DR Horton to build office space here

By TIM FLEISCHER EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Village of Salado aldermen on Jan. 16 unanimously approved the concept plan for the DR Horton North Central Texas Office at the intersection of Williams Rd. and West Village

"They chose to present a concept plan to you," Village administrator Manny De La Rosa told the board "They did not have to."

Alderman Jasen Graham asked if DR Horton had done any traffic analysis on the potential impact at the intersection. De La Rosa said no traffic study was required.

Mike Williamson said that the plan will consolidate three different office buildings for the North Central Texas division of DR Horton into one loca-

The 33,591 sq. ft. building will sit on a 7.99 acre lot. The zoning ordinance requires 113 parking spaces to serve the building, but DR Horton will build 233 spaces.

The building will serve the administrative, marketing, land development, construction, sales, mortgage divisions.

DR Horton North Central Texas encompasses an area stretching from West, Texas to Burnet and Marble Falls, Taylor, Bryan College-Station, Navasota, and Beaumont and Orange, skipping around Houston, which is its own division.

Williams said that the fice will be "very, very active. We are going to have weekly meetings. Construction superintendents and sales agents will meet there on a monthly basis. We will have a lot of out-of-town visitors coming to Salado on a regular basis."

Williams said he anticipates about 300 traffic trips per day for the office build-

Williams addressed a question about whether the building could be converted to other uses in the future, including apartments.

"The Austin area has already looked at converting office space to apartments and it's not financially feasible," he said. "If it were to ever be converted to another use, a medical facility would be the most feasible. But we plan to occupy it for a very long time."

The concept plan shows impervious cover at just under 45% for the 7.99 acre

The concept plan includes five foot sidewalks on Williams and West Village Dr.

"Sidewalks are not a requirement," De La Rosa said. "They were exempt under the development agreement."

Sewer impact fees are also exempt under the development agreement.

Graham made the motion to approve the concept plan with a second by Alderman Michael MacDonald. It passed 3-0.

In other business, aldermen unanimously approved a $10,000 agreement with EGSW System to treat the odor issue of the sewer lift station at Royal St. The approval came on a motion by Alderman Zach Hurst, receiving a second by Gra-

Aldermen also unanimously voted to rescind conditional approval Sanctuary North final plat. Graham gave the motion to rescind, with a second from MacDonald.

The board also unanimously rescinded approval of the cash performance bond for the Sanctuary on a motion by Graham and second by Hurst.

He reported that the Village will remit half of the property taxes paid by property owners in the Sanctuary to the developer. The Village will rebate all sewer impact fees for the Sanctuary. The Public Improvement District fees ($0.50 per $100 valuation) will also be remitted to the developer.

"This was the Sanctuary agreement that was amended in November 2022," De La Rosa said.

Interest on debt surpasses $900 billion, not sustainable

It was a good week for stocks and those who own them. Our dearly beloved S&P 500 Stock Index (SPX) rose 2.91% to 5996.56, closing in on the elusive 6000 level that seems to have scared off investors each time it has been breached in the last several months. The SPX is now up nearly 2% this year and month, 26.53% higher than at this time last year, and over 31% higher than it was three years ago. The other index we follow, the CRSP Mid Cap Value Index, joined the party as it rose 4.37% this week. It closed at 2872.50, and is up about 2.7% this year, and 17.77% in a year.

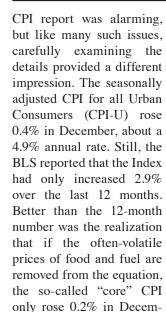

Although the yield on the benchmark 10-year U.S. Treasury note fell from 4.77% to 4.61%, we still have to go back to 2007 to find rates this high. Given the immense predicted borrowing demand at the Federal level and across the economy as businesses expand, we suspect higher longer-term rates are likely over the next few years. There certainly is good news there as well at least for Treasury money market fund investors. The onemonth U.S. Treasury bill has been remarkably steady this year and ended the week at an annualized yield of 4.43%. Contributing to the top-line inflation numbers discussed below, the West Texas Intermediate crude oil (WTI) price rose another 1.83% this week to close its U.S. market week at $78.03.

