Salado officers recognized for life-saving efforts

Two Salado police officers -- Kaylen Santiago and Chris Dunshie -- were recognized during the Jan. 20 Village of Salado Board of Aldermen meeting for their life-saving efforts on duty and off-duty.

On Dec. 15, 2021, at about 1:20 p.m., Officer Santiago responded to a medical call on the northbound service road near Blacksmith Dr. The call came in that the victim, Nita Stubblefield was having a cardiac issue.

Upon her arrival on the scene, Officer Santiago a realized that Stubblefield was in cardiac arrest. She and the driver of the semi-truck, Heath Cole, pulled her from the right front passenger seat and onto the ground where Santiago began CPR compressions.

She did this for about 10 minutes before assistance arrived, according to Salado Police Chief Pat Boone. Officer Lock and Investigator Tulloch from Belton PD arrived to assist, and they began to relieve Santiago with compressions. During this time the AED was deployed and utilized. Officer Wimbush from Belton PD also arrived on scene to assist prior to Salado VFD and AMR EMS. EMS and FD took over for the officers.

"Initially, Stubblefield was not breathing on her own and did not have a pulse," Chief Boone said of his officer's quick reaction. "However, due to the officers' quick actions and life saving measures her heart began beating on its own and she was attempting to breath on her own. Ms. Stubblefield was transported to Baylor Scott & White hospital where she was taken to ICU in critical condition."

Since this incident I was able to find out the status of Ms. Stubblefield. She was placed in the long-term treatment facility in Temple where she is recovering from her heart attack.

"Without Kaylen's quick reaction and assistance that she provided along with Officers Lock, Wimbush, and Inv. Tulloch from the Belton Police Department, Ms. Stubblefield would not be here today," Chief Boone said. "Because of Officer Kaylen Santiago's action, she will be awarded the Life Saving Award. "

Officers Lock and Wimbush have had their names submitted for life saving awards. Chief Boone said that he will be submitting Investigator Tulloch for the award, as well.

"I reviewed the dash camera and body camera videos from Officer Santiago," Chief Boone said, "and found that all three of these officers were crucial to saving Ms. Stubblefield's life."

On Dec. 12, 2021 at about 2:15 a.m., Officer Chris Dunshie was driving home through Killeen after finishing a 12-hour work shift with the Salado Police Department.

He was driving his personal vehicle when he witnessed a crash in the opposite direction of travel on I-14 near the Jasper overpass. Officer Dunshie stopped his truck on the westbound side of the highway and called

He jumped over the concrete barrier and ran over to the GMC SUV where he found it unoccupied and with airbags deployed. Officer Dunshie found the driver lying in the lanes of traffic. The driver was unresponsive and appeared to not have a pulse.

Officer Dunshie immediately recognized that where this person was lying in the road had the potential of being run over by the highway traffic due to the low lighting of the area. Officer Dunshie rolled the person over and dragged him from the highway where he performed life saving steps to attempt to save this persons life.

KPD and KFD arrived on scene and Officer Dunshie advised the traffic investigator, Officer Fred Baskett of what he saw and what he did.

that captured the crash.

Officer Dunshie vided KPD with an Assist Another Agency Report (SPD22106384) and a copy of the videos from his dash camera the following day. "I contacted KPD Traffic

Investigator, Officer Baskett and found out that the driver of the vehicle was transported to Baylor Scott & White in Temple where he was in ICU under critical but stable condition," Chief Boone said. "I later learned that the driver was able to walk out of the hospital about a week after this incident. The driver was identified as Neil Gustafsson.

"I believe that without Chris's quick reaction and assistance," Chief Boone said, "the outcome of this crash would have been much Officer Dunshie also had more severe for the driver. crash camera on his vehicle Chris quite possibly saved his life. Because of Officer Chris Dunshie action he will be awarded the Life Saving Award."

Village sends Sanctuary $1 for Public Improvement District

By TIM FLEISCHER EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Salado Mayor Michael Coggin reached forward on the dais of the Village of Salado Board of Aldermen during their Jan. 20 meeting and held up a dollar bill.

He then proposed that the Village establish a Pub-Improvement District for the Sanctuary for a total of that $1, with a tax rate of 0.000000001¢ per $100 valuation. "This should complete our obligations with the PID Sanctuary agreements," he said.

The formation of the one buck PID was one of six action items the Board of Aldermen approved when discussions broke down between the developer and the Village.

The Village on Jan. 6 approved an amendment to the development agreements for Sanctuary owners to sign by Jan. 15.A key point of the amendment was a 15year lifespan for tax grants to the developer, whether in the form of sales tax grants, hotel occupancy tax grants, property tax grants or sewer impact fee grants.

In a red-lined edit of the amendment on Jan. 14, Sanctuary proposed that the 15-year deadline could be extended twice, for periods of 10 years each, "as long as the Owners are actively pursuing development of the Project, either by having construction in progress, development plans under review by the Village, or any expired construction permits."

The red-lined agreement stated that the Village would collect sewer impact fees "from all users within the Project. Within thirty (30) days of the end of the calendar month, the Village shall pay to the Owners the sewer impact fees paid by third party users within the Project." The amended agreement provided for up to $6 million in sewer impact fee waivers over its lifetime.

It provided another $3 million in grants for any combination of sales tax, property tax and hotel occupancy tax based upon a rebate of 50% of the total new taxes generated by the development.

The red-lined amendment deleted any limits on grants.

Then, on Jan. 19, before aldermen had a chance to discuss the red-lined amendment. Hanks emailed a brief letter to the Mayor and Aldermen:

"As you know, simply as a courtesy, months ago our family verbally agreed to make a single requested amendment to our existing contract with the Village. However, that verbal agreement was greatly altered when it finally arrived in writing, so we could not sign it, and everyone's time was sadly wasted.

