing the Shanklin flour and grist mill.

Halley was an early day "ranger", a member of a small, mobile Indian fighting group. Such groups were well-known on the Texas frontier and provided much needed support to military actions and peacekeeping activities in Texas since the early 1830's. During the time that rumors were flying about possible Secession, Halley organized a quasi-military group which he named "Salado Mounted Troops" and offered their services to the Secession Convention on Feb. 4, 1861 through Major E.S.C. Robertson, one of the Bell County delegates to the convention. This was the first such ranging company organized in Bell County and one of the first in the state.

Col. Henry E. McCulloch accepted the company for temporary service and ordered it to join other companies at a rendezvous near Camp Colorado in what is now Coleman County. After Camp Colorado was surrendered to Col. McCulloch's forces, they moved on to Ft. Chadbourne in Coke County. This garrison also surrendered and Captain Halley was placed in charge while Col. McCulloch went on to take Camp Cooper on the Brazos River.

After the three months' temporary assignment, Captain Halley's ranging company was automatically mustered out on May 10, 1861. Halley and part of his men returned to Salado while the remainder were accepted into Co. K 1st Texas Volunteer Cavalry, CSA.

Late in 1862, a cavalry company was organized and bivouacked at Salado after electing Robert Bonner Halley as captain. It became known as Co. G

Unorganized Bttn., Arizona Brigade Voluntary Cavalry and later as Co. G. Baylor's Regiment Texas Cavalry. Halley then served until the war was over in 1865.

Robert Halley then returned to his family in Salado and reentered community life.

In 1866, Halley's name appeared on a petition requesting a dispensation and charter for a Masonic Lodge in Salado. This dispensation was granted on June 13, 1867. This became the third Masonic Lodge in Bell County. In the first report filed after the lodge began, Robert Halley was listed as Tiler.

On December 2, 1873, Robert Halley was elected as Sheriff of Bell County.

This came at a time when gangs of outlaws, horse thieves, cattle thieves, and murderers hung out in Western Bell County. Robert Halley has been described by historians as being "diligent" in his duty of rounding up these outlaws. Eight or nine of them had been arrested and jailed in the Bell County jail on Pearl Street in Belton and were awaiting trial. While Sheriff Halley was away on official business, a group of unknown vigilantes, some say as many as 500, stormed the jail and killed eight of the prisoners.

These prisoners were hauled to the South Belton cemetery and buried in a common grave but were later re-buried in single graves.

Legends tell us that things were very quiet in Bell County for the next 20 years.

Robert Halley died while still in office on Oct. 4, 1875. He is buried in a marked grave in Salado Cemetery.

Royal Emporium hosts Carol Light May 30

The Royal Emporium will host artist Carol Light in the shop 10 a.m.-5 p.m. May 30.

Carol Light paints subjects that she knows best: animals, old farmhouses, flowers, and the land. Her special rapport with her subjects, her continuing study and work give her the ability to see, feel, and portray in her watercolors all aspects of rural life.

Artist Carol Light

Her romance with the outdoors began as a young child of Indian heritage in Oklahoma. A family move to Austin, at the age of 8, and years of city life never dimmed her awareness and need for contact with the land. During the years of college at Tarleton and the University of Texas, her marriage in 1951, and the rearing of two sons, she continued to develop her talents and worked as a designer in the applied arts field.

In 1969, Carol and her husband Bill purchased a farm in Walburg, where she returned to her original environment. It has been this environment that has provided the motivation to pursue her lifetime ambition of being a full-time professional artist. This ambition coupled with her artistic ability, experience and studies have enabled her to progress at a fast pace toward her goal of being a recognized and collected watercolorist of the Southwest.

Her paintings reflect an energy fueled by an almost obsessive desire to capture the beauty of the land and its creatures executed with the attention to design and color that signify, "Watercolor lived by Carol Light".

The Secret to Great Outdoor Grilling

Summertime is best spent outdoors. It's a time when everything comes back to life including our zeal for delicious outdoor entertaining. The best way to achieve the flavor of the great outdoors in our foods is to cook our meals on the backyard grill. However, simply grilling a chicken breast or steak over the coals isn't enough anymore. There are basting and grilling sauces that are so easy to create; they make all the difference in the world.

Baste Your Meats and Vegetables

The key to effortless basting is to begin with a flavorful base. Miracle Whip or Miracle Whip Light Dressing has everything you need for a great primary basting ingredient. Just add a few more ingredients such as herbs and spices and then brush or spoon the mixture right onto your items while grilling to allow the basting flavors to sizzle into your food.