The Economy

One of our favorite government agencies, the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) at the Labor Department, led this week's economic news with its monthly Consumer Price Index (CPI) release. Even though the CPI is not as accurate as the Commerce Department's PCE Index, it is better known and published and probably affects consumer attitudes more. From one perspective, the about 2.5%. If you find all that confusing, you aren't alone. The headline numbers of such reports commonly are less useful than they appear. The bottom line is that inflation is far from dead but does appear to be in a slow decline. The Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank's GDPNow tracking model is predicting a 3% GDP growth rate for the fourth quarter of last year. The primary driving force in that increased forecast was the Census Bureau's report on December's monthly retail sales. The bean counters at Census announced today (Friday) that their seasonally adjusted

sales up 0.4% for the month and 3.9% higher than sales in December 2023. In our

consumer-driven economy,

a nearly 4% rise in sales is nothing but good news. Things just got better as we reviewed the week's reports. The National Federation of Independent Businesses survey of small business owners showed rising optimism and indicated intent to expand hiring. December's Producer Price Index, a measure of wholesale prices charged to retailers, rose only 0.2%, at about a 2.5% annualized

At the same time, there are indicators that, while they may not suggest an immediate danger, should be monitored. The federal deficits remained very high and are probably unsustainable in the long term. Federal net interest outlays rose to $908 billion for 2024, higher than defense spending. Historically, the U.S. has run high deficits during economic downturns but reduced the total debt in good times. We did run the deficit up during the COVID outbreak and in the ensuing recession, but here, in the midst of one of the greatest economic booms in our country's history, there seems to be a bipartisan intent to keep on borrowing far more than our government receives in revenues. As a percentage of GDP, current and planned federal borrowing for 2025 exceeds anything we have seen since World War II other than in recessions.

While they may seem far away and of no great consequence, the economies of Germany and China exhibit signs of stress. Germany has logged two consecutive years of contraction, declining 0.3% in 2023 and 0.2% in 2024. While China's official growth for 2024 was reported to be a full 5%, the exact number the PRC government had targeted, a recent speech by a senior Chinese economist suggested that number may be more political than economic. Analysis of Chinese raw material imports and anecdotal accounts within the country suggest it may be in a recession with a contracting economy rather than growing at 5% annually. We live in a very interconnected world, and a prolonged

Animal advocates should oppose RFK Jr.

By Jon Hochschartner

Anyone who cares about animals should oppose Robert F. Kennedy Jr., President-Elect Donald Trump's nominee for secretary of Health and Human Services. Available evidence suggests he would block the development of cultivated meat. For those who don't know, the revolutionary protein is grown from livestock cells, without slaughter. Nothing has the potential to reduce more animal suffering and premature death.

The scale of human violence against our fellow creatures boggles the mind. We kill more than a trillion aquatic and land animals every year for food. To put that in a little perspective, only about 117 billion humans have ever lived, according to the Population Reference Bureau. When the nascent field of cellular agriculture is more fully developed, even low adoption rates of cultivated meat could save billions of creatures annually. Unfortunately, the nominal opposition to the incoming fascist White House, the Democratic Party, is busy bowing and scraping, as they search for points of compromise with Trump. We see this lack of fighting spirit throughout the party's ideological range. Even so called progressives, like California Representative Ro Khanna, are talking about how they might work with the made-up Department of Government Effi-

What this moment calls for is unwavering opposition to Trump and his cronies. We've already seen one of the president-elect's nominees, former Florida Representative Matt Gaetz, who was initially chosen to serve as United States attorney general, forced to withdraw. They aren't invulnerable. Kennedy, a bizarre, anti-vaccination conspiracy theorist, has a host of weaknesses Democrats should exploit to the fullest possible extent.

There are a great number of reasons to oppose his nomination. These include, as I've mentioned, the former Democrat's hostility to cellular agriculture. In addition to the potential animal-welfare benefits of cultivated meat, the new protein could significantly reduce our greenhouse-gas emissions and pandemic risk. After all, livestock farming is a leading contributor to climate change and the spread of zoonotic viruses.

In October of 2021, Kennedy wrote on Facebook: "Lab grown meat offers private corporations the opportunity to place intellectual property rights on meat development and thus create a financial windfall, at the expense of human health." Of course, there is no reason cellular agriculture needs to be the sole domain of private corporations. For instance, I'd love to see some type of public entity producing cultivated meat.