"Since we already have a long term contract with the Village, we will simply honor that contract and require the Village to do the same. Nothing new will now be needed, We have surprisingly been forced to make this decision.

With our best wishes Billie Hanks, Sr.

Under the original agreement, the Village agreed to support formation of a PID. However, nothing in the original 2015 agreement stated an amount for that PID. Hence, Coggin pulling a dollar out.

Aldermen approved several other actions Jan. 20 regarding Sanctuary.

The board approved authorizing the Village administrator Don Ferguson to begin a rezoning process to zone all Sanctuary property that is not in current development as Agricultural land.

The board also approved a process to disannex "all non-productive Sanctuary parcels."

The Village will no longer negotiate or use its eminent domain powers to gain easement through private property for the Sanctuary to tie into the sewer system. The Village has been working with private property owners along Royal Street to gain easement to the sewer line there.

The Village will no longer have any discussions with Sanctuary through Robert Sulaski. "They need another representative," Coggin said.

Sanctuary proposed two Public Improvement Districts, one originally at $25 million and the other at $35 million.

The developer came back to the Village earlier this month with a greatly reduced proposal for the PIDs. Sanctuary East PID was reduced to $13 million indebtedness for property with an assessed value of $200 million when built out, requiring a PID assessment of $0.49 per $100 valuation.

Sanctuary North PID would have $8.5 million in indebtedness for property with a total assessed value of $296 million required a PID assessment of $0.23 per $100 valuation.

Instead, the Village sent a cashier's check for a $1.

owing 3-day cases drop n Salado ISD foll

Following a three-day closure of the schools, Salado ISD reported on the first day back to class that there are 40 active cases of CO-VID-19 in the district.

This is down from a high of 102 cases, or 4.06% of the 2,511 students and employees at the three campuses, on Jan. 18. Classes were closed on Jan. 19-21, but students were allowed to compete in UIL and other activities.

Salado school trustees at their Jan. 24 meeting approved minor changes to the "Return to In-Person and Continuity of Services Plan." this every six months. We

"We are required to do last did this in August," Superintendent Michael Novotny said.

The only changes to the plan was deletion of mask mandates for campuses that hit a threshold of 2% of cases at any one time.

The plan also incorporates the closing guidance from Bell County Public Health District of 5% threshold of confirmed cases and 10% threshold of confirmed and probable cases.

When asked how many additional students were absent than those diagnosed with COVID-19, Dr. Novotny said it is about 3.5 times the number of actual cases.

Dr. Novotny said that every school district in Texas hopes the state will hold districts harmless this year in terms of state funding.

Meanwhile, Bell County remains in Level 1, Severe Uncontrolled Community Transmission. Bell County Health District reports that as of Jan. 22, there are 5,100 active cases of COVID-19.

Bitcoin, meme-stocks, SPACs are all dangerous, unstable investments

The S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX) appears to be, like many of us, a bit under the weather, suffering from a mild dose of COVID Omicron combined with Federal Reserve interest rate anxiety.

The Index sagged 5.68% for the week, down to 4397.94, its lowest close since mid-October of last year. It is now down 7.73% from its high, recorded at the end of 2021. On the plus side, it remains up 14.5% from where it was last January at this time. Apparently, SPX traders have finally concluded that the Omicron variant will slow things down, and the evidence is there that it already has. Investors are also becoming aware that the Fed will raise rates, and those increased interest rates will make it more expensive for high-tech firms to borrow more money. When they plugged that into their equations, it appeared that some of the relatively higher-flying companies might not get the astronomical earnings growth into the future that they have seen in the past couple of years. As of today, we are only another 2.27% away from an official market correction; one that is probably long overdue. Corrections are a healthy part of bull markets. The CRSP Mid-Cap Value Index closed at 2488.65, down 5.46% for the week, but only down 4.18% year-to-date,

The benchmark 10-year U.S. Treasury note yield ended the business week at 1.763%, down 1.62% for the week, but down far more from its high on Wednesday of about 1.9%. The 30-year bond slipped a bit too, declining to 2.080% but leaving the yield curve slope still well into positive territory. West Texas Intermediate crude oil ended the week pretty much where it started at $84.76 per barrel, up 0.41%.

The Economy

The financial headlines for the week ending on 1/21/22 were mostly about inflation and interest rates, but the Market & Economic bond market seems to be continuing not to watch TV or read the worried pronouncements. The 2-year Treasury note, where one would expect to see fears of higher rates and inflation hit the hardest, remained focused around 1%. Since the Federal Reserve does not control that rate, if bond traders thought high inflation was going to be with us for even the next 24 months, the 2-year note should be much higher and create the dreaded inverted rate curve, but it hasn't. Janet Yellen, the former chairperson of the Federal Reserve and current Secretary of the Treasury, stated that in her opinion, inflation has been cranked up by a series of one-time events and should be back down around 2% by late 2022. The bond market appears to agree with Sec. Yellen.

By Jeffrey W. McClure

Another area where the headlines clustered was around the rather substantial decline in the market price of Bitcoin, meme-stocks, and SPACs, all of which we have written about as dangerous and unstable investments. Bitcoin is down about 40% since November, an impressive decline, but only in second place to its 52% crash from April through July of last year. SPACs, those, "Invest now and we will tell you what we are going to do with your money later." shares, on average, are down about 50%. GameStop stock has spiraled down about 68%.

