Turn out the lights, the party's over

The lights in question have been questionable since they were first installed as part of a TxDOT program to address drainage, sidewalks and safety lighting along Main St.

"Until the current issues with the Salado lighting is remedied, TxDOT has elected to turn off the power to the fixtures for safety and preservation purposes," according to the email sent to the Village of Salado at about 4 p.m. March 20.

"TxDOT is currently performing due diligence and seeking resolution to the issues currently being experienced," the email stated. "We look forward to working with you to that end. Thank you for your patience."

TXDOT has proposed turning over FM 2268 (Main Street) to the Village but the Village has not accepted the proposal.

With the LED lights going off intermittently with no pattern, light heads were sent to the manufacturer to see if there were defects in the bulbs.

The problem is not the LED lights themselves.

The LED lights are 120V, according to Village Administrator Don Ferguson. The initial driver boards for the LED lights are 480V. The surge protectors are 480V.

Ferguson told local merchants March 20 that driver boards were replaced, but were not properly programmed. Nor were the surge protectors replaced.

"All of the LED boards are compromised," Ferguson said.

Ferguson said that he estimates the cost to replace the LED lights, the boards, wiring and surge protectors to be about $100,000.

"We feel it is the state's cost and the state's problem," he said. "This is not a maintenance issue."

Municipal Utilities District (MUD) for the development of 7,000 acres of Solana Ranch in southern Bell County and northern Williamson County.

The Michaux family, owners for seven decades of the 9,000-acre ranch that straddles Salado Creek from Williamson County to Bell County, are working with DMB Development to build a 7,000-acre community development that may have as many as 14,000 homes when completed.

To fund the estimated $1 billion in infrastructure for the large-scale development, the developer will form a MUD to pay for wastewater infrastructure, water infrastructure, roads, fire and police protection, environmental stewardship and sustainability and education.

"The first glass of water is going to cost more than $25 million," said Nick Taratsas, executive vice president at the March 16 board of aldermen meeting.

Taratsas stated in a March 16 letter to the board. The current Certificate of Convenience and Necessity (CCN) include Jarrell-Schwertner Water Supply (JSWSC) and the City of Georgetown.

"It was determined that JSWSC is the most practical entity to provide water to the development," Taratsas stated in the letter. "DMB has been working with JSWSC to formulate a solution for the first phase of the development."

The first phase is expected to be 5,000 units.

"Severe groundwater restraints exist in the aquifers west of I-35," he told aldermen. Because of that, DMB is focusing its efforts on locating viable sources of water on the east side of I-35.

This will require a significant amount of resources. This can be done, Taratsas said, when the cost "is divided over 14,000 homes."

DMB knows the impact of the traffic from those homes emptying onto existing roads that are not built for that much traffic. ""It is for this reason that the MUD expressly allows for off site roadway improvement reimbursement," Taratsas stated. "The DMB pro forma contemplates that these mitigation measures could total in the millions of dollars."

"DMB explicitly understands the importance of security provided by robust and well-funded police and fire facilities... DMB takes pride in contributing land and funding for facilities in their communities," Taratsas DMB Developments also provide land and support funding for school district "that serve the children of the region both inside and outside of the community," Taratsas stated.

"We have known the developer for 25 years," Kirk Michaux said. "Over those years, we have seen their projects all over the western United States. They are the only ones I would even consider being in business with. I have been here since I was eight years old and I am 84 now. This is the appropriate time while we have this opportunity to have such a great partner."

Main Bridge to vehicles for Stroll Village may close

The Village of Salado is planning to close the Main Street Bridge for the evenings of the Christmas Stroll weekends.

Village Administrator Don Ferguson met with local merchants March 20 to outline plans for closing Main Street to vehicular traffic at Royal Street and at the southern end of Pace Park

He said that there is ample parking on the south side of the Creek, pointing out Sirena Park parking and parking along Royal and South Main.

Ferguson added that there is discussion to place a temporary footbridge from the grounds of Barrow Brewing Co. to Pace Park.