The health concerns Kennedy raises are bogus, like so much else the conspiracy theorist says. The protein has received regulatory approval from the Food and Drug Administration and the Department of Agriculture. Unfortunately, if confirmed, Kennedy would oversee the former, which is why those who care about animal welfare and the development of this technology should be concerned about his nomi-

In a recent article for Heatmap News, a climate publication launched by former executives of The Week, Michael Grunwald reported a source close to Kennedy said it was unlikely the protein would be banned outright. Rather the potential cabinet secretary would leave industry players in permanent regularity limbo. Cultivated-meat companies have put on a brave face about the incoming administration, but it's not very convincing.

Democratic leaders need to stop wallowing in their sense of fear and helplessness. It's true; Trump will do tremendous damage to the country, which they won't be able to prevent. However, there will be some very bad outcomes Democrats can stop, if they can get their act together. My hope is Kennedy's nomination, which is controversial even amongst Republicans, will fall into this category, for the sake of animals and so much else.

New Horse Protection Act Rule will do more harm than good

AN EDITORIAL BY: TEXAS AGRICULTURE COMMISSIONER SID MILLER JANUARY 17, 2025

The Biden Administration's new Horse Protection Act (HPA) rule might sound like a good idea on paper, but let me tell you—it's a disaster in practice. This rule isn't about protecting horses; it's about federal bureaucrats grabbing more control over an industry they clearly don't understand. The United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA) new rule is so absurd that it makes using fly spray on a horse a potential violation. That's not a joke—they can't be serious!

The HPA was enacted in 1970 with good intentions to regulate the Tennessee Walking Horse industry and to outlaw the showing, sale, auction, exhibition, or transport of sored horses. Soring is the intentional infliction of pain on a horse's legs or hooves using chemicals, devices, or other harmful methods to force an exaggerated, high-stepping gait. This is common in competitive show circuits for breeds like Tennessee Walking Horses and racking horses. Due to my heavy involvement in the equine industry, I know firsthand the importance of protecting this sector and these animals. But we've got to do it with practical, enforceable regulations. The new HPA rule will devastate the equine community, especially breeders, trainers, and horse owners in Texas and nationwide.

Anyone who's ever owned a horse-whether for work, hobby, or show knows we treat these animals better than most folks treat their favorite family members. For Texans, horses are more than just animals. They're part of our families, our livelihoods, and a driving force of our economy.

If the HPA rule change is implemented, horse owners will have many headaches. The rules would ban anything that might cause irritation. Even a minor rub from a bell boot or sore muscles from training could be labeled as intentional soring. Before long, every 4-H horse event, barrel race, cutting, rodeo, horse show, trail ride, reining event, and team penning could face burdensome regulations.

Event organizers would have to provide advance notice and hire USDA-approved veterinarians or vet techs to inspect every horse and reinspect the class winner. Even something as simple as applying show sheen to a horse's coat could result in disqualification.

This new rule doesn't just target owners-they drag in haulers, trainers, vendors, and sponsors, making everyone liable. Horses would need to be blemish-free, undergo invasive inspections, and face strict shipping regulations. Even basic therapeutic treatments would require a vet's oversight, and winners in the ring would face mandatory reinspection. It's government overreach at its worst, and this isn't even the complete list of what they're pushing.

Soring is an issue that is largely specific to the state of Tennessee, so I question why the national equine industry must suffer under smothering regulations that overrule what should be dealt with at the state level. I'll tell you. They are trying to rewrite the rules to expand the definition of "soring" so broadly that it could rope in nearly the entire horse industry. Animal rights extremists just won't quit. The new HPA rule is a direct result of their meddling. Believe it or not, the USDA's lead veterinarian, Dr. Aaron Rhyner, had the gall to suggest that even the simple act of riding a horse could somehow be considered "soring." The USDA's new rule forcing the equine industry to hire, train, and implement inspectors-that we have to pay for-at every event classified as a horse show is impossible. They don't have the funding or resources. They also promise to hire qualified industry-experienced veterinarians, which we know is a role that is currently seeing staffing shortages already. What will they be forced to do instead? Send inspectors-most of whom lack fundamental knowledge about horses or rural lifeto tell us how to care for our animals? Give me a break!