In our humble opinion, the headlines should have been about the Conference Board's Index of Leading Economic Indicators (LEI). That very reliably predictive index rose 0.8% in December after rising 0.7% in both October and November. In the six decades since the Conference Board started reporting on that venerable set of numbers, it has never failed to provide at least six months warning when a recession was on the way. The Conference Board's chief economist wrote that the Omicron outbreak put a dent in the December numbers and is likely to slow things down for a few months but that, in his opinion, once the outbreak trails off, probably in March, the economy is showing every sign of surging back to levels better than we saw last year

Meanwhile, the Omicron variant is hurting economic growth, not because of shutdowns or any governmental action, but simply because there are a lot of people out sick. Union Pacific in its earnings report admitted that it underestimated the impact and was hit hard in its ability to deliver goods over the past couple of months on time, or in some cases, at all. Restaurants, school districts and a host of others are feeling the pain. The good news is that the new infection wave appears to have peaked along the East Coast where it hit first in the U.S. Since household balance sheets are still flush with cash, once this wave recedes, things look good for the party to resume.

The U.S. economy is still going strong and well on the way to a full recovery of where it would have probably been without the pandemic. As we predicted, Omicron is putting a dent in the growth rate, but is nowhere near reversing it. This inflation surge continues to appear as a passing event and unlikely to become entrenched. On the downside, the possibility of Russia invading Ukraine in an attempted remake of Germany's Pre-World War II actions looks more and more likely. We have written before that early 2022 would likely have some big bumps, but we remain confident that is all

BY ANDREW Moss

If you're a Texan with a disability, and you need someone to help you fill out your ballot in a polling place (it's gotten more complicated for you to get a mail-in ballot), your assistant must fill out a document indicating his or her relationship to you, and that person will be restricted as to the kind of assistance he or she can provide.

If you're a Black or Latino Texan, you probably know by now that the Texas legislature has eliminated the state's one Black majority congressional district and has reduced the number of Latino-majority districts from eight to seven. These changes have taken place even though the state has added two congressional seats because of a four-million person population increase from 2010 to 2020, with new minority residents comprising 95 percent of that

If you live in South Carolina and are one of the state's 2.5 million registered Democrats, the odds are that your congressional representative will be a Republican: 11 out of the 14 newly mapped districts now have Republican majorities, even though there are 400,000 more registered Democrats than Republicans in the state.

To many Californians like myself, all these arrangements come across as alien, to say the least. California leaves redistricting to a non-partisan commission, and our secretary of state sends mailin ballots to all 22 million registered voters. Californians face no onerous voter

Yet nothing in one part of the country is truly "alien" if it affects any other part. To the extent that the voting power and political voice of millions of people is diminished anywhere, it affects the quality of democracy everywhere. For this reason, the U.S. Senate's recent failure to pass voting rights legislation makes it all the more urgent for civil society to pick up where the government has failed. With midterm elections coming up, voting rights groups and other organizations must significantly scale up voter registration and get-out-the-vote efforts.

And unions must play a central role in this mobilization.

For one thing, their economic stake in countering voter suppression may be greater than that of any other institution in civil society. Their membership declines over the past several decades are closely intertwined with the nation's growing economic and political inequality, and unions, despite their membership declines, nevertheless have resources they can commit to electoral politics.

Last year, for example, UNITE HERE Local 11, a 32,000-member union in Southern California and Arizona, got actively involved in the 2020 elections, knocking on 900,000 doors in Arizona and helping hold the line against a Trump victory in that state. Workers threw themselves into this effort despite - or perhaps because of - pandemic-related layoffs that affected 90 percent of the members. Many of the same members (hotel housekeepers, bartenders, cooks, and dishwashers) then traveled to Georgia, knocking on 550,000 doors and helping flip both Senate seats.

As Marilyn Wilbur, a laid-off service worker from Arizona State University commented on the Georgia victories, "this victory is not just for Georgia, but for all workers of color like myself who, though severely impacted by this pandemic, chose to rise up and fight back together. We will continue to push and make sure that healthcare, relief, jobs and justice are made a priority."

The recent history of UNITE HERE, Local 11 is particularly illustrative of the power that union members can exert in electoral politics. The union underwent a transformation in the late 1980's and 1990's, as an enlightened leadership drew on the ideas, strategies, and inspiration of nonviolent activists and thinkers like the Rev. James M. Lawson, Cesar Chavez, and Dolores Huerta to expand the concept of a union as a critical force in a comprehensive movement for social justice. That transformation shifted fundamental attitudes toward immigrant workers, recognizing their dignity and re-energizing union power by engaging immigrants as active participants in electoral politics. That change in the union dynamic helped transform labor relations and politics in Los Angeles - indeed, in California as a whole.

Undoubtedly the efforts to undo the substantial impacts of voter suppression will be an immense task: 34 voter suppression bills were passed in 19 states in 2021 alone. It is a task complicated by continuing efforts to sow mistrust in voting and the electoral process.

But 2021 has seen evidence of a union resurgence in many quarters, and union membership in and of itself reinforces democratic values, deepening members' awareness of political issues and their own abilities to effect change at a grassroots level. With a strong union presence allied with that of other organizations supportive of full voting rights, the possibilities of swinging the pendulum back toward justice are not entirely out of reach. At any rate, the stakes are too high to hold back now.

Youngkin is right on masks

Glenn Youngkin promised to be on the side of parents as Virginia governor, and on his first day in office, he delivered.

The Republican issued an executive order allowing parents to decide whether their kids will wear masks in school, and met an instant wall of resistance from Democratic-controlled counties and criticism from the White House press secretary Jen Psaki. A Washington Post headline said that Youngkin is "terrifying" people.

The flak notwithstanding, his order is a sign of a growing backlash against COVID-19 restrictions that will likely only gain force as the pandemic drags on and former articles of faith, including on masking, get called into increasing doubt. Youngkin has ventured into a legally murky area. Critics believe he doesn't have the authority to issue his order because Virginia passed a statue in early 2021 that says schools should "to the maximum extent practicable" adhere to CDC-blessed strategies for controlling spread. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention is still recommending masks. The statue is vague, though, and doesn't mention masks. Youngkin's predecessor, Democrat Ralph Northam, felt compelled to issue an executive order specifically mandating them in K-12 schools.

