Dr. Ervin resigns as SISD superintendent

by Tim Fleischer
Editor-in-Chief

Salado ISD Superintendent Steven Ervin resigned his position effective June 30, 1998, after receiving a three-year contract extension and $5,000 per year increase from the board of trustees Nov. 4.

"I am requesting that you accept my resignation as Superintendent effective June 30, 1998, and that you allow me to take paid leave beginning December 1, 1997," Supt. Ervin stated in his Nov. 4 letter to the SISD Board President Sara Mackie. "I will be available to the Board and the administration as needed and will continue my positive support for the Salado Independent School District."

"I have enjoyed working for the Salado Independent School District. The last seven years have passed quickly. Our community, our school and everything we love about Salado has grown. We have been able to retain outstanding teachers and administrators and have the finest group of students in the state. I encourage you and other trustees to continue to put the students first in your decisions," Ervin stated in his letter.

Following a short executive session Nov. 4, the board voted unanimously on a motion by Juana K. Preston to extend the superintendent's contract three years to June 30, 2001 and to increase superintendent's pay by $5,000 annually beginning Nov. 5. The motion received a second by Mike Gunter.

After awarding the contract extension, the board accepted Ervin's resignation.

On a motion from Rita Brown, the board voted to approve an agreement between the board and the superintendent, accepted Ervin's resignation, granted Ervin vacation Nov. 5-30 and paid leave of absence beginning Dec. 1. The motion received a second from Preston and carried unanimously.

"The board supports him in his decision to resign and move on in his career," said Salado ISD Board President Sara Mackie. "We appreciate his years of service to the district and the community and commend him for the many positive things accomplished during his tenure. We wish him well in his new endeavors. We also appreciate his willingness and graciousness to make this a smooth transition and to be available to the board and district as needed."

Thomas Arnold Elementary principal Rod Stockstill will serve as acting superintendent until an interim superintendent can be found by the board.

"Mr. Stockstill was persuaded by the board to serve as acting superintendent," Mackie said. "He iterated to us that he is not interested in applying for the position and wants to remain elementary principal."

The board may conduct interviews for an interim superintendent as early as this week.

"We hope to have an interim superintendent in place before the end of the year so that the search can continue for a permanent superintendent," Mackie said.

In the search for a permanent superintendent, Mackie said that the board plans to "involve the community and faculty in finding their opinions of what they want in a superintendent."

Mackie said that she feels that the situation will have no effect on the current building program.

"All of the major principals in the building program are already in place," she said. "We will sell the bonds this week and open the bids on replacing the elementary roof Wednesday (Nov. 12). Next week, we will approve the construction design. Between now and April, the architects will be busy drawing plans so that construction can begin in the late Spring. There should not be much interaction involving the superintendent during this time. It's conceivable that we may have a permanent superintendent in place before major construction begins."

Ervin told the Salado Village Voice that he plans on remaining in Salado. "We hope to stay involved in all the community activities, including the schools," he said.

Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Wilbur giving presentation here Nov. 15-16

Richard Wilbur, the second U.S. Poet Laureate and the winner of two Pulitzer Prizes, will make two presentations in Salado Nov. 15-16.

Wilbur will lead a seminar at the Allen House, 10 a.m.-3:30 p.m. Nov. 15 on "The Use of Poetry: What it May Do for the Poet, the Reader, and Their Society."

At 4 p.m. Nov. 16, he will read poetry and provide informal commentary at the Mill Creek Country Club. His presentation will be followed by discussion and a buffet dinner.

The weekend program will conclude the fall series on "The Person and the Collective" sponsored by the Institute for the Humanities at Salado.

Wilbur is also a translator, a teacher, a Broadway lyricist, an editor and an author of children's books.

In the five decades since the publication of his first volume, "The Beautiful Changes" (1947), Wilbur's poetry has won many honors. In addition to the two Pulitzer Prizes (1957, 1989), he has received

These plays -- the most popular being Moliere's "Misanthrope" and "Tartuffe" -- have won the Bollingen and PEN translation prizes, and have been widely produced in New York, London and regional theaters.

In 1956, Wilbur collaborated with Lillian Hellman and Leonard Bernstein, writing the lyrics of the comic opera "Candide." His books for children include "Loudmouse," "Opposites," and "More Opposites."