Here's the bigger picture: This government overreach won't stop with horses. If we don't push back now, what's next? Farmers, ranchers, and eventually, pet owners will all be in the USDA's crosshairs. Today, it's the equine industry. It could be your cattle, pets, or way of life tomorrow.

The bottom line is that these new rules won't protect horses. They'll devastate the equine industry, punish responsible horse owners, and destroy rural communities across the nation. Instead of promoting animal welfare, the USDA imposes senseless regulations that will do more harm than good.

It's time to rein in these runaway bureaucrats and restore some common sense to Washington, D.C. It is my hope that the incoming Trump Administration will withdraw this new rule.

Salado Public Library presents the "Joy of Chocolate" contest Feb. 8

The Joy of Chocolate contest is coming Feb. 8. Be sure to mark your calendars

Adults, teens and children alike are encouraged to join in the fun and create a dish that involves chocolate.

The category of "youth" has been split this year into children 5-12 and teens 13-18.

"Entries do not need to be an original recipe. Let your imagination guide you," saiad Alice Cooper, one of the organizers. "It's amazing the things you can create with chocolate! Please note though, there is no refrigeration available."

This chocolate extravaganza will take place at the Salado Public library on Feb. 8.

Entry sign up will be at the library with more information. Deadline to submit an entry is close of business at the library Feb. 7.

Completed chocolate entries must be set up by noon on Feb. 8.

Two chefs will privately judge the entries between noon and 1 p.m. The entries then will be open for public tasting and judging from 1:30-3:30 p.m., when prizes will be awarded. There is no charge to come taste and for disp vote for your favorite. Sup

There will be three entry categories: Child (ages 5-12) Teen (13-18) and Adult (age 19 and over). Cash awards of $50-$30 will be given in each category for the public voting award, $50-$40 for the Chef's award and one $30 award in each category for display.

Support the Friends of the Library by volunteering to help if asked.

"Be sure to come out and enjoy the delicious chocolate creations," Cooper said, "and have fun!"

Texas Pizza Festival held March 1

Jan. is School Board Recognition

Corner

January is School Board Recognition Month, and Salado ISD is celebrating its trustees for their dedication and commitment to the district and its students. With the theme, Leadership for Tomorrow's Texas, Salado ISD celebrations will spotlight the essential role school board members play in guiding the future of education.

The month-long observance is an opportunity for members of our community to strengthen their understanding of the crucial role school boards play in uplifting public education and representing our residents.

Dan Troxell, executive director of the Texas Association of School Boards, applauded the efforts of volunteer trustees in providing leadership and good governance so that school districts can focus on educating the 5.5 million public schoolchildren in their care.

"School trustees voluntarily tackle the job of governing school districts and do so in a manner that shows what it means to be unwavering in their commitment to the schoolchildren they serve," said Dan Troxell, TASB executive director. "While board members come from different backgrounds and live different lives, they collectively come together with

students."
To acknowledge the work of school trustees, Gov. Greg Abbott issued a proclamation designating January as School Board Recognition Month. "School board members play an integral role in promoting a lifelong love of learning in the next generation," the proclamation states. To read the full proclamation, visit tasb.org.

School board members are the state's largest group of locally elected officials.

Please join me in thanking our school board members for their service to our students, school district, and community:

The finesse is a play that permits you to win a trick with a card lower than one held by an opponent. Under normal circumstances, a finesse has only an even chance of success. This probability is, of course, not to be sneezed at, but if an alternative play is available that offers better than a 50% chance, that play should be preferred to the finesse.

Consider this deal where West led the king of clubs against six spades.

Find at least six differences in details between panels.

Pencil is added on desk.

Superficially, the slam seemed to depend on a successful heart finesse, so declarer, after ruffing the club lead and drawing a round of trump, unwisely led a heart to the queen, losing to the king. He later lost another heart trick to go down one.

Actually, South had the slam in the bag from the word "go." West's kingof-clubs lead marked him with the ace as well, and this should have put declarer on the right track. Instead of pinning his hopes on the location of the king of hearts, South should have considered an entirely different approach that would have obviated the uncertainty associated with a

With the proper preparatory steps, South could have forced West to solve his problem for him. After ruffing the opening club lead and drawing trump, declarer cashes three diamonds, discarding the ten of clubs from dummy. He then crosses to dummy with a trump, leads the queen of clubs and discards the six of hearts on it.