There's also the question of whether decisions on masking and other mitigation measures are best left to school districts. Here, it is worth noting that Youngkin's order is different from that of his fellow Republican governors in Texas and Florida, who prohibited school districts from adopting mask mandates. Instead, Youngkin is establishing a carveout for parents from mandates, should they choose to take advantage of it.

All that said, it is clearly time for mask mandates to end. The conventional wisdom on masks has gone from "don't wear them they are useless" at the beginning of the pandemic, to "you are a terrible person if you don't wear them" for about a year and a half, to now, "cloth masks don't really protect anyone."

Despite Jen Psaki saying that Arlington County, which is vowing to defy Youngkin, is standing up for kids and their safety, the case for masking kids in schools is weak or nonexistent.

We are an outlier on this question. The CDC recommends masking all kids age 2 and older, whereas other health authorities are considerably more nuanced.

The European Centre for Disease Prevention and Control doesn't recommend masking for schoolchildren younger than age 12, noting -- correctly -- that they "may have a lower tolerance to wearing masks for extended periods of time, and may fail to wear them properly." In areas with community spread, it recommends masks for students in secondary schools, although it stipulates that they should "be seen as a complimentary measure, rather than a standalone measure to prevent transmission within schools." The World Health Organization makes distinctions based on age. It says that kids age 5 and younger shouldn't be required to wear masks based on the "overall interest of the child and the capacity to appropriately use a mask with minimal assistance." It is open to the masking of 6- to 11-year-olds, so long as a wide variety of conditions are met. And it says that kids age 12 and over should mask like adults.

Many European countries have avoided sweeping American-style mask mandates on school kids, and for good reason. A large-scale CDC study found no benefits from the masking of kids. Many students wear cloth masks that don't provide much protection (even if worn and maintained properly) and no sane person should want to subject a child to an N95 all day long.

Parents in Virginia who believe that masking is important can still act accordingly, and vaccines and boosters are available to provide another layer of protection. But masks remain something more than a public-health measure for many proponents -- they are a signal of virtue and a pillar of pandemic orthodoxy.

Youngkin's offense, at bottom, is dissenting from this worldview, and providing options for parents who don't share it, either.

Two file for 2 full terms on Salado ISD Board of Trustees

Two candidates -- Rick Marruffo and Amy McLane have filed for election to the Salado Independent School District Board of Trustees. Two full-year terms on the board of trustees will be filled with the May 7 election.

On the first day of filing Jan. 19, Amy McLane filed for re-election to a threeyear term on the Salado ISD Board of Trustees.

She is currently in her third year on the board of trustees.

"I would like the opportunity to continue serving our district," McLane said. "The last three years have been trying times on the school board, but I truly believe our district administration and campus leadership have kept our school doors open and in-person learning a daily norm."

The McLane family has lived in Salado for 16 years. She and her husband Drayton have three boys who attend Salado schools.

McLane was actively involved in the bond process in May 2018 to build the new Salado Middle School and improve other facilities in the district.

Before serving on the board of trustees, McLane was co-chair for both the Planning Long-Range Committee and the Political Action Committee for the SISD Bond.

She also served on the District Site-Based Planning Committee, the District Strategic Planning Committee, PTO officer, and room parent. Prior to moving to Salado, McLane taught ESL in the Arlington Independent School District in Arlington, Texas.

Two file for unexpired term on Salado ISD Board of Trustees

Two candidates -- Chris Diem and Christi Carlson --have filed for the unexpired term to fill the vacancy left on the Salado Independent School District Board of Trustees. The seat became vacant with the death of Jim Hodgin last year.

Filing began on Jan. 19 and will continue through the end of business on Feb. 18 for the May 7 election

Former Salado Junior High Principal Chris Diem filed for the unexpired term on Jan. 20.

Diem, a Bell County native, has 20 years of experience in the field of education. Of those 20 years, 13 of them were spent at the K-12 level where he served as a substitute teacher, student teacher, classroom teacher, assistant principal, and then two-and-a-half years as principal of Salado Junior High School.

During his time at SJHS, Diem was a state semi-finalist for the H-E-B principal of the year and in 2014 was named the Region 12 Middle School Principal of the

"Having worked in Salado ISD and now, more importantly, being a parent of two Salado ISD students, I have seen firsthand the quality of this school district and the teachers that work with our children day in and day out," Diem said. "We are truly blessed to be a part of such an outstanding district.'

Diem was born at Fort Hood and raised in Harker Heights, where he attended Killeen ISD schools from first through 12th grade.

He received his Bachelor of Science degree in 2005 from Texas A&M University and returned to Killeen to teach at Harker Heights High School while also earning his Masters Degree in Educational Administration and Principal Certification from Tarleton State University.

Chris returned to College Station in 2008 to pursue additional graduate course work and from 2008-2011, he served as a teacher and assistant principal at A&M Consolidated High School while earning his Superintendent Certification.

Upon returning to Central Texas, he served as an Assistant Principal at Belton High School before coming to Salado Junior High as Principal from 2012-2014.

Diem currently serves as the Assistant Dean of Student Affairs for the Temple and Round Rock campuses of the Texas A&M University College of Medicine and is pursuing his Doctorate in Educational Leadership from Liberty University.

He has been married for 12 years to Jessica Diem, who serves the Salado community and Bell County as the District Director for State Representative Brad Buckley.

Together, they are the proud parents of Nathan and Andrew, both students in Salado ISD.