Wilbur was born in New York City. He grew up on a farm in New Jersey, attended Amherst College and served in Africa, Southern France and Italy as a cryptographer in the

U.S. SENATOR
KAY BAILEY HUTCHISON

TEXAS POINTS THE WAY TOWARD MEETING ENVIRONMENTAL CHALLENGES

When it comes to the environment, an ounce of prevention turns out to be worth more than a pound of cure. That's the message behind innovative laws that have been approved by Texas and 22 other states. These environmental audit laws encourage cooperation and incentives for business to protect the environment.

Under Texas' environmental audit law, companies are given incentives to assess their own environmental compliance and take corrective action. Rather than playing a waiting game for state regulators to find environmental violations, companies will find — and stop — violations.

This arrangement is based on the common sense assumption that everyone, including business and industry, has a vested interest in clear skies, clean water and a safe environment. Instead of a game of "gotcha," the private and public sectors in our state are working together to strengthen environmental protection efforts.

I have introduced legislation, the Environmental Protection Partnership Act, that will apply this environmental audit system to federal regulation efforts. Under my bill, if a company voluntarily completes an environmental audit — a thorough review of its compliance with environmental law — government may not turn around and use the audit report against that company in court. This will encourage companies to look for, find and remedy problems, rather than wait for the heavy hand of the regulator to descend upon them.

In addition, if a company performs an audit, promptly corrects any violations and reports this to the Environmental Protection Agency, that company will not be penalized for its violations. By ensuring companies that they will not be dragged into court for being honest, the bill encourages both compliance and reporting.

Environmental audits do not mean companies that pollute will go scot-free. My bill in no way protects willful violators, those that do not promptly address violations or those trying to evade investigation. But the cooperative approach will free the EPA to target enforcement dollars on the "bad actors" — those who intentionally pollute.

The bill also directs federal agencies to assist small businesses (which typically have fewer resources) to develop in-house compliance systems for performing voluntary self evaluations.

Businesses need to play an active role in environmental protection. This legislation will make companies active partners with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) in assuring compliance with the law.

The EPA itself has acknowledged the necessity of such an approach. In a recent policy statement, the EPA pointed out that, "because government resources are limited, maximum compliance cannot be achieved without active efforts by the regulated community to police themselves."

Texas and the 22 other states which have passed environmental audit laws are encouraging companies to be "good actors" and play a positive role in environmental protection. In the Lone Star state, hundreds of companies have carried out voluntary environmental audits, correcting countless violations in the process. These are corrected violations that the EPA and state regulatory officials may or may not have discovered. Other states tell similar success stories.

We have made monumental strides in cleaning up the environment over the past 30 years. Our air, water and soil are far cleaner now than they were when we first rolled up our sleeves and went to work. The Environmental Protection Partnership Act will allow us to build on those gains, and engage industry more fully in protecting the environment.

317 Saladoans vote on amendments

A total of 317 Saladoans went to the polls last week and approved all 14 of the proposed amendments to the state constitution. This number represented a less than modest 14 percent of the registered voters in the Salado voting precinct while at the same time comparing favorably with the dismal 10 percent showing across the state.

Despite the low turnout, local voters showed a major interest in two of the big pocket-book issues on the ballot including amendment two that will give the legislature authority to pass laws requiring tax appraisal districts to cap annual increases in homestead values at 10 percent.

Saladoans cast 249 yes votes out of 299 cast (83 percent) for this constitutional change, which was slightly higher than the 76 percent approval statewide.

Another big-buck issue, approved by a tight margin here in Salado (156 to 148), was the home equity lending amendment. This controversial plan was OK'd by a wide 60-40 percent when all state returns were tabulated.

STATE VOTE

Unlike Salado, Texans turned down Amendment One that dealt with allowing municipal judges to hold more than one elective job at a time. Observers of the election opined that most folks felt this had the smell of "double dipping" that would unduly enrich full time large city judges when in fact it was designed to allow small towns to share qualified jurists who work on a part time basis only.

Just a matter of not getting the message out to folks across the state. Saladoans appeared to have had a good handle on this and the other amendments, indicating an intelligent interest on the #### part of villagers far in excess of the public in general.