Kaye Coachman of 21 Main asked if the Village would consider closing one lane of traffic and opening one lane of the bridge to foot traffic with a barricade in between.

The Village will have to formally request Texas Department of Transportation to close any section of Main Street because it is FM 2268 and state right-of-way.

The request is made by a municipality to the TXDOT District Engineer and must be made at least 30 days in advance of the event. The decision on pursuing the closure will be made by the Board of Aldermen.

The Markets

For anyone who has been following the financial and economic news for the week that ended on March 17, it may come as quite a shock to discover that the Standard and Poor's 500 Stock Index (SPX), representing the whole stock market, rose 1.43% to end the week at 3916.64. While 3916 is not up to the 4000 level it is closer than last week's 3862. This week leaves the SPX up a bit over 2% this year, 9.33% higher than last October, and 75% higher than it was three years ago in the Pandemic Bear Market. Still, on the negative side of things, the Index is 18% lower than it was in the first week of 2022. The CRSP U.S. Mid Cap Value Index did not follow its older and larger cousin, falling 3.26% for the week to 2206.24, and is now down 5.7% this year and 15% from last year's high.

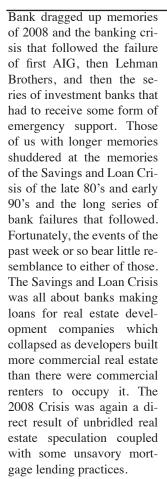

The benchmark 10-year U.S. Treasury note yield slipped to 3.39% from the nearly 4% yield it held a couple of weeks ago. Perhaps more significantly, the shorter-term rates at 6-months and 1-year fell to 4.71% and 4.26% respectively from their highs of around 5.2% at the beginning of March. Unfortunately for those looking for a return to a more normal yield curve, the 30-year T-bond fell to 3.6% leaving the Treasury yield curve as inverted as ever. West Texas Intermediate crude oil (WTI) continued its slide, slipping 13.43% to $66.33 per barrel, again pointing the way to lower pump prices in the days ahead. It is worth remembering at this point that WTI was selling for about $112 per barrel a year ago and hit $120 in June of last year. This week's price is approaching a 50% drop in the price of oil from its highs last

The Economy

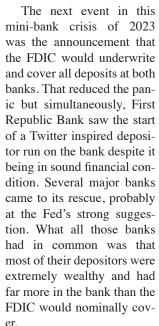

The attention that had been focused on the Federal Reserve and speculation on what it will do with interest rates shifted, at least for the moment, to the banking sector of both the U.S. and world economies. The Silicon Valley Bank (SVB) failure, followed almost immediately by that of Signature

Market & Economic Update

By Jeffrey W. McClure

SVB failed for a much more prosaic reason. The proprietors took in huge deposits from Silicon Valley startups. SVB offered a better interest rate than many other banks as they invested their deposits in long-term Treasuries at about 3% and were able to pay depositors 1%. Unfortunately, 2022's rising interest rates both largely blocked the flow of new money into startups, and seriously reduced the market value of those longterm Treasuries. As SVB as Secretary Yellen stated, began to sell Treasuries to in good financial condition. pay their depositors, a Twitter-based prediction of failure caused a classic run on the bank. No bank can survive such an event, and SVB went down. When Signature Bank was taken over by the FDIC following the beginning of a bank run there, it had significantly more assets than deposits, but was forced down by panicked depositors. Signature Bank may have been targeted because of its widely publicized willingness to accept cryptocurrency deposits but again, a Twitter-based panic was the was not a U.S. Bank but rather Credit Suisse, a 167-yearold Swiss bank and one of the world's largest banks that had to be rescued by the Swiss government this week and will probably be absorbed by another European bank in the days to come. The issue there was a series of apparent moral lapses combined with the same assumptions that were present at SVB. It is anything but pleasant to note that the problems we are seeing appear to be global. Bad assumptions about interest rates and "safety" are the common denominator to every financial crisis.