West wins with the ace but is helpless. He must either lead a heart or yield a ruff-and-discard, so the heart finesse never enters the picture. By seeking an alternative to the finesse, declarer turns a 50% chance into a 100% certainty.

The Beltonian Theatre "A Night of Jazz" Jan 24

The Ben Rosenblum Trio will be joined by special guest vocalist Laura Anglade 7 p.m. Jan. 24 for a jazz concert at The Beltonian Theatre, 219 E. Central Ave.

Tickets can be purchased online at https://thebeltoniantheatre.com/events/. Tickets will be sold at the door. Award-winning New York City jazz pianist/accordionist Ben Rosenblum and his trio will perform an intimate concert at the Beltonian Theatre in Belton. They will be joined by Juno-nominated vocalist Laura Anglade, a frequent collaborator.

Anglade and Rosenblum have performed together across the US and Canada, including at the Rochester Jazz Festival and famed jazz venues such as Upstairs (Montreal), Mezzrow (New York City), the Jazz Bistro (Toronto) and the Morris Museum (New Jersey).

French and American singer Laura Anglade is a promising storyteller with a lot to say. She draws inspiration from Carmen McRae, Blossom Dearie, Sarah Vaughan, Ella Fitzgerald, Shirley Horn, Billie Holiday, and Barbra Streisand, among others. Laura has made a mark in the music scenes of New York, Paris, London, Toronto and Montreal. collaborating with some of the world's finest musicians, including Peter Bernstein, Jonathan Kreisberg, Ben Paterson, Ira Coleman, Neil Swainson, to name a few. Her debut album, 'I've Got Just About Everything' (Justin Time Records, 2019) was met with praise by critics and fans alike. Her second Juno-nominated album, 'Venez Donc Chez Moi' (Justin Time Records, 2022) is a duo recording featuring Montreal guitarist Sam Kirmayer, with whom she was awarded the "Prix Opus" for Jazz Concert of the Year in 2023. Her next album, 'Get Out Of Town', will feature a distinguished lineup, including Ben Paterson, Peter Bernstein, Neal Miner, Neil Swainson, and Adam Arruda and is scheduled to be released in the spring of 2025. She is currently based in New York City. In 2022, Laura joined singer Melody Gardot across the east and west coasts of the United States and Europe. Laura has performed in renowned venues such as Olympia (Paris), the Royal Festival Hall (London), Town Hall (New York City), the Ace Theatre Hotel (Los Angeles), and the main stage at the Festival International de

Jazz de Montreal. Pianist, accordionist and composer Ben Rosenblum has traversed a truly unique musical path, one that has seen him perform alongside world-class musicians across more than twenty music genres and fifteen countries, lead bands at prestigious venues across the world, all while maintaining a signature, melodic musical voice. Rosenblum's journey has taken him on tours with Grammy-winning pop artist Rickie Lee Jones and Juno-winning contemporary Indian singer Kiran Ahluwalia. He's played Brazilian choro with Ephrat Asherie Dance and Brazilian forró with The Late Night Show's Nêgah Santos and famed forró band Forró in the Dark. His roots in jazz have led to an over ten-year relationship with Grammy-winning bassist Curtis Lundy, performing at festivals alongside jazz luminaries Bobby Watson, Sean Jones and Warren Wolf. He has appeared with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra on accordion, and as a guest soloist on piano at Carnegie Hall's Stern-Perelman Auditorium with Maestro Reona Ito's New York Harmonic Band. Throughout it all, Rosenblum has always maintained the same priority - to tell a compelling story with his music, reaching the hearts of his audience and connecting on an emotional, intellectual and spiritual level. Rosenblum brings this wealth and diversity of experiences to his projects as a leader, overseeing a full tour schedule as a solo artist, with his trio and most recently, with his sixpiece ensemble, the Nebula Project. Since his first album as a leader, Instead (4 stars, Downbeat Magazine), he has since released three follow-up records to critical acclaim, including favorable reviews in almost every major jazz publication (Downbeat, All About Jazz, Jazziz, JazzTimes, JazzEd, NYC Jazz Record, JazzLife Japan and many more).