Amendment Six also went down the statewide tube by less than one percent of the million-plus votes cast on November 4. This scant margin indicates one of two things - either folks didn't know what the measure was all about or they were sending a message to lawmakers to take another look at the wisdom of creating the Texas Growth Fund in the first place.

The proposed change would have deleted a restriction relating to trade with South Africa and Namibia over apartheid.

This is the second time in two years that Texans have dropped this idea in the soup, so it cannot just be ignorance on the part of the electorate.

This writer thinks it was a renunciation of allowing money from the permanent school fund and the two state retirement systems to be invested in small start-up businesses that cannot get their hands on money through normal lending sources.

New small business entities in Texas have a current failure rate of 80 percent. Not much to recommend them for investments of state retirement and education dollars. This entire Growth Fund needs to be deep-sixed before we get in a financial mess that only mass infusions of tax dollars can resolve. Sooner the better.

WIMBERLEY SAYS "NO THANKS"

Last week the planned incorporation vote in Wimberley was mentioned with a promise to follow-up this week. Late last Tuesday the word became official - voters in that somewhat gaudy hill country village, spoke clearly about "gummint" in general and home-rule in particular.

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor,

Last Saturday night (Nov. 1), our entire neighborhood was treated to the nastiest, blasting, so-called music that kept early-to-bed folks awake until midnight, and believe it or not, it was so loud that many said they couldn't hear their TV.

One neighbor called Tom

Brown as she thought it was some of the nearby young people having a jam session.

However, it proved to be the Grace Baptist Church religious rock band at Tablerock.

Now, can anyone tell me WHY a quiet neighborhood with a majority of retired people should have to be subjected to this racket? It seems to me that programs at Tablerock should be better screened.

Mary Hill

Dear Editor,

Thank you for Tumbleweed Smith's column in the "Voice." I've been a fan of his radio program for years and now it's refreshing to read his stories.

Record

A thousand citizens went to the polls and the results were a clear 546 to 463 drubbing of incorporation, an idea which will have to lie dormant at least until the turn of the century.

An interesting side-bar to the matter of government was the report that the tiny town of Bear Creek, located a few miles northwest of Wimberley and composed of some 350 souls, voted on November 4, to incorporate their hamlet by a margin of 91-45.

Bet that was done to prevent some nearby city from reaching out and playing their "annexation" card. Wonder if the tentacles of Austin extend that far? Or more likely, the metroplex of Dripping Springs may be the ogre that has frightened the Bear Creekites!

OUR FRIEND?

At this writing, it is not known if the United Nations actually sent an American U2 photo-reconnaissance flight over Iraq earlier this week, nor do we know if the maniac Saddam Hussein ordered it shot down.

What we do know is that our so called "good friend" and ally - France, voted against us in the UN Security Council when we asked for international support in threatening the Iraqis with stronger sanctions and even military intervention in order to carry out the inspection mandate designed to keep the terrorist government of Hussein from building weapons of mass destruction.

France wants no sanctions and certainly is horrified at the thought of military action. Why? Simple. They have a trade deal brewing with Iraq that could bring billions into the French coffers if trade sanctions are lifted. And to blazes with mid-east peace!

France is also the "friend" that would not allow American planes to refuel or even fly over their nation when we were headed for Operation Desert Storm back in 1990-91.

With friends like this - we sure don't need to look around for enemies.

That's -30-

Eagles win final game of year, 37-0

by John Eubanks

Running back Taylor Hutton rushed for 344 yards and four touchdowns as the Salado Eagles wrapped up the 1997 football season Nov. 7 with a 37-0 road win over the Holland Hornets.

The Eagles end the season with a 6-4 record and finish third in District 26-2A with a 3-2 mark. Holland (7-3) finished fourth at 2-3.

Rogers (5-0) and Hutto (4-1) will represent the district in the state playoffs.

Hutton's performance earned him the Offensive Player of the Week award. The 200-pound junior scored on runs of 35, 72, 6 and 68 yards.

He finished the season with 1,717 yards rushing and 23 touchdowns.

First-year Coach Joe Mullins didn't know if those totals were school records, but they were certainly the best in his approximately five years at the school.

"He had a great game. He's played like that all year. He had some excellent blocking," Mullins said, noting that lineman John Woolard made a good block on a sweep that went for a long touchdown against Holland.