Diem has served his community in several capacities, to include: the Salado ISD District-Based Decision Making Committee, the Salado ISD Student Health Advisory Committee, Watch DOG at Thomas Arnold Elementary School, head coach and assistant coach for the Salado Youth Sports Association (baseball and basketball), Board of Directors for the Heart of Texas-Southwest Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Board of Governors for the Central Texas-Fort Hood Association of the United States Army, President of the Rotary Club of Harker Heights, and Area Representative for the Texas A&M Association of Former Students. "Through my lifetime, I have watched various leaders serve their community in different capacities," he said. "I feel that now is my time to serve in a larger capacity and I cannot imagine a better way to do so than investing my energy into our next generation."

BC Retired School Employees Association continue to serve children in the community

The Bell County Retired School Employee Association (BCRSEA) will read to pre-kindergartners at Belton Early Childhood Center 1:15-1:45 p.m. Feb. 3.

The group will also present a $500 check to the early education center to purchase books for the children. In October, the group donated $500 to Meridith Dunbar Early Childhood Center in Temple.

Following the reading session, the group will meet 2 p.m. Feb. 3 at South Belton Middle School, 805 Sage Brush Drive.

"This is Invite a Friend Month in honor of Valentines, so please invite potential members. We are also asking members to bring a favorite recipe written on a recipe card. Bring at least five cards which we will sell for a dollar apiece. The funds will go to the Children Book Project to continue donating books annually to school children."

According to BCRSEA Second Vice President Vicky E. Donohoe, 429,000 TRS retirees should have received a time enhanced benefit supplemental check.

"Did you know that 44% Contact Pat Duran at or 201,393 retirees receive a monthly annuity of $1600 or less?" she said, adding that

95% of school districts do not participate in Social Security so the Texas Retirement System must be strong and solvent.

"Proudly we proclaim that BCRSEA has made a major contribution to have our voice heard at the Capitol with letters, postcards, calls, media posts, webinars and new members," she said. "Spread the word, we actively participate to improve and sustain the quality of life for our retired educators and auxiliary employees through positive communication and results. Our primary focus is the security of our TRS retirement benefits."

tion and design effort for 67 projects located throughout

Iraq valued at $1.5 billion.

I completed several bridges, water treatment plants, sewage treatment plants, roads, airfield, schools and electrical power plants during my time

In 2004, Coggin went to Iraq, where he was sta-

this new program."

Salado Mayor Michael Coggin

Village of Salado Mayor Michael Coggin filed for re-election to the position on the first day of filing Jan. 19.

Filing for local races, including Village of Salado Mayor and Aldermen, Salado ISD Board of Trustees and Salado Public Library District Board of Directors began on Jan. 19 and will end Feb. 18.

Coggin has served on the Board of Aldermen since 2018, when he was elected Aldermen. He ran unopposed and was elected Mayor in Nov. 2020 (because the election was moved from its usual May date).

Coggin moved to Salado 21 years ago with his wife Diana and their school-aged children Brinn and Blake. Coggin is active in the First Baptist Church of Salado.

"We fell in love with the small-town feeling, incredible schools, scenic creek, golf course and friendly people. It is a great place to live, worship and raise a family," Coggin said. "I hope to be able to keep this small-town identity if I am elected."

Brinn was a pole vaulter at Salado and graduated Valedictorian. She is now a CPA in Waco after earning her Master's degree from Baylor University.

Blake is also a CPA, having earned a Masters from the University of Texas. He played football and basketball while in Salado, graduating in 2007.

The Coggins have four grandchildren and are soon expecting their fifth grandchild.

Between their generations, the family has degrees from several Texas schools. Diana earned a degree in finance from Abilene Christian University. Michael is a graduate of Texas A&M University. He is a Texas registered professional engineer.

A native Texan, Coggin was born in Lubbock, where his father attended Texas Tech University.

"As a petroleum engineer, my dad moved our family to many places until we put down roots in Axtell, Texas (east of Waco),"

Coggin began his career as a civilian engineer with the US Army Corps of Engineers shortly after graduating from Texas A&M University.

"I transferred to Germany after completing the $50 million fire training school at

His last position with the Army was at Fort Sam Houston. "I was responsible for a $750 million medical center expansion project and renovation of the existing facility," Coggin said.

He retired from the Department of the Army in 2012 after serving 33 years.

He is employed by Ballard CLC, consulting on military and Veterans Administration projects.

"I am honored to have served nearly two-and-a-half years as a Salado Alderman and one-and-a-half years as the Mayor of Salado," he the school house," she said.

"Parental involvement is important in student success and has always made our community what it is. Together we can achieve excellence again."

She said that she aims to "improve communication and transparency, i.e. update our ISD website, advertise meetings, be open and accessible to discussions that concern our families, faculty, tax payers. Have committees open to more than just a select few."

"I want us to be good stewards with our resources and finances, work on keeping our tax rates from continuing to climb while still being mindful of fiveand 10-year growth plans," she said. "Prepare for today, plan for tomorrow. Look at how we can move our budget around to make better sense for all."

She adds that she wants "to work to reduce employee turnover, especially mid year resignations. Enable teachers to focus on teaching Reading, Writing, Math, Science, History and let education be primary again. Finding the support needed, salary, staffing, facilities, help with curriculum review."

She said she wants to see "that questions like the following are not a part of our curriculum: Are you male, female, undecided? Yes, actual question on SEL Navigate 360 asked to two of my sons as part of their required class work on their chrome book that does not allow for parental (nor probably teacher) review ahead of time."

"SEL and CRT have no place in our primary education public schools," she said. "Reclaim the design of local education and not get caught up in the federalization whirlwind. We can not and should not exchange education for agenda that instills what to think instead of how to think."