The big fish in this event

The silver lining is that the U.S. Banking system is, More, the swift action by the Treasury, the Federal Reserve, and the FDIC appears to have stopped the Twitter-ignited brushfire. One potential positive is that the mini crisis may well slow the Federal Reserve's nearterm interest rate increases. As we have said and written before though, it may be wise to take a long, hard look at where you have stashed "safe" money, particularly if the institution to which you have entrusted your wealth got you there by promising a "guaranteed" higher rate that you could get elsewhere.

How many more atrocities before Bell Co takes down Confederate statues

To the Editor:

I sincerely urge the Bell County Commissioners to take down the Confederate statue on the county courthouse lawn.

We should not honor soldiers that committed or supported barbaric war atrocities.

For example:

The Union garrison at Fort Pillow surrendered to the Confederate army. Sgt. Achilles V. Clark, of the Confederate Twentieth Tennessee, wrote to his sisters a week after the battle, "The poor deluded negroes would run up to our men, fall upon their knees and with uplifted hands scream for mercy but they were ordered to their feet and then shot down." Clark described a gory scene of blood that "stood about in pools, and brains that could have been gathered up in any quantity" afterward.

The Great Hanging at Gainsville. Confederate troops captured and arrested some 200 men in and near Cooke County. Of those 200, 41 were executed including Barnibus Burch, a man in his seventies mostly bed-bound with "Rheumatyz".

This is claimed to have been the largest mass execution of white people in United States history.

The Massacre on the Nueces. A group of 61 German-Texans, led by Fritz Tegener were fleeing from the Hill Country to Mexico between August 1-3, 1862, Lieutenant Colin McRae, of the Confederacy, with approximately 96 men surrounded their camp and at approximately 1:00 a.m. on August 10, 1862 attacked and killed 37 and wounded

There are many more examples of Confederate soldiers barbarity. How many more atrocities do you have to hear about before you take that statue down? That statue inescapably commemorates and celebrates that savagery.

Transparency at the Texas Capitol: A bipartisan effort

By Kelley Shannon EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR FREEDOM OF INFORMATION FOUNDATION OF TEXAS

To witness bipartisanship at the Texas Capitol, look to the lawmakers who are working to improve open government laws.

Legislators from both political parties are igniting interest in transparency and creating the opportunity for all lawmakers to protect the people's right to know. They're carrying on our state's legacy of openness.

When the reform-minded 1973 Legislature enacted the Texas Public Information Act, known then as the Open Records Act, it established one of the nation's strongest transparency laws. This year marks its 50thanniversary. Court rulings and other actions have weakened the law since its passage, but as we celebrate open government during Sunshine Month throughout March let's rally around the bills Texas legislators have filed this session to fortify the landmark act:

Contracting transparency: Access to government contracts allows taxpayers to see how their money is spent. A bipartisan proposal would enhance a law passed in 2019, ensuring the release of "super public" information, including the overall contract price and description of items and services. Senate Bill 680 by Sen. Nathan Johnson, D-Dallas, and House Bill 2492 by Rep. Giovanni Capriglione, R-Southlake, are the bills addressing contracting transparency.

Public records business days: A definition of "business day" in the Public Information Act is needed to provide consistency for everyone seeking public records. Currently, governments declare on their own which days they are open or closed for handling TPIA requests. Sometimes they don't respond to requests. Proposals to correct this are contained in Senate Bill 618 by Johnson; House Bill 2135 by Rep. Terry Canales, D-Edinburg; and Senate Bills 43 and 44 by Sen. Judith Zaffirini, D-Laredo.

Dates of birth: Birthdates in criminal justice documents, such as police reports and incarceration records, and in candidates' applications for public office allow the public to accurately identify a person. Correctly identifying someone charged with a crime protects the reputation of those who have the same name but aren't facing charges. A date of birth also helps with thorough vetting of political candidates. Senate Bill 46 by Zaffirini and House Bill 2309 by Rep. Todd Hunter, R-Corpus Christi, allow access to birthdates in these records.