Basting While You Grill Prevents Drying-out

Another important benefit to basting with Miracle Whip salad dressing is that it adds moisture to foods that can dry-out from the grilling process. Vegetables and lean meats such as chicken, fish and certain cuts of pork and beef need something to protect them against the drying effects of the hot grill. Try the following quick and easy recipes for Herbed Chicken and Skewered Grilled Potatoes to see how delicious grilling with Miracle Whip salad dressing can be. Get cooking with Miracle Whip, it's not just for sandwiches anymore.

Herbed Chicken

Prep time: 15 minutes
Cooking time: 20 minutes

- 3/4 cup Miracle Whip or Miracle Whip Light Dressing
 - 1/4 cup chicken broth
 - 2 garlic cloves, minced
 - 2 tablespoons finely chopped green onions
 - 2 teaspoons dried basil leaves, crushed
 - 1 teaspoon dried thyme leaves, crushed
 - 6 boneless skinless chicken breast halves (about 2 pounds)
 - Mix dressing, chicken broth, garlic, onions and seasonings.
 - Pour dressing mixture over chicken; cover. Refrigerate several hours or overnight. Drain.
 - Place chicken on grill over medium-hot coals (coals will have a slight glow) or rack of broiler pan. Grill or broil 8 to 10 minutes on each side or until tender.
- Makes 6 servings.

Impress your crowd with easy Skewered Potatoes.

Skewered Grilled Potatoes

Prep time: 10 minutes plus refrigerating
Microwave cooking time: 15 minutes
Grilling time: 8 minutes

- 2 pounds red potatoes, quartered
 - 1/3 cup water
 - 1/2 cup Miracle Whip or Miracle Whip Light Dressing
 - 1/4 cup chicken broth
 - 2 teaspoons dried rosemary leaves or dried oregano leaves, crushed
 - 1 teaspoon garlic powder
 - 1/2 teaspoon onion powder
 - Place potatoes and water in 2-quart microwave-safe casserole; cover.
 - Microwave on high 12 to 15 minutes or until tender, stirring after 8 minutes. Drain.
 - Mix remaining ingredients. Stir in potatoes; cover. Refrigerate 1 hour. Drain, reserving dressing mixture.
 - Arrange potatoes on skewers. Place on grill over hot coals (coals will be glowing).
 - Grill, covered, for 4 minutes. Rotate skewers; brush with reserved dressing mixture. Continue grilling 4 minutes or until potatoes are tender and golden brown.
- Makes 8 servings.

Herbed Chicken is quick and easy.

2nd graders tour Salado Post Office

The second grade class of Thomas Arnold Elementary paid a visit to the Salado Post Office and the Salado Public Library May 19.

The students went to the Salado Post Office to mail letters they had written to our District Conservationist Bill Owen.

Salado Postmaster Ida Pinkard arranged for the students to tour the Post Office and view a film on the mail service. Afterward the students walked to the Salado Public Library where they visited the children's reading room.

Jeanne Barrier, President of the Library Board spoke to the students about the summer reading program that is provided by the Salado Public Library.

Thomas Arnold second graders toured the Salado Post Office.

Also greeting the students at the library were Joan Blum and Juanita Hardin. An application for a library card was given to those children who did not have a card. After a few comments on how to care for library books and presentation book marks, they were invited into the Children's section to select a book.

Logo design winner: Thomas Arnold fourth grade Jennifer Carter won the elementary division of the Central Texas State Fair logo design contest. She was presented a plaque last week by Johnny Bratton, Central Texas State Fair manager, and Katheryn Boren, with the Bell County Expo Center.

Pepsi and Evolution

Seems the Pepsi Cola company recently put on an ad campaign in Jerusalem showing the evolution of man from ape to the present homo-sapien in line reaching towards a can of the popular soft drink. The Jews in Israel blasted Pepsi since they don't cotton to the evolution business and Pepsi dropped the ad like a hot bagel.

Here's hoping that when and if the same ad hits this country it will be Christians that will take on the giant cola conglomerate as well as our Jewish friends, since a good many of us from all religious persuasions still resist the notion that we first swung from our tails in the forest.

Next Week

Hopefully next issue we will have some definite information on the backlash of vituperation rained on the state's Parole Board following the release of convicted killer Kenneth McDuff and the board's response. These are all appointees of Governor Ann Richards by the by. Should be interesting.

That's -30- for this week!