"I will persevere in serving boldly, diligently and selflessly," she said.

"This election, we have a unique opportunity to get three new trustees with fresh eyes and healthy perspective," she said. "Sam Dowdy Jr. and Marlon Reed will be running alongside me. They are strong, smart and bring good viewpoints, ideas and expertise in other areas. I plan to fill the empty seat that has been vacant this entire school year. Dowdy and Reed plan to fill the 2 seats that are up for election. It is going to take more than one vote to turn the ship back in the right direction. Vote for us! Vote for Salado! Rise up! We are Eagles!"

"Dr. Novotny has done an incredible job at the helm of SISD and as a trustee on the school board, I have had the opportunity to see this leadership in action," McLane said. "Our district will soon be growing at a rapid pace and I believe our administration is prepared to face this challenge. I would like to continue to serve with this outstanding group of leaders for the next three years."

Rick Marruffo filed on Jan. 20 for a full three-year term on the Salado I.S.D. Board of Trustees.

Marruffo is a 26-year military veteran. He holds a Master's Degree in Business and a Bachelor's Degree in Occupational Safety and Health.

He volunteered for four years as a reserve deputy sheriff and medic in San Diego County's Search and Rescue unit. He has served several years as an officer of American Legion Post 852, including two years as Post Commander.

"My knowledge and experience will help me to provide leadership and build a vision that we all can share in," he said. "I strongly believe that the school board must be responsive and listen to all constituents."

He has two grown children and a young daughter who attends Thomas Arnold Elementary.

He son is a military veteran living in Corpus Christi and his adult daughter lives in upstate New York.

"I volunteered many knowledge times at my older children's schools throughout their academic lives," he said. children, a district who great community, my running for the School Board will allow me to continue working and advocating for the education of all children in our community." knowledge that we have the education of this great children, a district who great community, my running for the School Board they are we have they are we have a support of the education of all children in our community."

It is my belief that a school board must be responsive and receptive to parents, staff, students and the community at large, encouraging an open dialogue," he said. "The board must take input from all groups and weigh all the facts before making a decision."

"A board member is a trustee of the community that elects him or her. That Trustee must be accessible and willing to collaborate with all members of the community; that includes all District staff," he said. "Anyone that comes before the board has the right to be heard. A school board member must build public understanding, support and participation."

"My efforts as a board member would center on serving all of the children in the community; one child is no more important than another," Marruffo said. "Our schools are here to serve the educational needs of all the children. In order to do this, we need the equal involvement of the students, the parents, the teachers and the staff. It is equally important to know what and how our children are being taught."

"Our children will become our leaders in the future. We need to strive to give them every opportunity to be successful until they become adults and make decisions on their own," he said.

"By working together, we can all share in the knowledge and satisfaction that we have provided for the educational needs of all children, and have built a district where students, parents, teachers, and staff feel they are welcome and that they belong," he said. "I ask for your support in this great endeavor."

Farming for the Future workshop held at Shady Villa Hotel Feb. 15-16

Soil Regen, a soil health consulting and education company, is proud to announce Farming for the Future. The Farming for the Future workshop will be held February 15-16, at the Shady Villa Hotel in Salado.

Farming for the Future provides an expected 150 farmers and ag professionals with a practical bootson-the-ground educational experience. The workshop will provide actionable information about understanding your system to reduce inputs; weed and pest management in various operations; advanced regenerative techniques; and soil testing and nutrient management; and soil carbon and microbial dynamics.

Farming for the Future begins at 8:30 a.m. at the Shady Villa Hotel with an opening address by Rick Clark, innovator and regenerative/organ-IN. Rick Clark uses non-GMO seeds, crop diversity, and livestock to improve soils and reduce inputs for reduced cost of production. Rick will set the tone of the event by describing the concept of

"farming green."

Attendees will then enjoy learning from regenerative farmer Adam Chappell, from Cotton Plant, AR. Adam raises cotton, soy, corn, and rice on he and his brothers farm using reduced seeding rates, cover crops, and other regenerative management techniques to reduce inputs and increase ROI.

Following lunch, Russell Hedrick, first generation farmer from North Carolina, will then share his experience in regenerative farming, nutrient management, and diversifying his operations.

Throughout both days, they will feature farmer panels followed by "Shop Talk" sessions, where farmers can ask questions and steer the conversation to topics those in attendance want to discuss. The speakers and other regenerative ag leaders will proic farmer from Williamsport, vide transparency regarding their successes and failures to help with the details of implementing soil health practices and nutrient management on each farmer's operation.

To wrap up the day, attendees are invited to attend an exclusive networking social hour with the farmers, speakers, and soil health leaders at Barrow Brewing Company 4:30 p.m. -8 p.m. Hecho en Queso will be on site for homemade Mexican Fusion food made to order.

Day two will begin with a keynote address from Rick Haney, developer of the Haney Test, former US-DA-ARS researcher, and Chief Scientific Officer of Regen Ag Lab. Producers will then gain first-hand knowledge of soil testing for soil health and fertility from Lance Gunderson, owner of Regen Ag Lab. Participants then can experience the charm of Salado on their own for lunch. Following lunch, attendees will enjoy a keynote address from Rick Clark. Operators will then experience a panel discussion regarding nutrient management, followed by more "Shop Talk" sessions. The day will conclude at 4:30 pm. Event Details: Farming for the Future

- Dates: February 15 8:30 am to 8:00 pm, February 16 - 8:30 am to 4:30 pm

Most hands played by declarer fit into a pattern that he has encountered many times before. Because of this, many declarers tend to treat similar situations in similar fashion, which is not always the healthiest approach to the play of a hand.