Public records and attorneys' fees: If a records requestor runs into roadblocks lic documents, the ability to recover legal fees levels the playing field between that individual and the government, especially if a government hands over records at the last minute after months of costly litigation. This legislation is House Bill 2874 by Rep. John Smithee, R-Amarillo, and Senate Bill 2286 by Sen. Mayes Middleton, R-Galveston. Searchable-sortable records: While some governments provide data in searchable-sortable spreadsheet form, often making it easier to analyze, others do not. Senate Bill 965 by Johnson, Senate Bill 45 by Zaffirini and House Bill 2493 by Capriglione would codify the ability to obtain searchable-sortable records if such a format is available. These measures are supported by the Texas Sunshine Coalition, made up of more than 15 diverse organizations united around the principle that access to information is essential in advocating for public policy and participating in our democracy. Additional proposed transparency measures deal with public meetings, police accountability and other timely subjects.

For example, someone dies in police custody, the public needs to know what happened. Some law enforcement agencies use a loophole in the Public Information Act to withhold records. Rep. Joe Moody, D-El Paso, filed House Bill 30 to remedy the problem.

Addressing public notices, Senate Bill 943 by Sen. Lois Kolkhorst, R-Brenham, and House Bill 2178 by Hunter would require government notices that by law must be published in a newspaper to also be posted at no extra cost on the newspaper's website and on a Texas Press Association statewide public notice website. This posting through a neutral third party provides an easy, reliable source for viewing public notices.

Transparency advocates will be speaking out until the legislative session ends May 29 to urge passage of these proposals that shine light on government, enabling us to hold it account-

Dr. Ron Tyler

Dr. Ron Tyler of Amon Carter Museum of American Art to speak at Bell County Museum

Dr. Ron Tyler is the featured speaker 6 p.m. March 23 for the second installment of Bell County Museum's 2023 Spring Lecture Series. Admission is free.

A Rogers native, Dr. Tyler is the former president of Texas State Historical Association and former longtime director of the Amon Carter Museum of American Art in Fort Worth, Texas. Dr. Tyler will give a presentation based on his newly released book "Texas Lithographs: A Century of History in Images," published February 2023 by University of Texas

Dr. Tyler is a pillar of the Texas art and history communities. As a noted professor of history and major art museum director, he tells the story of Texas through works of art, in this case, lithographs. In the 19th century, lithography enabled the inexpensive reproduction of color illustrations. This technical innovation, which predated photography as a dominant medium, transformed the way the world saw Texas.

"We are thrilled to welcome Dr. Tyler back to the Bell County Museum. It is really special when we are able to bring Bell County natives back home to share their professional accomplishments. Our hope is that the lectures inform, entertain, and inspire people in Bell County", said Executive Director Coleman Hampton.

Praise for Dr. Ron Tyler: Texas Lithographs is a gorgeous testament to Ron Tyler's long and deep fascination with the subject. The images—whether of people, cities, wildlife, or cartoons—are beautifully reproduced, and, enhanced by Tyler's thematic chapters, tell the story of nineteenth-century Texas in a striking new way. This is a book to savor.

New Life Methodist "Cross of Christ" procession is April 7

New Life Methodist Church of Salado, a newly formed congregation of the Global Methodist Church, Lathen. will carry a replica of the "Cross of Christ" in procession through Salado on Good Friday, April 7.

The church is currently meeting in the Salado Museum. Good Friday services will be held at 7 p.m.

The congregation will walk a ¼ mile path around the museum at about 7:30 p.m. Each participant will carry the large cross for a portion of the walk as a visible sign of remembering the burden that Christ carried to his death at Calvary.

"We invite anyone who sees the procession to walk with us," said Pastor Tom

"A church member has built a large cross for us to use in the procession. It will also be flowered outside the museum on Easter Sunday to celebrate Christ rising from the dead after three days in the tomb," Lathen said.

New Life Methodist Church meets at the museum located at 423 S. Main in Salado. The time of the processional is approximate. Media is invited to come to the start of the service at 7 p.m. and observe the processional.