Woolard was also named Defensive Player of the Week after being credited with nine tackles. The 6-4, 265-pound nose guard finished the season with nearly 130 tackles.

"I bet there's not another nose guard in the state with more (tackles)," Mullins said.

Mullins said he wasn't surprised by the Eagles' dominating effort against the Hornets.

"I had no doubt they would play hard and have a good game, and they did," he said. "They played a great game, played hard and gave a hundred percent effort for four quarters."

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE
Comfort for Our Losses
"Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted."
— Matthew 5:4

We all appreciate that the end of earthly life is death, but when that death occurs during war, it is a sadder occasion than the usual giving up of life. Most of us go to our heavenly reward surrounded by the comfort of family and friends. The soldier in battle has no such consolation, many going to unmarked graves. It is only fitting therefore that as a nation and as a people we dedicate a day of recognition to all who served to bring about the peace, especially those who did so at expense to themselves. We can all take solace in the words of Jesus in His Sermon on the Mount, for we know we will be comforted through our faith and in our belief in a life after death in God's heaven.

Browns will celebrate 60th anniversary on Nov. 8

Children of the couple are Charles Jr. and Nettie Brown of Austin, Harvey and Betty Brown of Moody, and the late Tabitha Jackson, wife of Norman Jackson of Salado.

The couple were married Nov. 8, 1937, at Llano, Texas. Brown is a retired rancher.

Mullins added, "It was a pleasure to be around those guys, win or lose. They had a good attitude. They made my job easy and I appreciate it, and I told them that Friday night."

Mullins expects the effort to carry over to the offseason program and into next season.

"The seniors set a pretty good example for the other kids," he said. "I also appreciate the support of the parents and what they've done."

Hulda Horton, manager of the center (far right) accepted the gift on behalf of the Board of Directors of the Foundation that operates the civic center. The new chairs have been placed in the Meadows Auditorium. # Lady Eagles hope to hit high notes, with 7 returning to basketball squad

by John Eubanks

Nine months have passed since the Salado High Lady Eagles ended their basketball season on a low note.

This season, the Lady Eagles hope to avoid the key of D(efeate) as much as possible by hitting the high notes.

Not hitting their shots was the reason for the past season ending on a downer. Salado couldn't lease a bucket (much less buy one) during the second half of a 42-36 loss to Flatonia in the second round of the state playoffs.

The Lady Eagles were outscored 24-8 in the second half, after leading 28-18 at halftime. Adding insult to injury was the fact that Salado didn't shoot (much less make) a free throw during the entire second half. Flatonia shot 11 in the fourth quarter alone (hitting four).

That disappointing loss on Feb. 18 will likely be a distant memory when the Lady Eagles begin the season Nov. 18 at home against Lorena.

But it certainly left an impression on Coach Larry Salisbury. As he said immediately after the game at neutral-site Taylor High School, "I don't mind getting beat, if a team beats us."

It was only the sixth loss in 33 games and came on the heels of a 24-point win over Riesel in a first-round playoff game.

Seven players return from that 27-6 team that captured the District 26-2A title with an 11-1 mark.

Although District MVP Liz Boyd has graduated, the Lady Eagles return four starters who earned all-district honors.

Leah Davis, a 6-3 senior post, and Chrystal Whiteley, a 5-3 junior guard, were first-team selections. Katie Punchard, a 5-5 junior wing, was a second-team pick. Melissa Matthews, a 5-8 junior wing, received honorable mention.

Davis, listed an inch taller this year, was the second-leader scorer last season behind Boyd. She averaged 8.6 points a game, hitting 48 percent of her 262 shots.

She was also the second-leading rebounder (5.2 per game) and led the team in blocked shots with 100 in 33 games.

"I think she's going to be a better scorer for us," Salisbury said. "Defensively, I look for her to block a lot of shots."

Whiteley was the No. 3 scorer last season, averaging 8.2 points a game. She was also the top three-point shooter, hitting 45 of 155 beyond the arc.

Her 45 three-pointers were 20 more than the next most productive three-point shooter: sister Liz Whiteley, a 5-3 senior wing who averaged 5.5 points a game.

Punchard was the team's fifth-leading scorer (6.3 ppg) and also led the team in assists (106) and steals (99).