Consider this deal where West led the queen of clubs against four hearts. East followed with the jack, and West shifted to the nine of spades. Declarer played low from dummy, losing to the king, and East returned a low trump.

At this point, South put on his thinking cap. Had he finessed, which seems the natural thing to do, he would have gone down one. But South was not a player the proper play in most hands, but he also realized it would be the wrong play in this hand. So he went up with the ace, felling the king, played the ace and another diamond, and wound up making 10 tricks after ruffing two of dummy's diamonds in his hand.

There is no denying that South was lucky to find West with the singleton king of hearts. But good luck is frequently the byproduct of good dummy play, so South was entitled to some measure of glory in nabbing the singleton king.

East had shown up with the jack of clubs and king of spades, that East could not also have the king of hearts. Had East held that card, he surely would not have

So, after concluding that West had to have the heart king, South went up with the ace — not because he expected to drop the king, but because he recognized that his only chance was to find the king unguarded.

Ladies take 3rd in own Classic

Salado varsity Lady Eagles soccer team took third place in their own Salado Eagle Classic played Jan. 20-22 during some very cold weather.

The girls started off playing Belton's JV team on Jan. 22 in 32 degree weather and 15 mph winds. Through the frigid weather the ladies came out with a 1-0 win with the only goal coming from Haley Piatak who found the back of the net.

Salado played Lorena on Jan. 21. "The ladies fought hard, but came up short," Coach Michael Goos said.

The game ended in a 1-2 loss with their only goal being scored by Savvy Oyler.

The Lady Eagles then played Little Cypress Maurceville who had traveled from Orange, Texas. They knew it would be a tough game as LCM tied earlier in their match with Lorena.

"The girls stayed strong all through the game with great defense and incredible saves by goal keeper Leyla Peralta," Coach Goos said.

"The girls got into the last five minutes knowing they did not have much longer to score. They pulled together and played for each other," Coach Goos said.

Lexi Rice made a cross to Sydney Lange who put it in the back of the net for the 1-0 win.

"This was a big win for the ladies and it was amazing to see them come together," Goos said.

The win over LCM put Salado in the consolation championship game playing against Fredericksburg.

"The team was still feeling great after their amazing win and they were hungry for another one," Goos said.

The Salado Lady Eagles got the win on a cross from Sydney Lange that made its way to Payton Cunningham who buried the ball in the net.

SHS wrestlers host 1st dual meet

Salado hosted its firstever home dual meet against Pflugerville Connally on Jan. 19. The Boys team won against the Cougars 11 matches to 6 while the Girls' team fell to Connally 2 matches to 5.

Earning Varsity wins for the Eagles were: Connor Lynch, Rocco Purcell, Jacob Rechtfertig, Jade Fields, Cody Vincent, Ryley White, Jayten Burt, Landon Blackwell, Ryland Woods, Kelley Villafranco and London Woods

The Eagles were forced to cancel their Salado Slam tournament on Jan. 22 due to COVID-19 concerns of the other teams: Killeen and Gatesville.

Eagles get past Jarrell, run over Gateway

Salado Eagles won both of their games last week, holding off a furious fourth quarter run by the Jarrell Cougars to win 61-59 on Jan. 21 and beating

SHS 61 JHS 59

Salado Eagles almost lost a 17-point lead going into the fourth quarter of their district contest at Jarrell but hung on for the win.

The Eagles took the lead midway through the first quarter and almost relinquished it in the waning minutes of the fourth allowing Jarrell to get within one on two three-point plays, a basket off the backboard and foul shot by Jamarri Price to get the Cougars to trailing 56-60 and a three-pointer by Edward Miles to get to 59-60.

Caleb Sirmon converted the front half of a 1-and-1 to make it 61-59 and the Eagles defense stopped the Cougars from tying the game as time clicked off the clock.

Salado led Jarrell 17-13 after the first and 35-24 at the half, looking like a blowout. The Eagles extended their lead to 51-34 before Jarrell exploded for 25 points in the fourth, holding Salado to 10 points.

Josh Goings hit 10-of-19 shots from the field to lead Salado with 26 points. He grabbed 3 rebounds and made 2 deflections, an assist and a steal.

Darius Wilson followed with 11 points. He had 5 rebounds, an assist and a deflection.

Brady Ihler also had double figures in the game with 10 points, adding 5 rebounds and an assist.

Also scoring for the Eagles were Noah Self, 5 points, 5 rebounds, 2 blocks and a deflection; Caleb Sirmon, 4 points, 4 rebounds, a steal and a block; Nolan Miller, 2 points, 3 rebounds, a deflection and a steal; Isaac Pettigrew, 2 points and Cayden Stump, 1 point and an assist.

SHS 72 GCPHS 42

Salado took an early lead over Gateway College Prep School and never looked back, winning easily 72-42 on Jan. 18.

The Eagles jumped out to a 25-15 first quarter lead and led 42-21 at the half before easing off the throttle to coast in the second half.

Goings again led Salado with 18 points, 9 rebounds, 9 assists, 6 steals and 2 deflections.

Wilson had double figures with 12 points, 3 rebounds, an assist and a steal.

Ihler also had double figures with 11 points, 5 rebounds, an assists, deflection and a steal.

Also scoring for the Eagles were Stump, 7 points, 3 assists and a rebound; Owen Pitcock, 5 points, 3 rebounds, 2 assists and a deflection; Self, 4 points, 3 rebounds, 2 assists and 2 steals; Pettigrew, 3 points, 3 rebounds, Miller, 2 points, 2 rebounds, a deflection and a steal.

Remembering, honoring Burt Smith

The memorial celebration for Burt Smith will be held at 2:00 p.m. on Saturday, January 29, at St. James United Methodist Church, which is located at 5050 East 111th Street South in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Burt was the principal of Salado High School from 2012 until 2014 and then was our assistant superintendent from 2014 until he retired in 2021. His wife, Jami Smith, was an elementary school teacher from 2012 until she retired in 2021. During their nine years in Salado, Burt and Jami made a positive impact in the school district and within our community.