The route will proceed from the museum north on Main Street and cross Royal Street into the grounds of the Stagecoach Inn. They will then walk up the hill to the former post office building and return to the church (Museum). They anticipate having at least 20 people in the procession. The media is welcome to photograph or video during the walk, and to speak to any participants after the service concludes back at the museum. The closing portion of the service after the walk will be brief.

The church will hold Easter Sunday worship services 10 a.m. April 9 at the museum.

Erwins return to First Cedar Valley for dedication celebration April 1

In less than a year after the church was leveled to the ground by an EF-3 tornado, the congregation of First Cedar Valley Baptist Church will celebrate the completion of its new church building at 11 a.m. April 1 at the church located at 12395 FM 2843.

The celebration will include guest speakers, fellowship and food, prayers and praise and a special concert featuring Grammy-nominated The Erwins.

First Cedar Valley Baptist Church was organized in a brush arbor in the cedar valley area between Salado and Florence. "The Lord has always provided for First Cedar Valley Baptist Church the years, and has brought us through many valleys and many mountain tops," said the church minister and long-time member Donnie Jackson. "We thank Him for each step. We prepare to dedicate this new building to God and His work and give thanks to Him for all He has provided."

The Erwins are no stranger to First Cedar Valley Baptist having performed here throughout many years.

Three brothers, Keith Kody and Kris performed as a gospel trio, appearing at more than 270 dates a year with their father, who has been in full-time evangelism for nearly 50 years.

The Erwins return to First Cedar Valley Baptist Church for a Dedication Celebration on April 1.

The Erwins will be introduced to the audience by their father Dennis.

In 2013, the brothers welcomed sister Katie into the group making them a Mixed Group.

North West • Pass 1 🌲 Pass 1 NT Pass Opening lead — ten of clubs.

Let's say you're declarer at four spades, and West leads the ten of clubs. You win with dummy's queen, East playing the seven, and lead a trump to the king, which also wins.

The correct play at this point is the four of diamonds, and if you make this play, you make the contract. In order to appreciate the importance of the diamond play, let's assume instead that you cross to dummy with a club at trick three in order to lead another trump toward your queen.

In that case, East would go up with the ace and return a diamond to West's ace. West, having observed his partner's high-low in clubs to show a doubleton, would return a club for East to ruff. East would then play the king of diamonds, which you would ruff, but you'd eventually lose a heart to East's king for down one.

If you lead a diamond at trick three, however, you forestall the club ruff. The purpose of the diamond play is to break East-West communication in that suit before a ruffing situation in clubs can develop.

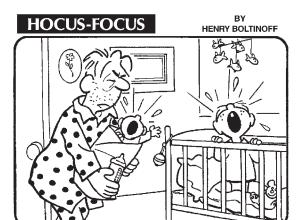

Once you lead the diamond, the defense is helpless. East probably wins the trick and returns the deuce of clubs, completing his high-low, but he then has no way to put West on lead later for a third round of clubs.

It might seem, at first blush, that the early diamond play is pointless. However, it's the kind of play that any declarer who recognizes the impending threat to his contract should make. To plunge ahead without trying to head off the potential club ruff amounts to giving the play something less than a maximum effort.

Eagles shut out Manor New Tech, Madisonville

Salado varsity Eagles shut out both of their non-district baseball opponents last week in dominant ways.

R H E 15 8 0 Eagles Manor New 0 1

Salado gave up just one hit to Manor New Tech and no runs while tallying 15 runs on eights hits March 15 in a non-district game.

The game was never in question as Salado jumped out to a 7-0 lead in the first and scoring in each inning of the Mercy Rule shortened contest.

Manor threatened to score in the bottom of the first after a player was hit by the pitcher and Logan Flores allowed a double to put runners in scoring position with no outs. Flores forced the next batter to fly out to Kase Maedgen in center, holding the runners at base and then struck out the next two batters to remain unscathed.

The Eagles added a run in the second, four in the third, two in the fourth and one for good measure in the top of the fifth.

Manor did not put another batter on base.

Maedgen led the Eagles at the plate, batting 2-for-3 with 3 RBI and 3 runs.

Brody Naegele hit 2-for-4 with 2 RBI and 2 runs.