Matthews was the team's No. 4 scorer, averaging 7.4 points a game. She was also third in assists (68) and third in steals (56).

Other letter winners from last season are Kathy Matthews, a 5-8 junior post, and Marissa Scully, a 5-5 senior wing.

Four newcomers round out the 11-member squad: 5-3 junior wing Sommer Wilson, 6-1 sophomore post Adrienne Akins, 5-7 sophomore wing Lauren Quirk and 5-4 freshman point guard Tessa Schreiner.

Akins transferred from Georgetown, where she participated in the Lady Eagles' top-notch basketball program.

"I look for her to help some, to come in and spell Leah," Salisbury said. "She's been a hard-working kid, a pleasant surprise."

She and Davis are the only six-footers on a team that expects to run more this season. "We'll have four kids (on the court) that can run," Salisbury said. "I'm looking to up-tempo more this year than we've done in the past."

Last season's team averaged nearly 53 points a game, while holding opponents to just under 40 points per game. Salisbury said the key this season will be "our ability to minimize our mistakes and have a decent shooting percentage."

Salisbury, beginning his 30th year in coaching and his fourth at Salado, admits he's not the type of coach to downplay a promising season. He said the team is progressing at a faster pace than last season, because he and the players are more familiar with one another.

"I anticipate a good season," he said. "If you have four returning starters, you should be halfway decent."

Salisbury expects Jarrell to contend for the district title, after placing second last season and losing in the area round of the state playoffs. He said Rogers has a lot of tradition and is a perennial contender, Lago Vista "returns everyone" and should be a factor, Hutto lost its top player, Florence should be improved and Holland has a new coach and is rebuilding.

SCHEDULE NOTES: The Lady Eagles, who scrimmaged Thrall on Nov. 11, will scrimmage at Belton Nov. 15. The junior varsity B-team will begin at 10 a.m., with the JV A-team and the varsity to follow.

The season opener with Lorena begins at 5 p.m. with the first sub-varsity game. The next three games will be Nov. 22 at Crawford, Nov. 24 at home against McGregor and Nov. 25 at Cameron.

Boys start season Nov. 18 at Valley Mills

The Salado High Eagles basketball team will begin the season Nov. 18 at Valley Mills. The junior varsity will start at 5 p.m., with the varsity to begin at approximately 6:30 p.m.

The Eagles will play two more road games (Nov. 22 at Itasca and Nov. 24 at Waco Vanguard) before their home opener Nov. 25 against Crawford.

The Eagles return at least five players who saw extensive playing time on last season's team that finished with a 19-11 record. The team also placed second in District 26-2A with a 9-3 mark and advanced to the playoffs for the first time since 1986.

Salado lost in the first round of the state playoffs to Academy, the state's No. 6-ranked team. The Eagles lost 58-38, but were outscored only 25-23 in the second half.

Coach Alan Haire hopes that second-half effort will carry over to the start of this season.

A preview of the team is scheduled to be in next week's issue of the Salado Village Voice.

Sheriff writes about sham

Dear Bell County Citizens, I have recently been informed that telephone solicitations are being made by someone claiming to represent me, Sheriff Dan Smith and the Texas Sheriff's Association. These calls are not authorized and they are a sham.

Each year, I join dozens of other Texas Sheriffs in Signing an endorsement LETTER for the Sheriff's Association of Texas, which is then mailed to Texas residents. This LETTER is the ONLY form of solicitation the Texas Sheriff's Association uses. They have never authorized telephone solicitations. Neither have I.

Please call my office if you have received a telephone solicitation from someone claiming to represent me. If you receive a call in the future, please try to identify the caller or obtain a telephone number which they are calling from.

I would encourage you to call your local police department or the Bell County Sheriff's Office to verify the legitimacy of any law enforcement organization soliciting funds. Thank you for your continued support of these legitimate organizations and associations.

Sincerely,
 Dan Smith
 Bell County Sheriff

Jimmie Vernon is local artist of the month

Jimmie Vernon is the Salado Village Artists' artist of the month for November and December.

Vernon, a Belton native, has been painting for 25 years. Although always interested in art, she spent her early adult years raising six children all over the world.

She began studying and painting seriously while living in California. While pursuing art studies in college, she also received instructions from various local artists, including Linda Lee and Sharon Rachel. She has studied in the area with LoSharis Cunningham, Mary Barton, Leo Smith, Ed Hoage, Carol Light, Dorothy Johnston, Susan Raines and other local artists.

Vernon and her husband, Bob, are enjoying their retirement in Salado, where they are near most of their children, 13 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Buchanan became ill during the regional meet, but still finished the race, Coach Bob Liles stressed.

The first-year coach called Salado's four girls at the district meet "the surprise bunch of the day" after all four finished in the top 20. Crane placed second, no more than 75 yards behind the winner.

"They knocked some people off their feet," Liles said, noting that Salado's girls would have been district champions if they had had one more girl run.

Four boys ran at the district meet: Paul Lucas, who finished 12th; Brad Bolick; Vincente Friare; and Gilbert Chavez.

Writer hikes to 'most beautiful spot in Texas'

by Tumbleweed Smith

We did it again. For about the fourth time we hiked McKittrick Canyon in the Guadalupe Mountains National Park. It was the second time we walked all the way to "the notch," on McKittrick Ridge, which gives the climber a view into an area called "the bowl." It's like looking into another world.

Most people do the sensible thing: hike to the Pratt cabin or the grotto, take a nice break, then return to the visitors center. Not us. We have to go all the way. The hike to the notch takes nearly four hours one way. The last mile or so is nearly straight up.

But it's worth the trip. McKittrick Canyon has been called "the most beautiful spot in Texas."

Guadalupe Mountains National Park is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year. The park's name comes from a legend that says a beautiful Spanish girl was taken from her village by raiding Indians who hid her deep in the mountains. According to the tale, her name was Guadalupe.

There are stories of gold in the mountains told by Indians and early explorers.

The serpentine route of McKittrick Creek creates conditions for an unusual variety of plants: wildflowers, agave, prickly pear, alligator juniper, madrone, ponderosa pine, oak and maple trees. That's right. Maple. Toward the end of October the canyon is ablaze with every color you find in a New England autumn.

Wildlife includes coyote, mule deer, elk, cougar, golden eagles, peregrine falcons and rainbow trout.

McKittrick has been home to many species which are now extinct. It was once home to the saber-tooth tiger, the mastodon and the giant ground sloth. Prehistoric hunters preyed on pronghorn and camel. Grizzly bears, wolves and the mighty bison roamed the area.

McKittrick is named for Felix McKittrick, who raised cattle in the area in the 1870's. It has been inhabited by humans for 12,000 years. Indians hunted and grazed in the area until Army troops began to explore the area in 1849.

In the summer of 1921, Wallace Pratt, a young geologist for Humble Oil Company, was anxious to find a place to settle down after traveling the world searching for oil. He went to McKittrick because he had heard of its beauty. He established a ranch in the canyon and stayed there 50 years. He built a stone cabin that today serves as a rest area for hikers. Smooth, flat rocks found in the mountains provided material not only for the walls but for the roof as well. Local cowboys helped build the cabin. With ropes tied on the horns of their saddles, they pulled the rock slabs up wooden ramps and put them into place.

In 1957 the Pratt family donated more than 5,000 acres of the ranch to the US Government for the beginnings of the park. That land, along with 70,000 acres purchased from the J. C. Hunter Ranch, make up most of the park.

Christmas Tour of Homes Dec. 5-7, 12-14

A house built of stones from a cabin abandoned on the site and a house modeled after an 18th Century Williamsburg, Virginia residence will be among properties open for the annual Christmas Tour of Homes, sponsored by the Salado Historical Society Dec. 5-7 and Dec. 12-14.

Following the community-wide Christmas Stroll theme of "Christmas Past, Christmas Present," the first weekend will feature homes of historic significance and the second will showcase new homes, each with a distinctive architectural style.

Viewing on both weekends is scheduled for 4-8 p.m. Fridays (candlelight tours), 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturdays and 1-5 p.m. Sundays.

In a rustic rural setting in what was once an Indian camp ground, the home of Ted and Susan Edens is open on the first weekend. It is built of stones from an early 1800s cabin which once was a meeting place for the Texas Rangers. Located on FM 2843 (Florence Rd.), where Buttermilk Creek runs into Salado Creek, the house features an add-on in keeping with the period of its predecessor. Interior furnishings and decor reflect the owners' fondness for the Victorian style.

John and Pat Newman will open their home at 2221 Chisholm Trail on the second weekend. Designed by their son John, an architect, the residence of English Georgian heritage follows an 18th Century Virginia model. The house features a partially closed forecourt with symmetrical "dependencies." The exterior is historically correct with classical cornices, paired entry doors and outer shutter doors.

Brick was manufactured in Virginia, utilizing the same clay employed in the 18th Century.

The interior is contemporary classical with cornice, chair-rails and balusters. Much of the mill work replicates that found in historic restorations in Williamsburg and colors are true to colonial times.

A rock burm located behind the house, which abuts directly behind the 11th green of the Mill Creek Golf Club, is circa 1850 rock ramp for a railroad line brings which was never completed. Proximity to the golf course has resulted in frequent broken windows, Pat Newman said.

Other properties on the first weekend of the Homes Tour are these:

Twelve Oaks, home of Bob and Sue Whistler, Center Circle.

Boles-Aiken and Moses Denman Cabins, Van Bibber Lane.

Salado United Methodist Church, Thomas Arnold Road.

The Vic and Peggy Means home on Main St.

The Johnny and Peggy Watson home at 1401 Elizabeth Circle in Mill Creek.

The Jerry and Marilyn Pierce home, 716 Willow Creek Rd. in Mill Creek.

Tickets for each weekend tour will go on sale soon and be available for $8 if ordered before Dec. 1. After Dec. 1, the price will be $10.

Doris Denman at The Royal Emporium is in charge of advance sales.

Postal Pointers

Unsung Heroes And Heroines

(NAPS)—Here's a behind-the-scenes look at the men and women who work so hard behind the windows at your post office. They try to make sure your holiday and everyday correspondence gets where it's going on time and in shape.

Most of the post office workers you don't see—the ones behind the windows—handle over half a billion bits of mail on an average day, much more at holiday time.

• Instead of getting time off at holiday time, many postal workers must put in extra shifts to make sure those billions of pieces of mail—gifts, cards, invitations, and so on—move safely and efficiently.

• At any time of year, postal workers handle about 600 million letters a day, points out Moe Biller, president of the American Postal Workers Union (APWU).

• APWU is the world's largest postal union. It has nearly 360,000 members nationwide.

• To aid the efforts of these heroes and heroines and help them get home for the holidays, be sure to mail early and always include the zip code on all your correspondence.

Smoking, or frequenting establishments that permit smoking, means exposing your children to many of the 4,000 chemicals found in cigarette, pipe or cigar smoke.

Here are some facts on secondhand smoke:

-- The Environmental Protection Agency has classified secondhand smoke as a Group A carcinogen (known to cause cancer in humans). There are at least 43 chemicals in secondhand smoke known to cause cancer.

-- Forty-three percent of U.S. children aged 2 months to 11 years live in homes with at least one smoker.

-- Every time a child inhales smoke-filled air he draws chemicals such as cadmium (a cancer-causing metallic element), ammonia (used in toilet cleaners), benzene (used in the manufacture of DDT), acetone (a powerful solvent), formaldehyde (a component of embalming fluid), and carbon monoxide.

-- Each year, mothers who smoke at least 10 cigarettes a day can cause between 8,000 and 26,000 new cases of asthma among their children.

-- Each year, exposure to secondhand smoke causes 150,000 to 300,000 lower respiratory tract infections such as pneumonia and bronchitis in infants and children younger than 18 months. These infections result in 7,500 to 15,000 hospitalizations yearly.

-- Secondhand smoke also can irritate the lungs, leading to coughing, excess phlegm, chest discomfort and reduced lung capacity.

-- About 6,200 children die each year in the U.S. as a result of parental smoking; 2,800 deaths are linked to low birth weights caused by smoking while pregnant; 2,000 deaths are attributed to Sudden Death Infant Syndrome (SIDS); 1,100 deaths are caused by respiratory infections; 250 deaths are caused by burns from fires caused by cigarettes, matches or lighters; and 14 deaths are caused by asthma.

-- A recent two-year study of over 350,000 live births in England found that Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS) could be reduced by as much as two-thirds if parents did not smoke. For every hour an infant spends each day in a room where people smoke, the risk of SIDS doubles compared to infants who are in smoke-free environments. An infant exposed to outdoor environmental tobacco smoke for four hours each day is four times as likely to die of SIDS as a nonexposed child.

-- Each year, secondhand smoke kills approximately 53,000, the same number of Americans killed in the Vietnam War.

Army National Guard Pvt. McDonald completes initial training

Horse training clinic Nov. 15 at area ranch

Gary Harris of Haskell, Texas, who teaches riders how to work with the nature of a horse, will present a mounted horsemanship clinic Nov. 15 at the Lazy River Ranch on Tahuaya Road (across from the Boy Scout camp).

Training is done through communication as opposed to force or fear. "The relationship between horse and rider based on force or fear is very limited," according to information on the clinic. "When the relationship is based upon communication, the potential is endless."

The clinic is designed to teach riders to communicate and forge a partnership with their mount. Harris will also conduct a session on teaching the horse to trailer-load.

Riders should be on site and ready to ride at 10 a.m. Rider registration is limited to 12 riders so that each rider will receive individual attention. Clinic registration is $50 for rider, $25 for spectators.

Due to the limited number of rider spaces available, pre-registration is suggested.

The Salado 4-H Club will be selling hamburger and soft drinks. Spectators should bring a lawn chair, blanket, etc., to make themselves comfortable for the day.

A portion of the rider registration and spectator fees, as well as concession profits, will go to the Salado 4-H Horse Club.

Make checks payable to Gary Harris and mail your registration to: Sue Barkley, 501 Mill Creek Drive, Salado, TX 76571.

Phone 947-4768 for more information. A return receipt will be mailed to you and will serve as your admission to the clinic.

map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

During the advanced individual training (AIT), soldiers learn to serve as members of an armor unit in defensive and offensive combat operations. In addition to basic combat training, the soldier was taught to drive the armored weapon, load and fire the weaponry, perform ammunition supply duties, and to process intelligence and operations data.

McDonald is the son of Hyong S. McDonald of Salado.

He is a 1996 graduate of Salado High School.

The Store to host Muffy VanderBear Nov. 15

A special celebration in honor of the internationally popular Muffy VanderBear will be 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Nov. 15 at The Store, located at Old Town Salado in the village of

Known for her fun-loving nature and plentiful wardrobe, Muffy is the youngest member of the VanderBear Family. With more than 75 different outfits in her ever expanding armoire, Muffy has just the right look for every possible occasion. As Muffy always says, "Life is one big dress-up ..."

Her increasing popularity among both children and adult fans resulted in the formation of the Muffy VanderBear Club in 1990 which currently has 20,000 members worldwide.

Highlighting this local event is an auction of a retired Muffy Yankee Doodle to benefit the Salado Humane Society. It is certain to draw a big crowd of adoring children and adults, new collectors and dedicated fans. Special activities and photographs are planned for this promotional celebration, along with an impressive selection of the latest Muffy, the VanderBear Family, Hoppy VanderHare (Muffy's bosom bunny and favorite playpal), outfits and accessories.

For more information about having your picture made with Muffy VanderBear, please contact The Store at (254) 947-9000 located at 600 N. Main St. in Salado, Texas.

For the second year running, the University of Mary Hardin-Baylor will provide "The Living Gallery" Dec. 1-7 each night 6-8 p.m. The is a Christmas nativity provided by the university free to the community.

According to dean of the school of fine arts Dr. George Stansbury, "Last year was a tremendous success considering it was a first year to make this presentation. We anticipated over 5,000 people drove through our campus to view the living tableaux."

"This year should be an even bigger draw, but people need to know the presentation is earlier in December and will only last two hours each night which is less time than last year."

This will be an opportunity for the community to enjoy the Christmas story as it is portrayed outdoor on Vann Circle Drive (at the end of Tenth) on the campus of the University of Mary Hardin-Baylor. Guests can walk-by or drive-by at no charge.

There will be six life-size Renaissance paintings depicting scenes around the nativity of Christ. The paintings will be complete with people dressed in actual costume as the characters matching the original paintings.

Students, faculty and staff will pose as the characters for each scene. Special lighting and sound enhancement will further reveal the subjects of each painting. "This year we are adding new attractions to the scenery," said Stansbury.