A video of the service will be available on You-Tube at the "Burt and Jami

CTC to hold virtual surplus property auction

Central Texas College (CTC) will host a virtual public auction of surplus property January 31 through February 9. The online event will be conducted by Lone Star Auctioneers. Available items include computers, monitors, printers, office furniture, gym equipment, iPads, tables, chairs, desks, machinery, tools, electronics, file cabinets and more.

To participate in the auction, bidders must register online at the auctioneer's website https://www.lso.cc/register. Items will be sold as is - no exchanges, no refunds, no exceptions. Items will not be held or pre-sold. Bidders may view the items online at https://ctc4.me/ CTCAuction during the time the auction is live. In-person viewing of auction items is also available by appointment by contacting the CTC Shipping and Receiving department at 254-526-1801. Appointments are available Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

At the close of the auction, winners can then pick up their items after paying the auctioneer online. The winners will then receive a payment receipt which must be brought to the CTC warehouse to claim the items. All loading and transporting of purchased items are the responsibility of the purchaser and the deadline to pick up items is 5:30 p.m., February 17. Complete item pickup information will be listed on the auctioneer's website during the event.

TX Power Reform Triggered by Winter Storm Uri Needs Public Input

Roz Brown

Not enough has been done to prevent another catastrophic power-grid failure such as the one in Texas last February, according to AARP Texas, which warns that consumers will foot the bill for what comes next.

A rare winter storm left millions without power and 246 Texans dead, almost two-thirds of them age 60 or older.

Tim Morstad, director of AARP Texas, estimated that gas and electric customers will pay more than $6 billion in their utility bills to cover cleanup costs from Winter Storm Uri, with none designated for grid improvements. He added that changes proposed by regulators to revamp the electric market lack cost analysis and public input.

"And ultimately it comes down to the pocketbook," he said, "because, while we all want and support a reliable electricity grid, we want to make sure we're getting what we pay for, and we want to make sure that the public's voice is heard."

While improvements may be needed and beneficial, Morstad said the initial price tag at $1.7 billion a year to be built into customers' utility bills is alarming.

In Katy, Lora Taylor and her husband were prepared for rolling blackouts predicted by their utility company as they cared for their special-needs daughter, who suffers seizures and requires breathing and suction machines. Instead, they spent 52 hours without power, and had to recharge the machines from a car battery.

"The trauma of the middle of the night and trying to literally keep her alive when all the hospitals were filled, all of the roads were icy - was just overwhelming," she said.

Worried about a repeat of last year's storm, the Taylor family purchased a wholehouse generator. Taylor said Texans shouldn't have to wait 10 years to make sure safeguards are in place.

"It's just beyond me, that we can't hold people's feet to the fire so that they have to invest to protect consumers," she said. "Every other state handles cold weather. Why can't we?"

Morstad noted that older Texans and medically vulnerable people are particularly sensitive to power outages and utility price hikes, with many living on a fixed

"The rub," he said, "is that the proposals being pursued are very expensive, haven't been proven to solve the problem that has been identified, and the pocketbooks are already being strained."

5 ways to slay Valentine's Day

(StatePoint) Valentine's Day is no longer just for the happy couples.

1. Custom Cards. Smash-Ups from American Greetings help prioritize love and romance any day of the year. There are SmashUps specifically for Valentine's Day, with romantic messages from celebrities.

2.FaceTime. Couples who are separated by distance might have to settle for a candlelit FaceTime instead of the in-person dinner they had inmind. Luckily, romance in 2022 meanstechnology can keep us connected. Consider shipping gifts to your significant other and opening them together while you're on a video call. Face-Time.

3.Swipe Left. Many modern-day love stories start with a simple swipe to the left on a dating app. If you're hoping to meet new people but aren't sure where to begin, consider havingsome fun with online dating apps like Bumble, Hinge and Tinder. They're not just for those looking for love. Friendship features, like Bumble BFF, which works the same but connects you with others looking for friendships .too. This is useful for those who are moving to new cities, secking roommates, or looking to network.

4.Did Someone Say Galentine's Day? Galentine's Day is all about female friendships .Galentine's Day can be spent simply or elaborately. Some gals might exchange gifts of candles and fuzzy socks for the occasion, while others might have a glass of wine andgossip over a charcuterie board.

5.Self-Care. Being alone on Valentine's Day doesn't have to be painful. Plan a day at the spa, take group workout class of cook yourself your favorite meal. Self-care is the perfect way to honor the strong and independent person you are.

Salado Police Report Jan. 17-23

OFFENSE/INCIDENT REPORTS: 01-17-22:

· At about 10:50pm SPD responded to the 1700 block of Old Mill in reference to a family violence call. The complainant advised that she and her husband were in a verbal argument where he made several verbal threats to her well-being. The complainant did not wish to pursue charges and stated that she would spend the night with a friend.

01-18-22:

· At about 8:40pm SPD responded to NB IH 35 at 285 to assist TXDPS with a traffic stop. The driver of the vehicle provided information to the SPD officer about a sexual assault that occurred earlier in Round Rock. TXDPS filed the report and SPD provided the officer with a report of the allegations.

01-22-22:

· At about 11am SPD received a report of a stolen trailer from the 300 block of N. Main st. The owner reported that the trailer was taken sometime on January 20th from his business. There are no known suspects and the trailer was entered into NCIC/TCIC as stolen.

In addition to the above-mentioned calls, Salado Police Officers handled many other calls for service in which a report was not required. To the right is a break of those calls:
